THE WIDE-AWAKE CIRCLE

Boys' and Girls' Department

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

1—Write plainly on one side of the paper.

2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES.

Fairy Folk

There are fairies of the flowers
And sweet fairies of the rain
Dance among the silver showers
As they tinkle, tinkle, tinkle
Misty music on the pane.

Do you know these eerie wingers
That go flitting 'neath the moon?
Have you heard these tiny singers
As they weave, weave, weave
Eyrin fancies in a rune?

Have you seen the woodland ring,
Hidden deep in bosky dells,
Where the Fairy Queen and King
Oh, so eerie, eerie, eerie,
Weave their mixeries of spells?

Do you know the sprites who ride
On the leaves that drift and float
Down some cold sunbeam tide
To make merry, merry, merry,
In some dreamy Amurete?

You should know these fairies, dear—
They are elfins, but 'tis true
That the g od God sends them here
With your dreams, dreams, dreams—
Sends them, dear, for love of you.

—Thomas Emmet Moore.

To a Purple Martin.

You purple pilots of the sky,
With speed so deft and airy!
'Tis folly then to question why
You're like unto a fairy;

On shapely wings the bright sun gleams,
As in the sky still mounting
To reach the very clouds it seems
Where vision fails from counting.

At will, they sail out o'er the lake,
Now, dart along the river,
'Tis naught for them such risk to take
Where tallest aspens quiver.

Like feathered arrows from on high
Though strongest winds are blowing,
They seem to drop from out the sky
When to their houses going.

O! purple pilots of the sky,
With twittering sounds of glee
Each morn I hear them passing by
It seems they're calling me.

—Eugene Knips.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE 'IDE AWAKES.

There is an interesting story as to how the polar bear, an animal of the far north, came to be. According to the story, Eskimos say that a long time ago—a thousand years ago—the greatest-grandfather of all the black Siberian bears became dreadfully bored with his monotonous life and tired of staying in the same place. He decided to travel and set out on a journey to the North Pole. But the hardships of the journey were great and he suffered so much with the cold that his hair turned white. And this was the beginning of the white Polar bears whose color so closely matches their surroundings among the ice-floes of the arctic.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES.

A Cedar Chest.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing to the Wide Awake circle. I am telling you about The Biography of a Cedar Chest.

I was first in the forest, with my sister cedar trees. We all grew in one group, and always were chattering to each other. The birds entertained us with their singing, and we to repay gave shelter among our large branches. I was happy during all the years in the forest, until one day two men came and were looking at us. Then they started to whisper among themselves. I bowed forth my branches wanting to hear, but the only thing I heard was "I think we will take this one." Then I felt an axe at my feet.

All at once I fell with a terrible crash to the ground. My sister cedar trees look horrified. I was then taken upon a large wagon drawn by two oxen, a: they drove me off. In one way I was happy because I would see the city, but in another way I was sad because I would see the forest no more. Then they took me into a large yard. There all my sweet smelling branches were cut off. My body was taken into the factory, and here I was cut into boards and piled to dry.

A few weeks later I was made into a chest with copper feet and, engraved upon the cover was "Treasure Chest."

The next thing I knew I was in a large window being given away to a lucky person that would win me. A young lady won me. She stored me with clothes and many other pretty things, and seemed so pleased with me.

I was happy in her beautiful home, but I longed for the forest, birds, and the moaning of the wind there.

JENNIE WARSKOMSKI, Age 12, Norwich.

A Lost Pocketbook.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first story I have written to you, so I thought I would write a story about a lost pocketbook. One day there was a lady by the name of Mrs. Tucker. She went out in the woods to the store. She had a police dog with her. On her way home she lost her pocketbook and couldn't find it. So she went home and told her husband about it. He made the dog smell of her pocket so he could find her pocketbook. The dog went into the woods and looked around and found the pocketbook and brought it home to his master.

RAYMOND E. WARRENDER, Wauregan. Age 11.

My Pets.

Dear Uncle Jed: I haven't written to you in a long time so I am going to write now and tell you about my new pets. I have two white rabbits with pink eyes. One is Peter and the other is Bunny. I have two yellow cats. Their names are Teddy and Buttercup. I also have a Scotch Collie dog. His name is Uno. He is a lovely dog and we all like him a whole lot. We also have a small calf which we call Jennie. She is very gentle and every time she sees us coming with her grain she tries to run for it. We also have chickens, two geese, two ducks, one drake and three pigs. My father has about eighteen fancy pigeons. They look so pretty flying around our place here.

We have a very nice place now, about ten or twelve acres. It is so much larger than our other one. We can have so much more fun and will be able to go sliding in the winter as we have a big steep hill.

I read all the stories from the other little Wide Awake friends and find them very interesting. My Daddy never forgets to get the Norwich Bulletin for us every day even though we don't live there any more. We still like to read the news. I hope my letter isn't too long and my little Wide Awake friends enjoy reading it. I hope to remain a friend,

ETHEL E. MURTHA. Age 7, Waterford.

A Deer

Dear Uncle Jed: While I was going to school, a deer ran across the road with a dog after it. One of the boys whistled for the dog to stop chasing the deer. The dog turned around and then lost the trail of the deer. I was glad that the dog gave up the chase.

STELLA IDZKOWSKI, age 10
North Franklin.

The Black Oak.

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you and the Wide-Awakes about a tree called the black oak. The black oak is one of the most beautiful trees that we have. It grows from Maine to Florida, and west to Minnesota, Kansas and Texas. Its bark is very dark grey or brown and is very thick. The black oak leaves are thick, coarse and leathery. They vary from four to six inches in length and from two to six inches in breadth. The margins of the leaves are deeply cut into seven or nine broad, bristly-toothed lobes, with rounded bays between.

This wood is used in house-building and in manufacturing of furniture. Hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy reading my story. Many happy thoughts to the Wide-Awakes and our Uncle Jed also.

DORIS ARNOLD, Age 14.
Norwich.

Our Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our Hallowe'en entertainmen. We invited people to attend our Hallowe'en entertainment. It was held at 2 o'clock. We sang songs, spoke pieces and had plays. Then we had recess. When we came in we had a peanut hunt. We had a big pumpkin on the blackboard. Then we played a game putting the stem on it, blindfolded. We had marshmallows. We had a happy time.

The Squirrel.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day in summer my friends and I were picking blue berries. While we were picking, suddenly we heard a noise in the bushes. I went to see what it was and I saw a squirrel cracking nuts and acorns. We were surprised to see a little creature like that, tumbling from branch to branch in the woods.

EVA PERKO Age 12.

Seven Puppies.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am your same old friend, and I am going to write you another story. This time about "Fanny's Puppies."

One day my friend and I were playing by her barn. All of a sudden we heard a loud yip, then another and another. We became very suspicious. We looked in the window of the barn and what do you suppose we saw. There stood before us Fanny our pet dog, and seven puppies.

DOROTHY MAIN, Age 12.

Kangaroo.

Dear Uncle Jed: The fur of the kangaroo is greyish brown, somewhat lighter on the sides, while the lower parts are whitish. Its body is six feet long, and its tail nearly three feet. It inhabits Australia and is found chiefly in New South Wales and Tasmania. It is the largest quadruped of that part of the globe. The front of its body is extremely slim in proportion to its hind quarters, and its hind legs are five times longer than the front ones. The kangaroo is a peaceful, shy, grazing animal. The flesh of the kangaroo is eaten. Its hair makes good furs.

HELEN CIESLUK, Age 12.
Norwich.

The Nile at Assnam.

Dear Uncle Jed: Assnam is a town in south Egypt, six hundred miles from Cairo. It is a little above the tropic of Cancer.

An enormous dam one and a quarter miles in length has been built across the Nile there. The dam consists of great granite piers with openings that can be closed by gates, at will, to regulate the flow of water.

The reservoir at Assnam holds 100,000,000 tons of water and during the three or four months when the Nile is very low the flow from the reservoir is twice as great as the amount of water in many rivers.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Piles Sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

Hair Comes Just in Time

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Help that meets the hour of need
With quick relief is help indeed.
—Rusty the Fox Squirrel.

Up at the head of a certain lake the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind took it into their heads to go dancing down the middle of the lake. Now when the Merry Little Breezes dance on the water they make a ripple. You see, the water wants to dance, too. A ripple is made up of tiny little waves. Perhaps we ought to call them wavelets.

So the Merry Little Breezes danced down the middle of the lake and a ripple followed them down. Now it wasn't a big ripple, but it rocked a certain stick to which was clinging Rusty the Fox Squirrel. Behind the first ripple came another ripple, and back of that another ripple, and another and another. Each little ripple rocked the stick to which Rusty was clinging and gently slapped him in the face. Now Rusty knew enough about water to know that a little ripple may sometimes grow into a big wave. If the wind should blow hard, the water would become rough, and if it should become rough, Rusty knew that he might not be able to reach shore. He would be much more likely to drown. So there was nothing to do but to begin swimming again.

Rusty knew that he might not be able to reach shore

Rusty drew a long breath, let go of that stick and started on, paddling as fast as he could make his legs go. The ripples were not as gentle as they had been at first. They were growing bigger and bigger. Rusty was having hard work to keep the water out of his nose. He was frightened. Never had he felt more helpless than now. You see, there wasn't a thing to do but keep on swimming. If he stopped swimming, he would drown. He must keep right on, no matter how tired he was. His legs were beginning to ache again.

Paddle, paddle, paddle! Would he never have another chance to rest? Paddle, paddle, paddle! There was something moving on the water ahead of him. What could it be? A little wave broke right in his face and he couldn't see. It might be danger. It might be an enemy of some kind. Well, it wouldn't be any worse to be caught by an enemy than to be drowned. So Rusty kept on—paddle, paddle, paddle.

Suddenly, right in front of Rusty appeared a flat, very smooth piece of wood. Rusty didn't stop to examine it. He climbed right on it. Then he saw what it was. He saw it was a long stick, flattened on one end, and that the other end was held by a man in a queer thing that floated on the water which was really a canoe. Rusty didn't hesitate a second. He ran right up that paddle—for, of course, that is what the long stick was—kept right on up the man's arm to his shoulder, and then jumped down into the canoe. He ran forward and sat on the bow. You should have heard the man laugh!

"Well, little chap," said he, "you act as if you are mighty glad to get out of the water. I guess it is a good thing I happened along. The wind is blowing harder and soon it will be rough. I am afraid you never in the world could have made that shore. But we'll make it now."

He turned his canoe toward the shore and began to paddle. Rusty sat on the bow facing the shore. The wind and the sun soon dried him off, and by the time shore was reached he was quite himself. The moment the canoe was within jumping distance Rusty sprang ashore and, with a flirt of his big tail, climbed a tree. Halfway up he turned and looked down at his rescuer as much as to say "I can't speak your language, but I thank you just the same."

HOPKINTON, R. I.

Joseph L. Gibson is in a New London hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Leona Brown returned home last Wednesday from New York.

Dr. and Mrs. Augustus L. Wells and son Elliott Wells of Dedham, Mass., were guests of Mrs. H. Elizabeth Spicer Saturday night. Sunday they called on Mr. Wells brother, John E. Wells and at the home of Nathan Culver, in Westerly and Monday returned home. Dr. Wells was a native of Hopkinton City, son of Augustus L. Wells. He was for many years a prosperous dentist in Boston, but for the past few years has been unable to work because of a shock. A recent fall still further disabled him.

An unusually large vote was polled in both voting districts of this town Tuesday and candidates on the republican ticket were elected by varying majorities, about 100 on an average. The only exception was in the case of the town clerk. The former town clerk, Elmer E. Kenyon was recommended to the caucus by the republican town committee. However when the caucus convened, unexpected opposition appeared and Gardner E. Kenyon was nominated by a small majority. Importuned by the former clerk allowed his name to be placed on the democratic and citizens ticket. On the face of the returns from the district moderators, his opponent was reported as elected by 4 majority. The town council by law is the returning board for the town election. When it met Wednesday evening for the recount in the presence of Town Solicitor John Ferguson, errors were found in the count of the election officers so that Elmer E. Kenyon was found to be elected by a majority of seven votes after a session of the board lasting five hours and a half.

BALTIC

The death of Mrs. Eugenie Holmes, widow of the late Joseph Holmes, occurred at her home on High street, Baltic. Mrs. Holmes had been in ill health for a number of years. She was born in Southbridge, Mass., on September 1, 1855. At Putnam, on July 27, 1894 she was united in marriage with Joseph Holmes, by Rev. John F. Van der Nort.

A Stubborn, Itching Rash—

quickly cleared away

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I had a very stubborn rash on my legs. It itched and burned and I could get no relief from anything I tried until I learned of Resinol. This ointment cooled and soothed it, and quickly cleared away the trouble. I also find Resinol is very good for chafing."—(Signed) C. E. Cheesman.

The quickness with which Resinol acts in most cases of skin disorder amazes many people. Itching is often stopped at once. Rub on a little of the Ointment before retiring at night. Then wash off with Resinol Soap in the morning. You will be amazed at the results. At all druggists.

The Triumph of Forgotten Things

There is pity in forgotten things,
Banished the heart they grieve no longer fill,
Since restless Fancy, spreading swallow wings,
Must seek new pleasures still!

There is a patience, too, in things forgot:
They wait—they find the portal long unused;
And knocking there, it shall refuse them not,—
Nor aught shall be refused!

Ah, yes! though we, unheeding years on years,
In alien pledges spend the heart's estate,
They bide some blessed moment of quick tears—
Some moment without date—

Some gleam on flower, or leaf, or beaded dew,
Some tremble at the ear of memoried sound
Of mother-song, they seize the slender clew—
The old loves gather round!

When that which lured us once now lureth not,
But the tired hands their garnered dross let fall,
This is the triumph of the things forgot—
To hear the tired heart call!

And they are with us at Life's farthest reach,
A light when into shadow all else dips,
As in the stranger's land, the native speech
Returns to dying lips!

—Edith M. Thomas.

A Bridge Ballad

She was a damsel fair to see
A gallant bachelor was he;
He offered her on bended knee
ONE HEART

A richer rival came in view;
Of maids he'd learned a thing or two:
He flashed before her eyes of blue
TWO DIAMONDS

They married. Next a change of scene;
His love became a mere "has been,"
He spent his time, he said, between
THREE CLUBS

And so this once too-pampered bride
Forlorn, neglected, pined and died—
A quartet of grave diggers plied
FOUR SPADES

The moral is: Don't wed for gold.
A marriage bought's a marriage sold,
A loveless match is viewed to hold
NO TRUMPS

—London Chronicle.

PLAINFIELD

Dr. and Mrs. William Wilson and daughter, Mrs. Harford and her daughter have gone to Brooklyn, N. Y., after a short visit in Plainfield.

Plans for a memorial in the form of a scholarship are being promoted by the alumnae of the Church Training and Deaconess House of Philadelphia, of which institution Deaconess Caroline Hamlin Sanford for nine years a resident of Plainfield was the first head. Deaconess Sanford graduated 120 women in full course beside those who took part time or special courses. Deaconess Sanford passed away about three years ago. During her residence in Plainfield she fostered the interests of St. Paul's mission and gave much direction and help to St. Paul's branch of the women's auxiliary to the board of missions of the Episcopal church. To this branch the minister in charge, Rev. George L. Browne, presented recently details of the plans for the memorial and asked a part in raising the memorial fund. It is expected that St. Paul's will make a contribution in memory of the deaconess. This is to be done within the next few months. The total amount which the alumnae of the above mentioned training school is aiming to raise is $6,000 to endow a scholarship in perpetuity. This sum will pay the very moderate fee required annually for the maintenance of a student at the deaconess house as tuition is and the charge for board very moderate. In other words there will be always a missionary or church worker being trained to help carry on the work. Miss Amelia Sanford was also formerly a resident of Plainfield and was a music teacher and was well known.

Those who attended the Dorcas Rebekah lodge in Danielson Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Butler, Mrs. Jessie Alexander, Mrs. John Kingsley, Miss Lena Piper, Mrs. Fred Greenwood, Mrs. Everett Dawley, Mrs. Lottie Dodge, Mrs. Irving Smith.

William C. Sprague of Moosup started for Florida last Wednesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Chapman went with them and also Mr. Sprague's nephew accompanied them.

Joseph Lunn of Daggett street, Moosup has returned from an eight day's trip with his daughter, Mrs. Clifford Bartlett, and her husband of New Haven. They visited all the New England states, travelling especially through the White mountains. One place Mr. Lunn was especially glad to visit was Tenant's Harbor, near Rockland, Me., which was his birthplace. Mr. Lunn has not been there for forty-seven years but found five people whom he knew and with whom he was glad to renew old friendship. They traveled a total of about 1400 miles.

The calendar of the First Congregational church was given Sunday by the C. J. S. The sermon was "A Great Challenge: The Paris Peace Pact". The Sunday evening service was held in the church. Alfred Royle, presided at the organ. Sermon by the pastor "World Peace". Solo by George Inglis.

Tuesday evening at 7:00 the Friendly Indians met at the parsonage, John Dodge, in charge.

Miss Ruth Cleland and Miss Lee spent the week end with Miss Cleland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cleland, new village.

Miss Dorothy Pike and Mrs. Charlotte Palmer spent the week end with Miss Pike's mother.

Loyal Princess lodge, at a recent meeting, with the noble grand, Sister Collins in the chair, voted to hold whist parties at the members' homes. The committee on the pink degree and turkey supper to be held in December met during the week at Mrs. Collins'. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Hart and Edith Collins.

Mrs. Winfield Gardner of Ashaway, Mr. and Mrs. C. Eccleston of Westerly attended the six-church conference Friday.

Helen Dawley of Gallup street has been entertaining Gertrude Gardner of Ashaway.

STONINGTON

The 40 hours' devotion opened at the 10 o'clock mass in St. Mary's church on Sunday morning. Visiting priests heard confessions on Sunday and Monday and the closing ceremony will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 7 o'clock.

A special assembly of the Stonington high school was held on Friday afternoon at which Supt. W. R. Snyder, Principal W. H. Illing and Coach O'Brien were speakers. New cheers were adopted by the cheer leaders and were used at the Westerly high and Stonington football game on Monday.

R. Delage and family were the guests of relatives at Southbridge, Mass., over the week end.

Miss Ruth E. Wells is visiting relatives at White Plains, N. Y.

Captain John Osborn returned to his duties at the New Haven Light on Saturday following a ten day visit here with relatives.

The Red Cross membership drive opened in the borough or Armistice day and is in charge of the chairman, Marguerite B. Silsby, R. N.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scheib spent the holiday with relatives in Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Gardiner of Hartford spent the week end here with relatives.

Moses Pendleton of Brookline, Mass., was the guest of E. N. Pendleton over the week end.

Miss Alice Powers of Boston is visiting here with relatives.

THOUSANDS LINED NEW LONDON STREETS FOR ARMISTICE PARADE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 12—This afternoon the biggest and most impressive celebration ever seen in this city took place when more than 6000 persons paraded up and down the city streets in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice. It was a gorgeous array that citizens and visitors of New London witnessed for over an hour. Legionnaires from all over the state were in the procession as well as the Governor's Foot Guards and different fraternal and benevolent organizations from this and other cities. It took the marchers almost an hour to pass any given point and the streets were packed with onlookers. Governor Trumbull and his staff, with city officials and high navy and army officials reviewed the parade from an improvised stand in front of the municipal building. It is doubtful if any city in the United States in proportion to population staged an event that could compare with it.

The occasion was originally sponsored by the John Coleman Prince post, American Legion, over a year ago. Since that time most every organization of the city interested itself in the affair.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon all stores and business places of the city closed in honor of the occasion. The parade started from the corner of Ocean avenue and Bank street promptly at 2.30 p. m. However as early as one o'clock crowds began to congregate on State and Bank streets and by the time the procession passed, so great was the number of people that it was impossible to negotiate pedestrian traffic on these streets.

Tonight an elaborate program of entertainment was held for Governor Trumbull and his staff as well as other visiting dignitaries and city officials.

Governor Trumbull and his staff were entertained today at luncheon by General and Mrs. Morris B. Payne. About fifteen persons were in the party and enjoyed a delightful repast at the Lighthouse Inn.

Miss Rose Rieger, of Waterford, was hostess Thursday night at a birthday party given in honor of Miss Ruth Douton. Friends of Miss Douton presented her a beautiful wrist watch as a token of their affection. During the evening games and dancing were enjoyed following which refreshments were served by the hostess.

WEDDING

Rathbun-Wood

Miss Isabel H. Wood of the Harris building was married Saturday afternoon to Elbert Potter Rathburn of Noank. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's uncle, Clarence W. Thompson, of Bank street, by the Rev. I. Romeyn Danforth. After the wedding a ceremony was held. The couple are now enjoying a two weeks honeymoon following which they will reside in Thamesville, Norwich.

Members of the local W. C. T. U. will hold a special Thanksgiving meeting tomorrow afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. An appropriate program has been arranged for the occasion.

At the regular monthly meeting of Brainard and Armstrong social club, held at the club house in Federal street, Saturday night, an Armistice day celebration supper was served. The dinner was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright and about 75 members of the club were present. Guests of honor at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. John P. T. Armstrong and Mrs. Robert L. Smith.

The 27th anniversary of Lady Aberdean lodge, Daughters of Scotia, will be observed tomorrow night with a banquet which is to be held at the Hotel Mohican, following which there will be an open installation of officers. Members from lodges in Westerly and Groton have been invited to be present.

Fred Stone who has been a patient at the Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital in this city since he was injured in an airplane crash in Groton some time ago, broadcast tonight from his room in the institution over a nation wide hookup.

Fred Clark, 17, of Stonington, has found himself in difficulty in connection with the theft of $130 from the home of Frank Davis of that town. Mr. Clark missed the money Saturday night and it is claimed that a web of circumstances surrounding the robbery tend to implicate young Clark. He, however, stoutly maintains that he has no knowledge of the missing sum. The case will come up in the Stonington court tomorrow before Judge William A. Wilcox.

An auto owned by Gardiner Barber and a light delivery truck belonging to George Chase, both of Stonington, collided in that town Saturday afternoon.

William Linger, of Stonington, 66, was struck Saturday afternoon by an auto owned by Michael Spino of Westerly. It is claimed that he stepped directly in front of the moving machine and was knocked down, sustaining serious bruises and lacerations, and a compound fracture of both bones in the left leg. He is now a patient at the Westerly hospital.

Warrant Officer Charles C. Perkins of this city, received this afternoon the regimental five years service medal. He is leader of the 102nd Field Artillery Regimental band, C. N. G. The state medal for twenty years of service was also conferred upon Samuel Davis supply sergeant of Headquarters battery, this city.

Patients dismissed today from the Home Memorial hospital were Miss Nora King, 65 Jay street; Mrs. Joseph Gigliotti, Stafford Springs, Conn.; David Main, Noank and Robert Turhill of Gales Ferry.

Reports from the income tax department at Washington show that 1400 persons in this city filed income tax returns. This number is 107 less than was noted last year.

Mrs. Huntington Lee, 49, for many years a summer resident at Eastern Point and a sister of James L. Hubbard of Norwich, died suddenly yesterday morning in a hospital in Los Angeles. Notice of the death was received by Mrs. Hubbard today by telegram. The deceased was well known in Norwich and this city for the manner in which she entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nash, of 32 Squire street, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday and scores of friends dropped in during the day to congratulate the aged couple. In the evening an informal reception was held for a group of friends.

CLAIMED PLEA OF GUILTY WAS MISTAKE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 12—Because Joseph Fein, 15 Atlantic street, claimed he did not understand that he was pleading guilty to a charge of violation of the liquor law when he was presented in the police court and fined $400 and costs Saturday, Deputy Judge John McGarry today ordered the case reopened. The testimony was lengthy and at its conclusion, Judge McGarry adjudged Fein guilty and imposed the same fine as that of Saturday. In the course of testimony, which brought heated verbal clashes between Prosecuting Attorney Daniel McCrohn and Attorney Perry J. Hollander, counsel for the accused, it was brought out that while Fein smashed a pitcher containing liquor when the raiding force arrived at the Fein store, it was Frank Paul, who actually made the sale upon which the police obtained evidence against the Atlantic street store.

Wallace Lanier, Submarine Base, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was fined $100 and costs. Lanier was arrested Saturday by Traffic Officer John Courtney.

Raymond Orenge, Southington youth, who was seriously injured several weeks ago in this city, when the car his father was driving was in collision with a stone wall on Montauk avenue, the crash resulting in the death of another child, was discharged at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital Sunday. Patients discharged today were Felix Mienski, Uncasville; John Renarti, 324 Main street; Mrs. Aaron Abend and infant daughter, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Alfred Bittere, Waterford.

Patrolman Albert Iverson in making his rounds at Ocean Beach last night discovered several cottages and two stores unsecure either from carelessness or work of crooks. Whether any of the effects of either of the cottages or stores have been stolen, it is not known. The places found either unclosed or windows open, were at 12 Ocean View place, 7 Westerly place, 44 Dyke street, 20 Easterly place, garage door ripped away; 8 Alewife avenue; 60 Bentley avenue and also a store on the same thoroughfare.

FUNERALS

Thomas Bonano

The funeral of Thomas Bonnano, late of 61 Smith street, a fisherman who succumbed to heart disease while on the boat he and his brother was returning to port from a fishing trip several days ago, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including a large representation of members of the Sicilian society, of which organization, Mr. Bonnano was a member. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, and the society members accompanied the body there where committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Fitzsimons.

Mrs. Michael Kelly

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Kelly, widow of Michael Kelly, late of 16 Mather court, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were Joseph, Edward, Michael and Frank Kelly and William Sheehan and William Dray, grandsons of Mrs. Kelly. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frank Delleo

Mrs. Helen Delleo, 41, wife of Frank Delleo, late of 24 Allen street, Groton, died Sunday at Home Memorial hospital. Besides her husband, Mrs. Delleo is survived by two children, Angelina and Michael Delleo.

Michael Chernick

Michael Chernick, late of 145 North Bank street, and employed at the freight wharf of the Central Vermont railroad, died Sunday at Home Memorial hospital. He is survived by his wife and three children. Mr. Chernick was born in Russi, but had resided in this city many years.

Miss Elizabeth M. Avery

Miss Elizabeth Miner Avery died Saturday night at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Frederick Bill, Poquonoc road, Groton, death ending a lingering illness. Miss Avery, who is survived by her sister, was born in Groton, the daughter of the late Erasmus D. and Sarah Hinckley Avery. Miss Avery was of advanced years and had always residde in Groton.

Mrs. Richard Povey

Mrs. Esther Russell Povey, 82, widow of Rev. Richard Povey, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, this city, died Sunday at her late residence, Gales Ferry. She is survived by two daughters and a son.

The police were informed shortly after last midnight that an automobile had been wrecked on the approach to the Thames river highway bridge for it had crashed against a telephone pole, the impact snapping the pole off close to the ground. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty were sent to the scene of the wreck and when the officers arrived there they found Mrs. Nellie Whitehead, wife of Warren Whitehead, 124 Fairview avenue and a woman friend alongside the auto. Mrs. Whitehead said that the auto was owned by a friend of hers who had been visiting her and who had left the auto parked in front of the Whitehead residence.

The funeral of Max Basson, formerly of New London and formerly employed as a tailor at Fort Wright, and whose death occurred at Carlisle, Pa., several days ago, was held at an undertaking parlor Sunday afternoon. Burial was in the Hebrew cemetery, Jordan.

Harris Hilliar, 2 Terrace avenue, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving without having a license in his possession and he was discharged. Hilliar was arrested Sunday night after his automobile collided with an automobile driven by Elizabeth Baxter, 46 Nameaug avenue, at the corner of Rosemary and Cole streets.

Philip Koss, R. F. D. Niantic was charged with violation of the traffic laws in passing an automatic signal on Bank street, when it was set at red. A fine of $5 was imposed. Another driver, William Canty, 55 Colver street, charged with the same offense, was given a suspension of judgment.

The condition of Michael Oniparuk, Oakdale, who was injured when the motorcycle he was driving collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Pauline Hoch, Jersey City, N. J., at Lyne Saturday, resulting in the instant death of Charles P. Hargey, late of Taftville, was reported at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital today as being as comfortable as could be expected. Oniparuk has sustained a multiple fracture of the left leg, but it has not been determined whether he has suffered internal injuries.

A final check of receipts of the Old Maids' and Old Bachelors' supper held Thursday night in Odd Fellows hall shows that more than $180 was cleared from the affair. Tomorrow night members of the lodge will meet for the purpose of rehearsing the work of the degree team.

Ambrose Vail, Box 42, Oakdale, reported to the police this afternoon that a spare tire and rim were stolen from his automobile while it was parked on Bank street last night.

Paul J. Spencer, submarine base, reported to the police last night that while he was driving at the approach of the Thames river highway bridge he struck Helen Brosky, a child residing at 49 Lewis street. The victim was taken to the office of a physician where it was determined that she sustained injuries no worse than lacerations and contusions.

The New London Y. M. C. A. was represented in the Armistice day parade by two floats. One represented the work being done for service men and was manned by representatives of the army, navy, marines and coast guard, detailed for this by the respective commanding officers. Taking for the theme "Still Serving" the float brought to the attention of the public the fact that the great work done by the "Y" during the war days did not end with the singing of the Armistice, but is still going on quietly. The local association extends to all men in uniform or showing service papers the same privileges as all members in good standing.

The other float showed the work which the "Y" is doing about the world for peace and good will. With associations in many countries, the work of the "Y" in quietly influencing and tending toward a better understanding between nations is immeasurable. The center of this float was a large "Y" surmounted by a globe, and around the edge of the float were boys of seventeen different nations, many in native costume. In front of each boy was a flag shield and the name of the country.

The float of the service men was constructed by Harry W. Rafferty, army and navy secretary of the "Y" and Arthur B. Dawson, physical director, was responsible for the other.

CITY COUNCIL TAKES STEPS TO CLEAN UP MERCER ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 12—Preliminary action to secure improvement to or the elimination of the corporation boarding house and other unsightly buildings on the Mercer estate on Main street opposite the town building was taken at the November meeting of the common council held tonight. The matter was brought up by Alderman William E. Jackson and will be continued at a meeting of the sanitary committee with the city health officer and inspector of buildings. Only the necessary quorum of four members were present at the meeting, which was in charge of Mayor Charles A. Gates. The aldermen present were John Reilly, William E. Webber, Eugene B. Lewis and W. H. Jackson. On motion of Alderman Jackson the city prosecuting attorney will have it brought to his attention through official organs that the papers are ready in the alleged shortage of former City Clerk and Treasurer James S. Donahue, Jr. The motion was seconded by Alderman Webber after explanation had been made by Alderman Jackson that he held no animosity for anyone, including the former city official, but simply desired that the law be allowed to take its course. Corporation Counsel William A. King stated that the city's suit against the bonding company in which Donahue was insured had been instituted. Other resolutions were as follows: That the street superintendent cause the removal of the barn on Memorial park and the lumber to be stored; that the police committee secure adequate furnishings for the office of the chief of police; that the street committee purchase bleachers now on Memorial park from the West End Social club at the price of $46 and that the lumber be used by the street department if needed. The petition of Joseph Bachand, aged 69, who was employed by the street department as a cobblestone layer for 24 years, for assistance in the form of a pension, was referred to the corporation counsel. While the report of the chief of police, showing 81 arrests for the month, was one of the largest ever recorded, that of the fire department was among the lowest with but one bell alarm and five still alarms. The meeting adjourned until Nov. 30 when all bills will be paid up to date and the budget for the ensuing year approved by the council.

The annual city meeting will follow in the early part of December.

GALES FERRY

Five quilts were tied at an all day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society held Friday at the vestry of the M. E. church. The members were also occupied on quilt blocks, aprons and fancy articles. ### ANNOUNCEMENTS

Free Lecture on the Stars

This (Tuesday) evening is the night when a free public lecture on the stars is to be given at Slater hall annex, under the auspices of Slater museum, with W. Tyler Olcott as the lecturer and an exceedingly unusual collection of photographic plates of the heavens furnishing the topics upon which he will speak. The photographs to be shown are the finest set of pictures of the heavens that have ever been taken so that the views and the lecture will provide an evening at once entertaining and instructive.

Palace Theatre.

A simple, yet forceful love tale is The First Kiss, co-starring Fay Wray and Gary Cooper, Paramount's Glorious Youn Lovers, which opened at the Palace theatre Sunday night. It is by far, one of the finest efforts on the part of any producing organization in transferring a realy fine story to the screen.

Fay Wray and Gary Cooper appear as the principal characters in the same picture for the second time in their screen career in The First Kiss. Their first effort, The Legion of the Condemned has already made motion picture history. The First Kiss will make it again.

The story was adapted from Four Brothers by the famed short story writer, Tristram Tupper, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. It has, briefly, to do with the efforts of a young man to make successful men out of three lazy brothers, all born of an old family of Maryland, but which has fallen down. The young man, whom you may guess now to be Gary Cooper, is an oysterman very much in love with the town's richest belle, Fay Wray. The gulf between them is successfully closed, which forms one of the most interesting and heart-throbbing stories ever shown here.

Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle renew their screen partnership in Beau Broadway, now showing at the Palace theatre, the first of a new series of comedy-dramas in which this inimitable team are to be costarred by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Cody, as a man-about-town and fight promoter, is seen in a role capably tailored to his histrionic talents, and Miss Pringle, as the woman who "understands" him is admirably cast in a part that displays her versatility to utmost advantage.

In the notable supporting cast are Sue Carol, 1928 Wampas Baby Star, Hugh Trevor, collegiate film "find," Heinie Conklin, black-face comic, James J. Jeffries, former world's champion heavyweight, Kit Guard and Jack Herrick.

The story of Beau Broadway, laid in a background of a prize ring, was written for the Cody-Pringle combination by Mal St. Clair who also directed it. George O'Hara prepared the adaptation.

Broadway Theatre

The old South that was, with its courtly gallants and charming belles, is literally transported to the screen in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" the stupendous Universal masterpiece production that opened for a run Sunday at the Broadway theatre.

One could almost inhale the sweet scene of magnolias and hear the soft voices of the darkies at the close of a long, cotton-picking day. The one word to describe this masterly picture is "epic." Certainly no other photoplay since the beginning of the industry has achieved the response, both as to emotions and risibilities as has this one.

Of drama there is a plentitude. The roles of Margarita Fischer as Eliza, George Siegmann as Simon Legree, James Lowe as Uncle Tom, Virginia Gray as Little Eva, Arthur Edmund Carew as George Harris, and the other experienced players are portrayed with an amazing realism and fidelity to the characters of the novel.

The comedy touches which are painted in with deft strokes of a masterly brush are capably handled by Mona Ray as Topsy, Lucien Littlefield as Lawyer Marks and Aileen Manning as Aunt Ophelia.

The big scenes are splendidly done. The death of Little Eva, Eliza crossing the ice, the classical handling of the auction and river scenes, the marvelous reproductions of Southern life as exemplified in the Shelby, St. Clare and Legree plantations, all are beyond reproach.

The leader, Mrs. Manning, brought to the meeting an interesting feature from the talks by the newly appointed state president, Mrs. George Prior. This showed a chart on which was the outline of a hill with a plateau near the top. The question was asked, should we stop at this place, or climb still higher? To take a still higher road and reach a goal was the thought emphasized, and thereby continue in the good work of the Kings Daughters. Everyone should have some goal to attain and to do so must keep going higher.

Mrs. Albert G. Miner played for the hymns in the absence of the regular pianist, Mrs. John Olsen.

It was voted to contribute a sum to the Salvation Army drive, as in former years. During the social hour that followed, Mrs. Edmund A. Prentice, chairman of the entertainment committee, assisted by several members, served cake and coffee.

A recent report given out concerning the condition of George L. Randall of West Town street, ill in bed several weeks today (Tuesday), was to the effect that he experienced one of his stronger days on Monday.

The Peace Treaty, signed August 27th, 1928, in Paris, by the heads of the 15 larger nations, including the United States, since which 40 other nations have given their intentions to comply with, was read at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. At the suggestion of the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, with his name heading the list, those who cared to do so, put their signature on a strip of paper which had been pasted on the treaty slip. There was a long list of names.

When the Wolf Cub pack of Scouts met at the Methodist parsonage Saturday morning with an attendance of 17 the assistant cubmaster, Richard Cormier, gave instruction in knot-tying and acted as a judge in a knot-tying contest. Patrol Leader Donald Waterman of the Boy Scouts also acted as a judge. Cubmaster Potter put on a number of new games that were enjoyed by the boys. The six in charge of Frederick Ross scored 180 points and the six in charge of Clarence Smith scored 115. One new member was admitted to the pack.

An impressive part of the service at the Methodist church Sunday morning was when the congregation remained with bowed heads in silent prayer for two minutes at the close of the sermon. The silence was broken by the organ sounding Taps. The theme of Rev. George Warren Potter was "The Higher Heroism," an Armistice day sermon. Virginia Ward sang Kipling's Lest We Forget. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter had a most interesting patriotic story for the children which was enjoyed by the older people as well. There was an attendance of about 70.

The Junior Epworth league service was led by Muriel Rose and was in charge of the pastor. The subject was My Code and My Crowd. Virginia Ward played a number of selections during the meeting.

Following the session of the church school, there was a short meeting of the Sunday school board. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter and Mrs. Richard Carter were elected a committee to arrange for the Christmas celebration in the church school.

District Superintendent Rev. Myron E. Genter had charge of the C. E. service in the evening. His topic was What is Being Done for and Against World Peace. At the evening service Rev. Mr. Genter gave a most interesting and helpful sermon. There was a selection by the junior choir in charge of Mrs. Florence Aldrich. Harold Rose sang Face to Face. At the third quarterly conference which followed Stanton W. Brown was elected judge and William Weaver and Edward Howe tellers for the election of a delegate to the lay electoral conference. Miss Theodora Brown was elected recording secretary and Mrs. William Weaver communion steward.

Tuesday evening the Modern Priscilla club is to meet at the parsonage for their basketry class in charge of Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter.

The Boy Scouts of the Sacred Heart church had their first meeting on Friday night. Scoutmaster Hill gave the boys short instructions in marching. A troop election was held. Edward Connell was elected troop scribe; Richard Cormier was elected senior patrol leader, Charles Ryan was first patrol leader and Francis Driscoll, assistant patrol leader. The meeting ended at 9.30.

FOUR EXTRA CARS FOR HEAVY TROLLEY TRAVEL

In order to take care of the heavy deluge of patronage as a result of the parade at New London Monday afternoon the officials of the Connecticut company pressed into service four extra trolleys due in Franklin square at 6:15 o'clock in the evening. There was a goodly number on the trolleys on their arrival here a few minutes late because of the heavy congestion in the New London streets.

Cedar Street Brush Fire

A brush fire at the corner of Slater avenue and Cedar street was responsible for a telephone call being sent to the fire department at 1:55 o'clock Monday afternoon. Squad A and Chief Howard L. Stanton responded to the summons and stopped the blaze before damage resulted.

122 OF THOSE WHO WERE ABOARD STEAMER VESTRIS STILL ARE UNACCOUNTED FOR

Rescue Craft Have Taken 206 Persons Aboard—Six Lifeboats Have Been Found, in One of Which Was the Crew From a Seventh Lifeboat That Had Capsized—Rescue Ships Are Seeking a Life Raft and Bits of Wreckage That Might Support Survivors—Hope That the Unrescued Could Survive Another Night Was Lessened by Reports of the Weather—Coast Guard Destroyers Have Picked Up Ten Bodies.

(By The Associated Press)

The second night, after the 328 passengers and crew abandoned the Lamport & Holt liner Vestris in a sinking condition, found 206 persons aboard rescue craft, some of which were steaming toward port; 122 were still unaccounted for in an official compilation made by the owners of the Vestris.

A lone life raft from the ill-fated steamer Vestris and bits of wreckage that might support other survivors on the wind-tossed seas off the Virginia capes were being sought out by the searchlights of rescue craft last night.

Dispatches that filtered through the ether from rescue ships said that six lifeboats had been found, and in one of them was the crew from a seventh lifeboat which capsized. The battleship Wyoming, which had picked up some of the survivors, reported through a wrecking tug that all the lifeboats that were launched by the Vestris had been accounted for, and a message from four destroyers that also were continuing the search, announced that one life raft still was adrift.

The American Shipper, first to reach the scene, reported rescue of 123 persons, 33 of them passengers. When the list of rescued passengers was received by wireless, however, there were 38 names and it was not clear whether this altered the total or was balanced by a similar change in the crew.

The liner Berlin rescued 23 persons and started for New York, where it was expected to arrive about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The tanker Myriam saved 63 persons and the battleship Wyoming picked up eight. There was one report that a dead man had been found by the Wyoming, but direct messages from the battleship made no mention of this.

This would give a total of 217 or 222 (according to interpretation of the reports from the American Shipper) rescued and 122 unaccounted for.

The complete story of the hardship which the rescued must have endured before they were saved cannot yet be told. The air and all available radio facilities have been needed in the work of life saving, but a few bits have come through to indicate the sort of thing that must have been general.

One man, pulled from a beam to which he was clinging for his life, told of floating past a raft on which a woman—and she must have been drenched, for the waves were running high—sat with two children. Search was begun for them but no report of them being found came in.

A message to the Associated Press from Capt. Von Thalen of the Berlin, told how Carl Schmidt, a third class passenger from Chicago, was saved after 22 hours in the water, sustained only by a life belt in the towing waves, and yet Schmidt was included in the 23 persons saved by the Berlin of whom Capt. Von Thalen reported "all safe and sound."

With the rescue fleet still patrolling the waters off the Virginia coast yesterday in hope of finding more of the castaways the navy ordered the dirigible Los Angeles to fly to the scene to offer what assistance it might. Later the order was cancelled upon recommendation of Vice Admiral Taylor of the battleship Wyoming, that there was no necessity for the dirigible's flight.

What lingering hope there was that those unrescued yesterday could survive another night was lessened by reports of the weather. Capt. Von Thalen radioed the Associated Press that there were very strong northerly winds with high seas, no sort of weather for men and women and children already weakened by a day and a half in small boats or clinging to wave-washed rafts.

Renewed hope that the additional survivors of the vessel already had been picked up was expressed at the Lamport & Holt line offices last night, when the owners received information that four ships, not equipped with wireless, were on the scene of the wreck. The owners said it was believed likely that these boats might have picked up some of the passengers and crew who had not been accounted for. One of the four ships was said to be under American registry, and the other three were from South American ports.

Among the rescue ships steaming toward port was the French tanker Myriam, which sent a message that it had on board 64 survivors of the Vestris, 11 more than previously had been reported.

Indications that the number of those still unaccounted for might be rescued were tragically reduced from reports of the recovery of the bodies. Radio reports to the navy department from the battleship Wyoming said that coast guard destroyers had picked up ten bodies.

As radio stations along the coast were listening for additional news of rescue operations last night an SOS call was picked up from the steamer K. R. Kingsburg, reporting the schooner Anna M. Heidritter flying distress signals and asking for food and provisions. The schooner had lost her boats and provisions, in a storm off the Atlantic coast, but was "holding under easy canvas," the message said.

NO NEWS OF CAPTAIN OR THE WIRELESS OPERATOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Officials of the Lamport & Holt line, owners of the ill-fated steamer Vestris, said tonight that they were without news of the fate of Capt. William Carey, master, and Noel Laughlin, wireless operator of the ship. "Absolutely nothing has been heard of either of these men," E. George Williams, passenger traffic manager of the line, said.

WEALTHY MAN QUESTIONED ABOUT CHICAGO GUNMEN

CHICAGO, Nov. 13—(AP)—Philip L. McKee, wealthy manufacturer, today was questioned by the police in the belief that he possesses information that will lead to apprehension of gunmen who Sunday shot and seriously wounded John C. Acher, Northwestern university football player.

Acher was shot and wounded so seriously that he may die or be crippled for life after his automobile and another car were involved in a collision. His assailants forced him and a younger brother to the curb and shot Acher in the back.

McKee's car, with a fender smashed, and declared by the police to have been the one in which Acher's assailants rode, was found near the scene of the accident yesterday and the manufacturer, head of the American Green House Manufacturing company, was taken into custody.

McKee, who had reported the car stolen, and D. T. Church, real estate man who was with him Saturday night, told of visiting several night clubs and said they had several drinks but maintained they were in a cabaret at the time of the shooting and came out later to find McKee's car gone.

COOLIDGE WILL OPEN ATLANTIC COASTAL ROAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)— President Coolidge will oficially open the Atlantic coastal highway, running from Calais, Me., to Key West, Fla., at ceremonies to be held on the white house grounds Thursday morning, an announcement here today said.

The road, traversing the 13 original colonies, was built in seven years at a cost of approximately $100,000,000. The Washington celebration will be attended by numerous prominent personages including the governors of Georgia, North and South Carolina, and Virginia; and the mayors of Florence, S. C., Wilmington, N. C., Richmond, Va., Jacksonville, Fla., Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C. High officials of several states will also be present.

DAMAGE CAUSED BY MT. ETNA ABOUT $18,500,000

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 13—(AP)—Scientists and non-expert observers agreed today that the demon of Mt. Etna had probably wrought his worst from the present 12-day eruption of the volcano. They found, moreover, that the loss would probably amount to about $18,500,000.

The work of reconstruction already has been planned, chiefly in the way of mapping out new transportation routes around the fresh lava deposits.

STEWART COUNSEL QUESTIONS ACCURACY OF GOVT. RECORD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13— (AP) — Counsel for Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, hammered today against the accuracy of the printed record of the senate public lands committee hearings last February, when the oil man gave testimony about the Continental Trading company upon which the perjury charge he is now facing was based.

In his questioning of three government witnesses, including Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Stewart, contended that scores of discrepancies existed between what actually was said and what appeared in the record.

When questioned by Leo A. Rover, district attorney, the Montana senator testified that Stewart had told the committee he knew nothing about the distribution of bonds by the Continental company. Rover sought to bring up testimony subsequently given by the oil man to the committee that he had turned over $759,000 of the bonds to a trustee, but this was passed temporarily after Hogan had presented a prepared objection to Justice Jennings Bailey.

SELECTED FOR WEST POINT ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

HARTFORD, Nov. 13—(AP)—Private First Class Sidney F. Giffin, of 11 Bretton road, West Hartford, a member of Troop C, First Squadron cavalry, is one of the two members of the Connecticut National Guard selected to take the regular entrance examinations for West Point beginning March 5. The other guardsman chosen is Private John A. Swanson, Company A, 102nd infantry, who lived at 579 Winchester avenue, New Haven.

The Connecticut National Guard is allotted two candidates for West Point and nine men took the preliminary examinations held Thursday at the state armory. Giffin and Swanson were selected as a result of these examinations.

Nephew Of [illegible] Commits Suicide

Had Been Foiled in Attempt to Kill Toral, Slayer of His Uncle, Gen. Obregon.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13—(AP)—Foiled in an attempt to kill Jose De Leon Toral in revenge for the assassination of his uncle, Capt. Jesus Obregon, tonight returned to his home here and committed suicide. He had been disarmed when he drew a pistol at the door of the cell in which the convicted slayer of Gen. Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, is confined.

Captain Obregon, who was 26 years of age, had gained admission to the penitentiary shortly after noon. A visitor who was talking with a guard near the cell of Toral noticed Obregon's agitation as he approached the cell door. When he drew his pistol, both grappled with him and wrested away the weapon before he could fire.

Captain Obregon was not detained by the penitentiary officials, who at first refused to make known his identity.

He returned to his home in this city and a few hours later shot himself in the chest with a pistol. He died soon afterward.

Acquaintanees of Captain Obregon said that his conduct was sometimes erratic. His father is Gen. Jose Obregon, a brother of the slain, president-elect.

Leon Toral on July 17 entered a banquet hall in a suburb of Mexico City and on the pretext of showing General Obregon cartoons which he had drawn fired several shots into his body. He was recently brought to trial and, after scenes which showed the intensity of feeling against him, was convicted and sentenced to execution by a firing squad.

His attorneys have appealed to the superior court on the ground that Mexican law does not provide the death penalty for political crimes, such as they assert Toral's to be.

Pending determination of the appeal, Toral has been held in prison.

ROTHSTEIN'S LIABILITIES $1,000,000; GOOD ASSETS $150,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—A mass of facts and rumors were dumped today into the hopper out of which the police hope will come the answer to that puzzling question, "Who murdered Arnold Rothstein?"

In and out of court there were developments in the mystery that has surrounded the killing of the notorious gambler who died just a week ago from a bullet fired into his abdomen at the Park Central hotel. But when all the grist had been poured into the mill the public has learned nothing concerning the identity of the slayer.

For the first time since Rothstein's death an authentic estimate of the magnitude of his business dealings was made. It appeared in an affidavit signed by Brown and estimated the estate's liabilities at more than $1,000,000, whereas the "good assets" were placed at about $150,000.

The affidavit set forth that Rothstein was the principal and majority stockholder in a number of businesses and properties.

DENIALS BY ACCUSED IN LEOPOLD MURDER TRIAL

WATERBURY, Nov. 13—(AP)—Louis N. Leopold, on trial in superior court on charges of murder and arson denied this afternoon in cross examination by State's Attorney Lawrence L. Lewis, that he had offered Ralph Melie, an inmate of the New Haven jail, $2,500 to get Morris Shellnitz to say no key was passed from Leopold to Samuel Weiss on North Main street. He also denied that he had sought through Melie to have Shellnitz, who was indicted with Leopold, give liquor as the cause of the trip to Waterbury by Weiss and Shellnitz.

Leopold denied that Weiss was in the Waterbury Furniture company the night before the fire and also denied that he had given Weiss $500.

ANOTHER BIG DAY IN THE N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Trading on the New York Stock exchange continued at a dizzy pace in today's market, the second largest in history. Price movements were extremely erratic with the day's honors about evenly divided between the "bulls" and the "bears." Total sales were 5,387,400 shares as against yesterday's record-breaking total of 5,670,600 shares.

SCHOONER FOUNDERED 40 MILES OFF FORT SABLE, N. S.

PUBNICO, N. S., Nov. 13—(AP)—The schooner Lucky Strike, of Shelbourne, N. S., bound from St. John's, N. F., for Seattle, foundered forty miles off Fort Sable, N. S., in heavy weather last night. Captain Williams, his super cargo and a crew of seven arrived here safely this afternoon in a power dory. The Lucky Strike was carrying a cargo of rum.

He will also lose his license for one year.

FORD TRANSPORT PLANE LANDED AT BOISE, IDAHO

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 13—(AP)—A Ford transport plane en route from Detroit to Spokane, Washington, with ten passengers, landed here from Pocatello, Idaho, today at 2:03 p. m., Pacific time. Airport officials at Salt Lake City earlier in the day had caused alarm as to the safety of the plane when it failed to appear there. The pilot explained here that the route he selected did not include Salt Lake City.

Commons Debated Naval Agreement

Armistice Day Speech of President Coolidge the Background of Discussion.

LONDON, Nov. 13—(AP)—The Armistice day speech of President Coolidge was the background for a sharp debate tonight in the house of commons with Stanley Baldwin, prime minister and David Lloyd George, liberal leader, firing the heavy guns.

The discussion was precipitated when the war-time premier moved an official liberal amendment to the address from the throne. In this amendment the Lloyd George party invited the house of common to declare that the Anglo-French naval accord endangered the peace of Europe and good relations with the United States.

Defending the government course, Mr. Baldwin candidly described the compromise as "scrapped" but he said that it was "an honest, straightforward attempt to escape from the deadlock which developed at Geneva and was threatening the cause of disarmament."

In the attack on the Baldwin foreign policy, Lloyd George asked the commons to express official regret that the accord with France had abandoned the principle of limiting small submarines, cruisers and other naval vessels. He also asked the house to vote that the exclusion of reservists from computations of military strength, a point which has been urged by France and which was conceded by Great Britain in the accord, was contrary to the spirit of the Versailles and Locarno treaties.

He attacked the government in relentless detail on the dangers of the policy represented in the Anglo-French compromise. He declared it was all very well to say that the compromise was dead, but in reality and corpse was the policy which had dictated the accord.

The liberal spokesman argued that the speech of President Coolidge proved that American auspicions of Europe had not been removed. He said that Mr. Coolidge had made no threats, but he found signifiance in the fact that the American policy of buildin geruisers was being developed.

LIBERALS DEFEATED BY A VOTE OF 326 TO 163

LONDON, Nov. 13—(AP)—A liberal attempt to have the house of commons declare that the Anglo-French naval accord endangered the peace of Europe and good relations with the United States was defeated by a vote of 326 to 163 tonight.

The amendment to the reply to the address from the throne was moved by David Lloyd George, who engaged in a sharp debate on the British policy with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

Lloyd George declared that there was no doubt that French public opinion considers England bound by the principles of the pact, portions of which he said were contrary to the spirit of the Versailles and Locardno treaties and implied a serious departure from the terms of the Washington conference.

PICKED 26.62 BUSHELS OF CORN IN 80 MINUTES

FOWLER, Ind., Nov. 13—(AP)—Walter Olson, 26-year-old farmer of Knox county, Ill., tonight reigned over the nation's corn huskers. He won the national corn husking championship today in a contest with the champions and runners-up of seven states. Olson tossed from 40 to 44 ears a minute, picking 26.62 bushels in the 80 minutes allotted. The contest was held on the William Strasburger farm in Knox county.

Elmer Williams of Stark county, Ill., who was runner-up to Olson in the Illinois state contest and who holds the world's corn husking record, placed second today with 25.31 bushels. Williams set the world's record of 25.8 bushels in 1925.

Olson received a gold medal and $100 as a first prize.

A crowd of 17,000 fans swarmed over the field, often hampering the contestants and shortly after the start of the contest, frightening Williams' team so that the horses started to run away. They were stopped by spectators but Williams' friends had to push his wagon until another team was obtained.

Olson's net load was 1.982 pounds, the largest of the day.

MAURETANIA BATTLED WITH GALE-SWEPT SEAS

PARIS, Nov. 13—(AP)—A banduged and subdued crowd of passengers reached here tonight with many of them still groggy from the long battle of the steamship Mauretania with gale-swept seas.

A. C. Mackintyre and Leo Wolfson of New York, the first with a sprained arm and Wolfson with a gashed head, were the most severely wounded of the score of passengers and crew bruised and cut from being flung about as the ship met mountainous waves.

The liner was two days out of New York when it ran into a fury of the sea which has seldom been equaled. A southwesterly gale, of an intensity estimated at one time to have attained 80 miles an hour, struck the "world's fastest liner" on her quarter and caused such pitching and tossing that Captain McNeil ordered all passengers off the decks.

The storm continued for 48 hours and most of the passengers were seasick. The ship was delayed in arrival and te passengers reached Paris seven hours late.

Frederick H. Prince, returning after a flying visit to Boston to cast his vote, said tonight, "I won my vote but I have lost a few square inches of skin from my shins."

41 PERSONS KILLED BY CYCLONE IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13—(AP)—Forty-one persons are reported killed and about 150 injured in a violent cyclone which raged in the vicinity of Villamaria in the Province of Cordoba. Destruction of means of communication made it difficult to obtain details although reports trickled through of houses unroofed or laid flat.

The fragmentary dispatches received here say that most of the houses and buildings in the stricken area have been damaged. Many inhabitants were said to have been buried in the debris.

Beside the loss of human life and damage to habitations, a considerable portion of the crops in the region were said to be ruined.

SMITH SHOWS STERLING CHARACTER IN DEFEAT

After Advising That It Was the Democratic Party's Duty to "Carry On" and Vindicate the Principles For Which It Fought, Gov. Smith Called For United Support of the President-Elect, Asserting That the Man Selected by the People Last Tuesday to Lead the Country Was "Not the President of the Republican Party, But President of the United States."

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith told the country over the radio tonight that the principles of the democratic party were as great in defeat as they would have been in victory, and that it was the party's duty "to carry on and vindicate" the principles for which it had fought.

Standing before a microphone in a National Broadcasting studio, the defeated democratic presidential candidate delivered what many had called his political valedictory.

His speech, broadcast over a nationwide hookup of stations, urged united support of Herbert Hoover—although he did not mention him by name—asserting that the man selected by the people last Tuesday to lead the country was "not the president of the republican party, but president of the United States."

It would not do, said Governor Smith, to let bitterness, rancor or indignation over the result "blind us to the outstanding fact that we are Americans."

Referring to the thousands of letters he said he had received since the election and since he had announced that he would not again be a candidate for public office, the governor said he had been asked "not to lose interest" in the democratic party.

He said he did not regard the defeat of his party as interfering with the soundness of the principles for which it stood, and that with all the vigor he could command he would continue not only to stand for those principles but to "battle for them." He added a pledge of increasing interest in and devotion to them.

The governor called the democratic party "the great liberal party of the nation," leading progressive thought and holding out "the only hope of return to the fundamental principles on which this country was built and as a result of which it has grown and thrived."

"To the young men and women of the country," he said, "the democratic party with its fine tradition, and its breadth of vision, offers the only inspiration. The democratic party would not be in a position four years from now to solicit the confidence and the support of the American people, if during that period it neglected to build up a constructive program and relied entirely upon the failure of the opposition party.

"That cannot be done by the minority party permitting itself to become a party of destruction and opposition for political purposes only. We have seen too much of that in this country and in many of its civil divisions."

"It would be regarded a constructive achievement," he added, "if the democratic party at Washington were to formulate a program adopted and offered to the congress of the nation and there defend it. A refusal on the part of the party in power to accept it or their inability to bring about party unity for the solution of these problems would then fix the responsibility and make a record upon which a successful campaign could be waged four years from now."

The democrats would not be acting in good faith, Governor Smith said, if they were to adopt a policy of inaction "with a hope of profiting solely by the mistakes or failures of the opposition."

"What this country demands," he asserted, "is constructive and not destructive criticism; a constructive program embodying the declarations of the democratic platform."

GOV. SMITH TO SPEND VACATION IN BILOXI, MISS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith, announced tonight that his vacation will be spent in Biloxi, Miss.

He will leave New York for Biloxi at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, over the Pennsylvania railroad, accompanied by John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, and his close friends, William F. Kenny and James J. Riordan.

The governor said he did not know how long he was going to stay. "What I want to know," he said, "is how the golf is down there."

Governor Smith spent the entire day in his suite at the Biltmore hotel working on tonight's radio speech.

No members of his family will accompany the governor on his trip. Mrs. Smith, who came to New York with him, will return to Albany tomorrow.

"All the children and grandchildren will be there to keep her company," he said.

The governor had declined the invitation of Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor-elect, to visit him at Warm Springs, Ga.

"I want to get away from politics," he said. "Politics and crowds."

Gov. Smith and his party will reach Biloxi via Savannah, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla., River Junction, Fla., and Flomaton, Ala. They will travel in the private car of Mr. Kenny.

HERBERT HOOVER BUSY WITH PERSONAL AFFAIRS

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 13—(AP)—Herbert Hoover busied himself today with the work of winding up the many personal affairs and details of his good will trip that must be completed before he leaves his home here Sunday for San Pedro to begin the voyage to South America.

The president-elect started his day with a conference with William J. Donovan, assistant United States attorney general, whom he had summoned here from Washington. Then he turned to some of the many personal matters pressing upon him and during the course of the day visited San Francisco to do some shopping.

Donovan is regarded as the outstanding figure of those mentioned for the post of attorney general in the Hoover cabinet. He reached here today after flying from Chicago to Kansas City and thence to Los Angeles, completing his journey by train from the Southern California city to Palo Alto.

KEYES DEFENDANT IN CHARGE OF BRIBERY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13—(AP)—After twenty-five years as a prosecutor, District Attorney Asa Keyes was ordered in superior court here today to appear December 5 as a defendant on a charge of bribery. The action of Judge Douglas Edmonds followed the attorney's plea of not guilty.

Keyes' arraignment came as the result of a grand jury investigation into the dismissal of charges against the officials in the Julian Petroleum corporation overissue case. Seven other persons who faced indictments similar to that against Keyes and were arraigned with him today also pleaded not guilty and are to go on trial as soon as the charges against the district attorney have been heard.

In the meantime, the grand jury sat in executive session today, organizing and assembling information which has been presented to it on the ramified developments which in startling fashion have followed Keyes' indictment.

GEN. WILLIAM BRAMWELL BOOTH IS SINKING FAST

LONDON, Nov. 14—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Some of the London morning papers say that Gen. William Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, is sinking fast. He has been suffering from nervous prostration and his condition late last night was said to be very grave.

General Booth has been undergoing treatment for nervous prostration. Dr. Weir, physician to the Prince of Wales, was called in for consultation yesterday.

TEACHER MADE INDISCREET REMARKS TO HER PUPILS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 13—(AP)—The school board of education at a special meeting today found Miss Mary G. Moody, a teacher, guilty of making indiscreet remarks to her pupils about the character of Gov. Alfred E. Smith and his wife. The board, which was presided over by Mayor Thomas A. Tully, voted to "officially reprimand her for her conduct."

It was also officially voted that a rule be drawn up prohibiting discussions in New Haven public schools on controversial topics.

MADMAN RAISED HAVOC WITH RAILROAD TRAFFIC

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 13—(AP)—Seizing control of a signal tower at the intersection of the Southern Pacific and International and Great Northern railroad tracks, here today, a mad man turned rail traffic topsy turvy by throwing block signals with all the recklessness of a boy experimenting with a Christmas toy.

Luckily, there were no collisions, but it took some time for dispatchers to untangle the scramble of passenger and freight trains after the self-appointed traffic director had been relieved of his job by two policemen.

Mounting the tower with a pistol in one hand, the maniac threatened L. E. Cotton, the towerman who fled. Then he took charge, pulling levers in rapid order with no regard for traffic rules or the lives of the crews and passengers depending on the block signals.

Lights and semaphores up and down the tracks began to play crazily, changing every few seconds, which warned trainmen that something was amiss. Trains were halted, steam spouting from the locomotives and irate exclamations from the puzzled crews.

The towerman ran to a police station and summoned aid. Two officers climbed the tower with drawn revolvers and engaged the madman in conversation until they were able to get near enough to subdue him.

Then began the work of straightening out the traffic tangle in the yards.

POLICEMAN WOUNDED IN DUEL WITH A BANDIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—In a revolver duel with a fleeing bandit who had participated with two others in an attempt to hold up a grocery store, Patrolman George B. Wilson, 33, Brooklyn, suffered three bullet wounds tonight. One bullet entered his chest. Physicians say his condition is serious.

The battle ended a chase through a crowded business street in Brooklyn, the policeman riding on the running board of a taxicab.

Wilson told his superiors he had seen the bandit limp into the basement of an apartment house, apparently wounded. Police reserves were called to hold back a crowd of 2,000 spectators while detectives searched the apartment house. The fugitive was not found.

GRAF ZEPPELIN STOWAWAY RETURNS TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Clarence Terhune, the 19-year-old stowaway on the Graf Zeppelin, returned tonight on the French liner Ile de France. He was met at the pier by his sister, Mrs. Edward Hall, of St. Louis.

The boy said that he had been treated splendidly on the dirigible and been made a "pal" of by the American passengers on the ship. "While I wouldn't travel again as a stowaway on a dirigible," he said, "I would go again tomorrow as a passenger."

Six other Zeppelin passengers returning on the Ile de France were Joseph D. Jessel and William Lehman, of New York; Hans Nolde, of Reading, Pa.; Paul Marko, of Brooklyn; Don M. Castro, of Columbus, Ohio, and John C. Ingram, Hearst newspaper correspondent.

PAUL VARGA ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT OF HIS WIFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 13—There is considerable interest in the Westford Village, town of Ashford, in the arrest of Paul Varga, 60, formerly of the village and for the past six years of Cleveland, Ohio, who is to be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Clarence Barlow of the town court November 20, probably on the charge of desertion. The arrest was made on complaint of Varga's wife, Elizabeth Varga, who occupies the Varga home in the village. It is said that the trouble between the couple started some years ago when Varga objected to the presence of John Ostoles, who was employed as a farm hand on the farm. When matters reached a crisis Varga left the farm, alleging that he had been ordered away by his wife and Ostoles remained. The Vargas have five children, two living with the mother, a daughter who makes her home with the father in Cleveland and two boys in Europe. Varga had retained Attorney Harry S. Gaucher of this city as his counsel. Varga was arrested this forenoon by Constable John Arnold of Ashford and locked up at police headquarters until bail was furnished for his release.

Rev. Edward Smiley gave a talk on the Unity of National Development in the United States and motion pictures on game conservation and salmon fishing were shown through the courtesy of the Windham Fish and Game club in an interesting program at the monthly meeting of the Windham Community Men's club held in the Windham Center schoolhouse Monday evening. The supper was served by ladies of the Parent-Teachers' association. The Windham Fish and Game club was recently formed by members of the Community club to promote better fishing and hunting in this section. A committee comprising Rev. Edward Smiley, Charles H. Backus, Ray Doubleday and Howard Sandstrom was appointed to take charge of the boys' club for the year.

Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady was unsuccessful today in an attempt to locate the family of John Morrison, 44 or 45 years of age who dropped dead of a heart attack in Milford this morning and was said to be a native of this city. The message from the Milford police headquarters stated that Morrison was born here and that his mother and brother resided here at the present time. The man was described as being five feet seven inches in height and rather stocky stature. The vital statistics at the office of the town clerk failed to record the birth of the man and Morrison families in the city disclaimed any knowledge of the man.

Mrs. John L. Buell of Litchfield, past state regent and one of the vice-presidents of the national organization of the D. A. R., gave an excellent talk on Americanism at the meeting of Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R., held at the home of Mrs. Fannie J. Brown on Prospect street this afternoon. Mrs. Frank Larrabee, regent, was in charge of the meeting.

Only five of the 18 justices of the peace elected at the election on November 6 have qualified to date by taking the oath of office, Attorney E. Frank Bugbee and Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton took the oath, administered by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, today and Attorney Arthur T. Kelley, Edmund R. Poirier and Eugene E. Hickey had previously done so. Mrs. Stoughton, who is assistant in the town clerk's office is the only woman justice of the peace in Windham. The limit for qualifying is January 2.

Arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of having struck his stepdaughter, Miss Sophia Duda, over the head with a water kettle, Shargyar Chernak of Walcott street was discharged by the court when the girl announced to the court from the witness stand that she had nothing to say about the case.

The civil action brought by Oliver Chartier against Louis and Mary Morrissey which was scheduled to come up in the present term of the Windham county superior court was settled this afternoon at the office of Attorney H. S. Gaucher, who represented the plaintiff.

ACCIDENTS ON HOLIDAY WITH VARYING RESULTS

About five o'clock Monday evening a Chevrolet sedan operated by I. Gitlin collided with a horse-drawn wagon owned and driven by Demetro Krop. The collision occurred at the junction of the New London and Norwich turnpikes, near the Chapman garage. When the car hit the wagon, the horse became frightened and kicked the front of the car with such force that the radiator was laid back over the engine. The horse was then out of control and raced off down South Main street. Upon reaching a point near the Joseph Weinstein residence, the wagon tipped bottom up and the horse was badly cut when it fell among the wreckage. No one was seriously injured, although all were badly shaken up. The wet condition of the road was a contributory cause of the accident.

About five minutes before this collision, a Chevrolet sedan bearing Rhode Island registration ran head-on into a cement post on the curb in front of the post office. No damage was done to the car but the post was broken.

A serious accident also occurred Monday evening, when two cars came together at the dangerous Marlborough Four Corners. Both cars were turned bottom up and several persons are reported injured.

While sawing wood with a gasoline-powered circular saw Monday morning, Joseph Falk of South Main street, received severe injuries to his hand. Dr. C. E. Pendleton dressed the wound after which Mr. Falk was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic for treatment.

Aside from a display of flags in front of the business houses and residences, Monday, there was no celebration of Armistice day here. Most of the business houses were kept open as usual and the usual delivery of mail was made by the rural carriers. A number of townspeople motored to New London to witness the mammoth parade in that city.

Samuel P. Willard and Samuel Freedman are receiving congratulations on their recent election as Colchester's representatives to the state legislature. Both men are particularly well-fitted for the office.

ALAIMO TAKES APPEAL FROM BOROUGH COURT FINE

Cologero Alaimo, of Thompsonville, convicted in the borough court Tuesday morning of reckless driving, was fined $25 and costs by Judge Heald. On the afternoon of November 2nd an automobile driven by the accused and headed in the direction of West Willington ran into a car belonging to Mrs. Service, of South Willington which was parked by the side of the road near the steps leading to the Korper residence in South Willington. As Alaimo approached the parked car of Mrs. Service a Chevrolet car operated by George Wilcox of Westerly, R. I., was coming in the opposite direction. Alaimo quickly applied his brakes which caused his car to turn around two or three times and run into the Service car. The state claimed that if Alaimo had his car under control the accident would not have occurred. Alaimo said he could not see the car coming in the opposite direction by reason of the bend in the road until he was almost opposite the Service car. He took an appeal to the December term of the Tolland county superior court.

George Greendonner of the Lowell Textile school spent the week end and Armistice day at his home on Keefe's Plains.

POETRY

A Ballad of Heroes

Because you passed, and now are not,—
Because, in some remoter day,
Your sacred dust from doubtful spot
Was blown of ancient airs away,—
Because you perished,—must men say
Your deeds were naught, and so profane
Your lives with that cold burden? Nay,
The deeds you wrought are not in vain!

Though, it may be, above the plot
That hid your once Imperial clay,
No greener than o'er men forgot
The unregarding grasses sway,—
Though there no sweeter is the lay
Of careless birds,—though you remain
Without distinction of decay,—
The deeds you wrought are not in vain!

No. For while yet in tower or cot
Your story stirs the pulses' play;
And men forget the sordid lot—
The sordid care, of cities' gray;—
While yet, beset in homelier fray,
They learn from you the lesson plain
That Life may go, so Honor stay,—
The deeds you wrought are not in vain.

ENVOY

Heroes of old! I humbly lay
The laurel on your graves again;
Whatever men have done, men may,—
The deeds you wrought are not in vain!

—Austin Dobson.

Indian Summer

Lyric night of the lingering Indian Summer,
Shadowy fields that are scentless but full of singing,
Never a bird, but the passionless chant of insects,
Ceaseless, insistent.

The grasshopper's horn, and far off, high in the maples,
The wheel of a locust leisurely grinding the silence,
Under the moon waning and worn and broken,
Tired with summer.

Let me remember you, voices of little insects,
Weeds in the moonlight, fields that are tangled with asters,
Let me remember you, soon will the winter be on us,
Snow-hushed and heartless.

Over my soul murmur your mute benediction,
While I grave, oh, fields that rest after harvest,
As those who part look long in the eyes they lean to,
Lest they forget them.

—By Sara Teasdale.

Sleep becomes a vicious habit when carried to excess, says Dr. H. M. Johnson, "sleep expert" at the University of Pittsburgh. Most people, Johnson believes, get sufficient rest in the course of six and a half to nine hours to carry them through the day and make their work enjoyable. Sleep is vicious, he said, when it interferes with more interesting activities. Women are less restless than men as a rule, he finds, and spend more time in bed. Persons engaged in mental activity during the day, sleep less than persons engaged in work that only feebly stimulates.

DANIELSON

THE CLOISTER WILL BE TORN DOWN SOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 14—The laudable dream of an architecturally beautiful manufacturing community center that was to outshine anything in New England, and seemed in a fair way to do that particular thing back in 1919-1920, recedes still farther away from the realm of possibilities as the work of tearing down The Cloister on Lewis boulevard and Wheatley street gets under way.

This great stone structure reared in a medieval style of architecture and intended to house some 28 families, if one recalls correctly, never was completed, though construction was close to 75 per cent. advanced when the great industrial depression of 1920 set in, following the hectically prosperous years between 1915 and that time, shattering many a dream of grandeur and many a hope for the continuance of a marvelous, if abnormal, reign of prosperity in every section of the country.

The Connecticut Mills company put well in excess of $100,000 into the building of The Cloister up to the time that conditions forced a suspension of the work. It is understood that the labor costs alone were in the vicinity of $50,000. What the vast amount of material cost that entered into the construction can only be conjectured. But it was plenty. The walls are of stone, the lumber of the best obtainable.

Unless some errant person who had no other place to go has at some time or other slept there for a night, The Cloister never has been occupied. In the period of close to a decade that it has stood a gaunt, deserted structure, with never a light shining from its thousands of window panes at night, it has been merely a reminder of what might have been.

It has been a regular thing for strangers who looked upon it to inquire as to its history and its reasons for being as it has remained through the years, and those who are of Danielson have more or less sadly explained. Had this building been completed it would have been the outstanding structure of its kind in southern New England, probably in all the smaller manufacturing communities of the east. The arrangements for its appointments were pretentious, yet to be made enjoyable for the occupants at an amazingly low price. In a sense the structure was intended to be a really substantial expression of idealism in the interest of those who labor and strive for better things. That the dream could not be realized is an unfortunate thing for Danielson.

In these mid-November days workmen are demolishing the building, but with care. It has been sold to Daniel Smith, a Moosup contractor. It will yield him a wealth of material, to enter eventually into other construction. As an indication of the present value of the uncompleted structure, it may be mentioned that the slate coverinx its many gabled roofs cost $10,000. An immense amount of the finest lumber entered into its making to the point where building ceased. Of the thousands of panes of glass in its windows, few are left. Rock-throwing children have crashed them out during the passing years. The building is to be torn down to the foundation line. A long time will be required to complete the work.

OBITUARY

Alexander St, Rock

During last night Alexander St. Rock, Sr., 55, died at his home in Wauregan, where he had been a resident for 23 years. He was a native of Canada. Mr. St. Rock leaves his wife and ten children—Joseph Walter, Mrs. Ora Kerouack, Alexander, Jr., Mrs. Rose Beauregard, Florence, Dorothy, Henry and Irene, all of Wauregan, Mrs. Amadee Masse of Moosup and Mrs. Albert Cardinal of Danielson.

Following a supper at Grange hall in Brooklyn last evening, members of Brooklyn grange elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Master, Miss Laura M. Pike; overseer, Archie Ennis; lecturer, Mrs. Susie G. Williams; chaplain, Miss Helen M. Witter; secretary, Addie C. Hyde; treasurer, Joseph B. Stetson; steward, Theodore Anderson; assistant steward, W. F. House; gatekeeper, Elbra Baker, Ceres, Katherine Tinsley; Pomona, Florence Brenn; Flora, Viola Pakulis; lady assistant steward, Doris Evans. The officers are to be installed and take office during January.

Local radio fans are of varying opinion as to the merits of the new assignmen of wave lengths to broadcasters, but appear to be agreed on one thing—that perfection in the effort to keep stations from interfering with each other has not yet been attained. Since Sunday the radio enthusiasts have in a great many instances been engaged in "fishing," that is in hunting the new locations of their favorite stations on the dial. Here in Danielson reception is better from stations that formerly came in poorly, while in other cases where good reception was obtained there is no poorer reception, this due largely to assigning lower wave lengths to stations that have been higher up on the dial.

The case of Solvarius Hicks of Norwich originally assigned to come before the town court today has been advanced to Monday of next week at the request of Attorney Thomas M. Shields of Norwich, counsel for the accused. Hicks will come to court to answer to a charge that he was illegally transporting intoxicants when his car was stopped very early last Saturday morning at South Killingly by State Officer Donald J. Geddes. Twenty gallons of moonshine were found in the car.

Promoter Frank Barber said today that uncertainty remains as to whether further boxing cards will be arranged for Danielson during the remainder of the fall season or for the winter period. The card of bouts held here a few weeks ago, though drawing a good house, proved unprofitable in sufficient degree to warrant further such ventures, it is said. More bouts may be staged if some way to cut the overhead expense can be found.

RABBIT TURNS ON MAN AND CHASES HIM TO CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 13—It has become an axiom that if a dog bites a man, the matter is incidental, but if a man bites a dog, that's news. Likewise, there is nothing unusual about a man trailing a rabbit and shooting it, but when a hunter shoots at a rabbit, misses it and it turns and chases him, that begins to border on headline material. Something akin to this has just happened near here. The story has to do with the rabbit hunt of two prominent residents of Danielson. A rabbit was encountered on a dirt highway in Brooklyn. One of the hunters left the luxurious car in which the men had gone a-hunting and, first and last, fired four shots at Bunny, none of them taking effect. Finally the rabbit turned and ran toward the man, who ran toward the car. In behalf of the man it is safe to say it explained that he ran because he was out of shells and was hurrying to get more out of the car, and that the rabbit faced after him because a charge of shot timed at it landed just ahead of the little animal and threw dirt in its face, frightening it most grievously. In any event, the animal escaped and henceforth will be real chary of exposing itself to the gun of a fertile executive.

Today Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank, Mrs. Bard, Mrs. Ella Lathrop and Miss Laura M. Pike, left by motor en route to Washington, D. C., where they are to attend sessions of the National grange. At Bridgeport they are scheduled to join the Connecticut delegation of about 200 members. They are to be away a week.

The dinner served the members of the Windham County Agricultural society at Brooklyn last Saturday was arranged by the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church in that place.

George Whitney of North Grosvenordale, a man who does considerable hunting in territory not distant from Danielson, and his dog probably hold the eastern Connecticut record for taking racecoons during the present season. To date they have taken 20 of the animals, getting ten in two nights and four out of one tree. The dog, about six or seven years old, has been in at the killing of 115 racecons.

In Danielson stove coal is selling this November at 50 cents a ton less than the price per ton in November of last year, the rate now being $15.50.

This week witnesses the beginning of the operation of clearing away the ridges of surplus material lining the shoulders of the new Danielson-Brooklyn highway on the West Side.

A reminder that winter cannot be far away is the fact that employes of the state highway department are putting snow fences in place at locations where they to be found along state highways in this section during the cold weather season.

Miss Frances Weld Danielson of Danielson will be one of the leaders at the Connecticut State Sunday school convention to be held in Norwich November 21, 22, 23.

The general exchange of pastors of eastern Windham county churches announced some time since is to take place next Sunday. Upwards of a score of churches are included in the arrangement.

During yesterday afternoon there was a formal program at Killingly High school in observance of Armistice day. An address was delivered by Rev. Albert Abbott, and there was a musical program. Members of the high and junior high schools were in the assembly.

Considerable progress had been made up to this afternoon with the annual roll call of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross. The house to house canvass for memberships is now well under way.

Miss Katherine D. Aylward was in New London today attending a meeting of officials and chief operators of the S. N. E. Telephone company.

Wednesday afternoon of this week the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church is to meet with Mrs. William Hallowell of Prospect street.

Mrs. Oswald Street, of Broad street, a patient at the Day Kimball hospital for some time past, is reported as making steady progress toward recovery.

PUTNAM

JUDGE GEISSLER FINES 33 MEN FOR GAMBLING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 13—The largest session ever held in Putnam police court was witnessed this morning when the patrons of the Putnam Bowling alleys and the proprietor, Wilfred J. Benoit, were arraigned before Judge Geissler on charges of gaming. Thirty-three in all answered the summons and only one was missing from the list when the roll was completed.

The first to take the stand was Wilfred J. Benoit of Ravine street, Putnam, owner and operator of the bowling alleys on Front street. Benoit was charged with owning and operating a place of vice and gaming. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100 and costs of $13.14.

Judge Geissler next ordered the hearings of the "sports", who were assembled in a body. Wallace Jones of School street was the first to appear. He pleaded guilty to a gaming charge and was fined $5.00. He was followed by 32 others: William LeClair, Main street, Putnam; Jack Gagne, Putnam; Clayton Jones, Putnam; James Lyons, Thomas Lyons, Lionel Auger, Fred St. Onge, Samuel Alli, Charles King, James Smith, Joseph Harra, Seit Piluri, Muridin Gulegnam, Louis Lombardo, E. A. Rene, Al Ryan, Edward King, George Clark, Harry Gifford, Vincent Girardi, Patsy Bulle, Anca Beaucollel, Peter Sears, James McCarry, George Bates, Clarence Adams, Antonio Belair, Eddie Marquais, Clement Brooks; Fred Webster and Arthur Ellery, all pleaded guilty to the charge of gaming and paid fines of $5.00 each.

Capt. of Police Jarvis said this morning that the session this morning was one of the largest ever made in Putnam and involved more prisoners than any other case.

Benoit was ordered by Judge Geissler to close his place of business as his license to operate a billiard and pool room would be suspended within a few days.

Luke Champaine of Main street was also arraigned before Judge Geissler charged with breach of peace and intoxication. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $10 and costs of court.

Land that would make an excellent public park for the city of Putnam will be offered soon at public auction by the E. M. Harris and Buck associates. The land is a large tract situated on Oak Hill overlooking the city and is wooded with an oak grove. Since announcement was made several weeks ago that it would be placed in the market several interested citizens have attempted to interest the city in taking the property over and developing a park.

Putnam's only public park is now located on Pomfret street and is a green stretch of land bordering the Quinebaug river at the beautiful Cargill Falls. This was recently accepted by the citizens at a special city meeting and was turned over to the city by the trustees of the Cargill park on a quit claim deed. Putnam, according to many of its citizens would be performing a community duty if such a tract of land would be acquired for a public park.

A death in the city Monday morning was that of Mrs. Elizabeth M. White of West Thompson who died at the Day Kimball hospital following a brief illness. Mrs. White was 56 years of age. She was born in New Brunswick but had lived the greater part of her life in Connecticut. She is survived by her husband Thomas M. White of West Thompson.

Capt. Jarvis of the Putnam police left this morning for Brockton, Mass., where he will attend the funeral of his cousin Miss Eva Brousseau of that city, who died Monday morning. Miss Brousseau was a frequent visitor at the home of her relatives in Putnam and was well known in the city.

Memories of Nov. 11, 1925 were revived by the screening of the newsreel "Dedication of the Memorial Bridge" which took place three years ago and was marked by the largest celebration Putnam ever witnessed. The movies were shown last evening at the Bradley theatre by Manager James Mahoney. Within three short years three of Putnam's most widely known personalities who made possible the memorial bridge have passed away. They are A. Newton Vaughn, former Putnam business man, Jacob Alpert, former Putnam theatre manager and Rev. Charles F. Bedard, late pastor of St. Mary's church. It seemed as though every resident of Putnam arranged to be within reach of the camera on that memorable day as the phrase "There I am," continued to ring through the house while the photos were being shown.

Chief of Police Thomas Mitchell of Gilbertville, Mass., was a Putnam visitor Monday. Chief Mitchell was formerly a member of the Connecticut state police and was instrumental in clearing up some of the crimes in Windham county.

Early indications are that a lengthy court battle will be waged in Putnam on Thursday morning when Judge Edward M. Yeomans opens a special session of superior court to determine who will receive the $1,000 reward offered by the governor of Connecticut to the person or persons giving information that led to the arrest and conviction of Roland G. Lalone and Albert J. Raymond, "Ice Box" bandits and slayers of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson of Danielson barracks at Pomfret on the night of April 6.

As there are several claimants for the rewards and all seem to have a right to a portion of the amount, it is thought that some will be highly disappointed in the decision. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford has made no statement regarding the session of court. Each claimant will be given an opportunity to state his facts to the court and the purse will either be awarded to one or will be divided if need be. At present the leading contenders are Motorcycle Officer Raymond P. Gallagher of the Springfield police department, who identified the bandits as the men who shot at him a few hours before the fatal shooting of Danielson's officer; Thomas L. Martin, sub-patrolman of Webster police department, who claims to have obtained information that put the police on the Worcester trail, and Harold Lester of Willimantic, boy gasoline filling station attendant who identified both Lalone and Raymond as the youths who purchased gas at his station. There are also two Worcester detectives and a Springfield business woman who are claiming the reward offered by the chief executive of the state.

Louis Walker of North Grosvenordale, was injured Monday afternoon while at his work in the machine shop of the Grosvenordale mills. His elbow came in contact with a revolving emery wheel and was badly scraped. After receiving medical attention he was sent to his home.

Mrs. Henry N. Benoit of Church street left last week for the Lincoln Memorial hospital in Worcester where she will undergo observation for several weeks.

STATE PARKS ON SHORE

It is impossible to read the report of the Connecticut state park and forest commission concerning the season at Hammonasset beach without being convinced that it is admirably serving the needs of a large number of Connecticut people. When it is shown that there were 395,000 visitors there during the past season it becomes evident that its attractions are making a greater appeal each year.

According to the check which the commission has been able to keep on the visitors, it finds that the bulk of the visitors come from the center of the state, "the residents of the extreme eastern and western counties evidently finding the journey over the crowded roads of mid summer too long to enable them to make much use of this park for bathing."

In serving the shore requirements of the center of the state there can be no doubt of the attractions which prevail at Hammonasset beach. As a state owned beach it is open to the public, large numbers even using the camping privileges, and no better demonstration of the appreciation of such a state park could be asked than is furnished by the attendance figures. It was expected to meet a long felt want and there can be no doubt but what it is doing it.

How long will it be before there is a similar state park along the shore for the benefit of the general public in the eastern part of the state? Such a public beach has been advocated. Sites have been pointed out and it is understood that the commission is favorable to such action being taken that will give those in the eastern part of the state who find it too far to drive to Hammonassett beach similar accommocations nearer home. It is needed and as time goes on it is bound to become a much more expensive proposition than it is now.

When it is realized how many restrictions are being placed about the beaches where the public has been accustomed to go and the difficulties which are faced in getting to the shore for a picnic or for bathing, the appeal for a state park on the shore in eastern Connecticut is by no means far fetched.

NEW ENGLAND'S POSSIBILITIES

Much study is bound to be given to the pamplet which has been issued by the department of commerce as the result of its survey of business conditions in New England which has been made in cooperation with the New England council. This pamphlet deals with The External Trade of New England and it shows that our importations amount to six times our exports. It furthermore shows where they come from and the quantities.

The survey simply confirms what has been known although it sets down facts in black and white and with a definiteness which has not previously been available. It deals with volume of commodities rather than value but it pictures a situation about which New England may well sit up and take notice.

We have long known that this part of the country was rich in water power and that it has been going to waste in great volume every year, and yet more than half of the tonnage of goods brought into New England is represented by coal.

We also know that Connecticut and other New England states are big importers of lumber. The survey shows that it comes from the south and the northwest, with the state of Washington furnishing more than any other state during the year covered in the report. And yet it is no secret that this and the other states in New England have wonderful opportunities for utilizing waste land for growing trees and engaging in reforestation in such a way as to supply a greater part of the demand through home production.

California supplies the greatest amount of fruit brought into this part of the country in comparison with other states. There is much fruit that cannot be raised in New England. Our climate doesn't permit it, but there are nevertheless great opportunities for increasing New England fruit production if they were but realized. We import much that can and should be raised here in the way of fruit such as apples and peaches.

Efforts to arouse New England to a realization of its opportunities have been many. The survey by the department of commerce and the New England council should do much to help send home the facts in this respect.

DEADLY GAS FROM AUTOS

We are getting to that season of the year when it is much more comfortable to tinker about an automobile in a closed garage than out of doors, when it is preferable as a matter of comfort to warm up the engine of the car or to try it out with the door shut.

Something more than comfort needs to be taken into consideration in this connection. There is the question of safety which is of greater importance. Sight should not be lost of the fact that when an automobile engine is run in a closed garage it gives off a deadly poison in the form of carbon monoxide gas which works quickly and positively. Death may occur before it is realized that danger is being encountered.

There is only one thing to do if an automobile engine is to be run inside a garage and that is to open wide the door in order that there may be a full volume of air to counteract the deadly exhaust. There is no sense in thinking that any danger can be detected and an escape made before being overcome. Apparently there are some who have either taken that view or else have failed to recall the experience of others. They have tempted fate and they have lost. They have faced risks and paid the penalty. They have taught valuable lessons to others by their sacrifices and their untimely deaths should serve as a sufficient warning to others.

It isn't necessary to run an engine in a garage, especially if it is a small one, but a few minutes without realizing the unpleasantness of the fumes. That in itself should serve as a reminder of what to expect if it is allowed to go on. It should operate to cause the person to either get out into the open or to open the door and let in the fresh air.

Unfortunately it seems to be a much demonstrated bit of human weakness to fail to take home to oneself the experience of others. Accidents of the same kind are repeated over and over, conduct on the highway that means serious trouble isn't stopped because others are killed or injured by it and too frequent are the reports of those who died in closed garages from carbon monoxide.

MECHANICALLY FIT CARS

At the coming session of the general assembly it is already being hinted by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel that legislation may be sought for the purpose of regulating the sale or use of automobiles which b yreason of extensive wear and tear have possibly become unsafe for traffic participation.

This is by no means a new idea but as the commissioner says it has taken some time to get it to the point where it is believed public sentiment favors it.

What the commissioner has in mind is the "junk" car, the car which may easily be a menace to the users of the highway because of its condition. It doesn't appear that Mr. Stoeckel has taken the attitude of forcing people to buy new cars when it can be shown that other cars are fit for use, but after a car has been run for a certain length of time he believes that there should be thorough inspection and the suggestion which he makes is that used cars should be subjected to rigid inspection. This would mean a much closer supervision of the whole second hand car problem.

What he has to say about the unsightly automobile graveyards will also command much interest in those localities where they exist. This situation is one which has awakened much comment. Frequent are the expressions against them as being a greater blot on an otherwise attractive lanscape than many of the things which have been forbidden.

It is to be realized that the state already directs what must be provided in the way of equipment for a car in order to insure the greatest highway safety. It is only natural that this this should be so extended as to insist upon all cars being in fit mechanical condition. It means protection for the occupants of the cars as well as highway traffic in general.

RUMANIA'S NEW PREMIER

Once again eyes are turned to Rumania as cabinet changes are made and a chance is given to the peasant party to demonstrate what it can do in the way of administering the government. This is a chance which has long been sought and considering the numbers it is one that is deserved. Likewise it would appear that from the manner in which the affairs of that country have been guided in the past there is need for such a change.

There is no question as to the ability and integrity of Julius Maniu, who has been called to the premiership. He is given the opportunity to direct affairs after others have apparently made a bad mess of it, and in assuming his task and forming his cabinet he creates the belief that he is going to conduct a thorough housecleaning. In order to get the right cooperation he favors placing those upon whom he can rely in office. In view of the job ahead of him and what has occurred in the past he is taking a common sense course.

If corruption has been going full swing that is the way in which to call a halt. It is important that those who can be trusted be placed in positions of responsibility. It is the chance for which the peasant party leader has long been looking and he must so chart his course as to get every possible assurance of support.

He must take action that will look to the stabilization of the currency of that country and he must provide for the deficit of $40,000,000 in current expenses in addition to which there is the foreign indebtedness which amounts to the total of $60,000,000.

The belief exists that Maniu is the logical man to tackle the situation in Rumania and it remains for him to justify that belief.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Safety zones are all right but there's nothing like your own back yard.

In view of the election result, can you imagine what the governor of South Carolina will say to the governor of North Carolina?

The country will now, of course, be spared a legal contest over the fact that it was impossible to agree upon reapportionment in congress during this decade.

Mr. Smith says he will not run for any more political offices. Hasn't he said that before and didn't Franklin Roosevelt insist that he would not accept the nomination for the governor of New York?

MR. QUEERIE HAILS A MASTER

"Bob, will you mail this letter for me?" Dot whisked an envelope from the desk and handed it to her husband.

"Sure." He took it, looked at the address and then turned his attention to his wife's clouded countenance. "What's the matter, Twinkles?"

"Madge Railsback is passing through here the last of the month. I had a note from her. It was merely a hint for me to invite her to stop off with us again. Dear me, a worn-out dress you can stick in a rug bag and forget, but what can you do with a worn-out acquaintance who keeps dangling on forever?"

"Ditch her," Bob was emphatic. "That's easy to say. But how?"

"I'll bet if I felt that way about anybody, I'd not ask her," Bob answered.

"Yes, you would. Under the same circumstances you'd know you must invite her. Just as I do."

"If that's the way you feel, here goes." He pocketed the letter and departed.

Dot counted off the days on the calendar.

"I don't know why Madge chooses the last week of the month! April or May would be much more convenient for me, but she has always come in March, and I suppose she always will. That's another uncomfortable idiosyncrasy of her attachment for me. I suppose nothing short of an insult would sway her from her practice, and I'm not morally capable of that." Bob counted the time on his fingers.

"Ten days more and then our guest descends," he announced one evening at the supper table, and tossed his wife a crumb of a smile. The following night, "Well, there are nine more days of peace." And so on down, until the last finger had been grudgingly disposed of. They arrived at the point of discussing trains.

"She came in on the four forty-five last year," said Dot.

"Yes, but she sent a card telling you which one."

"She probably did the same this year, but there has been a new postman on our route, and I suppose he has stuck it in somebody else's box."

"Do you think I ought to meet the four forty-five?"

"I don't know. It hardly seems necessary, when you are not certain about the train. She could get a taxi."

"Sounds feasible. Let's leave it that way."

Bob came home early and found Dot in the kitchen, putting the finishing touches on a rather elaborate dinner.

"I'm so glad you are here," she said. "Maybe you can do something with the spare bedroom windows. All three of them stick. And while you are up there, see if you can find the key to the door. It seems to me she locks herself in when she sleeps." When he returned from these missions, Dot approached him again.

"Can you reach that old meat platter at the back of the top shelf in the kitchen cabinet? You know it belonged to my mother's Aunt Grace, and Madge's mother and my mother's Aunt Grace were friends. Madge is absurd over old things, and I always feel that she expects that platter to be in evidence somewhere. Now, I wonder if I've forgotten anything. She's likely to come any minute now."

But the minutes went by, and Madge did not appear. Bob and Dot waited and wondered, and warded off attacks of hunger by pilfering little snacks of food from the oven where the dinner was slowly drying up. At last Dot grew anxious.

"Bob, there's a time table in your overcoat pocket. Go and get it. We might make something out of that." Bob went off. A few moments later a muffled groan rolled Dot to the innermost recess of the hall closet, where she discovered her husband temporarily disconnected from the power of speech. Humility and contrition blanketed his countenance, and he appeared to be waiting any verdict that the occasion might demand.

Dot sensed the situation and surprised him with a laugh. Then she removed from his faltering hands, not the time table, but the unmailed invitation to Madge Railsback!—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Proper Rebuke to Norwich Hoodlums and Policeman

Mr. Editor: Will you please allow me a small space in your Morning Bulletin to speak about Norwich, as it is called, Rose of New England. From time to time there have been items in your paper telling people to come to your city for their shopping and enjoyments. Well, I am one of the many that have read those items, so last Friday evening, Nov. 9, a party of us from up here went down to see the show in the Broadway theatre. We had parked our car up on Broadway.

Now, Mr. Editor, this is a free country and people have a right to put on their car any sign they wish to. We have, I am proud to say, a Hoover plate on our car and as we left the theatre and went to step into our car four young men (they cannot be called gentlemen), came up to us and said, "Take that —— sign off your car." I cannot put down the terrible word they used, and right behind them was a police officer. I spoke to him and said, "It is too bad people cannot come here without being insulted," and that officer did not even answer, just walked along and did not even speak to the hoodlums. It was just 10:15 and if that officer is a sample of what the Rose of New England was for a police force they must surely be proud of their police.

Those that do not like our president-elect, I suppose they will leave this country when he does go into office. Well, let's hope they do, we will be well rid of them. If the people of our good old United States did not want Mr. Hoover and did not think he was worthy of being president he would not have been elected, so as it is the choice of the people, his name should be respected. If the way we were treated Friday evening at 10:15 is the way people are welcomed to come and spend their money in Norwich, our party will spend it elsewhere in the future.

Yours for fair play,
A PLAINFIELD SUBSCRIBER.

Stories That Recall Others

He Could Do It

The teacher was quite vexed at her "eighth grade pest" on account of his dirty hands. She held up one of them before the class and said to the boy: "If you can find another hand in this room as dirty as this one I'll not punish you this time."

The boy just held up his other hand and saved the day.

For Protection

Little Evelyn, age three, much interested in her mother's sewing, noticed she had not put on her thimble. When her mother stopped her work for a moment, Evelyn looked up and said: "What's the matter mother, did you stick or hurt yourself with the needle? You better put your funnel on."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—When President Coolidge retires to private life next March, he will have had six years of experience in what has come to be an angle of life at the White House that takes up a lot of presidential time. That is the business of posing for movie and still cameras.

Never before has a president been so thoroughly pictured to the world as Coolidge. There is a film record of him that would make a history without words of his administration. And he has disclosed, also, a keen interest in the stage business of these appearances. He has ideas of his own as a movie director on what the arrangement of background, grouping and actions of principals and the like should be to give the best results. Generally speaking, Coolidge has always been ready to go through a scene a second time if necessary for the pictorial biography that was in the making.

Coolidge Talkie-Shy

With introduction of the "talkies" to the movie world, however, there was apparent at once considerable more reluctance to pose on the president's part. It is conceivable that he felt it out of keeping with his habitual verbal caution to appear suddenly to the movie-going public as a light chatterer of the films. Also, it is considerably more trying, of course, to pose for the talkies. A lot of preliminary arrangements and tests are necessary and all this is boresome to the subject of a two-dimension picture.

The difference in the Coolidge attitude toward silent pictures and talkies was sharply emphasized when the camera men assembled at the White House in legions to picture his farewell to Herbert Hoover just before election.

After their conference, the president and his distinguished guest strolled out to face the cameras in the beautiful setting of the south front of the White House. They came down a path and as they neared the clicking battery of movie cameras someone called a request that the president get a little action into the scene. He turned smilingly to Hoover, then gestured toward the White House as though inviting his party's presidential nominee to take possession on his return from California. It was a nice touch and Mr. Coolidge's own idea.

President "Ad Libs"

Then the talkie crew took over the job. There was a lot of testing and calling of directions before Coolidge and Hoover were told to "go ahead." They exchanged farewell greetings and the president wished the candidate a safe journey to California. But another test showed their voices had been too low pitched to make an adequate record. The whole business was to do over again, and right there Coolidge amiability broke down. He plainly felt that once was enough, and it looked as though there would be no talkie record of the event until a belated and breathless "still" photographer arrived. Mr. Coolidge promptly decided that this late comer also should have a chance and then yielded to the retaking of the talkie film.

And it was not until that second talkie shot was in the making that the president added to his exchange with Hoover the wish for the Californian's "safe return," presumably to occupy the White House, that got so much "play" in the newspapers at the time.

The Boy and the Gun

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Things with pain and sorrow fraught
Are often done in name of sport.
—Old Mother Nature.

Rusty the Fox Squirrel had left behind him the lake on which he had had his great adventure. He was still hunting for a place where there would be promise of food enough to last all winter. He was getting tired of traveling. He had had enough of it. But so far he hadn't been able to find the food supply. So there was nothing to do but to keep on. It certainly had been a bad year for nuts over a great deal of territory.

One morning Rusty came to a little group of trees. It was a little grove. There were hickory trees among them and he found a few scattered hickory nuts. They were the first hickory nuts he had found since he started on his journey. Perhaps you can guess how good they tasted to him. He was sitting up in a tree eating one and so happy that he had forgotten everything but his enjoyment. He didn't hear dry leaves below him rustling. He didn't hear the snap of a dead twig. Spang! Something knocked a nut right out of his paws. Rusty had such a fright that he nearly fell from his perch. Yes, sir, he nearly fell from his perch. Spang! Something struck the branch Rusty was sitting on. He sprang to the trunk of the tree and ran around to the other side. Then he peeped around cautiously.

Down Below was a boy in his hands was a gun

Down below was a boy, and in his hands was a gun. It wasn't one of those dreadful guns that spit fire and make a loud noise. This one made very little noise, but it shot bullets just the same. It was an air gun—the kind of a gun that boys delight to have.

The boy was peering up excitedly. When he saw Rusty peeking around from behind the trunk of the tree, the boy took careful aim. Spang! The bullet hit the tree right under Rusty's nose. You should have seen him dodge back. This time he scrambled higher and tried to hide in the treetop. The boy walked around below. Every time he caught a glimpse of Rusty he would put that gun to his shoulder. Spang! would come a bullet. Poor Rusty! He tried another tree. The boy and the dreadful rifle followed him. You see, in none of those trees was there a hollow big enough for a Fox Squirrel to hide in. The only thing he could do was to keep the trunk of the tree between him and the boy with that horrid gun.

At last, when Rusty was near the top of the tallest tree, one of those bullets hit him. My, how it did sting! It tore his coat so that he bled just a little. It wasn't anything serious, but it was painful. That is the trouble with those air rifles. There was small chance that at that distance a bullet would kill Rusty, but bullets could sting and hurt at that distance, as Rusty had already found out.

After that, Rusty was more careful than ever to keep the trunk of the tree he happened to be in between himself and the boy. He had to peek around to keep watch of that boy and of course every time he did this he took some chance. One of those bullets might hit him in the eye. Poor Rusty! He was badly frightened. The place where he had been hit ached. He couldn't see any chance to escape. It really was very dreadful for Rusty.

Meanwhile, the boy was having a wonderful time. He imagined himself a mighty hunter. Every time he made a good shot he was mightily pleased with himself. Yet that boy wasn't a hard-hearted boy. He was just a thoughtless boy. He didn't understand. It didn't occur to him that a squirrel would feel pain just as he would. He didn't think of Rusty as suffering dreadful fright as well as pain. He, himself, was having sport and that was all he thought of.

YOUR HEALTH

THREE HEARTY MEALS A DAY—DON'T FORCE THE CHILD!

By Douglas A. Thom, M. D., Boston.

The worry and anxiety on the part of parents about a feeding problem in a child is quite natural, because lack of a desire for food generally is associated in their own lives with physical illness. They have been taught that each and every child should receive three hearty meals a day, and more recently that every meal should contain exactly so many calories of fat, sugars and proteins. The importance of weight and height, and rigid standardization of these physical factors have perhaps been overemphasized. With extreme emotional concern about feeding the child, therefore, they often resort to methods of meeting the difficulty that tend to exaggerate and to perpetuate the very problem they are trying to solve.

The first and most important step in overcoming a feeding difficulty is to have the child carefully examined so as to eliminate all physical causes. After this step has been carried out, one can use the following procedure with confidence of success: When there is no evidence of physical disease, the physician generally finds that it is not the amount of food the child has taken into his system that is the real problem, but rather the way he takes it, the time he takes it, and the kind of food he wants.

Invariably this type of child is not suffering from malnutrition. Many such children are actually overweight from the liberal intake of candy and other sweets that they get between meals and outside the home.

The real problem is mother's emotional attitude toward the child at the meal hour. Now many of these overanxious mothers start out by telling Johnny he must eat his lunch because he did not have any breakfast, forgetting that he came in for a piece of bread and butter and a glass of milk hardly an hour before, and perhaps quite unaware that he had some candy or an ice cream cone during the interval between breakfast and lunch. Johnny is not hungry. He openly rebels and listens disinterestedly while his mother threatens, coaxes, bribes, sheds tears, gets angry and finally sits down and feeds the child.

One of the fundamental strivings of the child is his desire for power and this little scene enacted three times each day gives him a wonderful opportunity to exercise it. Without any loss to himself, he gets all the satisfaction of being in the center of the stage for an hour or more and gets his food in the bargain.

Place before the child small amounts of simple and atractively served food. Make no comments about his poor habit of eating. Make no threats, give up all appeals. After 30 minutes have expired, take the food away and, as far as possible, see that he gets nothing to eat until the next meal. Do not be disappointed if he refuses the next few meals or only eats sparingly. His own discomfort will act as the motive for the development of desirable habits of eating, in any child that is not physically sick.

The parent simply needs courage, patience and conviction that she is in charge of the situation.

A. W. BUCHANAN RESIGNS AS AGENT OF STATE BOARD

An official who has come to Norwich every Thursday for years from his home at Mansfield Center, Archibald W. Buchanan, has resigned as agent of the state board of education, an office which he has held for fifteen years. At a meeting of the state board October 10th, Mr. Buchanan's resignation was reluctantly accepted to take effect November 1st. The board, in a letter from Dr. A. B. Meredith, particularly called attention to the faithful and effective service rendered the state during these years by Mr. Buchanan and noted that in his many contacts with parents and children he has been "a true friend and wise counsellor."

Mr. Buchanan has been officially connected with the schools of Mansfield for forty-nine years and has also served as one of the most active directors of the Mansfield Library and as its president. At a meeting of his associates among the agents of the state board Mr. Buchanan was presented a beautiful Masonic watch charm. He does not plan to retire from active life but will continue other lines of business which require less constant attention.

Ends All Signs Of Filthy Dandruff

Best Way To Prevent Baldness

Filthy dandruff in your hair and on your shoulders is as conspicuous as a red flag. Dandruff always irritates the scalp, strangles the hair and makes it fall out—as millions of baldheads can tell you.

DUWELLS MAKE APPEAL FOR BARREL BURNING

An appeal is made by the Duwell A. A. to the public spirited citizens of the town to give their utmost in making the community barrel burning under the auspices of the Duwell A. A. Thanksgiving evening the success that it is hoped it will be.

Since barrel burning in recent years has become more or less outlawed it was felt by the association that to continue the age-old custom of barrel burning on Thanksgiving night by making an appeal for boxes and barrels would uphold the tradition of the town, and give to the folks that which is almost as essential to the Norwichite as the turkey dinner.

If the factories or stores for individuals have any boxes, barrels or in fact anything burnable on hand the club would greatly appreciate it if they would call Mr. Spaulding at 3070 and a truck will collect the material. Anything, no matter how small, will be acceptable. Much work must be done before Thanksgiving and it is earnestly hoped by the officials of the club that the citizens will co-operate with the Duwell A. A. as well as they have in any other of the club's community events.

Funeral services were held for Mary Podolska Tuesday morning from her home, 22 High street at 8.30 o'clock followed by a requiem high mass in St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox church at 9 o'clock where Rev. Fr. Wladimere conducted the mass.

Friends acted as bearers. The flowers were beautiful. Burial took place in St. Nicholas cemetery where Rev. Father Wladimere conducted the committal service at the grave. There were many relatives and friends present from Central Falls, Mass., Hartford, New York, Springfield and Jewett City. Mrs. Podolska leaves her husband and two daughters.

WEDDING

Hall-White

Miss Marion E. White, daughter of Mrs. Mabel S. White and the late E. Frank White of North Stonington, was married on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Sidney Gillette Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kellogg Hall of Preston Plains. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's brother, Frank W. White in North Stonington and was performed by Rev. George W. Clark, pastor of the Preston City Congregational church. The single ring service was used.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Allen S. Griswold of West Hartford. She wore a gown of biege georgette and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Harriet E. White and Miss Florence S. White, sisters of the bride. They were gowned in brown silk crepe and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was Kenneth Hall of Middletown, cousin of the groom.

About 35 guests, immediate relatives of the bride and groom, were present, coming from Middletown, Stonington, East Lyme, Preston, Ledyard, West Hartford, Mystic, New London and New Britain in this state and from Framingham and Cochessett, Mass.

The house was charmingly decorated under the direction of Miss Florence Woodward, art instructor in the New Britain Normal school, an aunt of the bride, autumn leaves ferns and yellow, white and bronze chrysanthemums being used.

The bride is a graduate of Wheeler school and of Smith college. For the past three years she has taught at St. Helen's hall, Portland, Oregon. Mr. Hall is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and is the master of New London County Pomona Grange.

Following the wedding luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Hall left for a journey to Washington, D. C., where they will attend the meetings of the National Grange.

After January first they will be at home to their many friends in their new house on Preston Plains.

GRANGE PRESENTS TREES TO BISHOP SCHOOL

Two fine rock maple trees presented to the Bishop school by Norwich grange, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, were planted in the yard at the school Tuesday morning at 10.15 with appropriate exercises by the pupils and the attendance of several officers of the grange.

The pupils all assembled in the yard where the program began with the singing of America. This was followed by a recitation by the sixth grade, "What Do We Plant When We Plant A Tree?" after which the first, second and third grades sang "Come Little Leaves," the fourth and fifth grades recited Joyce Kilmer's poem "Trees," and Betty Lamphere recited a poem, "Shade."

Mrs. Ida Richardson, past master of Norwich grange and on the home economics committee of the state grange, then presented the trees to the school and they were planted by Albert W. Lillibridge state senator-elect, who is worthy master of the grange and had donated the trees for presentation to the school. He was assisted by Herbert L. Richardson, Chaplain Charles E. Ellis and Assistant Steward Thurston Lillibridge as well as by the boys of the seventh grade.

Billy Bowers expressed the thanks of the school for the gift of the trees and the exercises closed with "The Star Spangled Banner."

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG WHEN HIT BY AUTO

While Audrey, Percival, 6, who lives in Gales Ferry, was waiting at Gales Ferry-Four Corners Monday afternoon to take a bus to go to New London to see the Armistice day parade she was struck by an automobile driven by Thomas Sweeney of Uncasville. She is a patient at the Backus hospital with a broken left leg and thigh and numerous lacerations about the body.

The child and several others were waiting with Miss Hulbert a school teacher at Gales Ferry. As the Sweeney machine approached from the direction of New London, it was reported that the little girl started across the highway without warning and was struck by the rear fender of the machine.

Returns From Toronto

W. C. Brinkman, engineer for the Tidewater Paperboard company, has returned after a six weeks' stay in Toronto, Canada, where he has been in connection with the starting of the new power plant of the Canadian Paperboard company.

SCHOOL BOARD ORGANIZES FOR YEAR; W. F. LESTER AGAIN ELECTED PRESIDENT

Mrs. Marian Gaylord Atwell of New York city spoke for the second time before the members of the Women's City club at the Wauregan hotel Tuesday evening on current events and again was most interesting, holding the rapt attention of her audience throughout her address. Her talk had largely to do with the causes that led to the defeat of Governor Smith in the presidential election, after which she concluded with brief remarks upon various other events that have been in the public eye including the Kellogg peace pact, the Nicaraguan election, and the naval pact.

Mrs. Atwell spoke in part as follows regarding the election: "It was a great victory. As you come to realize the campaign was too long. It comes too often. It was a remarkable campaign in one or two instances. Only a week before the election all over the country there was a feeling of uncertainty. The betting was four to one in favor of Mr. Hoover. Later, nevertheless, there was in the minds of the leaders of both parties a feeling of uncertainty. What was the cause of the uncertainty? Largely it was the great accession of new voters. There were millions of new voters who had never voted before. Then there was the shifting of votes. And so the uncertainty prevailed up to a week ago. After the election we read the news of the great republican victory. Then we realized that it couldn't have been anything else. Yet only a few hours before that there was that great feeling of uncertainty.

"What were the causes that led to the defeat of Gov Smith? There is no one cause to which his defeat can be attributed. One of the causes was prosperity. All of the republican speakers stressed that issue including Hoover, Hughes and Borah. There is no doubt that that had a great influence upon the voters, in spite of the unemployment that was a great element. The country as a while is truly prosperous with the exception of certain spots.

"The second cause was prohibition. The Volstead act is not kept. New York does not approve of the Volstead act and does not keep it. It is the same in all the big cities in the country, but the country as a whole is dry. The Volstead act is there to stay in the constitution. Anybody living in the big cities knows that the conditions that prevailed there in pre-prohibition days are in tremendous contrast to the present day. There are fewer drunks on the streets now in the big cities. It is very unusual to see drunks on the streets in New York at present while in the old days many were seen on the streets. The public opinion has come to the belief that prohibition is a good thing. In the past some republicans have been wet and some dry. Now the republican party stands for the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. It is up to the republican party to enforce it. If they are true to their principles they will.

"The third cause was Tammany. This has rather a black name. I have been told by people who know Tammany that it is a far more honest machine than the republican machine in Philadelphia or Chicago. I have heard that there is a pretty good machine in Connecticut. That it is pretty well managed and piled. The Tammany machine has become quite different from the days of old. It does a lot of good for the good people of New York. There is a lot of good work done by the Tammany machine. Mr. Smith is a Tammany product so Tammany entered the situation.

"Then there was another one. The fact that Mr. Hoover has saved the lives of little children in China and Poland has touched the hearts of the women. That humanitarian aspect of the republican candidate had a lot to do with the defeat of Governor Smith.

"Then there was the religious element. That is not a pleasant thing to talk about." Mrs. Atwell read from an article written by Theodore Roosevelt in which he set forth that no discrimination should be shown. "There was a prejudice against Mr. Smith," said Mrs. Atwell, "because of his belief."

"Will Rogers who sums it all up gives one reason for the defeat of Gov. Smith and that was because he was a democrat. This is a republican country. We never elect a democrat unless something happens to the republicans. We elected Wilson because of the split in the republican party. The democratic party is coming over to the republican side. The two parties are coming together so that we are having one party. So many say that the time has come for the two parties to lie down and let two other parties be in the limelight. Now that is what Norman Thomas thought. The hope of Thomas was that the party which he headed would be the nucleus around which a great party would grow.

"Now we are facing four years with President-elect Herbert Hoover. Hoover had a real inspiration to take a battleship and go to South America. They are doing very well down there. They send their deligates to Washington and yet underneath the souls of the South Americans there lurks a distrust of America. They admire us, fear us a little bit and don't think we are fair. They don't like our patronizing tone. We want to do good, we want to be friendly. Somehow we don't know how to do it. This idea of Hoover's is the best thing he possibly could have done.

"There was another election. This was at Nicaragua with 365 Americans supervising the election. This is the tenth election Uncle Sam has supervised out of his territory. The election was perfectly orderly."

After brief remarks upon the breaks in the cabinets in Rumania and France and the naval pact Mrs. Atwell offered the audience an opportunity to ask questions.

Birthday Surprise Party

A surprise party for the 20th birthday of William LaFleur of this city was given Saturday evening at the home of Miss Eleanor Belanger of Baltic.

Those present were William LaFleur, George Waye, James DiGangi, Benjamin Hall, Ernest Ferrygasta, and Philip Chenette of Norwich; James Nelson and Fred Dugas of Versailles; Herbert Richards, Theodore Benoub, Jerry Jabot and Charles Richards of Occum; William Kelly and Peter Raymond of Taftville; Lawrence Allard, Edward Sullivan, Harvey Rodeau, Cleo Morin, Peter Barnes, Harold Andrews, Philip Dubuime and Francis Blanchette of Baltic; Laureita LaFleur of Norwich; Eva and Anita Dugas of Versailles; Eva Tetreault of Hanover; Rita and Agnes Jodoin of Plainfield; Hilda Rondeau, Anna LaFleur, Jeanette Robitaille, Lucy Duff, Clair Duff, Blanche Mason, Emelda Charron and Eleanor Belanger of Baltic. Luncheon was served for 40. An exhibition in singing and dancing was given by James Nelson of Versailles. Violin selections were played by George Waye and James DiGangi of Norwich. Many games were played during the enjoyable evening.

CRASHED INTO FOUR CARS; DRUNKEN DRIVER FINED

Charles Bercume of Groton pleaded guilty in the Waterford town court Monday to the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs, which were paid for him late Tuesday afternoon by his sister.

Bercume was arrested Sunday night at Quaker Hill by State Trooper Bernard Kenerson, who had been sent out from the state police barracks in Groton to intercept him.

He was driving towards New London from this city on the night of his arrest. His automobile had crashed into three other machines before he reached Quaker Hill. His car had not been extensively damaged and he failed to stop, speeding onward toward New London. At Quaker Hill, however, his automobile crashed into a car operated by Charles Fountain of this city and Bercume was unable to proceed, for his automobile was damaged. The Buick sedan car had the running board and fenders on one side ripped off as the result of the crash.

The operators of the first three automobiles which were struck had telephoned the number of the registration plates on the offending automobile to the state police at Groton. The calls had come in intermittently, and surmising that there must be something not normal about the driver of the automobile which was crashing into other machines, the officer in command at the Groton barracks dispatched Trooper Kenerson to intercept him. The New London police were also on the lookout for the driver of the car.

Trooper Kenerson arrived at Quaker Hill shortly after the Bercume machine had crashed into the Fountain automobile, and, observing the condition of Bercume, he arrested him on the charge on which he was presented in court.

The drivers of the three machines which were struck were in court ready to testify against Bercume, but he pleaded guilty to the charge and the penalty was meted out by Judge Frederick N. Dimmock.

READ PAPER ON HOLBEIN BEFORE ART ASSOCIATION

The November meeting of the Norwich Art association was opened promptly on Monday evening in the Slater Hall Annex by the president, Miss Alice W. Cogswell. In the absence of Mrs. Goodyear, the secretary, her report of last meeting was read by Miss Mabel Talcott. The report of the treasury by Mrs. Frederick Sudlow showed almost $300 resources. Three new names were proposed for membership and unanimously accepted and the resignation of one former member was accepted with regret.

As the December meeting is to be a costume party, members were reminded not to come in modern attire.

Mrs. Dodge mentioned the exhibition to be held about two weeks hence by the drama section of the Women's City club, and then told of the great interest of the school children in the mythology talks by Mrs. F. W. Lester and their consequent intelligent estimation of the treasurer of the Slater museum. Suburban schools are more and more availing themselves of the loan collection of pictures.

Miss Alif Stevens, for the program committee, introduced Miss Anny L. Cogswell, whose recent visit in Europe qualified her to speak appreciatively of the portraits of the German painter, Hans Holbein.

Miss Cogswell read a carefully prepared paper and enlivened it by many humorous sallies. About twenty-five copies of Holbein's famous portraits had been placed upon screens and the audience was able to see somewhat of the wonderful ability of him who has been called the greatest of portrait painters, "a veritable genius in the portrayal of form and feature."

Born in Augsburg, about 1497, of an artist father, Holbein went to Basle when about seventeen years old and painted industriously in the style of that period which stressed Madonnas and church altar-pieces. Here he formed a friendship with the theologian Erasmus and when the great religious controversy came on, Erasmus urged Holbein to go to England. This proved a fortunate move, for he began his great career as portrait painter, painting Henry VIII, his many wives, and distinguished people of the court. In 1543, at the age of forty-six, Holbein fell a victim to the Great Plague.

At the close of her paper, Miss Cogswell made use of the lantern to show post card views of cities, castles and other places of interest connected with the life of Holbein.

NORWICH FRONTISPIECE IN MRS. ROOSEVELT'S BOOK

The town of Norwich has received a new honor. When Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her son, Kermit, completed "American Backlogs," the story of Gertrude Tyler and her family, (1660-1860)—Gertrude Tyler being the grandmother of Mrs. Roosevelt—the publishers were desirous of having a view of ancient Norwich to face the title-page. They applied to Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers, of Division street, who sent them nine different views. They have selected the picture of the harbor in 1849—one of the annual New Year calendars issued by the Norwich Bulletin.

American Backlogs is dedicated to "Gertrude Tyler Carow's family." It is an attractive volume of 286 pages in four parts, as follows: Part I—A Number of Tylers, Part II—Seafarers All, Part III—A Schoolgirl's Impressions of Paris Under the Second Empire, Part IV—The Quereaus (Carows).

The handsome illustrations include the frontispiece referred to, View of Norwich from the west side of the river in 1849; church in Brooklyn, Conn., built by Daniel Tyler 2nd; Mortlake Manor, Brooklyn, built by Daniel Tyler, 3rd; Lieut. Daniel Tyler in 1830; Gen. Daniel Tyler, of Norwich, Conn., at the time of the Civil war; Elizabeth Leighton, at the age of 13; the city of Ningpo from the river; Emily Lee Tyler, about 1848; entry of Napoleon III into Paris, Dec. 1852; "Gussie," Augustus Cleveland Tyler, aged 10 or 11; St. Nicholas Hotel, New York, 1852; Charles Carow and Gertrude Tyler at the time of their marriage; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Carow; model of the St. Paul, of the Kermit "Saint Line," about 1840; painting of the St. John, of the Kermit line, about 1846; Gertrude Tyler with her first child.

TALK ON THE STARS WITH PICTURES SHOWN

Astronomy talks in terms of superlatives, declared W. Tyler Olcott as he spoke Tuesday night in giving a lecture upon the stars before an audience that filled more than two-thirds of Slater hall. "There are superlatives in time, in distance, in light, in heat and in mystery," he said, "in the course of his very entertaining lecture which was given in connection with a showing of plates of photographs of the heavenly bodies taken at Mt. Wilson observatory in California. These are the property of the Association of Variable Star Observers, of which Mr. Olcott is a member, the lecture being arranged for under the auspices of Slater museum and no admission being charged.

Mr. Olcott was introduced by Mrs. Ozias Dodge, curator of the museum, and the stereopticon was operated by Louis H. Walden.

Mr. Olcott opened his talk with a description of the different kinds of telescopes, showing pictures of the great telescope at Mt. Wilson with its 100 inch reflector, and the lecturer gave an idea of the arduous work which the astronomer must face when he mentioned that these observatories on mountain peaks, where it is cold, cannot be heated but the observer must often spend many hours on duty, some exposures of plates for photographs lasting as long as ten or twelve hours.

Speaking of the incredible speed at which the heavenly bodies move, Mr. Olcott reminded his audience that during the hour in which he would speak the earth would be rushing forward 60,000 miles into space and it was this movement of the solar system in new spaces that provided some of the lure for the star observer, for he does not know at what moment he might not discover some new stars. The terms star and sun are synonomous, the lecturer said, that is, the sun is a star and all stars are suns which shine by their own light, while the planets and the earth shine by reflected light.

With this introduction, Mr. Olcott proceeded to show plates of the sun, pointing out sun spots, then plates of the sun at total eclipse, pointing out the corona and also hydrogen flames, which have been measured mounting to heights of from 100 to 300 thousands miles in height.

A series of views of the moon was especially interesting, showing the craters, the dry seas and mountain ranges with their deep valleys and sharp shadows. Views of Venus, Mars and Saturn were also shown, with others of comets and meteors and a wonderful series on the nebulae and areas of space studded with thousands of stars.

Mr. Olcott's instructive comment on the pictures made the evening most enjoyable and valuable for his hearers, who gave him enthusiastic applause as he concluded.

OVER 100 ATTEND ROTARY RELATIONS COMMITTEE DINNER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 13—With over 100 members and guests the agricultural relations committee of the Willimantic Rotary club held a very enthusiastic dinner meeting here tonight. Raymond A. Parker, president of the club presided and extended a hearty welcome to the guests. These meetings are for the purpose of establishing better understanding between the city population and their rural neighbors of the social and commercial problems. A number of interesting talks were given illustrating the various relations between country and city.

Walter Stemmons of Storrs injected considerable humor in establishing Willimantic's importance to a large trading area. He congratulated the city on its progressiveness and its attractions with reference to the appeal that the city holds over its neighboring 14 agricultural towns.

A. H. Benton of Andover gave the proportion of the poultry industry and the work being done by the Eastern Connecticut Poultry association, which was organized in February, 1923, and last year did a business of $172,000. The main objective of this cooperative movement is to provide quality of product and a year round market.

C. J. Abel of Lebanon gave an interesting outline of the great amount of business and the benefits to the farmer of the New England Milk Producers association.

Daniel C. Way of Hebron cited some touching examples experienced by him in his early work on behalf of boys and girls of the 4-H club, which was fostered by him some few years ago. He stated his belief that as a result of this early training of the youths in the application of business to farming the solution to the present farming problem is manifest.

Harold L. Storrs of Willimantic, gave a concise history of the grange, the largest farming organization in the world and explained its function and objectives.

Justice George E. Hitman, member of the Willimantic club in his talk on Our Club, extended the hand of fellowship of the business and professional men of the city through Rotary to the agricultural men of the farming empire.

Prof. C. B. Gentry of Storrs listed the various forms of rural education as they exist in the United States and Connecticut beginning from the 700 one room schools in Connecticut's agricultural districts and leading to Windham high school and Connecticut Agricultural college. He stated that the commonwealth was fortunate in having the services of well trained teachers and a character of supervision second to none in the nation. He reviewed the courses given at the college and their influence in the agricultural business of the coming generation.

S. McLean Buckingham, state commissioner of agriculture, made a strong plea for the application of business in farming and in this relation enumerated the various agencies provided by the federal and state governments to assist the farmer in making his endeavor a paying proposition. He called attention to the growing inter-dependence between the city and the country, this being brought about by the fact that farmers in specializing on certain productions are not as fully self-supporting as of a generation ago and that modern traveling conditions make access to the cities accessable to a point with city buying as a common occurrence. On their other hand the city people continue to depend upon the farmer for their produce and thus the interdependence has reached an almost equal scale. He spoke of the various associations for marketing, mentioning the Milk Producers association of Connecticut, which is one of the leaders in the United States for the amount of business done.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS TONIGHT WITH STAR ATTRACTION AT PLAINFIELD

Tonight's Lineup

| Plainfield | | Detroit |
|---|---|---|
| Brusso, f | | f, Beckman |
| Kasper, f | | f, Roxbury |
| Bernot, c | | c, Kellatt |
| Redding, g | | g, Bergen |
| Dissinger, g | | g, Franks |

Lovers of basketball begin their weekly trek to the Plainfield Community house tonight for the opening game of the season between the Plainfield Pros and Johnny Beckman's Detroit American league club. A better team to test the strength of the Plainfield club could not have been chosen as the Detroiters present one of the strongest lineups ever to step on the Plainfield court, second only to the Original Celtics who have just a shade on the Detroiters. The game will start at 9 o'clock and dancing will follow the contest.

In Johnny Beckman alone the fans will see the best forward known to basketball in action. Beckman, known as the Babe Ruth of basketball is the highest salaried player of the game in professional ranks today. Beckman has been sold several times and with each sale his purchase price mounts to high figures. Beckman as brilliant as he is will not be the whole show for there are four other men on the team who compare favorably with the star. Kellatt, the giant center, is one of the best pivot men in the game. He stands well over six feet and is extremely fast. When not engaged in basketball Kellatt is a baseball pitcher and played last season with the Newark club in the International league. Roxbury, Beckman's mate in the forward line is 'a suitable running mate for the shifty and flashing star. Mr Frank and Bergen, the Detroiters have a pair of clever défense men who guard closely yet are threats when in shooting distance of the basket. The Detroiters play practically the same kind of a game as the Celtics, a bewildering passing game with Beckman as the man to shoot the basket. Beckman has an uncanny eye for the basket, especially from the foul line as he is known as the leading scorer from the foul line in the country.

To combat this formidable array of talent Manager Salisbury has a well balanced and smooth working five. With Brusso and Kasper, the midget forwards in the forward line, he has a pair that will keep Bergen and Frank occupied the greater part of the evening. While Bernot will oppose Kellatt. Bernot has almost as big a reputation as Beckman having played in league basketball with many of the leading teams. Redding, a newcomer to the Plainfield lineup is taking the place of Mondi Normandin who is laid up with a sprained ankle. Redding's ability will be tested in tonight's fray. Roy Dissinger will probably be pitted against the mighty Beckman but local fans have little fear that Beckman will run up any high score as Dissinger is a brilliant guard.

In the preliminary game the Buddies meet the U. S. S. Camden champs at 7.30 o'clock. This game should be a hummer as the Buddies look even better than last season.

HORNSBY SIGNS CONTRACT WITH THE CHICAGO CUBS

CHICAGO, Nov. 13—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, erstwhile St. Louis Cardinal, New York Giant and Boston Brave, today became a member of the Chicago Cubs.

The "Rajah" of baseball, who has been with three clubs in three years, signed a contract said to be similar to the one he had with the Boston club. It has two years to run. President William L. Veeck of the Cubs declined to make public the salary figure but it is understood to be approximately $40,000 a year with a bonus for signing. Hornsby said he was pleased with the shift that brought him to the Cubs in a deal involving five players and money estimated at more than $150,000.

"I feel that I have been taken by a ball club that has a chance to win the pennant next season and I certainly intend to do all I can to bring about this happy result," said Hornsby.

BELGIAN TEAM LEADS BIKE RACERS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 13—(AP)—The Belgian-American team of Gerard Debactes and Reggie McNamara clung to its one-lap lead in the six-day bicycle race at the Coliseum tonight.

Franz Deulberg and Jimmy Waltheur, the German-American "kid" combination, were one lap behind. Franco Georgetti and Tony Beckman were third, two laps behind Debactes and McNamara.

Eighty-five laps have been stolen. Georgetti and Beckman led the field in point scoring during the afternoon sprints, accounting for 22 points. Bello and Delponte were second with 21, while Wertalick and Honeman were third with 18.

EASTERN CONN. BOWLING TEAM AT NEW LONDON TONIGHT

The All Star bowling team of the Eastern Connecticut league will clash with the Peerless five of New London at the Peerless alleys. The league defenders will be Sidney, Barber, Dugas, Morin and Combies.

Vaccarelli Outpoints Martinez

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Tony Vaccarelli, New York welterweight, outpointed Hilario Martinez of Spain in a bruising ten-round bout here tonight. Vaccarelli held the edge over his Spanish rival throughout. Each weighed 144 1-2.

COURT BARS YOUTH FROM ATTENDING FOOTBALL GAMES

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 13—(AP)—Cuyler Lakin of Cheshire cannot attend or participate in a football game for a year, he was warned in district court this morning after he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery, having struck a referee after a high school game in Dalton last Saturday.

DEMPSEY DISCUSSES RING MATTERS WITH RICKARD

By EDWARD J. NEIL

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Two wealthy business men sat down today to discuss through the smoke of mild Havanas everything pertaining to the fight game except the chances of one of them, Jack Dempsey, returning to active competition. That was saved for this evening, when the host, Tex Rickard, took the former heavyweight king to dinner.

The boss of Madison Square Garden, tanned to about half the complexion of his cigar, came back to his desk today after a six week vacation in Florida. His return was the signal for the prompt appearance of Dempsey and revival of all the rumors of a new comeback attempt to be staged by the old Manassa Mauler next summer.

For more than two hours, Dempsey, in a most congenial mood, talked of fights and fighters, with Rickard and a host of newspaper men. He discussed the advantages of Florida as a winter training ground, analyzed the fighting qualities of Paulino Uzcudun, and agreed the Spaniard would be an ideal opponent in the event of a comeback.

Te former champion was careful to avoid mention of his oft-reiterated statement that he was "through with the ring forever." He appeared restless, anxious to find an outlet for the nervous energy that keeps him continually "on the go." When he had left the room, Rickard smiled a benign smile, and said:

"A few more months and the big fellow will be begging for a fight. He just can't stay inactive."

While the business of today, on the surface at least, was to cement again the friendly relations that have had much to do with the millions both promoter and boxer have made together, Rickard said the business of a comeback would be discussed at the dinner tonight. But in accordance with his canny policy of getting the most from his publicity assets, he said there would be no definite announcement for "several days" at least.

The promoter said he had but two courses open in the event that Dempsey did decide to return to the ring. One would be the announcement that the old champion, twice the victim of the retired Gene Tunney, was ready and willing to fight the winner of the winter elimination tournament in a title battle next summer. His other plan would call for withholding of any announcement until the winner, and his suitability as an opponent for Dempsey, was determined in the elimination parade.

Dempsey, in fine shape after a week of hard training in a local gymnasium, said he was only ten pounds overweight. At the moment he is most interested, he said, in making a talking moving picture and selling what is left of the string of race horses he once owned.

NURMI AND RITOLA TO PUT ON BARNSTORMING TOUR

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, who matched strides for fame and Finland in the last two Olympic games, are going to match them now for money as the headline performers in a Finnish barnstorming tour of the American tracks, it became increasingly apparent today.

With Nurmi sailing today from Helsingfors with the understood intention of turning professional on his arrival here, the closing day for receiving entries for the National Amateur Athletic union cross-country running championship, which Ritola has won five times, passed without receipt of Wiry Willie's entry.

If the entry is in the mails before midnight it will be accepted. Otherwise Ritola will have let the amateur title go by default. The lusty lunged Finn, who is a carpenter by trade and has lived in New York for years although a citizen of Finland, a representative of that country in the Olympics, is known to have been training steadily. The assumption is that if the training isn't calculated to prepare him to win the biggest amateur event of the fall it is to fit him for a pro career.

With Ritola out of the National A. A. U. cross-country race, the event will be far from rich in colorful personalities or widely famed runners. For the team trophy, the Millrose A. A. has entered two eight-men combinations while Alfred university has added a collegiate touch by entering the team that trimmed Cornell. Other teams are the Dorchester club of Boston, the Shanahan Catholic club of Philadelphia and the Swedish American A. C., New York.

Answer to Lions

In answer to the Lions' challenge in Tuesday's Bulletin, Troop 1 wants to say that they do not play on Sunday but would like a game for either Monday or Tuesday.

By ALAN J. GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—It will take the final salvo of the football campaign in a series of engagements to be played as late as December 8 to determine the final rating in this year's race for national honors. It happens that four of the teams now conspicuously involved in the nation-wide tussle do not close their drives until that date. Many an anxious ear will be tuned to the reports of Notre Dame's invasion of South California's stronghold, Georgia Tech's traditional tussle with the University of Georgia at Atlanta and Florida's battle with Tennessee at Nashville on December 8.

Southern California is unbeaten, in fact the only major Pacific coast team that has suffered no worse than a tie and that with California. Georgia Tech, Florida and Tennessee are bowling along at the top of the southern conference heap, all with spotless slates and all helping to beat the gridiron tom toms for Dixie as they seldom have been beaten before.

Last year the situation was reversed when the Georgia rivals came down to the climax conflict. Georgia's Bulldogs were riding the crest. They had beaten a great Yale team, with Bruce Caldwell, and won nine in a row only to have their national title hopes smeared in the mud of Grant field by Tech's mighty array.

Now it is Tech's turn to be travelling along high, wide and handsome while Georgia has absorbed defeats at the hands of Yale and Florida. It would be an ironic gesture for the Bulldogs to take revenge and conquer their old rivals, Tech in the final game, assuming the Yellow Jackets go until then without a defeat. They also have Alabama and Auburn in the way.

Tennessee and Florida must avoid a number of pitfalls if there is to be the crucial aspect to their final game. The Vols must beat Vanderbilt this Saturday to keep in the running while Florida's "fighting 'gators" must dispose of Clemson and Washington and Lee.

After an erratic start, Notre Dame, if not able to claim any national title laurels itself, appears bent on making it unpleasant for a few others outstanding as championship contenders.

The Hoosiers upset the Army's hopes last Saturday and will attempt to check the unbeaten dash of Carnegie this week on their home stamping grounds at South Bend. After that the Notre Dame nomads will go west in search of Southern California's scalp.

There is a dramatic touch to the Carnegie-Notre Dame affair, for it will be remembered the last time they met, in 1926, the Tartars sprang one of the biggest upsets of recent years, handing the Hoosiers their only defeat of the season to the tune of 19 to 0.

Howard Harpster, now captain of Carnegie, was the star of that stunning reversal two years ago. He kicked a brace of field goals and otherwise caused the Hoosiers no little annoyance. Now Harpster, one of the outstanding candidates for All-American quarterback honors this season, is leading as powerful an array as the east has produced this year.

There will be all the elements of a stirring scrap when Tech's powerful line, leading the way for Harpster and the 233-pound battering ram, John Karcis, clashes with the Hoosier clan that beat the Army in such spectacular fashion.

There is plenty of foot in football this year even if the boys are not doing very well at kicking goals after touchdowns. Such conspicuous eastern punters as Eddie Bartrudge of West Virginia, Jim Mooney, of Georgetown and Harpster of Carnegie, have had a lot to do with their successes of their teams.

It was the brilliant kicking of Scott, Creighton quarterback, that had a lot to do with his team's success in holding the unbeaten University of Utah eleven to a tie at Omaha last Saturday in one of the season's biggest upsets.

YALE AND PRINCETON PREPARE FOR BIG BATTLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Elis of Yale went back to fundamentals today in preparation for their gridiron battle with Princeton this coming Saturday.

Mal Stevens split his Bulldog squad of 40 into groups and held an hour's intensive drill in the game's primary principles. Then the backs and ends turned to forward passing after which Stevens picked the team that is expected to start against the Tigers. In the backfield of this combination were Hoben, Loud, Dunn and Becker. Neither Johnny Garvey nor Ellis are expected to recover from injuries in time for Saturday's battle.

At Princeton, Bill Roper announced the Tigers would have no more practice scrimmages but plenty of work was done in a dummy scrimmage and in forward passing and line drills.

While Lou Young gave his Pennsylvania varsity another day of rest, Columbia's first string team scored twice in a half hour's scrimmage with the scrubs. Colgate and Syracuse put in some hard licks for their annual battle at Syracuse for which a capacity crowd of close to 40,000 is assured.

With a vastly changed lineup, Dartmouth's varsity scored five times against a third team but the Indians will not find Cornell's defense so easy to pierce. Gil Dobie took advantage of a clear cold day to give the Cornell squad a long and strenuous workout with special attention to the offensive which has been extremely weak all season.

Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech which are to uphold eastern prestige in mid-western battles with Nebraska and Notre Dame respectively, were worked hard in preparation for these rugged opponents. Carnegie Tech has an undefeated and untied record to protect and Pitt after defeats by West Virginia and Carnegie, would like to end the season in better fashion than they started it. West Virginia, victorious in seven straight games since its defeat by Davis and Elkins in the opening contest, went through a snappy night drill for the Georgetown game at Washington. Washington and Jefferson's presidents also began workouts for their duel with Bucknell and Johnstown state's Penn varsity which clashes with Lafayette next, was held even in a stiff scrimmage with the scrubs.

Boston college came through the Fordham game with serious injuries only to Jack Kennedy and otherwise will take the field against undefeated Canisius with its regular lineup. "Biff" Jones had his Army team brushing up on forward passing for the contest with Carleton and Navy, looking ahead to the Princeton game two weeks hence, had a dummy scrimmage session against Tiger formations. The Midshipmen meet a minor foe in Loyola, of Maryland, this week.

Fordham and New York university will be at home this week, the Maroons entertaining undefeated Detroit at the Polo grounds while N. Y. U. is taking on Missouri at the Yankee stadium

BARBER LEADS E. C. LEAGUE BOWLERS

Frankie Barber of Danielson leads the bowlers of the Eastern Connecticut league with an average of 119.3 at the end of the fifth week of the league. Barber also held the high individual three string total up to Monday night when he was knocked off by Mike Morin of the Palace club who bowled 403. Harold Hull, rolling with the Aetna club, has 120.6 for an average but at this date does not figure in the standing as he has rolled only three strings. However he has the high single with 164. Dugas of Taftville is running Barber a close second being but 4 pins behind the leader. Sidney of the Aetna is third with 113.4.

In the league standing Taftville but a two game lead over the Danielson team by virtue of the straight victories on Monday evening. The Aetna club although in a triple tie for third place holds two league records, the high team single of 644 and the high team total of 1734.

HARRIS TO CAPTAIN Y. M. C. A. SENIOR BASKETBALL TEAM

With the start of practice and the election of Roland Harris as captain the Y. M. C. A. senior basketball team is fast rounding into shape for the season's campaigning in the state Y. M. C. A. loop. The team in practice shows good form, a nice passing game and excellent defensive play. A newcomer to the Y fold is Enoch Eccleston of Taftville, who has been playing for a number of years with Taftville teams in the state. The Y season will open about the first week in December with games scheduled with fast amateur teams in the state. The state league does not open until the first week in January.

Taftville Whirlwinds Organize

The fast traveling Whirlwinds of Taftville have organized for the coming season and are filled with confidence that they can win the Connecticut junior title. The team as it will line up is: Adams and Durr, forwards, Dickerman, center, Neal, Bonin and O. Adams, guards. This team challenges any team in the state averaging 17 years of age. For information write to O. Adams, Box 342, Taftville.

WESTERLY EXPECTS HARD GAME THANKSGIVING DAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 13—A hard-fought battle is looked for here on Thanksgiving day when Westerly and Stonington high meet in the second game of their two-game series. This game is for the inter-town championship and has no bearing on the league. A loving cup offered by local military organizations will be awarded the winner this year.

Westerly has three more games, with Warwick high here Friday, Chapman Tech the following Friday and then Stonington, its traditional rival. Westerly is still in the running for the Rhode Island conference title, being undefeated in this loop, winning two games and tieing one, with one more, the Warwick game, to play.

HAMMONASSETT BEACH PARK HAD 250,000 VISITORS

The state park and forest commission has tabulated attendance figures for Hammonassett Beach State park in Madison, during the past season which marked the increasing use of this popular park. There were recorded 395,000 visitors from January 1st to September 30th of which 12,393 were campers and 117,500 were bathers, the remainder being largely picnickers. Nearly 70,000 automobiles passed over the self-registering counter used to record attendance during the busy season. The largest attendance was on August fifth when approximately 25,500 persons picnicked, camped or enjoyed a dip at some point along the two miles of state-owned beach. The greatest holiday attendance was on Fourth of July when it reached 18,115. On Memorial day it amounted to 7,500 and on Labor day 5,000.

Overnight camping use far surpassed that of previous years. Twenty-seven hundred parties spent a total of 46,107 days or about 125 years' time in camp on the park. Seventy per cent were from Connecticut. Twenty-six other states and Canada were represented. Distant states included California, Texas, Colorado, Oklahoma and Florida. By far the largest number of out-of-state campers came from Massachusetts; New York was a bad second; Pennsylvania and New Jersey tied for third place. Rhode Island sent only 27 parties. Most of the out-of-state camping parties remained only a night or two; Connecticut residents usually stayed longer. Camping is so rapidly increasing that additional camp sites are being developed with lights, sanitary facilities and running water. They are marked off into lots of suitable size, the exclusive use of which, for short or long terms, is given for a moderate rental. Applications for 1929 for long term permits will be received at the commission's office in Hartford after January 1st, preference being given to Connecticut residents.

The bathing pavilions will accommodate 3,000 at one time and were often used to capacity. Residences of bathers are shown by the post office addresses of those who check valuables, over 90 per cent of them being from Connecticut. The bulk of visitors came from the center of the state, 97 1-2 being from Hartford, New Haven and Middlesex counties, 3 per cent from Litchfield and Fairfield counties and less than 1 per cent from New London, Tolland and Windham counties. The residents of the extreme eastern and western counties evidently find the journey over the crowded roads of midsummer too long to enable them to make much use of this park for bathing. Bathers from outside the state come largely from Massachusetts. One person evidently crossed part of the Pacific ocean and all of the United States to bathe at a Connecticut state park, as a Hawaiian checked his valuables while enjoying a swim in Long Island sound, presumably not finding the beach dangerous, as the life guards gave serious assistance to only 27 persons. Besides its life guard service the commission maintains a first aid bureau and a matron service for elderly persons and women with babies. These services aided approximately 2900 people during the season. Despite the large use of the park, park police did not find it necessary to make a single arrest.

The commission has charge of only one other shore park on Long Island sound, that being on Sherwood Island at Westport in Fairfield county. Owing to its small area it has never been developed and is little used.

U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner voluntarily took the witness stand in federal court in New York and characterized as "an absolute lie" a charge attributed to Carl Bartl, a waiter, that the senator had been "fixer" for Luigi's restaurant in Greenwich Village recently raided by prohibition authorities.

FAST AMATEURS AT NEW LONDON TONIGHT

The amateur mitt slinging industry goes on full time again tonight at Joe Connelly's Golden street gym in New London when eight bouts, advertised to be real battles, are staged. Locally there is considerable interest in the card as three Norwich boys do battle against tough opponents in the features of the evening.

Eddie Sharkey of the West Side, who has been pounding his way steadily up the grade to pugilistic prominence, will meet Young Dunn, a tough slugging New London lad, who is of the opinion that he can stop the Norwich whirlwind in three rounds. Possible, but not probable as the Norwich boy has a unique way of keeping out of range and when he has to absorb the punishment without showing it. Sharkey can take it—and he can give it also, plenty of it. His hands deal out some stiff jolts at the most unexpected times, blows that hurt aplenty. Young Dunn will have a busy three rounds just trying to stay out of the way of Sharkey's punishings left to say nothing of carrying the fight to the local boy.

Baby Joe Gans, the wonder midget of Norwich, is slated to appear in another bout which will no doubt be a feature of the show. Tipping the scales at only 100 pounds the mite is possessed of all the boxing technique of a seasoned knight of the cauliflower crusade. Gans is a flash, elusive as a flea he presents a bobbing and shifty target for his opponent to shoot at and it is a good boy who can connect solidly. On the other hand Gans has a great eye for distance and pops in punches that pile up a score for himself although he does not possess a knockout punch.

The other Norwich lad is Johnny Dosh, a clever two handed boxer who came forward with a rush last year only to fall off through inactivity. Dosh puts up a nice exhibition and is in the best of condition for his battle tonight.

On the card are five other bouts between boys representing New London Montville, Westerly and Willimantic. From an entry list of well over 20 boys Matchmaker Connelly should be able to put on a card that should please the most critical of boxing fans. The show will start at 8.30 o'clock.

SHORT LOBSTER CASES TRIED IN STONINGTON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 13—Stonington town court room was crowded Tuesday in a nearly all-day session before Judge William A. Wilcox, to hear tried two cases of possession of short lobsters by Pawcatuck and Stonington residents and a dozen of fifteen against Stonington fishermen.

The actions were brought by Connecticut fish and game wardens and the cases for the state were presented by Prosecutor George R. McKenna of Stonington. The two defendants of the morning session were Mrs. Olga Friedman, of Stonington borough, and Mrs. Sophie Schwartzchild, of Pawcatuck. They were represented by Judge Herbert W. Rathbun. Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt appeared for ten of the Stonington lobstermen.

In the complaint against Mrs Friedman, there appeared 67 counts, and at the end of the lengthy hearing, she was adjudged guilty and fined $50 on the first count and $2.50 on the remaining 66 which totaled $215.00 to which costs of $70.63 were added, a total of $285.63.

On the short lobster possession complaint against Mrs. Sophie Schwartzchild, of Pawcatuck, there were 21 counts. She was found guilty. Judge Wilcox imposed a fine of $50 on the first and $2.50 on the following counts, amounting to $125.00 with costs of $17.78, a total of $142.78.

For the Stonington lobstermen and fishermen found guilty, a fine of $35 was imposed and costs of $15.53 added, a total of $50.53, on the first count. The remaining counts were nolled.

To test the legality of the complaint against Olga Friedman, brought by Prosecutor McKenna, Judge Rathbun filed a demurrer claiming that the criminal offenses charged in the possession of short lobsters was not set forth in certainty, the unusual situation being in the sixty-odd counts each and every count was the same as to date, time, offense and meant nothing. He asked that the counts outside of the first be overruled. Prosecutor McKenna declared that the complaint showed clearly that Sept. 28th, Olga Friedman, of Stonington, had in her possession a lobster measuring less than 4 1-2 inches, taking the length from the bone in the nose to the end of the body shell and then another lobster, making separate and distinct offenses. Judge Wilcox then overruled the demurrer. Judge Rathbun then moved for a bill of particulars when there should be stated the time of day, the particular place in town and who saw the lobsters. Prosecutor McKenna stated that the witnesses to be heard and the evidence to be given by them would supply this, which the court would have to take a half-hour recess to have presented. Judge Wilcox denied the motion. Judge Rathbun entered a plea of "not guilty" for his client and a laugh went over the court room and among those crowded out into the corridor. Prosecutor McKenna declared the case no laughing matter and later directed the court officers to eject any who should create such disturbance.

James Healy, of Shelton, Conn., a deputy warden, testified that Sept. 25th he saw Olga Friedman drive to the second dock beyond that of Manuel Clay and talk with Tony Pavao, who came ashore with what he observed to be short lobsters and place them in two Crisco cans, one of 5-gallon capacity. On cross examination by Judge Rathbun, he declared that he did not measure any of the lobsters with a stick. In further evidence testimony was brought out to show that he had represented himself as the proprietor of a hotel in Mt. Kisco, N. Y., had N. Y. plates on auto with Conn. ones in his auto, gave the name of J. Hadley and represented himself to fishermen as a bootlegger, while these were not the facts.

Healy declared that he was of independent wealth and at no time claimed he could not afford to buy large lobsters, some of which he had said were wanted for clambakes, had always paid cash for lobsters and in the presence of Warden Desbrough had heard Mrs. Friedman declare that she wanted the lobsters for her sister in Westerly where she ran a delicatessen store and could not afford to buy legal length lobsters.

Charles R. Desbrough, of Stratford, Conn., game warden, testified that he had seen the short lobsters transferred some fifteen feet from where he stood and the length was obviously short. Judge Rathbun objected to allowing such testimony to stand, making repeated objection, until Judge Wilcox had the witness qualified as an expert with 14 years' connection with the fishand game department and on personal question found that this warden had not applied a rule as he stated that the officials were seeking other law violators. In cross examination Judge Rathbun went into the eyesight of the witness who stated that he used two eye glasses, one for distance vision, and one for reading, and had both with him the day in question. The questioning and answers became heated at times.

A. J. Williamson, of Fairfield, took the stand at his own request and began the testimony that Mrs. Friedman's brother had invited him to his home in Pawcatuck to see the accused and inasmuch as this state officer would not testify that he had warned the parties that such statements as given by them would be used against them, Judge Wilcox ruled out the testimony.

Prosecutor and counsel made lengthy pleas. Prosecutor McKenna asked for a rigid, strict and large enough fine for the accused, if found guilty, to deter others from embarking on the business. Judge Wilcox found the accused guilty on the 67 counts and imposed sentence as noted.

It was stated that the evidence and pleadings in the case against Sophie Schwartzchild was similar and Judge Wilcox declared her guilty as charged on the 31 counts, some of which included sale and imposed the fine as above. In plea for abatement of fine, Judge Rathbun declared that the accused had been subjected to much adverse publicity and stated that the fine in the previous case was "terrific punishment."

Court business proceeded after a ten minute recess when ten cases of Stonington fishermen, represented by Attorney Hewett were presented and the evidence, testimony and pleadings declared to be about the same.

These cases, in which the accused were found guilty and fined $35 and costs each, were against Antone Aruda, Joe Maderia, Manuel Dias, Manuel Amancio, Tony Pavao, Joe Pavao, William Clay, 17, with B. H. Hewitt guardian, Manuel Clay. Joe Roderick and John Vincent, represented by Judge Rathbun.

After an hour's recess Marion Pont, accused of having one short lobster in his boat, discovered by Warden Christopher Culver of New London, was found not guilty and ordered discharged. As witness against him Warden Culver stated that five legal obsters were found in the well of his boat at New London and a dead short obster in a net under a wing of the deck. Pont, and son Marion Pont, Jr., declared that the boat had not been used for lobstering and they had no knowledge as to how the lobster came there, the son declaring the live lobsters his proper and left in the well weeks ago. The short lobster, rather "strong" evidence, was produced and measured in court, being dead four days. It measured 3 7-8 inches.

The case against Michael Spino, 12 Pierce street, Westerly, represented by Attorney John J. Dunn, whose auto on Saturday struck William Linger, on Mechanic street, knocking him down and breaking his leg, was continued one week.

John Aruda, with Henry Pont, court interpreter, was not represented by attorney. He pleaded not guilty to selling short lobsters to John Gray. Wardens Healy and Desbrough testified to seeing the sale and measuring the short lobsters. He was found guilty and fined $35 and costs on the first count, with the others nolled. Warden W. S. Watson appeared against Manuel Pont, found not guilty.

Frederick J. Clark, 17, of Stonington, charged with the theft of $150 from Rosaline Corina in Stonington, Nov. 9th, had his step-father as guardian and was released in bonds of $500, furnished by his step-father, for appearance in court one week from date, to permit Prosecutor McKenna to thoroughly investigate the case.

DR. ARTHUR H. RUGGLES OPENS COURSE OF LECTURES

Many assembled Tuesday evening in the assembly hall to hear Dr. Arthur H. Ruggles at the public library, when he opened the course of lectures on "The Understanding and Training of Children." Dr. Ruggles, counsultant in psychitry at Yale university and superintendent of Butler hospital, is an authority on the problems of child training which confront every parent and teacher. He presented "The Aim and Scope of Mental Hygiene" and demonstrated that "Childhood Is the Golden Age for Mental Hygiene."

The course of lectures is offered by the Rhode Island Society for Mental Hygiene and is sponsored by the Westerly Teachers' club, The Westerly Physicians' association, The Westerly Medical society and the Nursery School directors.

The annual Armistice day dance was largely attended Monday night, under the auspices of Harold W. Merrill Post, No. 16, American Legion, at the town hall. Crandall's Orchestra provided music. The committee comprised Joseph Sicilian, George Kemp, Frank Collins, Roy V. Wilcox, John L. Sullivan and Arthur M. Mills.

A hearing on the petition of the South County Public Service company before the Westerly zoning board, in relation to the location of a new substation in Stillmanville, was held in Westerly town hall Tuesday evening. Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun appeared for the petitioners.

BROWN DERBY CLUB PAYS BET TO THE HOOVER CLUB

Brown Derby club members lost a bet on the election to the Happy Hoover club—a chicken dinner at a leading hotel in New London and then to the show. In the evening several large automobiles left for the Whaling City and a sign read, "Brown Derby boys are paying a bet to their rivals. Smiling Al Smith was snowed under by Happy Hoover, but took it with a smile." The tables were all set; loaded with East Lyme chickens and everything that went with them. Treasurer Stretch Morrison made a speech and said that he enjoyed the chicken although he was on the losing side, but it showed a good spirit between the two clubs, being rivals. He was glad to see that all members had turned out to help their rivals have a good time at their expense. Singing followed and the Hoover members gave three cheers for the new president, with three loud ones for Al Smith at the end. Then they went over to the show to see the talking picture. It was a fine picture and then, loading into their automobiles, they were back in the Fishing Village at a late hour. Members gave President Rollin Rathbun of the Hoover club a brown derby to remember the club by and a song was sung, "Good Bye, 1928; Hello, 1932! Until Next Presidential Election. Wait Until We Meet Again!"

Deserted Cats on Point

"What is to become of the cats left on the Point during the cold winter months?" is being asked by the families that stay there the year around. A few days ago a cat was run over by an automobile and left in the road. One resident said, "Someone will have to take the dead cat away, not leave it in the road so long!" Under one cottage, around 20 cats are trying to keep warm and to get something to eat—which is a hard job. This resident has fed over 50 cats during the winter. They come to his door and cry for something to eat. The family is humane, cannot see them die from starvation. Many stray cats are roaming around the Point now and four have been killed so far this fall. Cats are left by the summer people when they leave, while others are given away for a home.

At New London Parade

Several Legionnaires of Richard Morgan post, No. 55, went to New London Monday afternoon and took part in the big parade on the tenth anniversary of the ending of the World war. The Daughters of America lodge had a float that made a hit along the line. It was of red, white and blue decorations and showed a small house and green grass. Five young ladies were dressed in white, like Liberty, and Eddie Andrews was Uncle Sam. It was on a large truck with 23 Daughters marching behind it. It took ten hours to decorate the float. After the parade everyone was given a meat loaf supper. In the evening boxing matches were held and the grand ball at the Mohican hotel was attended by many.

William Banks is visiting friends in West Haven.

Thomas Bouchard has returned from a short visit with New Hampshire relatives.

Rathbun-Wood

The wedding of Isabel Wood of New London and Elbert Rathbun of Noank took place Saturday afternoon at the home of Clarence Thompson, before a large number of friends and relatives. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated at the double ring services. The bride's cousin, Miss Gertrude Thompson, was bridesmaid. Elihu Rathbun, brother of the groom, was best man. A reception was held during which the wedding cake was cut by Duke Hiscock, Jr. The Socony Trio sang "Wedding Bells," with Joe Walsh at the piano. The house was decorated with palms and yellow chrysanthemums. After a short honeymoon trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun will make their home in Norwich.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE: GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic—don't. Instead, take a little cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascarizing is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking. Instead of being clogged worse than ever, the bowels are more inclined to move OF THEIR OWN ACCORD. You may have to take cascara several times to establish regularity. But the times you need this gentle stimulus grow further apart. And you NEVER find you must increase the amount.

Cascara's ideal form is the candy Cascaret that pleases any palate, and you'll find them at the first drugstore you ask.

ACTIVE BUYING OF STOCKS SERVED TO OFFSET WAVE OF PROFIT-TAKING

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—A wave of profit taking on the New York stock market today only served to depress prices to a point where stocks attracted further feverish buying, which carried total sales up to 5,387,400, almost to the new high record of 5,670,600 shares established yesterday.

Although a wide assortment of recent favorites were depressed four to twenty points during the forenoon, the recent persistent advice of a number of brokerage houses to buy on reactions at once took effect, and prices were abruptly turned upward, carrying nearly a score of issues to new high prices, and wiping out or reducing most of the earlier losses.

The profit taking largely resulted from the belief inspired in a number of traders yesterday that the market was running away with itself but again they were amazed at the stores of wealth not yet tapped by the phenomenal bull market which were brought forth, confidence became even firmer in the bull party, although many commission houses advised their clients to use sharp discrimination in extending commitments, as further technical reactions may be looked for in the not distant future.

The news of the day was largely favorable. Additional takings of $3,500,000 dollars in gold from London were announced. The largest single day's takings since the return of the gold movement a few months ago. An extra dividend of 50 cents was announced by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Call money was in ample supply at 6 per cent. All day the Associated Press average price of 20 industrials was again raised to a new high record at 240.71, up about half a point. The average of 20 railroads, however, slipped back about the same amount. The ticker was again heavily overworked, and ran for 51 minutes after the close.

U. S. Steel, the traditional bell wether of the list, was brought forward by pool operators around midday to stem the tide of selling and lifted more than 4 points to a new high at 168 3-4. Radio, which had tumbled 12 points, more than regained its loss and touched 290 3-4, a new top, only to fall back to 279, a net loss of 9 points. National Tea, which had fallen 20 points, regained 5. Montgomery Ward rose about 5 points, reacted 10, then rallied and closed practically unchanged.

Sears Roebuck was sent soaring more than 17 points to a new peak at 189 5-8. Several new leaders for the movement were brought forth, including International Business Machine, International Cement, and Gold Dust, which were elevated about 5 to 8 points to record levels. Allis Chalmers, American Linseed common and preferred, Kayser & Co., Rossia Insurance, and Warner Brothers, rose 3 to 7 points.

Motors were generally heavy. Packard and Chrysler sold down about 4 points each, but recouped part of their losses. The General Motors issues eased in heavy trading. Briggs fell about 2 points, while Murray gained more than 2 points.

Coppers generally sagged, although Greene Cananea made an extreme gain of about 9 points. American Smelting fell more than 4 points and closed 2 points down. Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound and Inspiration eased. International Nickel touched 201 for the first time.

Oils closed generally higher. Richfield and Sun stepping up 1 and 3 points to new peaks. Barnsdall A, however, was depressed about 4 points at one time. Consolidated Gas was a feature of the utilities, mounting more than 4 points to a new top in heavy buying.

Some of the rails were again brought forward. Katy mounted more than 2 points to a new top, while Erie made a like gain and Rutland preferred forced ahead on announcement of resumption of dividends. Canadian Pacific, however, yielded to profit taking, and Texas and Pacific lost 5 points.

Wright Aero lost 10 points, but rallied on rumors of a project to merge it with Keystone, Travel Air, and Loening, American Express, Coty, Du Pont, Macy, Midland Steel Products preferred and Western Union closed 3 to 7 points lower.

The trend was upward on the commodity markets, coffee alone easing. Cotton improved in response to a better tone in Liverpool, and what advanced as reports of the South American crop were less favorable.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and generally steady.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Extremely erratic price movements developed in today's curb market as opposing speculative forces battled for control. Pools succeeded in lifting about a score issues to new high records, some of the gains ranging from 5 to 8 points, but a number of weak spots were uncovered by "bear" traders.

Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania and Standard Oil of Ohio each were marked up about 5 points to new high levels at 144 and 104, respectively, but Standard Oils of Kentucky and Nebraska, Transcontinental Oil preferred, Humble, Darby and International Petroleum fell back 1 to nearly 3 points.

Trading showed a substantial reduction in volume from yesterday although the tape, at times, had difficulty in keeping up with the market. The tendency to take profits was more marked than in recent sessions, presumably because of the growing fears o fa sharp technical reaction.

Rainbow Luminous Products, which was heavy yesterday, ran up more than 7 points to a new high record at 56. Radio - Keith - Orpheum again changed hands in large volume, touching a new high at 37. Gotham Knitbac Machine advanced to within a fraction of its new high on a turnover of more than 75,000 shares.

Keystone Aircraft ran up nearly 6 points to a new high at 40 on rumors of an early merger with Travelair and other airplane companies. The Boeing issues sunk to a new low prices for the year.

New high prices also were recorded by Canadian Industrial Alcohol, Columbia Graphaphone, General Fireproofing, Massey Harris, Pratt & Lambert, Sharon Steel Hoop and Van Camp preferred, Swift & Co., which established a new high yesterday at 150 1-2, broke nearly 10 points to 141 1-4. Anchor Cap, Colgate Palmolive, De Forest Radio, Duplan Silk, Marion Steel Shovel, Safe-T-Stat and U. S. Gypsum all reacted 2 to nearly 5 points.

Further accumulation of the Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern issues, which moved into new high ground, featured the public utility division.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

When YOU WANT to put your business before the public there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

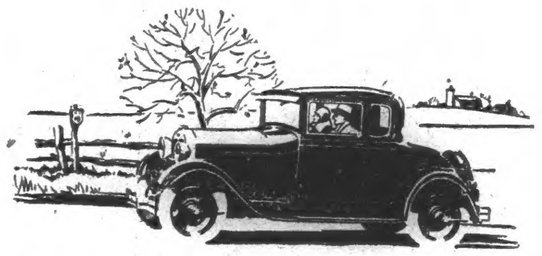
To the first half-million new Ford owners



TO THE half-million men and women who have received new Fords in the last eleven months, there is no need to dwell on the performance of the car.

You have tested its speed on the open road. In traffic you have noted its quick acceleration and the safety of its brakes. You know how it climbs the hills. On long trips and over rough stretches you have come to appreciate its easy-riding comfort. Continuous driving has proved its economy of operation and low cost of upkeep.

This is an invitation to you to take full advantage of the service facilities of the Ford dealer organization so that you may continue to enjoy many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

The point is this. You have a great car in the new Ford. It is simple in design, constructed of the best materials and machined with unusual accuracy. It is so well-made, in fact, that it requires surprisingly little attention. Yet that doesn't mean it should be neglected. Like every other fine piece of machinery, it will serve you better and longer if given proper care.

One of the best ways to do this is to take your car to the Ford dealer every 500 miles for oiling and greasing and a checking-up of the little things that have such a great bearing on long life and continuously good performance.

Such an inspection may mean a great deal to your car. To you it means thousands upon thousands of miles of motoring without a care—without ever lifting the hood.

Ford dealers everywhere have been specially trained and equipped to service the new Ford. You will find them prompt and reliable in their work, fair in their charges, and sincerely eager to help you get the greatest possible use from your car for the longest period at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICCE!

Notice is hereby given to all persons liable to pay Personal Taxes in the Town of Lebanon, that I have a Warrant to levy and collect the personal taxes of 1928, each of such persons being assessed the sum of two (2) dollars as a personal tax. Said tax is due and payable on the fifteenth day of November, 1928.

Chapter 305 of the Public Acts of 1927 provides that all personal taxes remaining unpaid sixty (60) days after they become due are automatically raised, by said Chapter 305, from two (2) dollars to three (3) dollars.

For the purpose of collecting said personal taxes, the Collector will be at the Probate Office in Lebanon every Saturday forenoon during the month of November, and every week-day evening from six o'clock until eight o'clock p. m.

Alias Warrants will be issued for all personal taxes under this Levy unpaid on the sixteenth day of January, 1929

GEORGE E. BRIGGS,
Collector of Taxes, Town of Lebanon
Dated at Lebanon, October 24, 1928

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 10th day of November, A. D. 1928.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Janet L. Kimball, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Ordered, That the Administratrix cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE

All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at Norwich Town, Conn., R. F. D. 5, within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.

TRUCKMAN THROWS GLASS IN STREET-- NEW LONDON PROFESSOR COMPLAINS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 13—George H. West, 60 Mitchell street, Groton, driver of a truck of the Over Night line, was today ordered by Sergeant Henry Albright, state police, to present himself in the police court tomorrow and defend a charge of violation of the statute prohibiting the throwing of glass in a public highway. West was ordered into court upon complaint of Prof. Frederick Weld of Connecticut College. Professor Weld was driving his automobile through Main street this morning and the car was following the truck. Professor Weld made complaint to the police asking for the arrest of the driver when West, it is claimed, deliberately threw a quantity of broken glass from the truck directly in the path of the Weld pleasure automobile.

Hugh McPartland, 288 Ocean avenue, was arrested early this morning by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin, charged with reckless driving and will be in court tomorrow.

FRANCIS J. RILEY STRICKEN WHILE IN BANK ST. OFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 13—Francis J. Riley, 110 Parkway, died this afternoon at Lawrence-Memorial hospital from apoplexy, having been stricken while at a bank street business office. So far as is known, Mr. Riley, who was of advanced years, leaves no relatives, at least hereabouts. Mr. Riley went to the office of the New London Coal company and while placing an order for fuel was stricken and collapsed. He was rushed to the hospital where he died an hour later. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman pronounced death as having been caused by apoplexy.

MRS. TRUKEN SOLD BOOZE— TO APPEAR IN COURT TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 13—Mrs. Josephine Truken, 101 North Bank street, was arrested this morning by Detective Sergeant Cavanaugh on a charge of violating the liquor law. She sold to the stool pigeons from the coast guard last week and was raided at the time the other raids were made last week. At the time she was sick in bed and her arrest was postponed until today. She was released under bond for appearance in police court tomorrow morning.

Members of Murphy-Rathburn post, No. 139, Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary were hosts last night at a dance in the post rooms on State street to more than 200 members of the organizations from this and other cities. The affair was opened with a dinner.

Mrs. Harriet B. Weaver and Mrs. Catherine Foss, both of this city, were guests of honor recently at a bridge party in St. Petersburg, Florida, according to a news item in a paper from that city.

At the November meeting of the New London branch, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, held last night in the club rooms on Jay street, plans for the winter activities were formulated.

FOUR FAULTY DRIVERS APPEAR BEFORE INSPECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 13—Four auto drivers appeared before Inspector Philip Devney of the motor vehicle department in the county court today. William B. Chappel of Guthrie was told that he could have his license restored if he would furnish the court with three letters of recommendation. The charge against him was driving while under the influence of liquor. Albert J. Richard of Squire street was informed that he could apply for a new license. In a complaint against Oliver C. Abernathy of 178 Ocean avenue, decision was reserved. Mrs. John Ann H. Wood of Waterford had her license returned. It was taken away some time ago as a result of a fatal accident in which she was involved.

An alarm was turned in this morning at 1:37 from Box 26, located at Bulkeley school and the Northwest, Thomas Hose, Nameaug Engine and Konomoc Ladder companies responded. It was a fake call and police attribute it to the work of some Armistice day celebrant.

The only patient dismissed today from Lawrence Memorial hospital was Mrs. Elbert Marvin of Lyme.

Lieutenant-Governor-elect Ernest E. Rogers, of Pequot avenue, left this city yesterday for a long trip through the south and west. His first stop will be in New Orleans, after which he will go to Chicago, thence to New York and then back to this city. It is understood that the trip is being taken for the purpose of transacting state business.

At the Hotel Mohican last night about 150 attended the banquet and Armistice dance given in honor of Governor Trumbull. The dance started on the roof garden at 9 p. m. and lasted until 1 a. m. P Leroy Harwood was toastmaster at the banquet and master of ceremonies at the ball.

Henry C. Chappell, former alderman, residing at 107 Federal street, is a medical patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, having been taken to the hospital a few days ago. This afternoon it was stated that Mr. Chappell's condition was as comfortable as could be expected.

M. Estelle Rooks Apley has sold a building lot on Linden street to David Wool.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Carlos Barry.

Mrs. Eliza Lobdell Barry wife of Carlos Barry, cashier of the Union Bank and Trust company died last night at her residence at Quaker Mill, after an illness of several years. Besides her husband, Mrs Barry is survived by a son, Carlos Barry, Jr. of Middletown, and a daughter Mrs. C. H. Denset of this city. Mrs. Barry was born in West Trov. N Y but had resided in New London and Waterford for many years.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Richard Povey

The funeral of Mrs. Esther Russell Povey, widow of Rev. Richard Povey, formerly pastor of New London Methodist church was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence at Gales Ferry and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Jerome Greer and Rev. George H. Wright, both of Gales Ferry. The bearers were James N. Sterry, Irving Hurlburt, Courtland D. Colver, Edward C. Calvert, Walter M. Buckingham and Allen Sterry. Burial was in Union cemetery, Uncasville.

Miss Elizabeth M. Avery.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth M. Avery was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Frederick Bill, of Eastern Point road, Groton and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev Henry H. Hulburt, pastor of Groton Congregational church. The bearers were C. S. W. Davis, Latham Avery, Henry L. Bailey and Milton M. Baber.

Michael Chernick.

The funeral of Michael Chernick was held this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at his residence, 145 North Bank street. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Miss Sarah Blodgett, of Chappell street, well known and aged resident, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, she having been taken to the hospital yesterday.

S. A. Dreischer, 514 Ocean avenue, reported to the police today that last night while his car was parked in front of his home a spare tire was stolen.

A new type of thief was revealed today when Patrolman Lewis Tooker discovered that two "no parking" signs the property of the city, had been stolen. One of the signs was taken from the easterly side of Main street near Masonis street and the other was taken from John street between Main and North Bank street.

Charles Bercume, employed at the Griswold Farms, Eastern Point, Groton, was arrested Sunday night by State Police Officers Bernard Kenerson and John Smith charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. The car he was driving collided with a machine owned by Charles Lillibridge, of Norwich Town, near Uncasville, besides striking three other cars. He was fined $100 and costs in the Waterford town court yesterday, the fine being paid by Bercume's sister. He was in the New London police court this morning on another charge, but escaped punishment for Deputy Judge John McGarry suspended judgment. Bercume did not learn a lesson by his being penalized in the Waterford court, for he again became intoxicated. He managed to keep out of trouble until he decided he wanted a place to sleep for the night and being without funds, he went to police headquarters and requested that he be given lodging for the night. He was accommodated, but not in the bunk room, for he was arrested and locked up, occupying a cell until he was presented in court.

An automobile driven by Albert Dechernias, 23 Richards street, struck an unidentified youth at Bulkeley place this afternoon. The boy was taken by the driven of the automobile to the Lena hospital, where it was determined that he was only slightly injured, having sustained abrasions of the face and body.

The police were notified this evening that a motorcycle carrying Maine registration, 1866, had been driven to the yard of 503 Broad street nearly a week ago and on the pretence that the driver desired to obtain a supply of gasoline. In reality the driver had failed to return for the cycle. Tonight the police took charge of the cycle and placed it in storage.

ZONING BOARD VOTES PERMIT FOR $150,000 PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 13—Before the zoning board this evening, General Manager William C. Clarke explained that the present sub-station, erected near the gas plant on Canal street in 1917, has been outgrown and there is no more room for expansion. It was desired to locate the new plant costing approximately $150,000 in such a way that would be favorable for electric light and power transmission lines to enter in the best direction. Engineer John Thompson showed with use of prints similar plants now located at Field's Point, near Providence and near Woonsocket; most of the structure would not be covered and the highest tower about 35 feet, the noise to come from it such as is caused only by windage; having three main switchboards, the first for local circuits, the second 11,000 volts and the third for 66,000 volts; the entire plant to be surrounded by a suitable wire protecting fence to obviate any accident from contact with the equipment. No one appeared to object and the zoning board voted the permit for such a plant to be located well back in the Fisk Rubber plant tract of land on the east side of Canal street, about opposite Stillmanville river bridge.

Otis H. Chapman, 19 Summer street, appeared to ask for a permit to construct a four-car garage and workshop in a residence area. The matter was continued a week.

William A. Canfield, Providence attorney and Attorney John J. Dunn, together with Attorney William C. Mellish, city solicitor for Worcester, Mass., appeared in the interests of Harry Brooks, owner of land on High street on which is located the Colonial club, purchased in April 1928. On August 29, Architect Edwin T. Chapin of Worcester had been refused a building permit for a business block on the site, of stone, tile, brick and steel, because that was no plat filed showing the location. Sept. 8th the architect filed the plat, but in the meantime the council had established a building line on High street, approximately six feet back from the old line.

Attorney Mellish told the zoning board that a prospective lessor of a store in the proposed block did not now want to take a store which would be six feet back from the front of the Westerly furniture block now adjoining. Attorney Ferguson for the zoning board declared that matter was not properly before the board at this time, as according to the zoning ordinance there should have been filed a petition on the matter and a five-day notice given. The men retired when informed that the board would be in session a week from the date, also a month from the date, asking that a record be made of their appearance.

A permit was voted Mrs. Alice E. Bicknell on revised plans for alteration Andrea hotel, Misquamicut beach.

An order of notice was voted on the application of Benedicto Cerva on Dayton street to discard store property and construct a cottage by addition to rear of present building.

Trooper E. Ralph Bonat, of R. I. state police completes his duties Wednesday in the employ of the Westerly police department where he has had about three months service and returns to state duty with the Portsmouth, R. I., patrol, leaving but one state policeman, Trooper Greminger, in the employ of the town.

Following a meeting of the building committee of Westerly fire district held in the town hall Tuesday night, it was voted that a special meeting of the fire district be called for Wednesday evening Nov. 21 at 8 o'clock to act on the sale of 15 feet of the district land to the state, lying between the nearly erected central fire station building and the court house end of the town hall. This action is hastened by the desire to secure the $3,000 offered in the appropriation voted by the general assembly, which it is understood, will lapse on November 30. A previous meeting of the fire district adjourned before action could be taken on this proposition to come before it when the meeting stampeded by a false report that the mill of the Bradford Dyeing association was burning and the department responded.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

"State Street Sadie" is the thrilling successor of "The Girl From Chicago," which won such clamorous approval for the three featured players, Conrad Nagle, Myrna Loy and William Russell. The capable trio are seen in "State Street Sadie" in the exciting aftermath of a bank robbery in which a member of the police riot squad has been shot.

Myrna Loy, daughter of the murdered cop, sets forth to capture the assassin, and her suspicions gravitate between Nagel and Russell, in a series of hair-raising adventures, which culminate in the discovery of the perpetrator of the guilty party in the midst of a wild fusillade in which gangsters and officers of the law clash.

Other members of the cast are those two masterly interpreters of the tough guy—Georgie Stone and Pat Hartigan. There are of course a large number of supernumeraries which add to the picture of Chicago's "Loop" district, which is locale for the sensational crime picture.

Melville Crossman wrote the story of "State Street Sadie" and the screen adaptation was made by the clever E. T. Lowe, Jr. Direction was given over to Archie Mayo, who has acquitted himself splendidly.

Manager Levinson of the Broadway theatre announces the coming of "State Street Sadie" tomorrow for a run of three days.

Palace Theatre

Furs to the value of $25,000 are displayed on living models in Columbia's "Say It With Sables," at the Palace theatre. The amount is represented by three exquisite wraps worn by Margaret Livingston. One is invoiced at $10,000, one at $7,000 and the other at $4,000. The coats worn by Helene Chadwick and June Nash complete the quota.

The most expensive is an ermine wrap, exquisitely trimmed and composed of hundreds of perfect skins. Another is a gorgeous sable, while a third is also a sable trimmed with several lighter furs. These are worn by Miss Livingston as the gold-digging adventuress, whose love for furs brings about her downfall.

Francis X. Bushman has the leading masculine role, that of a wealthy banker who falls victim to Miss Livingston's smiles and furnishes her with some of the wraps.

Although Bushman is generous, his son, played by Arthur Rankin, goes the father one better in presenting expensive coats. The wrap is a beautiful sable and plays an important role as a clue to the solution of the girl's death. Frank Capra directed.

(Review)

A thrilling underworld melodrama, an underworld setting for a romance between a man and a girl, both of whom belong on the top rung of the ladder of society—that in brief is "Manhattan Knights," which opens its engagement today at the Palace theatre.

Barbara Bedford and Walter Miller have the leading roles, which means they have the romantic roles. Their performance leaves nothing to be desired.

Ray Hallor, Betty Worth, Joe Burke and Leo White also give creditable performances. Miss Bedford and Mr Miller, whose performances are the most striking, naturally have the most interesting roles. She is in the underworld to save her brother. He is there to satisfy a thirst for adventure and to save her. Neither belongs there, either through environment or weakness; their presence is a tribute to their own strength. Thus does their romance flower on such unstable ground.

College Lecture In French

George Duhamel, who will speak at Connecticut college in Knowlton Salon, Wednesday evening on The French Novel, is one of the foremost novelists and playwrights of contemporary France. It is interesting to know that Duhamel recognizes an indebtedness to Whitman, Emerson and William James. The lecture is to be in French and is open to all friends of the college conversant with that language.

Noted Woman Traveler to Lecture

Mrs. Jeanette W. Emrich is to speak at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Community house and the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational is inviting the women of the city and town to hear her lecture upon the subject of "This Changing World."

Mrs. Emrich is well known in foreign countries and in the United States for she has spent twelve years as a missionary in Mesopotamia in educational and industrial work. While there she developed a large industry and employed 500 Kurdish, Turkish and Syrian women. In 1918 she was sent to France by the Y. M. C. A. for lecture material. In 1921 she had charge of the work of the Near East Relief at Constantinople, 6,000 children whose fathers had been killed in the war, besides 3,000 mothers. She is authority on the Near East and the Moslem problem and has traveled all over Turkey, Mesopotamia, the Russian Caucasus and Europe.

She will speak to the girls in the evening at 7:30 upon "A Girls' World."

Chandler Wins Silver Loving Cup

"Today when the aveage person hears that a Chandler car has won a silver loving cup, the opinion at once is that it must have taken first laurels in some performance event, because it has always been known as a powerful motor car, states Mr. Olson of the Delco Garage, local Chandler distributing headquarters.

"Of cause, the Royal '75' Chandler Sedan can step, but instead of showing its paces on the track, this time it stepped out in front of a large field of contestants and won the loving cup for being the most beautiful car in its particular price class.

"This car beauty contest was staged during the style show at the Tennessee State Fair, held recently at Nashville, and the interest in the contest, which is truly different, ran hig. Closed cars of partically every representative make in the $1500 price class were entered, and the verdict of the judges in picking Chandler the winner for beauty, speaks much for the progressive body designing, smart appearance and color harmony of the Royal '75' Eight De Luxe Sedan, with special wire wheel equipment."

PULASKI HALL

Another one of those good times will be held at Pulaski hall tonight. Fred Thumm and his orchestra will feature: "Wear a Hat with a Silver Lining" and "Nagasaki." So don't forget tonight.

Quickest Way to Sweeten Stomach

PERHAPS that sour condition of your stomach is due to an over-stimulation of gastric acid. A sour stomach isn't very pleasant, and isn't very easy to excuse when there is so simple a way to remedy it. To neutralize the harmful acid and put your stomach in good order take a little "Pape's Diapepsin" after meals, or whenever the need is felt.

This fine remedy removes the cause of the trouble and promotes normal, healthy digestion. "Pape's Diapepsin" is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a package, and is the remedy which is recommended by millions because it gives immediate relief in all cases of difficult and painful digestion.

Be sure, therefore, to provide yourself with "Pape's Diapepsin" today, so that stomach pain and digestive troubles need never worry you again. Or sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or use this free coupon:

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS MAE RILEY

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Boyd of Golden street Monday evening in honor of Miss Mae Riley, who is to be married Thanksgiving day at St. Mary's Memorial church. Twenty-five of her friends attended. During the evening many games were played and enjoyed. Mrs. Henry Boyd entertained by singing several popular songs, being accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Cornelius Bresnan. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Boyd, assisted by Mrs. John Carroll, Mrs. Mary Grady and Mrs. Cornelius Bresnan. The dining room was very prettily decorated for the occasion with the color scheme of pink and white being used. The bride-to-be was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, namely, linens, cut glass, silverware and kitchen utensils. Among the guests present were: Mrs. Andrew White, Mrs. Cornelius Bresnan, Mrs. William McBurney, Mrs. David Campbell, Mrs. Fred Laycock, Mrs. Louis Combies, Mrs. Margaret Corcoran, Mrs. John Carroll, Mrs. Mary Grady, Mrs. Frank Monahon, Mrs. George Mills, Mrs. George Kramer, Mrs. Henry Boyd, Mrs. Timothy Dwyer, Miss Ann Savage, Miss Laura Savage, Miss Madeline Delaney, Miss Lillian Karkutt and Miss Mae Riley. The party broke up at a late hour, all wishing Miss Riley happiness and prosperity.

Miss Mary Mallon has resumed her studies at Holy Family academy in Baltic, after spending the holiday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mallon, of Convent avenue.

The Ladies' guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held their regular weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. William Banfield on Fourteenth street with a large attendance. After the business meeting, Mrs. Banfield served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. F. Lathrop. It was voted at the meeting to hold the annual Christmas sale and supper the first week in December.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dietrich and daughter, Doris, of Providence, and Miss Claire Jaeger of Dayville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDouch of Page street over the week-end.

Miss Mary Mahoney has returned to her studies at Holy Family academy at Baltic, after spending the week-end recess at the home of her father William Mahoney, of Golden street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mallon have returned to their home on Convent avenue, after spending a few days with relatives at Boston.

Miss Anna Delaney has returned to her home on Eighth street, after spending a few days at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Thomas Delaney, of New York.

William Sebastian has returned to South Manchester after spending the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Sebastian, of Sixth street.

At St. Mary's Memorial church, Monday morning at 8 o'clock, an anniversary requiem mass was offered for the happy repose of the soul of the late Mrs. Patrick Mitchell. Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor, was celebrant. The musical program of the mass was under the direction of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist. Relatives and family friends attended.

Andrew Johnson of Smith avenue has returned to his home after spending the week-end with relatives at Fall River.

Mrs. Ida Eaton has returned to her home at Westerly after spending a few days recently at the home of her mother, Mrs. Daniel Shaw, of Boswell avenue.

Mrs. Richard Hourigan has returned to her home on Central avenue after spending Tuesday at Hartford.

The many friends of Fidel Bellereau are receiving cards from him postmarked Montreal, Canada. Mr. Bellereau is spending six months with his relatives in Canada.

The T. D. Sewing circle held their regular weekly meeting at the home of Miss Alice Ryan on North Main stret Monday evening. The first hour of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles and was followed by a social hour. Piano and vocal solos were rendered. Refreshments, served by the hostess, consisted of assorted sandwiches, cakes, cookies, candies and hot chocolate. The dining room was very prettily decorated with the circle's colors of pink and white being used.

Mr. and Mrs. William McClafferty and family of Prospect street have moved to New York, where Mr. McClafferty is an overseer of the printing department of a finishing company.

Mr. and Mrs. William Delaney have returned to their home on Oakridge street after spending a week with relatives in New York city.

POINTS OUT REASONS FOR VICTORY OF HOOVER OVER GOVERNOR SMITH

The town school board held its reorganization meeting Tuesday evening at the school superintendent's office in the court house. Walter F. Lester was re-elected chairman of the board and Thomas J. Kelly was re-elected as secretary. Committees were named as follows:

Committee on finance, James C. Macpherson, chairman, Edward J. McKay and Walter F. Lester, ex-officio.

Committee on care of property, Robert McNeely, chairman, E. J. Brophy and Walter F. Lester, ex-officio.

Committee on supplies, Edward J. McKay, chairman, James C. Macpherson, and Walter F. Lester, ex-officio.

The resignations of two teachers, Miss Elizabeth H. Hagstrom, who was married last Saturday, and Miss Anna E. Madden were received and accepted. Routine bills were ordered paid and reports of committees heard and accepted. The meeting adjourned about 9:15 o'clock.

EX-SERVICE MEN RECEIVE ARMISTICE DAY COMFORTS

John P. Corcoran through the kindness of Norwich lodge of Elks, the Knights of Columbus, and American Legion, gave comfort packages to the 40 ex-service men at the Norwich State hospital and baskets of fruit to the five ex-service men at Uncas-on-Thames Monday.

Sorrow For Mrs. Lee's Death

Friends in Norwich have been awaiting information regarding arrangements for the funeral of Mrs Rosalie Hubbard Lee, formerly of Norwich, who died suddenly following an attack of acute indigestion at Los Angeles, Sunday morning. Mrs. Lee, with her mother, Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard left their Eastern Point home early in October for Los Angeles, where they had taken a house for the winter, as in previous seasons. Mrs. Lee's only child, Hubbard Lee was with them at Los Angeles. The news of Mrs. Lee's sudden death has caused deep sorrow to many friends in Norwich.

The funeral is to be held in Los Angeles, today (Wednesday). The body will be cremated and the ashes brought to this city for interment in the family lot in Yantic cemetery. Owing to the impaired health of Mrs. Hubbard, mother of Mrs. Lee, she will not accompany the ashes east.

Bridge Party and Surprise Shower

A bridge party and a surprise shower was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Yvonne Sabourin, Broad street, in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss May Riley. There were six tables of bridge and the first prize went to Mrs. Anna Murphy, Miss Mary Ward winning the second prize. A buffet luncheon was served. Miss Riley received numerous and beautiful gifts from her many friends.

TRAINER SUES OWNER FOR CARE OF HORSE

Before Judge C. B. Waller in the common pleas court here Tuesday there was on trial the $500 suit of Frank A. Smith of this city, a horse trainer, against Patrick C. Burke, of Litchfield, a well known horseman, for compensation for taking care of a $1,000 race horse for Mr. Burke for the past year. The defense is that Smith has been paid for his services.

The trainer makes his claim for $15 a week for 36 weeks for training, feeding and caring for the horse and admits that he has been paid $120, but claims that a balance of $432 is due him. The horse is a bay gelding and was known as "P. C. B." and "Billie Burke."

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Yellow chrysanthemums were the decorations when Mrs. C. Royce Boss gave a luncheon and bridge of four tables for the Tuesday club, at Lighthouse Inn. The prizes were won by Mrs. Leonard O. Smith, Miss Hannah M. Crowell, Miss Cecile Crowell and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown.

Members of the Monday club were entertained this week at luncheon and cards by a former member, Mrs. Edward J. Graham, at Wallstone, her summer home in Lebanon. Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen and Miss Minnie L. Palmer won the prizes.

Miss Katherine Brown, who has been a guest of the Misses Trumbull while returning from her cottage at Harwichport, Mass., has left town for Scarsdale, N. Y.

Mrs. Laurence E. Millea was hostess to the Tuesday Auction club. Mrs. John R. Tarrant and Miss Mary G. Shannon were the prizes winners.

LAND UNIT VALUES IN LAUREL HILL AND PRESTON

The third land unit value map shown above covers the Laurel Hill and Preston sections of the town of Norwich. Two more maps remain to be printed showing the unit values in the Plains section and the Greeneville section. It must be remembered that a large proportion of these streets are to bear depreciation because of topographical irregularities which detract from the value of a lot when figured by this method. Each lot has been carefully appraised by men experienced in this line of work.

The taxpayer should remember that the unit values shown on the map are for one foot of frontage for an ideal lot, 100 feet front by 100 feet deep. The unit value is affected by the depth of the lot, certain percentages having been figured out for different depths. Some of these are the following:

| Depth | | Depth Factor |
|---|---|---|
| 50 feet | | 72.5 per cent |
| 100 " | | 100.0 " " |
| 125 " | | 108.7 " " |
| 150 " | | 115.0 " " |
| 175 " | | 119.2 " " |
| 200 " | | 122.0 " " |

These depth factors give a method by which the property owner may figure the value of his lot. To do so, multiply the standard unit value in the street location by the depth factor. This will give the front foot value for the particular lot. Multiply this figure by the number of front feet in the lot and you have the value of the lot. This value is, as already stated, for an ideal lot, and is subject to certain deductions dependent upon the nature of the land.

The figures shown below are some sample computations, using a street with a $10 unit value:

Dimensions 50 ft. front x 50 ft. depth, unit value $10, depth factor 72.5 per cent, front foot value $7.25, valuation $362.50.

Dimensions 50 ft. front x 100 ft. depth, unit value $10, depth factor 100.0 per cent, front foot value $10, valuation $500.

Dimensions 50 ft. front x 150 ft. depth, unit value $10, depth factor 115.0 per cent, front foot value $11.50, valuation $575.

Dimensions 50 ft. front x 200 ft. depth, unit value $10, depth factor 122.0 per cent, front foot value $12.50, valuation $610.

Because a street has a $25 unit value, for example, it does not necessarily follow that a lot 50 feet x 100 feet will have a value of $1,250, for deductions will be made if the nature of the land warrants it.

FOUR ARRESTS MADE AT EAST GREAT PLAINS HOUSE

Two women and two men were arrested Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock by the state police in a raid at the home of Pecola Thompson, 43, colored, of Lexington avenue, East Great Plain. Mrs. Thompson was charged with conducting a house of ill repute. The others arrested were Barbara Simmons, 30, colored, charged with frequenting the house, Ralph Clark, white, of Old Mystic, frequentor and Fred Smart, Old Mystic, charged with violation of the liquor law. It is understood that Smart sold a pint of liquor to a state policeman recently. Clark and the two women were released on bonds of $200 each and Smart was locked up in default of $1,000 bonds.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gley and their daughter Miss Hazel Gley of Mystic have been visiting Mrs. Gley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meyer and family of Bilssville.

The lost letters this week at the Taftville postoffice include mail for John Mailhot, Hector Chenette, A. Revar, Aimmee Maurice and Ch. Haile (foreign).

Eric Ericson who recently arrived in this country from Sweden is making his home with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Satterstru mof South Fourth avenue.

Joseph Elliott has vacated his house on South B street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fortin and family have taken a house on Providence street.

Motorists on the river road to Jewett City notice the large flock of bronze turkeys on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dydo, which gives a Thanksgiving-like look to the landscape.

The annual Red Cross roll call or membership campaign was conducted Tuesday in the village by the Taftville chapter, A. R. C.

John Podultz has returned to his home in town after a few days stay with friends on a farm at Chesterfield.

Francis Bousquet has resigned his position with No. 4 weaving department of the local mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelard LeMoine are visiting relatives at St. Catherine, P. Q., Canada.

Miss Bernadette Lavalle of Terrace avenue has resigned her position with the No. 1 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

John Bassett and William R. Coughlin of Providence, R. I., were business callers in the village Tuesday.

Postmaster Edward Adams has received notice from the postmaster-general that business is to be suspended at all postoffices on Christmas day in order that the postoffice employes may enjoy the holiday with their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Kelley of upper Merchants avenue and Mrs. Clara T. Caron of Blissville were in New London Monday to attend the Armistice day observance.

Mrs George F. Blood of North Third avenue was in New Haven over the week end, where she visited her sister, Miss Elizabeth McMillan.

On a recent hunting trip, in the vicinity of Colchester, James White, Blair Cormier, George Shaw and Bunny Hoefer, caught two coons, one weighing 15 pounds, and the other 18 pounds. It was said that one of the coons had black teeth. They were caught by Shaw's dog, Jiggs.

NORWICH TOWN

COMPLETING TWO HOUSES IN TOWN STREET SECTION

At the triangular lot on Town street near Harland's corner, the property formerly owned by the late Mrs. Walter H. Gallup, also known as the Charles Johnson property, for several weeks teams have been carting sand to fill in the lot which was about five feet below the level of the state highway. Two weeks ago, a cement foundation was constructed, on which was placed a surface foundation of cement blocks. For the past few days men have been at work building a large modern two-story house. The frame work is completed and much of it is boarded in. On the westerly side of the house there is to be a sun parlor and at the front facing Town street a wide bay-window. Tuesday morning the Norwich water department broke ground to connect up the city water service. From all appearances this bids fair to be a handsome structure.

Still further up Town street, another house has been built on the bank thus making two new houses in that location the past year. The old Case house, more recently owned by the Miner family, now the property of Benjamin Krieger, has been moved several feet in an easterly direction and there remains room for another new house on this land. It is from this point that the sand was procured to fill in the lot near Harland's corner. The houses on the bank at the former Miner property have been made attractive with terraces at the front.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Snow of Huntington Green, accompanied by Mr. Snow's brother, A. C. Snow of Springfield, left Tuesday night for New York, to attend the funeral today (Wednesday) of their oldest brother, Howard S. Snow. Burial is to be in the family plot at Cranbury, N. J., the town where he was born.

Old Glory, was conspicuous both Sunday and Monday in commemoration of Armistice day, many residents in the town displaying the national colors.

Bruce Ladd and John Hurd were leaders Sunday afternoon at the Junior Endeavor meeting in the chapel "Little Faults That Spoil Our Lives," was the lesson topic. Nelson Ladd drew an outline on the blackboard illustrating the subject. The new officers for 1929 have been voted on and elected, installation to take place on Sunday, Nov. 25th. It was decided that from now on, the society is to be called the Junior Intermediate society, that programs may conform to all ages among the children in the future. Mrs. Ernest Washington played for the hymns.

The Congregational Y. P. S. C. E. held a business meeting Sunday evening in charge of Robert Stott, the vice president. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey was in charge of the regular meeting, ably treating the topic, "What Is Being Done for and Against World Peace."

The women of the Congregational parish have been invited to attend the meeting of the Woman's guild at the United Congregational church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the theme is to be Internationalism. The girls of the Norwich Town parish have been invited to the Community house Friday evening at 7.30, to hear an address on "A Girls' World."

Volunteers for the Every Member canvass of the Congregational church, scheduled for Sunday next, have been requested to send their names at an early date, to Herbert L. Yerrington. In previous years members have been chosen to make the canvass. This year it has been decided to let any person who expresses his willingness to do so.

ARREST IN FALLS SECTION ON LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Stanislaw Kusek, 37, of 50 Monroe street, in the Falls section of the city was arrested Tuesday afternoon by State Police Officers Whitmarsh and Smith on a charge of violation of the liquor law. He was released on bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court this (Wednesday) morning.

Entertained at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gilman of Spring Garden avenue entertained at dinner Sunday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lyon of Yantic. Those present were Capt. and Mrs. John E. Blackburn, Mrs. Thomas Doyle of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. William Ladd of Norwich Town, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lyon and children Robert, Norman and Doris and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gilman and son Raymond.

City Pinochle League

Play in the city pinochle league on Thursday of this week is to be at the Moose home instead of at the K. of C home. The schedule for the evening is as follows:

First half—Thermos vs. Duwell, Foresters vs. American Icy Hot, K. of C. vs. Eagles, Grotto vs. Moose, Junior Mechanics vs. American Legion; second half—Duwells vs. Grotto, Junior Mechanics vs. Moose, Foresters vs. Eagles, K. of C. vs. Thermos, American Icy Hot vs. American Legion.

Reserves Decision in Cow Case

Trial was concluded in the common pleas court here Tuesday morning in the suit of Walter Domoraski vs. Steve Rokowski, both of the Plain Hill district, who are disputing possession of an Ayrshire cow valued at $225. After Judge C. B. Waller heard the arguments by counsel Tuesday morning, he reserved decision.

The frame of another house is up on Stetson street.

Dana, a Passenger, Tells Story of the Foundering and the Subsequent Hours of Terror—Dana and Mrs. Clara Bell, a Stewardess, Had Been in the Water 22 Hours When Picked Up—Passengers Have Made Charges of Inefficiency, Indecision and Delay Against Captain Carey —The Captain Made No Effort to Save His Own Life, For He Jumped Into the Water Without Lifebelt, Though Many Were Within Reach.

(By Paul A. Dana, on a Sick Bed, as Told to Lorena A. Hickok, A. P. Staff Writer)

(Copyright, 1928, by The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—"Our first night out, Saturday night, the Vestris began to hit rough weather. As the night progressed, the storm got worse, until, before the night was over, we were in the worst storm I ever saw on the sea.

"It was late that night—perhaps a little after midnight—that a thing happened which I believe started the trouble that, ended in the tragic sinking of the Vestris.

"Two big waves hit her, almost simultaneously, bow and stern. The ship quivered from end to end. You could almost feel her wrenching. The next day she developed a leak, and I believe that started the leak. One of her plate must have been wrenched loose.

"It was rough Saturday night—and Sunday was rougher. Only four of the passengers beside myself were down for breakfast.

Vestris Was Listing

"The minute I stepped out of my cabin that morning, I began to feel uneasy, the Vestris was listing. I had been on steamers before that listed, but I had never seen quite such a list before. It looked bad.

"In the dining salon that morning I ran into Captain Frederick Sorenson, and we started to talk things over. He did not like that list either. Inasmuch as he was a sailor, I decided he must know what he was talking about—that he was a good man to stay with. We spent most of the day together.

"Whether the other passengers were uneasy, I don't know. Most of them were violently seasick and spent the whole day in their bunks. As I said, there were only five down for breakfast. No more showed up for lunch or dinner.

No Let-Up in Storm

"By the middle of the afternoon—while the storm still continued with no apparent let-up—the list had become so pronounced that all the furniture that wasn't fastened down in the dining salon and in the smoking room had slid over to the starboard side, where it was crushed around as the ship rolled.

"After dinner, Sorenson and I went into the smoking room and started for the bar. We managed to find two chairs wedged in on the starboard side of the smoking room, from which we could reach around into the bar. I had a couple of whiskeys and sodas, felt a little better, and went to bed about 10 o'clock. After wedging my bed into a corner of the cabin so it couldn't slide around, I got to sleep.

"My cabin was on the top deck, starboard side. When I woke up at 5 o'clock Monday morning there was the water—right on a level with my windows. There was water sloshing around on the floor of my cabin, too.

"My steward came in, groaning, with a badly wrenched shoulder. There was apparently a leak, he said, the hold was filling with water, and he had been bailing—with a bucket—all night. The cargo had shifted too, and the ship had tipped clear over until the water was on a level with my windows on the top deck.

"I dressed as quickly as I could, ate the banana which was all my steward could get for my breakfast, and went up on the bow port deck.

Crew Threw Cargo Overboard

"The crew was throwing the cargo overboard—all the stuff they could handle. It looked like bales of cloth and such stuff. Their derricks were not working, so they couldn't get rid of the heavier things, like automobiles.

"A little crowd of men stood up there, leaning over the railing and watching the crew throw the stuff overboard, some of them had come out with their life preservers on. They looked badly scared. Although I had dressed myself that morning with the idea that I'd probably have to leave the ship before the day was over, I tried not to take such a dark view of the thing. Some of us did what we could to cheer the more timid ones—told them this was just a precaution and so on.

"The sky had cleared during the night, and now the sun was shining brightly. The wind was still blowing hard, however—and those waves, great, towering black waves—they looked 40 feet high.

"Well, anyway, we've got a nice day to be wrecked on," one of the men remarked with a grin.

Officers Were Non-Committal

"Officers were going about, cheery but non-committal. They never told us anything. I never knew until after the Vestris had gone down that they had even sent out an SOS, although, when I went into the smoking room for a little while that morning and tried to read and divert my mind, I thought I heard the radio sort of sputtering.

"Once I went back to my cabin to try to rescue my money that I had left in a trunk, no use—the trunk was under water and wedged in under my bunk. I got my passport, stuck a pack of cigarettes in my pocket, and left—for good.

Ship Kept on Tipping

"The ship kept on tipping. It looked to me as though she had a list of 45 degrees. You could hardly walk on the deck.

"At 10:30, the women and children were brought up and were told to put on life preservers. Still we got no definite information from the officers or crew.

"The women were wonderful. Some of them were crying quietly—but there was no hysteria. One of them held in her arms a baby not more than 8 months old. All the children had been bundled up. They knew now that they would probably have to leave the ship.

"Isn't this fun?" I said to one little fellow with bright blue eyes, trying to cheer him up. He looked at his mother, who was crying, and nodded —solemnly.

Trouble Launching Boats

"At 11:30 they started to launch the lifeboats, over the port side—the side that was up as she listed. Then the trouble began. It took them two hours to launch those boats, an operation that usually takes about 10 minutes.

"The difficulty was that the lifeboats kept catching on the sides of the ship. The outsides of the lifeboats were covered with clapboards, like a frame house, and these would catch on the over-lapping steel plates of the ship's hull. They tried to hold the lifeboats out—away from the ship—by pushing with oars. It was a slow and painful process.

"Boat No. 8—The lifeboat to which I was asigned—had a hole torn in her side as they were letting her down. They patched it up with a piece of tin before they let us in, but the tin didn't hold.

"When the boats were about 20 feet from the water, they told us to climb down the rope ladder and get in. Two boats were filled with women and children before they filed No. 8.

"In No. 8, before I got in, were 10 women and 2 children—two youngsters about 6 or 8 years old. One of them was Mrs. Clara Ball, with whom I subsequently floated on the piece of wreckage. Another was Mrs. Inoye, wife of the counselor of the Japanese embassy at Buenos Aires. The ship's bartender was aboard, and our crew consisted of four Negro sailors.

"Three minutes after we pulled away, the Vestris keeled over on her side and sank.

"I think one of the funniest things I saw was forty men—those left on board—racing madly down her side and diving off from her keel.

"One boat never got away at all. It was still on deck when she sank. They had tried to launch some from her starboard side, but they had had to cut them away before they could be filled. These were rowed around where her keel had been when she went down, and they picked up a lot of the swimmers.

Ship Went Down Silently

"She went down silently—with just a little puff of steam. Her boilers must have been cold. The engine room had not been functioning all morning.

"Just a few minutes after we pulled away, our lifeboat began to fill with water. The tin patch tore away. She had air compartments, however, so that we could stay in her, even after she was under water.

"Still the women tried to keep calm, although the tears streamed down their cheeks. There was no screaming.

"One of the children started to whimper. His mother—hastily drying her eyes—tried to comfort him.

"It wasn't long before a big wave came along and capsized us. I got caught under the lifeboat as she turned over. I wasn't hurt, except for a little scrape on my neck. As I struggled out from under, I saw a woman's foot bob up. I grabbed it and hauled her with me. It was Mrs. Ball.

Boat Tipped Over—Woman Drowned

One of the women had been drowned when the boat tipped over. Most of the occupants came up, however, including the children.

"We all got on one side, pulled, and managed to right it again. The women and children climbed in.

"But the waves were pounding it to pieces. The air compartments, stored under the seats, tore loose. She was breaking up.

"Great black waves—they looked to be 100 feet high from where we were —kept pounding down on us.

"The children disappeared, and the women—all except Mrs. Ball.

"I saw a piece of wood—wreckage—floating in the water nearby. 'Come on,' I said. We swam to it.

"'Take hold of one end,' I told her, 'and I'll take the other,' silently she did so—never a whimper out of her. We then proceeded to make ourselves as comfortable as we could—to wait for help.

Water Was Warm

"The water was warm—warmer than you find it in an indoor swimming tank. It was so warm, in fact, that you hardly gasped when you plunged in. The fact that it was warm probably helped to save our lives. But it was ennervating, too.

"Miss Ball was fully dressed—with a coat and sweater on under her life preserver. She had on gloves, which certainly saved her hands. Mine are all cut up.

"What in the world is that you have stuck in the front of your life preserver? I asked her.

"She grinned and pulled up a slipper. Her feet were so narrow, she explained, that she had a hard time getting shoes to fit, and she wanted to save this pair if she could.

Clung To Spar

"Through the afternoon we clung to the spar. It wasn't so bad, except for the waves. Our life preservers held us up and having something to cling to made it easier to keep our heads out of the water. Only every now and then a great big wave would come crashing down on us, almost knocking the life out of our bodies and smothering us in foam.

"I think the hardest thing was to keep from getting excited and floundering about. We had to save our strength and not move about unnecessarily. Miss Ball was wonderful. She showed iron nerve. Never a whimper out of her.

"Several times during the afternoon we tried to hail the life boats, but they couldn't hear us or see us be-

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 14—(AP)—The 1928 Nobel prize in literature was given to Mme. Sigrid Undset, the third Norwegian author to be thus honored. In 1903, it was given to Jeornstierne Bjoernson, and in 1920, Knut Hamsun received it.

LONDON, Nov. 14—(AP)—The Daily Mail gives prominent display to an article asserting that William Harrison, an elderly resident of St. Helens, Isle of Wight, has invented a simple piece of machinery by which it is claimed a small quantity of electric power can be converted at trifling cost into relatively unlimited supplies of current at high voltage.

PANAMA, Nov. 14—(AP)—The British steamship Hazel Branch, which left Liverpool on October 20, advised port officials by radio that she was being towed toward Cristobal by the British steamer Loricstar. Although no details were given, the engines of the Hazel Branch are believed to have broken down. The vessels were expected to arrive Wednesday.

GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD THE PUBLIC

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14—(AP)—The trial of three members of the Farmers Mortgage-Bond corporation came to a sudden close today, when Carl G. A. Werner, of White Plains, N. Y., and Charles R. Warde, of Washington, D. C., president and sales manager, pleaded nolo contendere to a charge of conspiracy to cheat and defraud the public. Henry J. Murray, of Washington, D. C., secretary of the firm closed by inspectors of the state banking department last June, pleaded nolo contendere at the start of the trial yesterday.

The statutes provide for a maximum penalty of $500 fine and three years in state prison. Additional charges which faced the three men will be dropped, State's Attorney Samuel E. Hoyt said. Werner and Murray were charged with operating an investment business without a permit and falsifying accounts to deceive the banking commissioner. Warde was being tried for embezzlement of $4,069.66.

THE NEW NORTH STATION, BOSTON, FORMALLY OPENED

BOSTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—With five governors and the mayors of more than a score of cities in attendance, the new North station of the Boston & Maine railroad was formally opened tonight.

Built in exactly one year's time on the site of the old North station, the new terminal building embraces the railroad's passenger train facilities, the Boston Garden, seating 17,500 people, and a 13-story office building. Provision has also been made for the erection of a hotel on the property.

At the opening tonight the following governors were present: Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, Huntley N. Spaulding of New Hampshire, Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, John E. Weeks of Vermont and John H. Trumbull of Connecticut.

While the new station was being built, the site was used as a passenger terminal and it was estimated that 24,000,000 people passed through the station during the year in which the construction work was going on.

TWO U. OF C. STUDENTS MISSING IN SNOW STORM

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Caught in a storm that broke yesterday after they had set out for a hike to Snow Mountain two co-eds of the University of California and their two men companions were missing today.

The girls are Anne and Mina Itamsberger of Logan, Utah. They were accompanied by Robert Keeler and John Demoster of Los Angeles the former being engaged to one of the sisters, who are twins.

The four left in an automobile Friday for Upper Lake and intended to hike from there to Snow Mountain. Their continued absence was discovered when they failed to return to classes at the university.

Their car was found on Bear Creek in Lake county but searchers failed to locate any of the hikers.

Berkeley police have been asked to enlist the aid of rangers in the search.

PLAN REHABILITATION OF MT. ETNA VICTIMS

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Plans for the rehabilitation of almost 4,000 persons who have been made homeless by the Mt. Etna eruption were in progress today. Revised figures gave 3,952 refugees without work or housing and the local authorities are doing their best to aid them.

Much pride is felt here that the government is assuming the entire cost of reparation as is not calling on foreign aid even from the International Red Cross. Nation-wide subscriptions also have been prohibited. The loss from the disaster has been estimated at approximately $18,500,000.

The lava was decreasing steadily today.

MOUNT VESUVIUS EMITS LAVA FROM FISSURES

NAPLES, Nov. 14— (AP) —Almost simultaneously with the subsiding of fiery Etna, Mount Vesuvius, only 200 miles to the north, has begun to throw out incandescent matter from the same small orifice at the base of the central cone which erupted moderately last August.

For several days Vesuvius has been emitting lava from fissures in the main crater. The spectacle, while interesting to tourists and scientists, has left the local populace cold, despite the beautiful red effects in the sky, increased by pink tinted clouds.

$100,000 PLAGIARISM SUIT AGAINST CHAS. CHAPLIN

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14—(AP)—Charles Chaplin, film comedian, was made defendant in a $100,000 plagiarism suit here today. Antoinette Kopeski accused the comedian of having taken for his unrighteful use a scenario bearing the alternate titles of "The Circus" and "Charley of the Circus."

The plaintiff alleged that Chaplin made big profits from the production of his picture, "The Circus."

Stories Told By The Vestris Survivors

Victims Found Water Was Warmer Than the Air—Horrible Drawback Was Sharks.

(By the Associated Press)

Here and there in the [illegible] by the Vestris survivors were [illegible] human incidents that sparkled bright against the background of terror, distress and death. For instance, Alfred Ramos, an Argentine student on his way home to Buenos Aires, was thrown into the water when his lifeboat was smashed. The immersion didn't trouble him, because the water was warm, but he was bothered by the fact that the dye from his bright necktie insisted on running and discoloring his shirt. Ramos, wearing a lifebelt, floated 10 hours before he was picked up.

The ocean might have treated the Vestris' survivors more severely than it did. The steamer sank in the Gulf stream and passengers and crew were unanimous in saying that the water in which many spent long hours of waiting was really warm. Some even preferred to hang over the sides of lifeboats, for the ocean was warmer than the air.

There was one horrible drawback to that—sharks, schools of those voracious creatures of the deep seemed to come from nowhere—as they always do —and they mutilated many bodies.

Survivors criticised Captain Carey for his delay in summoning aid and in lowering the boats, but none denied that he died like a man. Carey and his second steward, Alfred Duncan, were standing on the tilted deck as passengers and crew struggled with the boats. The Vestris was singing fast. When the last boat had gone Carey turned to Duncan. "Jump," he said quietly. "You'd better jump, sir," Duncan replied. "Hell, no! You jump," was the skipper's terse answer. Duncan leaped into the water. He said today that he thought Carey jumped after him, but he did not see the captain again.

Captain Schuyler Cummings, of the American Shipper gave high praise to the pluck of P. A. Dana, South American representative of the Radio Corporation of America, and Mrs. Clara Ball, of Pleasantville, N. Y., a stewardess on the Vestris. They clung to fragments of wreckage from 1:30 p. m., Monday to Tuesday noon and were finally picked up by the American Shipper. Mrs. Ball was so exhausted that she couldn't talk when the ship got here. Dana, his eyes red from sea water, told the story of their plight and courage.

[illegible] kind words for Michael J. O'Laughlin, chief wireless operator of the Vestris. He stuck to his key to the last, sending his last frantic "help! help!" as the boats were lowered. He died in line of duty.

And then there was Lionel Licorice, the little quartermaster who hails from Barbados. Some said Lionel saved 20 lives. Anyway he was in charge of boat Number 14 and not only kept his cargo from the deep, but occasionally jumped into the sea to save a helpless passenger buoyed up by a lifebelt.

SMITH GREETED DURING TRAIN STOP IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—A large throng of well wishers, including Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, a leader in the democratic presidential campaign management, greeted Governor Alfred E. Smith late today during a 15 minute stop in Washington of the train carrying him to the Mississippi gulf coast.

Although the crowd pleaded for a speech when Governor Smith walked from the train shed to the station concourse, he pointed to his throat and shook his head.

"I am going south for a rest," Smith told friends. In reply to a question if he intended to play golf he said, "nine holes is my limit and I need sleep more than golf."

Alexandria, Va., his next stop, the governor was presented with flowers by a group of women.

ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING POST-GRADUATE STUDENT

CHICAGO, Nov 14.—(AP)—David Shanks, young Negro who confessed killing Miss Jennie Meta Constance, post-graduate student of Northwestern university, today went on trial for his life.

Before a jury sworn to inflict the death penalty if it finds Shanks guilty, Harold Levy, assistant state's attorney, credited with a halt dozen death verdicts in the past year, termed Shanks' crime the "most vicious and most brutal" he has ever encountered.

Witnesses today included the milkman who found the girl's body last August behind a clump of shrubbery from which Shanks had struck her over the head with an iron bar and the policemen who was called by the milkman and who found the iron bar nearby.

SCHOOLBOYS IN CUSTODY FOR STEALING AN AUTO

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—(AP)—Four schoolboys, in a stolen automobile, are being held here for New York authorities, after being taken into custody today "while on their way to see the world." Three of the boys, who range in age from 13 to 15, made no effort to escape but the driver ran, ignoring a threat by the officer to shoot. He was found an hour later outside the city limits trying to borrow a ride.

The boys all carried their school books with them and between the four they had $13 with which they said they were going to see the world. The machine was stolen in the Bronx shortly after the boys left school this noon.

Opening Session Of The National Grange

Plea For Speedy Passage of Legislation Designed to Solve Agricultural Problems.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—A plea for unity among farm organizations looking toward speedy passage of legislation designed to solve agricultural problems was voiced today by Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, at the opening session here of that group's 62nd annual convention.

Mr. Taber pointed out that many members of the grange had refused to support the McNary-Haugen farm relief measure, and said that this bill, or any similar legislation including the equalization fee, the excise tax or any price fixing program, is dead, as far as this or the coming session of congress is concerned."

R. W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture, welcomed the delegates from 29 states. He also took farm relief as the theme of his address and declared that, if farm groups had agreed to accept such legislation as President Coolidge had approved, farmers now would be receiving federal aid.

He added that he felt certain the farm organizations and the grange "will accept a bill which will meet with the approval of the congress and the president." Perhaps such a bill will not be perfect, but it will be one which will enable us to get started on the right track toward federal farm aid."

Both speakers criticized "corporations," or large scale farming.

Mr. Dunlap advocated increased duties on many agricultural imports and a national land policy opposing further reclamation projects "until evidences appear of actual need for food purposes."

He presented a long list of proposals which, if adopted, in his opinion "would raise farming to a higher economic level." Among these were encouragement through federal appropriation of further agricultural research to find new uses for farm products and by-products and to cure and prevent diseases among livestock and plants.

The grange adopted a resolution at its night session congratulating Herbert Hoover on his election to the presidency and pledging him their support "in every forward-looking undertaking for the good of the nation."

OBITUARY

Prof. William North Rice

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 14—(AP) —Prof. William North Rice, known to Wesleyan men as the grand old man, will sleep in Indian Hill cemetery in a grave beside that of his wife and to the burial lot many alumni will go to reverently recall his memory. Prof. Rice died at the home of his son in Delaware, Ohio, yesterday.

He had been in failing health for some time. He had made frequent trips to his son's home and when he felt better he returned to the campus which he loved so well. But this time on his trip he did not regain his strength and the end came peacefully. His body will be brought here for a service in the college chapel on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

An effort has been made to have Bishop Welch, of the Methodist Protestant Episcopal church, who was believed to be in Pittsburgh, come here to conduct the service. President James T. McConaghy and Rev. Mr. Chanter, pastor of the College church will take part, and they alone if the bishop cannot come.

SIX MEN KILLED IN CRASH OF ARMY TRANSPORT PLANE

When at a Height or 4,000 Feet a Mishap to the Right Wing Plunged the Plane Into a Tail Spin—The Plane Crashed Into a Cotton Field South of San Antonio, Tex.—Was Out on Maneuvers When the Accident Occurred.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 14—(AP) —Six men were killed and another was injured when an army transport plane crashed this afternoon from 4,000 feet in the air to a spot near here on the Corpus Christi road, ten miles east of Brooks field, aviation training school for the United States army.

The accident occurred when the right wing of the plane broke off from the fuselage and the tail piece broke away, plunging the plane into a tail spin. It crashed nose first into a cotton field.

The six passengers killed were in the cabin of the plane. They were piled up forward and their mangled bodies had to be taken to Brooks field hospital for identification.

The dead:

Private Arthur W. Hardesty, 24, son of Mrs. J. W. Howard, Lebanon Junction, Ky.

Private Nicefore Villereal, 29, son of Mrs. Virginio Villereal, Puanta Cochabainba, Bolivia.

Private Carl W. Harris, 27, son of Mrs. Minnie Harris of Winnsboro, Tex.

Private Harry W. Gauldin, 26, son of Mrs. G. C. Gauldin of Callander, Va.

Private Deaner T. McClusky, 19, son of Mrs. Martha McClusky of Placid, Tex.

Private Irvin Self, 23, son of Mrs. Lula Self of Victor, Tex.

Lieutenant Harvey, who was in the front seat with Frank J. Siedenaler, escaped death when they were thrown out of the tilting plane and landed with parachutes. Harvey was unhurt but Siedenaler had a broken rib that was pronounced not serious.

The broken right wing of the plane fell half a mile from the main wreckage.

The plane was a Brooks field ship and was out on maneuvers when the accident occurred.

All of the victims of the accident were members of the 46th School squadron and had volunteered to take the flight in order that non-commissioned officers who were slated to take the flight to get in flying time might attend a football game at the field.

The wreckage of the plane landed nose first in the field and threw the six men into the forward fold, striking their heads against the front end of the cabin of the ship.

All of the men had parachutes on, but did not get an opportunity to use them on account of the terrific speed at which the plane fell after the tail piece and the right wing came off. Aviation officers explained that the plane was like a plummet after the wings left it with nothing to check its downward fall.

The victims of the accident were taken to the Brooks field hospital, where members of their squadron filed past in order to identify their mangled bodies.

NEW ZEALAND VOTED AGAINST PROHIBITION

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Nov. 14—(AP)— Prohibition was defeated by a majority of around 100,000 and the government forces under J. G. Coates, prime minister, suffered a severe setback in today's election.

Prohibition was on the ballot in the form of a referendum as to whether it should be continued or whether a licensing system should be adopted. The vote was overwhelming against continuance of prohibition.

In the last house the government had 55 out of the 80 seats. Initial returns tonight indicated that it would have only 27 seats in the next house and that the new "United Party" formed a few weeks ago under the leadership of Sir Joseph Ward, former premier, would have an equal number with the government. The labor party, which had 13 seats in the old house, probably will have 20 in the new and there will be six independents instead of one in the next national legislature.

The government legislative defeat carried down with it several members of the cabinet. Among those who failed of re-election, on the face of early returns, were A. D. McLeod, minister of lands; O. J. Hawken, minister of agriculture, and J. F. Ralleston, attorney general.

HOOVER COMPLETING ITINERARY OF TOUR

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Nov. 14—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover will accompany the president-elect on his good will mission to South America.

This was disclosed today as Mr. Hoover went into a consideration of the variety of the details connected with the itinerary of his trip in a luncheon conference with Captain Victor A. Kimberly, commanding officer of the battleship Maryland upon which he will leave San Pedro next Monday for the continent to the southward.

Although considerable thought had been given to the possibility of Mrs. Hoover making the journey with her husband, definite decision had been delayed. With her, the wife of the president-elect will take Miss Ruth Fessler, her personal secretary.

Present plans call for the departure of Mr. Hoover and his party from Palo Alto on a special train Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The train would go direct to San Pedro without stopping at Los Angeles and immediately after his arrival there Mr. Hoover plans to board his ship and leave as speedily as possible.

DOCUMENTS READ IN STEWART PERJURY CASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—With the perjury trial of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, having dragged today through nearly five hours of reading of documents, more active developments were expected tomorrow in the testimony of Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota and an important ruling by Justice Jennings Bailey, presiding in the case as chairman of the sitting in the case. As chairman of the senate public lands committee, Nye is slated to be questioned about the replies given by Stewart when he was asked if he had any knowledge of distribution of bonds by the Continental Trading company.

The government has contended that Stewart denied any such knowledge in his February appearance, although he told the committee in April that he had turned over $759,000 of the bonds to a trustee. An attempt of the government counsel to bring up Stewart's answers in April was blocked temporarily by defense objection, and final ruling on this phase is expected tomorrow.

JAIL INMATES TESTIFY IN LEOPOLD MURDER TRIAL

WATERBURY, Nov. 14—(AP)—Four inmates of the New Haven county jail testified for the state this afternoon at the trial of Louis N. Leopold, charged with murder, causing death by wilful burning of a building and arson. Three of the men claim that Leopold offered them $2,500 each to testify while the fourth man claimed he overheard talk between Leopold and one of the men. The inmates of the jail appearing for the state were Harold "Crutchy" Lynch, Ralph Mele, John Amec, and John Conroy, all of New Haven. The defense rested its side of the case at 3 o'clock yesterday and the state opened the rebuttal by calling the four men who had been brought up from the jail. Indications are that all the evidence in the case which started slowly ago will be completed tomorrow.

GEN. BRAMWELL BOOTH IN SERIOUS CONDITION

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Attended by his wife, two sons and his daughters General William Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, is making a determined fight against acute neuritis at his summer home in Southwold, Suffolk, 50 miles from London.

In that place General and Mrs. Booth have for the last few years maintained a veritable private retreat. By wearing civilian clothes and having all mail and supplies delivered in the name of the general's secretary, not even the people who live in the neighborhood knew that this world figure was a resident there.

At the army headquarters here in London the Salvationists were encouraged today by a slight improvement in their leader's condition. But bulletins posted on every floor of the building warned his followers of the seriousness of his condition.

"The War Cry," the official organ of the Salvation Army tomorrow will publish a message from General Booth given to Commissioner Kitching a lifelong friend.

The message reads, "Now tell them what I say—all of them—not to lead God out. Tell the chief, Commissioner Higgins, that I am thinking of him, too, I want to get better and go back again to my place to my work and my duty."

READY FOR EXPLOITATION OF OIL FIELD CAVERNS

SEMINOLE, Okla, Nov. 14—(AP)— Lights blazed tonight on 92 oil derricks in the Maud and Missin pools ready for the rush to drill which will start at midnight with the termination of an agreement which long has prevented the sinking of new wells in this territory.

One well under the curtailment program sanctioned by the State Corporation commission, will be permitted to each 20-acre tract and two to each 40-acre tract.

For the last two months, the period of drastic restrictions, a small army of laborers and rig builders have been working at a feverish pitch to make ready for the exploitation of the oil field caverns of the earth.

A village of shacks and tents has sprung up in the region which it has been estimated houses approximately 10,000 oil field workers and their families. The rigs were lighted for the first time tonight. Crews stood by ready for the race to complete the first well.

Among the companies which have made ready for the drilling of the 97 wells in the mission and the 15 new wells in the Maud field are the Sinclair Oil company, the Amarado Oil corporation, the Independent Oil company, the Twin States Oil company, the Gypsy Oil company and several others.

DIED A VICTIM OF HIS OWN INVENTION

EAST ORANGE N. J., Nov. 14.—(AP) —Dr. Sabin A. Vonsochocky, research scientist in the commercial application of radio-active substances and the inventor of a luminous paint which has taken the lives of six women and afflicted a number of others with a bone destroying disease, died today, the seventh known victim of his invention.

Stricken four years ago Dr. Vonsochocky's sufferings took a different form of the disease which poisoned the others. The women all employed by the United States Radium corporation formerly located in Orange, of which the scientist was a director, were attacked by radium necrosis, a disintegration of the bone structure.

Dr. Harrison S. Martland chief medical examiner of Essex county, who treated the women, and personal physician to Dr. Vonsochocky, said the inventor's disease was caused by the inhalation of radio-active matter. In the words of Martland, his bone marrow refused to make new blood for his body, and death was caused by a plastic anemia.

TWO HELD FOR ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

CHICAGO, Nov 14.—(AP)—Ben Zuckerman and Ben Glaser, reputed gamblers, tonight were booked on charges of assault with intent to kill after police reported four persons had identified Zuckerman's automobile as the one used by assailants of John Acker, Northeastern university student last Sunday.

Acker who was shot in the back and is in a critical condition in a hospital told police he thought Zuckerman was the man who shot him but he was not positive.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED FOR ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 14—Committees and managers have been appointed by the Windham County Poultry Pigeon and Small Stock association for the 1929 Willimantic exhibition, an annual affair given at the state armory during the week of January 9-15. D. E. Cavanaugh of South Chaplin was again named general manager at a meeting held in the chamber of commerce rooms. Fred Glover was named superintendent of the junior exhibits and George M. Graves of this city, superintendent of the dog show. Professors D. E. Warner and R. E. Jones of the Connecticut Agricultural college have been chosen to superintend the educational features that will be staged during the exhibition. Earl J. Arnold, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, will superintend the commercial exhibits in which entries are made by local business men and manufacturers. Dr. Laura E. Willis who will be in Florida at the time, had promised to send alligators and tropical pets for the exhibition. Many new features will be added in keeping with a precedent established since the annual exhibition was inaugurated. This year the dog show will be for one day and evening.

A glimpse at the records of accomplishments in the line of civic improvements for 1928 show that the street committee of the common council took the lead in adding to the comfort and attractiveness of the community. Much work was done through this committee despite the fact that expenditures were kept remarkably low despite the amount done. The outstanding work of the year is the paving of Main street from the railroad crossing to the foot of Union street with tarvialithic. Mountain street from Bridge street to Reservoir road, which had been under consideration for the past three years has been resurfaced and sidewalks constructed. Sidewalks and new surfacing have likewise made Hope and Ann streets very inviting. On Birch street, a new city street, sidewalks are being laid and the street treated with trap rock for permanent surfacing. The general condition of the city streets and sidewalks is now considered to be the best in years.

Much valuable sewer construction had been effected through that committee. Sewers have been laid on upper Prospect street, Mansfield avenue, Wilson and Tingley streets, Willowbrook and Natchaug streets and similar work is underway on Francis and Godfrey streets and Manners avenue. Owing to the lower level of these thoroughfares from the main sewer line on Windham Road it has been found necessary to install a small pumping station in the locality and this is now being done. The arrangement is to have the sewerage flow northerly on Godfrey street to Manners avenue and westerly in Manners avenue to a point about 500 feet on Godfrey street to a sump tank. Sewerage also flows in Francis street west to Manners avenue and to this sump tank. The course from the tank is to the pumps where the sewerage is pumped 400 feet southerly in Manners avenue to a manhole from where it flows by gravity to the Windham Road sewer. The new sewer pumping station is the first to be installed in the city.

The city water supply has likewise been extended over several streets including Tingley street from Main to Prospect streets, a distance of 1,500 feet on High street from Buck and Dean streets; and on Bain and Greystone streets.

All of the city construction work, including street construction, sewer and water main installations has been done by local labor with the exception of the laying of the final dressing of tarvia-lithic on the Main street work.

THINKS HE HAS VIOLIN MADE BY FAMOUS STRADIVARI

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 14—While inspecting an old violin which he secured 20 years ago from Frank Davis of Brooklyn in exchange for some merchandise, John W. Kilpatrick of 30 Oak street found a slip of paper pasted inside and bearing the name of the famous violin maker Antonio Stradivari of Cramore, Italy. The slip bore the date 1716. The violin had been in the Davis family for four generations and for years it was stored in an attic. Mr. Kilpatrick also stored the instrument after securing it until recently when his daughter, who is a musician, began to use it. Mr. Kilpatrick, who was a resident of Brooklyn up to six months ago, is of the opinion that the violin he possesses is one of the rare products of Stradivari.

HEALTH FOUND IN FRUIT COCKTAIL

Simply made with these four fruits—and sugar to taste

This simple fruit cocktail will bring enjoyment and health to your table! Sections of grapefruit, of oranges, of pineapple and bananas—with the addition of granulated or powdered sugar to taste. The dissolving of the sugar blends the flavors of the various fruits and adds to them sweetness—nature's perfect flavor.

One of the main purposes of cookery—one often lost sight of in these days of extreme diets—is to add to the zest and enjoyment of foods. And there is no other ingredient so useful in making other healthful foods gracious to the palate as sugar. The good cook, by the judicious use of sugar, makes all kinds of fresh fruits, vegetables and sweets tasteful and delicious.

We spoke above of extreme diets. More than that, they are dangerous to health. Eminent medical authorities are alarmed at the anti-starvation reducing diets. Extreme reducing removes the protecting fat that nature intends everybody should have. It tends to destroy the protection against disease. It very often causes permanent injuries to the most delicate organs and tissues.

One of the first laws of health is to eat enough. Diet sensibly. You can't outfoot eating and keep well.

The Sugar Institute.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomachics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, follow the advice so often given in these columns take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

HOW THE DECOY DUCKS DECOYED A SPORTSMAN

Gordon Clark and Ben Chesebro are having a race on getting ducks during the hunting season. The prize is a chicken dinner, the loser to pay for it. Hawk Eye Clark was over to Mumford Cove and had his decoys all set, waiting for the ducks to fly by so he could shoot them on the wing. It was getting late Tuesday afternoon when along came Quick Eye Chesebro out to beat his rival who now is six ducks ahead. Seeing the wooden ducks sitting pretty in the water with the waves making them go up and down Quick Eye thought it was time to tie the record and let go both barrels that set the heads going one way and some of the ducks did not move so the crack shot ran down to pick up the dead ones and found out that they were only wood. Seeing his rival, Clark, there he said, "Gee! I thought they were real ducks feeding. It is my mistake this time!" Hawk Eye Clark took it as a joke and said "Better put on your glasses when you go ducking again; if a wooden cow was standing in the water I think that you would shoot at it, thinking it was a deer after a drin kof water!" It was an afternoon spoiled for both hunters.

Made His Hoe Useful.

Farmer William Franklin was getting in his crop of late potatoes that the frost did not touch, at his farm, Sugar Brook and was digging the spuds up Tuesday morning while the sun was hot. Something stirred in the weeds. It was a 6 foot and 3 inch white ringed black snake. It was mad and lively na on a hot day in July, ready for a battle. Standing on its tail and quick as a flash it made a leap for Farmer Franklin when his back was turned: but he turned around in time to see the snake going to grab his ankle. Even a baseball player in his days who could swing a mean bat, he made a two-base hit with the hoe and struck the snake on the head, leaving it as dead as a doornail. If the snake had bitten him it would have killed Farmer Franklin, for that snake's bite is deadly poisonous. He said "Thanks for the lucky hoe that I had in my hand! What sign is it when a snake is seen in November? We will have to ask our village weather man, Lyle Chesebro, who has a book about signs. It means something about the weather when a snake is mad in the month of November."

The coal barge Porter, of New York, was towed into the town dock by a tug with a cargo of 589 tons of black diamonds for a local coal company. A large force of men went to work to unload the barge and it will take about six days to finish the job. Foreman Howard Durkee has charge of the men Capt. Fred Bradford said it was a rough trip from New York here as they struck a storm and moved only 2 miles an hour. The waves were breaking over the barge and talk about wind! It would almost blow the hair from your head. It was like a small hurricane on the salt water.

Angus MacLeod Jr., of New Haven was in the village for a day this week.

John Riley, after spending a week with relatives on Prospect Hill has returned to his home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Rollins are visiting Springfield, Mass., relatives.

Rogers boat yard on Riverside avenue is a busy place hauling up boats to be put away for the winter months. Foreman Orlando Clark has 40 boats already in winter quarters and more to haul out. The Northern Light used in the summer for the poor little rich girls at Camp Mystic is in place, with a covering over it so to keep out the snow and it is the longest boat that Rogers has hauled out in his yard.

NEW YORK ACCOUNTANTS TO AUDIT TOWN BOOKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 14—This afternoon a contract was closed between a special committee of the town made up of Patrick Riley, Dayville, Attorney E. L. Darbie and Frank J. Gorman of Danielson and Mahoney, Bowen and company of New York and Norwalk, this state, for an audit of the books of officials of Killingly, as provided for by a vote of a special town meeting in late October. The preliminary work of the audit will start Thursday morning, and will get into full swing next Monday morning.

Attorney Darbie said this afternoon that the auditing concern, rating certified public accountants in New York and a firm of recognized ability and merit, has agreed to do the work for $2,000, which is the amount made available for the purpose by the special town meeting. The agreement was entered into by the auditors following an advance survey of official accounts of the town, which survey was made to determine the extent and difficulty of the work to be undertaken.

It is understood that the auditing contract entered into this afternoon includes an agreement for the payment of a retainer of $400 at the outset of the work, payment of an additional $600 within the next three weeks and the balance of $1,000 at such time as the auditors make their final report.

The audit to be made will cover the six fiscal years between Aug. 1, 1922, and July 31, 1928. It contemplates a detailed checking of all of the records of the selectmen, the town school committee, the town treasurer, the town tax collector, the personal tax collector, and if after this a reconciliation with the town treasurer's accounts is not obtained, the accounts of the town court also will be audited.

The outcome of this audit will be watched for with particular interest by the citizens of the town. Even those who sponsor it, and with exceedingly strong support of the electorate, say that they have no anticipation that it will disclose other than minor discrepances in accounting. They stress the point that it is not good business to permit a town to run on through the years without a checkup of accounts by outside auditors.

CHAMBER NOT TO PETITION STATE ON HIGHWAY MATTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 14—With President M. H. Berthiaume presiding, the chamber of commerce held its November meeting at the Attawaugan hotel last evening, the business session proceeded by the usual supper period. This important gathering did not attract the percentage of the membership that was expected, though, business-wise, this is the eve of Christmas, and there remains much for the organization to do to prepare for the most active shopping period of the year, if the business that Danielson expects to get is to be obtained.

Secretary William S. Hunter of Goodyear read the minutes of the last meeting, in October, and they were approved.

The matter of petitioning the state highway department to do something relative to getting the state highway, now and all the year in course of construction, between Danielson and Brooklyn, in safe and easily negotiable condition for the winter season was promptly dropped when President Berthiaume announced to the members that the state now has taken over the work and will do its utmost to advance operations before real winter sets in, so that there will be no real difficulty in getting over the road during the months of snow and ice.

A proposal that the borough expend $1,500 additional for better street lighting was not enthusiastically received by the meeting, and suffered a further setback when Warden Harry E. Back, who happened to be present, and upon request, expressed his personal view on the proposal. The warden told the chamber members that he personally was opposed to it, stressing, however, that was merely a personal opinion, and that a fully attended meeting of the court of burgesses might take a different attitude. Mr. Back explained that it has been the policy of the borough administration for several years past to avoid all expenditures tending to increase the tax rates of the borough, and that this policy was in the interest of its manufacturing concerns, as well as of the individual taxpayer.

In more happy vein was the discussion about preparations for Christmas. The outcome of this talk appears to promise a visit to Danielson from Santa Claus Christmas week. Never has he personally visited Danielson, but the chances seem good that he will do so this year, officially.

With consent of the meeting, President Berthiaume appointed a committee consisting of Gordon J. Gale, Attorney Harry E. Back, Clifford H. Starkweather, Walter Anderson and E. A. Sullivan to present a list of nominations for chamber officers to be elected at the December meeting, to which time adjournment was taken.

Next Saturday the bow-wows are to have their day in Danielson. The event is to be the fall dog show of the Windham County Kennel club, and the members assert their confidence that the success of the affair will be even greater than the two results they look back upon for similar exhibits during the past few years. The club has memberships in various towns of the county, and has been an aggressive factor in the development of interest in the ownership of good dogs.

OBITUARY

Orville H. Baker

Orville H. Baker, 33, owner of a garage business at Brooklyn, died at his home in that place Tuesday, after an illness of about three weeks with a heart ailment. He was known all through this territory as a capable automobile mechanic, and prior to going to Brooklyn and establishing a business of his own had been employed in garages in Danielson. Mr. Baker was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baker and was a native of Iowa, though the greater part of his life had been spent in the east. In addition to his parents he leaves his wife and a child, two brothers, Ellery, of Brooklyn, and Lester, resident in South Dakota, and a sister, Mrs. Vernal LeDuc, of Woonsocket.

The hunting season is drawing to a close without much having been said about it. However, it is reported to have been to date an average successful season. Some good bags have been brought in by hunters occasionally, but this has not been the general rule, and a probable answer to that is that there are about a dozen times more hunters than there were before the automobile age made it possible for so many to get out in the country and enjoy the thrills of a day in the open in quest of whatever the law may allow one to take. The coming week will bring the end of the present hunting season for game birds, though hunters may interest themselves in getting rabbits well into December.

On behalf of her co-workers in the interest of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross, this week engaged with its annual roll call, Mrs. H. D. Harrison said today that her appreciation of what Danielson business men have done to help the canvass, and also the banks, is high indeed, and she is also appreciative of what the public is going to make the drive effort a success.

Last evening at the regular monthly meeting of the warden and court of burgesses, routine business was transacted, including authorization of payment of current accounts.

Thursday of this week Asa A. Dean, personal tax collector will begin receiving such taxes due from hundreds of the citizens of Killingly.

This afternoon there was a meeting of the Merchants committee and other members of the chamber of commerce at the Danielson Trust company building to plan for the Christmas business campaign, a program that promises much of interest to the purchasing public for miles around.

News items in this column relative to the recent operations of chicken thieves in this territory have aroused poultry men who have large flocks to taking extra precautions against being robbed, it developed today. It also appears that the chicken thieves, with their cars loaded with stolen chickens, were in Goodyear a night last week, evidently having lost their way and being uncertain at the time as to just where they were.

Preparations are about completed for the trip of Windham county boys to Providence Saturday to be guests, under an arrangement with the Windham county Y. M. C. A. and the interested educational institutions at the Brown-New Hampshire football game. attendance at the evening school, holding sessions on designated nights each week at the high school.

One matter that local candidates at the election of a week ago Tuesday must have in mind is the matter of filing election expenses that they may have incurred.

It is indicated that Christmas club check releases by Danielson banks will be made sometime between December 10 and 15, though no one outside the banks know the exact date. It is anticipated that this money will run from $125,000 to $150,000 this year, again exact figures being unavailable.

FRANKLIN

When the Franklin Thimble Wearers met Saturday at the home of the leader, Miss Florence Rockwood, records, books and reports of the past year were completed. It was decided to meet Friday evening with Miss Elles of Storrs, who would help the girls outline a program of work for the coming year. Because of the very few fourth year clothing clubs in the state, no regular program of work is outlined for them. Refreshments were served by Miss Rockwood.

Several of the local young people attended the Norwich C. E. union meeting at Lebanon Congregational church, Friday evening. Rev. Vere Abbey, a missionary in India, gave an interesting talk on Kipling's poem, "On the Road to Mandalay." Those attending from here were: Arnold Manning, L. Edward Bushey, Ray Beckwith, Nelson Robinson, Mrs. George Beckwith, Mildred Manning, Harriet Robinson and Ruth Robinson.

Herbert Pierce and son, Herbert, Jr., and Miss Hazel B. Swift of Norwich were calling on local friends, Monday.

STAFFORDVILLE

A fine new button shop has been built in this place, owned by B. Schwanda & Sons. The machinery is being moved from the old building into the new building, which will soon be in running order.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Lyon and Mrs. Frank Belcher visited friends in Westford Monday.

Miss Ethel Von Deck and Victor Yates of Boston were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Belcher, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Miller are spending a week's vacation with relatives in Selmour.

Mrs. H. A. Bosworth was the guest of Mrs. Ada Burlingham in Willimantic Tuesday and Wednesday of this week; also visited her daughter, Miss Ruth, in St. Joseph's hospital, who underwent a minor operation Tuesday

CITY DEPTS. CRITICIZED AT LONG COUNCIL SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 14—At the November meeting of the common council last evening nearly every department of the city government from the police to the water department, came in for severe criticism and when the motion for adjournment was made little had been accomplished except the paying of the bills for the current month.

Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston appeared before the governing body of the city and recommended that the council purchase for him 1,000 feet of new hose to meet any emergencies that may arise during the coming winter months. The first charge presented, that later turned into a heated debate, came from Mayor Richard. "Something is radically wrong in the fire department, in regards to the hose system," said the mayor. "I can't understand it. The condition of hose is the best in my recollection and still you are asking for more." Chief Thurston said that the Main street fire station is one of the worst examples of a fire headquarters of any station in New England and the condition of the floor is such as hose is destroyed each time it is drawn across it because of the acid which has seeped into the boards from the fire extinguishers. The mayor stated that he had examined hose in the station and found acid only in one spot on the hose and termed the chief's argument a joke.

Alderman Charles Ryan addressed the council and told of the shortage of hose. "We cannot hang our hose up to dry after a fire, because we have not enough of it. It must be reloaded into the trucks before the apparatus returns to its quarters. I think some vandals are casting acid directly upon the hose." Finally it was proposed that an investigation be started to find out if such a thing was actually occurring. Chief Thurston stated that he had been petitioning the council for the past three years to have the fire station floor renewed and no action has taken place. The mayor, in a joyful manner, thought that the city should provide the chief with a "removable floor," and referred the matter to the fire committee to investigate.

The chief of the department was informed that he had power to regulate the membership of the companies and he reported to the council that a drastic move will soon take place. The associate members, who hang around the fire headquarters and manage to be present at all social sessions but turn a deaf ear to a fire alarm, are soon to find themselves outside. If the chief's plans are carried out the only associate members will be the retired firemen. "The rest are 'dead wood,'" the chief said. The matter of the purchasing of new hose was given consideration when the experiences of what fire were explained to the council by Mr. Thurston and the matter was referred to the fire committee to investigate and see whether funds can be obtained for the purpose.

Police Dept. Criticized.

The second city department to be taken to task was the police and it all came into the hands of Alderman Robert Chadwick, who charged that the police are paying little attention to the enforcement of the city ordinances and violators are going on without even warning from the police. Mayor Richard called for a report from Alderman Chadwick, chairman of the ordinance commission, as to what work they had accomplished in regard to the revision of some of the city ordinances. "We have done nothing," Mr. Chadwick said. "The police should first enforce the present ordinances before we go ahead and make new ones." The first example of delinquency on the part of the police department was given as the fire lane on Main street, beginning at Bosworth's grain store and continuing south to the Second Congregational church. Cars are parked there all day long and are not even presented with a parking tag by the officers. Because the police once arrested a man for parking in the fire lane and the case was thrown out of court, the police have failed to exercise their rights in the further enforcement of these ordinances. We should clean up the police department and put the money in some other place if this is all they amount to," Alderman Chadwick said. Mayor Richard also spoke of instances where he had found the fire lane clogged with parked cars and in the event of a fire in the north end of the city it would be impossible for the apparatus to reach its destination by that route. He also outlined one incident where he instructed the drivers of the parked vehicles to move their cars. Alderman Migneault, a member of the city police commission, stated that he called the attention of cars in the fire lane to one of the city's police officials and he replied "We will never have a fire in the direction of the fire lane." The alderman's remark brought the councilors to an uproar, and it was finally laid on the table to be investigated during the coming month.

Parking only on one side of northern School street should be allowed while the high school is playing any athletic contests on the field, was the opinion of Alderman Chadwick, so as to allow a free movement of traffic and relieve a fire hazard. The matter was referred to the highway and police committees to investigate.

Motor Equipment Recommended

Alderman Migneault, chairman of the city highway committee, introduced a motion relative to the purchasing of new equipment as well as supplanting the present team of horses with a new pair. The city team has passed the limit of service by many milestones and should be supplanted, in the opinion of the commissioner of streets. Also the department needs new harness. Alderman Dean jumped to the floor and recommended that the department motorize. Mayor Richard was opposed for several reasons, the most logical was the economy plan. The horses cannot be economically replaced by autos unless additional equipment is purchased. The plan was referred to Street Commissioner Migneault to investigate and report at the next meeting of the council. The highway department will not purchase much this year, according to Supt of Streets Frank Dumas, as the appropriation is nearly exhausted, though he stressed the need of a new horse to replace the present one, which has been in service for nearly 20 years.

Pay or Walk, Says Mayor

Either walk or pay for your own rides, is the mayor's advice to the city officials. This question was brought up again when Chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners Ralph E. Thurston asked the council to compensate Supt. C. D. Sharpe of the water department for the use of his private car when using it in the intereats of the city.

Mayor Richard was opposed to the plan and told of several cases where city officials are using their cars and are doing it at gratis. "This is different," Mr. Thurston said, "Mr. Sharpe holds a high position as head of the water company and should be compensated for the use of his car, or the city should furnish one." Aldermen Dean and Chadwick avored the plan of the water commissioner and were about to pass a motion when the alderman-at-large asked that it be considered during the coming month, to which they agreed.

Trolley Poles Sold

Alderman Migneault reported that he had been informed by the Connecticut company that they have sold their old trolley poles to a Worcester junk company and soon will remove them from the sidewalks. The council voted to buy five of these poles that are now being used to support "no parking" signs in the fire lane. These uprights may be purchased cheaply and will save the city some money, should they be forced to replace them with new ones.

Alderman-at-Large Ames reported that the W. J. F. Raffery Plumbing company of Putnam has been awarded the contract for the installation of apparatus that will heat the central fire station from the power plant of the Putnam Inn. The Raffery bid was $329 and called for the best of material and also an inspection by a heating expert of the Hoffman Heating company before the job will be complete. The council favored the action of Mr. Ames. Mr. Rogers of the Putnam Inn is to assume a portion of this bill.

The police report for the month of October showed a total of 17 arrests and were for the following offenses: intoxication, 5; assault, 1; motor law violations, 4; larceny, 2; liquor law violation, 5. The total amount of fines and costs amounted to $1,381.52.

A petition from the residents of Groveland avenue, introduced by Alderman Chadwick, asking for the installation of a street light in that vicinity was denied by the council, as the street was not accepted by the city.

A motion to adjourn was accepted and the council's most heated meeting of the year came to a close shortly before the 11th hour.

Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's church in Norwich, was the speaker of the day at the regular weekly meeting of the Putnam Rotary club, held this noon at the Putnam Inn. Father Keefe is widely known throughout the state as an orator and established a high reputation during the World war as a four-minute speaker. His address was without a title but its theme was the upholding of Americanism and Rotaryism, Father Keefe exemplifying both in his brief address. The Norwich pastor is well known and beloved in Putnam and his acquaintances were delighted in his first appearance here this year.

The Rotary club will be host to the chamber of commerce at a banquet to be held at the Inn on the evening of Dec. 4. The ladies of the chamber of commerce and the "Rotary Anns" will also take a leading part in the gathering.

Visitors at today's meeting were: Dr. Joseph C. Sullivan, president of the Webster club, Webster, Mass.; John C. Conway, also of Webster; Clifford E. Herrick of Providence, and George E. Goss of New Haven. Dr. Joseph A. LaPalme of North Grosvenordale was admitted to the membership of the club today.

Mrs. W. J. Bartlett and Mrs. E. L. Beebe are in Boston today on a business trip.

That Putnam may soon have a new industry located within its limits, is a current report and is being eagerly devoured by the townsfolk, although one was unable to substantiate the report with any authority. Representatives of a large New Jersey concern are investigating a well known Putnam manufacturing site and are considering the offer of the owners but have forwarded no definite information as to what stand they will take regarding the establishment of a plant in this city. The committee of industries of the chamber of commerce is making every effort to clinch the concern before some other New England city is chosen. It was expressed today that it will be several weeks before a statement is made containing any hope of such an organization settling in Putnam, but many are satisfied to learn that the report is more than an ungrounded rumor.

City Health Officer Peter A. Gardner announced today that the spread of contagious disease has been greatly checked in Putnam during the past fortnight and the epidemic of measles among school children has been greatly reduced as there were only two cases of a minor nature reported this week within the city. The health officer's list contained no reports of any other disease.

Experiments with various types of radio receiving sets by Putnam fans have proved that the act of the federal radio commission in assigning new wave lengths to stations is one of the most noted improvements to reception accounted for in many years. A number of stations that hitherto have failed to come in on the dials of sets of Putnam listeners are now picked up with remarkable clarity and volume. Much disturbance that was responsible for the loss of many of the interesting campaign speeches of

THE VESTRIS" DISASTER

It is a distressing story that is told by the survivors of the Vestris. It means that an unusually thorough investigation must be made to really get at the facts and determine just what happened from the time the ship was found to be in trouble until it sank. The stories which are told do not indicate that the situation had been handled as well as it should have been. As we look at the situation now and from a distance it appears that there ought not to have been such a large loss of life, in fact few if any should have been sacrificed.

An investigation will determine, unless all the important evidence has gone down with the ship, whether there was any justification for the long delay in the calling of assistance. Had the S O S call been sent out when trouble was first disclosed it seems probable that all could have been taken off without difficulty. Just what caused that delay, barring the probability that it was believed the situation could be successfully met aboard ship and the vessel proceed on its way, is difficult to understand. When help was called the ship must have been in a much more serious condition than was believed. Reports indicate that an unwise delay in summoning aid jeapordized the lives of the human cargo, resulted in the death of many and suffering and anxiety to the rest.

But further than that the difficulty experienced in launching the lifeboats, the condition of some of those boats and the criticisms of the passengers who escaped indicate that all was not as well as it should have been aboard that craft. The impression is gathered that it was not prepared to meet the emergency that confronted it, that there was an unwarranted chance taken in delaying the appeal for assistance.

The captain has gone down with his ship. Traditionally that was correct and yet it is to be regretted that he was not spared in order that he might tell the story of the disaster from the standpoint of the man in charge of the ship.

Once more there have been taught lessons as to the dangers on the high seas and how there must be adequate preparation to meet them.

HOW FRANCE VIEWS ARMISTICE ADDRESS

According to expressions coming from France that country feels, as the result of the Armistice address by President Coolidge, that the United States has taken an irrevocable stand in regard to the war debts.

Just why France should have waited until this time to come to such a conclusion is difficult to understand. It seems impossible that it could have gained the impression that the United States was thinking of abandoning its established policy after it had arranged for the payment of the debts with all but one of the countries. Certainly there has been no justification on the part of the French government in balking over this question in the expectation that we would change our minds and finally approve the idea of cancellation.

There has been plenty of evidence that the United States had made up its mind concerning the debts. It has endeavored to make such readjustments as conditions in the respective nations required and that same consideration has been displayed toward France in the agreement which had been negotiated but which has not as yet been ratified.

Apparently the president's latest statement has been taken seriously and it seems not improbable that it has given impetus to the demand for the approval of the Berenger-Mellon agreement to such an extent that a real effort will be made to meet the situation. There are good and sufficient reasons why it is for the best interests of France that it should be done without further delay.

PICKING THE CABINET

When it comes to selecting the cabinet of the next president of the United States, Mr. Hoover is the man who is going to do it. That is his privilege and he has announced that any authoritative information concerning the makeup will come from him.

That of course might be expected to put an end to speculation but it will not. It is a habit to discuss possibilities and there is little in which some take greater delight than in pointing to those who may be found in a president's cabinet. It is only speculation, but it furnishes entertainment and an interesting topic for discussion. It is quite evident, also, that if enough names are mentioned it is not improbable that those who guess may hit upon certain members.

Already the name of D. W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico at the present time, is being mentioned as a possible successor to Secretary Kellogg of the department of state. Mr. Morrow has made a wonderful record in diplomacy since going to Mexico City, so much so that those looking about for possibilities are disposed to look favorably upon his selection. And yet there are those who give weight to the idea that Senator Borah will be called into that cabinet office.

As for the secretary of the treasury the impression prevails that there will be no change. Secretary Mellon has intimated that he would be willing to continue and certainly he has rendered such service to the present administration as to justify its continuance.

William J. Donovan, an assistant attorney general, who has been in conference with Mr. Hoover this week, is held to have the inside course for the attorney generalship, has the qualifications without any doubt and stands close to the president elect.

Within a few days the name of Congressman Tilson of New Haven has been mentioned as the probable choice for secretary of war. He has the training and expert knowledge which would make him particularly valuable at the head of that department and his many friends in Connecticut would be highly gratified at the recognition of his qualifications. His work in the house of representatives stands out most conspicuously and he would grace any cabinet.

Cabinets are not, however, produced by guesswork, and in his own good time Mr. Hoover can be expected to do as he promised, make known his selections.

SMALL AND IRREGULAR GREETING CARDS

An appeal has been made by the postmaster general that greeting cards for Christmas be kept to the standard size. He would have that done for both cards and envelopes because of the assistance that would be given to the postoffice employes in the handling of the mail.

The postmaster general states that the ideal size is about three by five and a half inches and efforts have been made to get the cooperation of card manufacturers and dealers.

Such an appeal has been encouraged because of the inclination to use all kinds of shapes and sizes for Christmas cards. There are those thumb nail cards and envelopes which permit of little else than the postage stamp, the cancellation of which invariably damages the address, while those of irregular shape cannot be put through the cancellation machine. The result is that it means work and handicaps the efficient handling of the mail at one of the busiest times of the year.

Of course there will be those who will insist that inasmuch as the rates required are paid it ought to make no difference to the postal employes what the shape of a card or envelope is, or what the size of it. They will maintain that they have the right to employ an odd shaped card to display their individuality if they want to, and that it ought not to be expected that they would be required to contribute anything to the handling of the Christmas mail once they have complied with all the requirements. They can be heard insisting that the postoffice department should be prepared for and meet the demands placed upon it by the rush of business from regular or irregular cards.

The irregular cards are unquestionably a fad. They will be quick in passing and that can be aided by the buyer if he or she feels disposed. As for the tiny cards and envelopes there is slight excuse. They can be rightly regarded as a nuisance and it cannot fail to impress those who give it any thought that the ease with which they can be lost is sufficient reason for refusing to use them.

HEALTH EXAMINATIONS

It is a well known fact that the human machine wears out. We may think it is invulnerable but that doesn't make it so. For a time there may be indications that all is going well but time and wear have their effect. Perhaps abuse enters into it for there are times when it looks as if some individuals gave much more consideration to the care of their mechanical contrivances than to themselves.

In connection with the automobile we are told that there should be inspections and checkups in order to prevent trouble. It is necessary that good care be taken in order to insure long use and to prevent it from becoming a menace to others. But while we are giving needed and prescribed attention to pieces of machinery it is frequently the case that the human machine is subjected to serious neglect.

The mayor of the city of New York has recently been displaying his interest in a health examination and he is quoted as advocating that each and every one should take the time and trouble to have himself checked up at least once a year. This is in keeping with recommendations which have been freely made and which are followed by some. Too many, it is probable, give little thought to such health examination until something goes wrong. If it is possible to prevent trouble and overcome defects it must be apparent that the best success is going to be obtained if that is done before serious conditions develop. Examinations as often as once a year, whether it seems necessary or not, should mean valuable protection as well as prevention. We ought to think as much of our own welfare as that of an animal or a machine.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Even the democrats have to admit that the solid south isn't what it used to be.

Thus far no one has heard that Mr. Smith has invited Mr. Hoover to a Thanksgiving dinner.

The man on the corner says: Some of the trouble makers must be terribly envious of Mt. Etna.

There seems to be a decided unwillingness to leave the future of the democratic party in the hands of Chairman Raskob.

It is very seldom that the socialist candidate for president is right, but he was this year; he predicted the election of Mr. Hoover.

Chairman Raskob is now busy with the democratic party's deficit. That ought to melt away quickly when the bolting millionaires are called upon to pay.

SISTER'S BULLETIN.

The Turners had had money; you could see that at a glance. But also, alas, you could see at a glance they had had money a long time ago. Nothing remained now but past glamour. And not very much of that.

But the Turners were by no means forgotten. Socially they rated still, although financially and commercially—but why go into it? We have all either been in the same case as the Turners or we have known them, by other names.

Miss Emma Sue was the only one of the six sisters who had ever married. But she had now been for so long a widow that Miss Emma Sue she was to the entire acquaintance of the family.

As for Miss Patricia, Miss Violet May, Miss Cynthia and Miss Mary Frances they, in the words of Miss Emma Sue, had had "proposals but no opportunities."

There remained the baby, now aged 37, Miss David Barclay, named for a posthumous father, adored and agonized over by the five elder sisters during the whole dull course of her narrow life. Everything that they had not had they yearned to have her savor.

And now she was about to savor something. Miss David Barclay had had an invitation. Miss David Barclay was invited by an old friend of the family to go on a trip. A trip right away from the frowsy little old home in the frowsy little old townlet to the west coast. In a private car!

"David must take my violet velvet," said Miss Patricia.

"And my flowered georgette," said Miss Violet May.

"I thought she'd better have my brown hat and coat; they're the newest," said Miss Emma Sue.

"She has her own rose crepe and she must take my blue jersey," said Miss Cynthia.

"I think we'll have time before she starts to make up that green crepe that I was going to have, and then my black satin is still perfectly good," ended Miss Mary Frances.

A period of furious sewing, altering, fitting, planning ensued. The Turners fairly buzzed, they were so busy, and, believe it or not, they fairly radiated joy. Was not the darling of their hearts, their baby, about to sally forth, about to see far stretches of the great world, about, who known, to have—to have—adventures? (To each of the Turners an adventure meant something in the way of a sweet, a gentle and a culminating romance.)

Through all the dizzy whirl of preparations Miss David Barclay moved as one in a wistful dream. She smiled without knowing why; her eyes misted over—also without her knowing why.

At last the great day dawned. Miss David Barclay in the blue jersey, the brown coat and hat, some one's stockings, some one else's gloves and her own neat shoes, was ready, poised for flight.

"Darlings," she said, "I never can tell you how sweet you are to me—how much I—and this is what I've decided. At Cincinnati, after wearing it twice, I'm going to mail back Sister Patricia's violet velvet; at Des Moines I'll send back Sister Cynthia's blue jersey dress, because I can travel home in my own red one; at Salt Lake City I'll start Sister Violet May's georgette home. Sister Mary Frances, I'm going to post your black satin back from Los Angeles, and I'm so sorry, dear Sister Emma Sue, I'm just afraid I'll have to keep your brown hat and coat the whole time. Good-by, darlings, good-by, I'll write every day!"

Miss David Barclay was gone on her trip. It was productive—let me not keep you in suspense—of a proposal, of a match so overwhelmingly suitable and advantageous that not one of the sisters could find a single thing to criticise even if they had wanted to be critical.

They waited, breathless, at the station, each with the question on her lips which would determine whose was that coveted share of the responsibility.

"Which—which dress did you wear? She was not a Turner for nothing—that youngest sister.

"My secret," she said, her eyes could worm it out of her.—Exchange.

snapping—and none of them ever

YOUR HEALTH

How To Care For The Scalp.

By H. A. INGALLS M. D., Roswell, New Mexico.

Since time immemorial the hair and scalp have been neglected, with the result that the term "dandruff" has resulted in a false conception as to what really constitutes dandruff. From the number of so-called "dandruff cures" on the market for many years, it is apparently little understood. The chemical study of many of these advertised remedies shows they have no therapeutic value, and that some are positively harmful for the hair and the scalp.

Dandruff, from the average viewpoint, is the normal accumulation of the epithelial cells and sebaceous material that are to be found on the normal scalp, unless removed by frequent shampooing.

The body is constantly undergoing tissue change and the dead and useless material must be thrown off. In the skin, which includes the scalp, there are millions of small glands, called sebaceous, that furnish an oily secretion that softens and keeps pliable the covering organ of the body. It is this secretion that, following the shampoo, restores the luster and softens the hair within the period of a very short time, especially if the scalp is massaged and the hair brushed.

On the non-hairy portions of the body, the useless cells and oily secretion are washed and worn away but on the scalp, if protected by hair, but must be removed by washing.

For this purpose the best material to use is soft water and a non-rancid soap having an oil base that will produce a good lather, and this should be used with friction to the scalp, using the fingers or a brush of moderate stiffness. When the cleansing process has been finished, clean, soft water must be used until all the soap and waste material have been removed.

The application of oils, or advertised preparations for the production of luster and combing qualities should be avoided.

The term "dandruff," in its true sense, should be used to describe that diseased condition of the sebaceous or oil producing glands that results in an excess flow of the natural oil, and that results in scalp irritation, which unless checked will result in baldness. This is marked by the accumulation of whitish scales, or crusts, that thickly cover the scalp and cling to the hair. Such a condition indicates need of the service of a specialist in skin diseases for its relief.

The scalp should be cleansed when dirty following exposure, but under normal conditions should not be shampooed more than once each month. The massage following a shampoo should not be vigorous enough to injure the hair and scalp.

A brush should be applied to the scalp and the hair once or twice each 24 hours, thoroughly to restore circulation, which is sometimes disturbed by reason of tight fitting hear wear.

Pimples

If you want to get rid of ugly, disgusting pimples in a hurry, try the harmless new remedy, in convenient tablet form, called Kitagran. It gets rid of the impurities in the blood so quickly that the skin clears up right away—often within 24 hours. You can get Kitagran from Lee & Osgood Co., who will return your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 — This business of anti-imperialistic demonstrations" in countries to the south is getting to be a great bore to American consuls whose official residences are more often than not the scene of such shows.

When it was a new thing in anti-American propaganda, recipients of these unwelcome attentions were inclined to be a bit worried as to what it was all about. Experience has taught them, however, that more often than not the row may have been secretly inspired by high authority for various reasons. For one thing, it gave opportunity to exhibit high zeal in suppressing the demonstrators. Such action might have a sort of beneficial boomerang effect by way of evidencing official friendship for Uncle Sam.

Demonstration Dud

Such a case presented itself out of nothing in the consul in a Latin-American country not long ago and his report is amusing. It would not be quite clubby to name the consul or the country where he serves, but he was so bored with the whole matter that when a squad of police rushed up to shelter him from alleged impending assault, he grinned—and went out to play golf. That had a very depressing effect on the show. The police hung about the consulate a while, then disappeared. The demonstration failed to come off, but the local papers burst out next day with articles lauding the authorities for prompt action to suppress the demonstrators and protect the good name of the nation on its friendly relations with Uncle Sam.

"Indications are that the demonstration would have been about as exciting as a Sunday school picnic unless the politicos deliberately set about making it otherwise" the consul whose life was held to be in danger reported.

Why Politicos Demonstrate

The outline of "inspiring causes" given by the man on the ground, however, is the most illuminating bit of the report. He set them out in order as follows:

"(1) The desire of a few unimportant white-collar patrioticos to address the assembled multitude, a privilege much sought after in a country of irrepressible wordsmen.

"(2) The opportunity for the laboring folk to congregate on a Sunday morning and enjoy the one popular outdoor sport of tweaking the eagle's beak.

"(3) The desire of local journalists to obtain free news.

"(4) The secret desire of the politicos to impress the uninformed American people with the ardent love of country of the entire people and their solidarity in resenting any objections to cancellation of concessions or repudiation of debts when such engagements have been entered into by their less scrupulous and patriotic predecessors without their participation.

Of course the scheme lost all its publicity value when the consul refused to take the demonstration seriously. Obviously, there would be no cable reports sent home about it that would get into American papers, so it was all wasted effort and the authorities called it off.

"It appears," the consul said, "that the demonstration was prevented on the ground that permission had not been granted for the meeting."

Little Talks on Thrift

Youth of America Learning.

The progress of thrift education in the schools of the United States is rapidly assuming important proportions. A survey recently completed by Mr. Albis of the savings bank division of the American Bankers' association revealed that 3,950,237 pupils of our schools at the end of the last school year were depositors in the school banks of the country. During the year, these youthful exemplars of thrift deposited $26,005,138 in school savings banks and received interest amounting to $947,610. Net savings for the year were $9,476,391.

An increase of 6.3 per cent for the year was noted in the number of pupils participating in school savings bank activities; deposits gained 9.7 per cent interest, 19.5 per cent; withdrawals, 15.4 per cent and net savings, 0.12 per cent.

Meanwhile, the American Society of Thrift is meeting with amazing success in the introduction of thrift studies in the schools of the United States. The course of thrift study outline for use in years one to eight, inclusive, recently completed after 12 years of research, is finding its way into hundreds of schoolrooms throughout the country. This means that thrift at least has reached a fixed place in the curricula of the schools of the country.

It is of importance that the teaching of real thrift along scientific lines should accompany the progress of school savings banks. The school bank affords an ideal medium for the encouragement of savings but it must be borne in mind that too much stress should not be placed upon the saving of money alone.

Parents should be tremendously interested in these matters. They should realize that their children should not only be encouraged to save money but they should be given proper instructions in the broader aspects of thrift such as thrift of health, of time and opportunity. They should be taught that all thrift does not begin and end with saving pennies.

It is a matter of pride that the United States now leads the world in thrift education. No greater asset could be possessed by any nation.

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

At Home

At the supper table a discussion was brought up about a neighbor who had been in a wreck. It had not been the neighbor's fault, but he found out that he would have to pay for having his car fixed.

The elder son exclaimed, "I'll bet Mrs. X. is up in the air about it!"

"Oh no," spoke up five year old Charlotte, "she's at home!"

Just One More

Bobby, a five year old has reached the inquisitive age. The other day he was particularly annoying, and his mother who was busy sewing, was nearly distracted from answering his questions. Finally she could stand it no longer.

"Bobby, stop asking those foolish questions and run out and play," she ordered. "Oh, just one more," pleaded Bobby. "Say, if I was twins, which one would I be?"

Burgess Bedtime Story

Rusty is Worse Off Than Before

By Thornton W. Burgess

Oh, how the world of pain would shrink
If people now and then would think.—
Old Mother Nature.

Spang! A bullet from the air rifle of a boy who thought he was having sport tore through a leaf close beside Rusty the Fox Squirrel. This was bad enough, but a moment later something worse happened. He heard the voice of a boy calling and it wasn't the voice of the boy who was shooting at him. Then the boy down below answered. They called back and forth two or three times and presently another boy appeared on the scene and joined the one down at the foot of the tree. He also had a horrid air rifle.

"What are you shooting at?" he demanded of the firstcomer.

"A Squirrel," replied the firstcomer. "A big Fox Squirrel I hit him once. Between us, we ought to get him. We'll have a lot of sport hunting him."

"Where is he?" demanded the newcomer eagerly.

"Way up in the top of this tree," replied the first boy. "He manages to keep the trunk of the tree between him and me, but with two of us he won't be able to do that. Do you see the knot way up there on the trunk of the tree? Well, that Squirrel is just about opposite that, only on the other side of the tree. Now, you keep a sharp watch there, while I go around on the other side. Be ready to shoot the instant he comes around."

The newcomer said he would. The other boy backed away a little and began moving around the opposite side of the tree. No sooner did he get there than Rusty whisked around the trunk of the tree close to that knot the first boy had pointed out. Spank! A bullet chipped a piece of bark off right close to Rusty's face.

"Did you get him?" yelled the first boy.

"No," replied the second boy. "Look out, he's coming around your side!"

Spang! Another bullet passed right through Rusty's whiskers. This was getting too hot for comfort. There was nothing for it but to try another tree. Rusty ran out along a limb and jumped to the nearest limb of another tree. As he did so, two bullets whistled close by him. Then began a race through the treetops. As fast as he could, Rusty tried to get away by jumping from tree to tree. Below, shouting excitedly, ran the boys shooting whenever they got the chance. Another bullet hit Rusty and stung. My, how it did sting! Fright and pain made him feel as miserable as ever a Squirrel did feel.

Once he thought he had found a place of safety. It was an old crows' nest. Rusty curled up in the nest and was out of sight. But it didn't take the boys long to guess where he'd gone. One of them started to climb the tree. Rusty waited until he was almost to the nest. Then he jumped out and once more run for his life. The moment he was out of that nest, the other boy began shooting.

It was great fun for the boys, but it was very dreadful for Rusty. It always is very dreadful for the ones who are hunted. The worst of it was, Rusty couldn't see any reason for it. He understood being hunted by Redtail the Hawk and Hooty the Owl, and other enemies among the furred and feathered folk. Those people were hungry and they were hunting him because they were hungry. But these two-legged creatures didn't need him for food.

Almost Wild With Eczema

Happy To-day

When the dreadful itching of eczema drives you frantic and you are praying for relief you need Peterson's Ointment.

Make no mistake—many thousands who have turned to this tried and true ointment as a last resort have ended all the terrible misery so quickly that they blessed the day they bought the first box.

Because it acts so quickly millions of homes consider Peterson's Ointment a necessity.

It's so wonderful for skin eruptions, pimples, acne and salt rheum, for instance, that many times only two or three applications are needed to make the skin clear and healthy.

Its mighty healing power is clearly shown when used as a household remedy for burns, scalds, abrasions, bruises, insect bites, windburn and chafing. druggists will tell you it is unsurpassed. Generous box 35 cents.

And they seemed to be having a good time in hunting him. Rusty couldn't understand it at all. When you come to think of it, it is rather hard to understand.

Pure Rhenium

Rhenium the chemical element whose discovery was recently announced in Germany by Drs. Walter and Ida Noddacks, has now been obtained in pure form. The first discovery was based on the findins of the characteristic lines in the X-ray spectrum as detected by photographic plates, but now the Noddacks have succeeded in obtaining, after long and difficult refining processes, a small quantity of the substance itself. They describe it as a black powder of high melting point, that unites readily with a number of other pure elements. In an atmosphere of pure oxygen it ignites, forming a white oxide. The quantity so far obtained is very minute, only two milligrams, or 7-100,000 of an ounce, and the experimenters are now at work to elaborate more of it, which will permit of exact quantitative chemical examination.

POETRY

Winter in the Sierras

The pines are black on Sierra's slope,
And white are the curling snows,
The flowers are gone, the buckthorn berry,
And coldly the north wind blows;
The pine boughs break,
And the pine trees speak
The language the north wind knows.

There's never a track leads in or out
Of the cave of the big brown bear,
The squirrels have hid in their deepest holes
And fastened the door with care;
The gaunt wolf howls,
And the red fox prowls,
As they hunt far down from the lair.

The eagle hangs on the wing all day
For the chance of a single kill,
And the little gray hawk hunts far and wide
Before he can get his fill.
The white flakes sift,
And the snow wreaths drift
To the canyons deep and still.

All on Account of the Baby

An ache in the back and ache in the arms,
All on account of the baby.
A fear and a fright and a thousand alarms,
All on account of the baby.
And bottles and rattles and whistles and rings,
From cellar to attic a clutter of things.
From morning to night and to morning again,
More fuss and more fume than an army of men,
And a head that is stupid for lack of its sleep,
And a heart where a flood of anxieties leap—
All on account of the baby.

A joy in the heart and a light in the eyes
All on account of the baby.
A growing content and a growing surprise,
All on account of the baby.
And patience that conquers a myriad of frets,
And a sunshiny song that another begets,
And pureness of soul as a baby is pure,
And sureness of faith as the children are sure,
And a glory of love between husband and wife,
And a saner and happier outlook on life—
All on account of the baby.

Under the assumption that guests on the higher floors are not bothered by flies or mosquitoes, the management of a New York hotel was rather nonplussed when a woman on the twentieth floor requested a screen for the window of her room. The explanation was that she was afraid that pigeons might fly in the open window at night.

Many people have heard and read stories of the fabulous wealth of the Osage Indians of Oklahoma and are accustomed to the tradition that all Indians are either rolling in wealth or comfortably provided for. A state investigation of the Indian tribes in New Mexico has proved this belief untrue. Only 2 per cent of all the Indians in America have incomes exceeding $500 annually, the New Mexico committee found after weeks of investigation. The individual per capita income of 33.3 per cent of all Indian tribes is less than $200. This condition especially affects Indians in the southwestern states. The incomes of the tribes is in proportion to their per capita wealth, except the Osages, whose rich oil royalties bring their individual incomes to $11,265 each year.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT FOR AUTOMOBILE INJURIES

Settlement out of court was effected here in the $5,000 insurance suit brought on account of an automobile accident by Mrs. Agnes C. Connor of this city against her husband, Joseph P. Connor. It was to have been tried in the superior court Wednesday before Judge John Richards Booth and a jury.

Mrs. Connor sued for injuries sustained on Feb. 7, 1927, when the automobile in which she was riding, operated by Mr. Connor, ran off the road, struck a fence and overturned. The accident occurred in the town of Bozrah, along the Norwich-Bozrah road. It was claimed in the suit that the driver of the machine was negligent in the operation of the car, resulting in her injuries. She was thrown under the car.

Mrs. Georgias Brand

Following a long illness, Mrs. Abbie Scranton Brand, wife of Georgias Brand, of Glasgo, died in this city Wednesday afternoon. She was born in Union, this state, and on May 27, 1874, was united in marriage with Georgias Brand at Christ church by Rev. Dr. Geisy, then rector of the church.

Surviving Mrs. Brand are a daughter, Mrs. Edgar Clark of Glasgo, and two sons, Russell Brand of Preston and Nathan Brand of Voluntown. There are also several grandchildren and great grandchildren, and nieces and nephews.

Miss Mary M. Ring

Miss Mary M. Ring died suddenly at her home, No. 49 Broad street, late Wednesday afternoon, following a long period of ill health. She had been under a physician's care for some time. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, who was notified of Miss Ring's sudden death, stated that her death was due to acute heart dilitation, from which she had been a sufferer for some time. The fatal attack came to Miss Ring while she was alone in her home and her death became known when a friend called at the house and the pulmotor from the fire department was summoned there in a fruitless attempt at resuscitation.

Miss Ring was born in Norwich, the daughter of the late Michael B. and Mary T. Ring. She had always made her home in this city. Miss Ring graduated from the local public schools and attended the Norwich Free Academy. She was a member of Mercier Assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, and of St. Patrick's parish.

Surviving are three brothers, Charles B. Ring of Springfield, Mass., and Bernard and Joseph T. Ring of this city. Miss Ring was well known to many Norwich people who are deeply grieved to learn of her sudden passing from earthly life. The surviving family have the sympathy of all in their sudden bereavement.

Mrs. James McCaffery

After an illness of some duration Mrs. Mary Quinn McCaffery, wife of James McCaffery of No. 122 Chestnut street, died Wednesday morning about 7:30 o'clock at St. Francis' hospital, Hartford. Mrs. McCaffery was born in Norwich October 3, 1868, the daughter of the late Patrick and Mary Quinn. Thirty-four years ago she was united in marriage with James McCaffery at St. Patrick's church by Rev. John Neale. Mrs. McCaffery was a member of Division No. 54, Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H., Rosary society, and a member of St. Patrick's parish.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Miss Margaret McCaffery of Hartford and three sons, Bernard McCaffery of Shelton, Patrick McCaffery of Norwich, and Joseph McCaffery of Niagara, N. Y. Mrs. McCaffery has many friends in this city who are grieved to learn of her death, and who extend deep sympathy to the surviving family.

FUNERALS

Angelo Degangi

The funeral of Angelo Degangi was held Wednesday morning at 8:15 o'clock at his home, No. 62 Division street with a large attendance of relatives and friends. There was a solemn requiem mass at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. Rev. W. A. Keefe, rector of the church, was the celebrant, Rev. John Walsh of Bridgeport was the deacon, and Rev. Frederick M. Goholan was the subdeacon. Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ and Edward T. Connelly sang, Pie Jesu at the offertory and When Evening Comes as the waiting hymn. Chopin's Funeral March was the recessional number. The burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery and Rev. Fr. Keefe conducted the committal service. The bearers were Joseph Lalina, James Casey, James Nicholson, Carmello Antonelli, Joseph Longo and James McHugh. There was a wealth of very beautiful floral tributes and mourners were present from Westerly, Willimantic, New London, Hartford, Stafford and other places. Undertakers Shea and Burke had charge of the funeral arangements.

LAFAYETTE MAIN PICKS HOOVER FOR SECOND TERM

In a statement made to The Bulletin, Lafayette F. Main of North Stonington, declared Wednesday that this is the first time in his life that he took any interest in politics and the reason for his interest was because Herbert Hoover was nominated for president. He considered Mr. Hoover a second George Washington and thought it his duty to assist him so that he spoke for Hoover in his own town and used every effort to help him in several different localities in other states. Mr. Main says he knows he caused a number of people to make a "quick and everlasting change" from Al Smith to Herbert Hoover after hearing the North Stonington man talk.

Mr. Main alleges that from the beginning to the end he predicted Mr. Hoover would record the greatest victory that ever was known in the United States, which came to be true and now he predicts that "we will have the most prosperous years to come this country has ever seen, and not only that but the people of the United States will be so pleased with Hoover's administration that they will surely reelect him for another term giving the country eight good years ahead of us. No business man need to be afraid, but every one can be sure he is safely protected for the next eight years to come."

NORWICH PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY RE-ELECT A. W. LILLIBRIDGE MASTER

ALBERT W. LILLIBRIDGE

Norwich grange, No 172, Patrons of Husbandry, held its annual meeting for the election of officers Wednesday evening in Steiner hall and re-elected as worthy master Albert W. Lillibridge, who is state senator elect from this district.

The election of officers was the principal business of the meeting which was prolonged until past midnight as there were several nominations for almost every office and the balloting was long drawn out. The following were the other officers elected: Overseer, Msr Elizabeth W. Murray; lecturer, Mrs. Amy Coles; steward, Albert Birdsey; assistant steward, D. Thurston Lillibridge; chaplain, Charles E. Ellis; treasurer, Edward Cook; secretary, Mrs. Ida E. Richardson; gatekeeper, Mrs. Adelle Spaulding; Ceres, Mrs. Ora Spencer; Pomona, Mrs Susan Lillibridge. Flora, Mrs Eliza Walker; lady assistant steward, Miss June Woods; executive committee for three years, Tolley E. Babcock.

The officers will be installed at a meeting in January.

Doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served after the meeting, which had an attendance of over 100.

POSSIBLE ROAD PLAN FOR SMALL TOWNS IN STATE

Small towns in the state of Connecticut may soon have an opportunity to consolidate into districts for the purpose of engaging the services of an expert in road building, and it is not unlikely the incoming general assembly will consider the matter, it has been stated in Hartford.

The problem of road building in the smaller towns of the state so as to stand up under the strain of automobile traffic, and the development of rural districts into country homes and estates, is what is creating the new order of things, and the old time "first selectman," who in days gone by was largely selected because of his ability in road building, may soon become a thing of the past, at least so far as road building is concerned. In his place will come a road "supervisor," who will be engaged by a commission on which each of several small towns will have representation.

The commission-supervisor idea is now in general use in New York state and is said to have solved a perplexing problem for many small towns in that state. The same problem is said to be developing in Connecticut, and some of the smallest of the towns are reported to be experiencing difficulty in obtaining the services of a "first selectman" with sufficient experience to warrant his being engaged as a road builder, and those who may have the experience cannot longer devote the necessary time to road building work because of the limited pay received. The solution to this seems to be a plan of permitting a group of towns to engage the services of a road builder, who would devote his entire time to the work, and who could supervise the construction and maintenance of roads within his district.

Republican leaders of the incoming general assembly have been approached with relation to the commission-supervisor plan, and legislation may be introduced in the next session of the legislature, which would permit towns to so operate. There would be nothing compulsory in the plan, but would merely make it possible for towns to so operate if they found it to their advantage to do so.

In recent years there have been few changes generally in the personnel of the first selectmen in the state, towns being more than willing to retain their services just as long as they were willing to stay. With the passing of the old timers, however, some of the towns have had some difficulty in filling their places, even with the total disregard for party politics in making the selections. In towns which for years have been solidly republican in state and national matters, democratic candidates for first selectman have been endorsed year after year, but even this is now said to be failing in an effort to retain road builders.

The rapid development of new sections of the state has done its share to bring about the change. The western portion of the state has been growing very rapidly into a section in which wealthy New Yorkers like to acquire property for summer homes, and now the eastern section of Connecticut is being bought up by city dwellers for summer places. Their coming means the passing of the dirt roads, for such roads cannot stand up under the strain of automobile traffic. The state highway commissioner is annually building new trunk lines which connect up the several towns in these localities and in so doing presents a real problem for the towns to contend with.

The old time first selectman in the spring of the year saw to it that the road scraper was sent over the highways within his jurisdiction, and this very largely sufficed for the entire year, but this can no longer be tolerated, the least to be provided in the future being macadam roads, and in this work a supervisor could probably save thousands of dollars over a period of years for the towns concerned.

THREE LEADERS HOLD PLACES IN PINOCHLE

Schuler, Ellsworth and Bailey kept their places at the head of the West Side Pinochle club as the result of play Wednesday night, the sixth night in the series.

Schuler was high scorer for the night with 7925 and Underwood who made 6580 jumped from eighth to fifth place.

The following were the scores for the night: Schuler 7925, Ellsworth 7470, Bailey 6725, Lewis 6450, A. Jordan 7145, McNaught 5815, Peckham 7270, Underwood 7580, J. Jordan 7205, Pettis 6620, Boynton 6810, Parker 5955.

The standing: Schuler 44,270, Ellsworth 42,835, Bailey 41,675, A. Jordan 41,095, Underwood 40,735, Lewis 40,575, Peckham 40,455, J. Jordan 40,315, Pettis 39,355, Boynton 39,255, McNaught 39,055, Parker 37,640.

SEEK OLDEST FIRE COMPANY IN STATE

A hunt for the oldest existing fire company in the state was inaugurated through action taken at a meeting of the executive committee of the state firemen's association in Hartford Wednesday. The quest is part of a national movement to find the fire fighting organization whose history reaches farthest back into the past. The Niagara Fire company of New London, founded in 1848, was tentatively suggested for the honor in Connecticut.

Water Heater Broke

Some damage was caused Wednesday morning in the Fay building by a broken water heater in the American-Chinese restaurant on the second floor of the building. Water seeped down into Gerry's Men's Shop, Ferguson's jewerly store and Mara's drug store. A small quantity of stock in the men's shop was somewhat damaged. There was no one in the restaurant at the time of the break as the doors were found locked when the police attempted to get into the place.

FINDS NO CRIMINAL BLAME ON BUS DRIVER

In a finding made in the case of the death of John India, 3, of Stonington, on Oct. 20 at Mystic, Coroner Edward G. McKay finds no criminal blame attaching to George Gremley, operator of a bus of the Groton & Stonington Traction company.

The young boy was with his father at Hotel square in Mystic and the coroner finds that he ran out of a store and into the street after being cautioned by his father to wait.

Gremley was operating the bus. The coroner concludes his finding as follows:

At a point just easterly of the crosswalk, an automobile was parked at the curb on the north side of East Main street Gremley was in a position to see grown persons on the sidewalk while approaching from the east in the rear of the parked car but could not have seen children. When the bus cleared the parked car and had passed over the crosswalk, John India suddenly darted out from the sidewalk directly in the path of the bus. The right front of the bus hit John India and the front wheel rested on him when the bus came to a stop. The bus was reversed and the boy was picked up and given first aid. He was immediately taken to the hospital where he expired a short time later from his severe injuries.

Examination of the bus after the accident showed it to be in good mechanical condition and also showed that the brakes were in good condition. Marks on the road made by the tires of the bus in stopping measured six feet. The road at this point is surfaced with concrete and at the time of the accident was dry. Gremley had the bus under control and was proceeding at a reasonable rate. This accident was very unfortunate but had no element of criminal negligence.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said John India was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or negligence, of any other person or persons.

MAN AND WIFE SUE FOR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Two suits because of an automobile accident have been brought against the Norwich-New London Poster Advertising Co. of this city and Willard Sullivan of Colchester by Herbert R. Hawley of Naugatuck and his wife Katherine J. Damages totalling $5,800 are claimed the wife asking for $5,000 for personal injuries and the husband for $800 for damage to the automobile which his wife was driving.

Both actions are the result of an automobile collision on May 24, last, on the Norwich-Colchester road, near the Sullivan farm. The papers claim that the Hawley car was proceeding toward Colchester, and that a truck owned by Willard Sullivan was parked illegally on the left hand side of the highway, as it was parked in such a manner that it could not be seen from a distance of 150 feet in either direction as provided by statute.

Mrs. Hawley claims that when she drove her car to the left to avoid hitting the parked machine, applied her brakes and brought her car to a stop, where it was struck by the truck owned by the Norwich Poster Advertising Co., and operated by Albert Crary. As a result of the collision, the Hawley car was forced off the road into a sand bank. The papers allege that Crary was negligent in the operation of the Norwich truck.

As a result of the injuries, Mrs. Hawley claims that she was severely injured; that she has been and will be unable to follow her occupation as housewife for a long period of time and her hearing capacity will be permanently affected.

WOMAN GETS SETTLEMENT IN SUIT FOR INJURIES

In a suit brought against S. F. Peterson, Inc., of New London by Miss Nellie Connor, settlement was made out of court in a substantial sum. The case was assigned for trial here Wednesday before Judge John Richards Booth and a jury.

Miss Connor sued for injuries received on July 23, 1927. On that day she alleged that she entered the candy store and ice cream parlor conducted by the defendant at 127 State street, New London, and was about to sit down, when she slipped and fell, injuring her back. She claimed that the defendant company was negligent in allowing the floor to remain in a slippery, wet and dangerous condition.

Attorney Morris Lubchansky brought the action, while the defendant company had law firm of Brown and James of this city, represent them.

NORWICH C. E. UNION ELECTED ITS OFFICERS

The Norwich Christian Endeavor union elected the following officers when it held its annual fall meeting last week at Lebanon Congregational church: President, Howard Bushnell; vice president, Rev. Walter Vey; recording secretary, Ellen Nielsen; corresponding secretary, Edythe Muttart; treasurer, Carl Holdredge. The attendance of close to 200 was the largest in many years.

In the poster contest, conducted by the publicity committee advertising the meeting, there were eleven posters from nine different societies. First prize went to the Third Baptist society of Norwich and second to the Ledyard society.

The new officers were installed by the state president, Rev. Vera W. Abbey of Hartford, who gave the address of the evening on the theme, On the Road to Mandalay. He has spent five years on the Missionary field in Burma and India, and is to return next April as general secretary of Christian Endeavor in India, Burma and Ceylon. He brought some articles of dress, buddhas, temple bells, and some of the handwork of these peoples and spoke in an inspiring way of their life.

Russell M. Blair, field secretary for Connecticut, presented the subject of finances, explaining the use which was made of them in state and international work. Each society was asked to make a pledge and the responses were very satisfactory.

There was a solo. On the Road to Mandalay, by Louis Aldrich of Norwich Town and after the evening address a social hour was enjoyed under the direction of Mr. Carroll Wright, travel and recreation superintendent for the International Society of Christian Endeavor.

Representatives were present from the following societies: Central Baptist, Third Baptist, First Baptist, Norwich Town Congregational, Norwich Town Methodist, Taftville Congregational, Lebanon Baptist, Lebanon Coogregational, Goshen, Franklin, Bozrah, Fitchville, Ledyard, Preston City and Hanover.

SAY INSURANCE AGENTS SHOULD STUDY POLICIES

Pointing out serious difficulties which arise from ignorance of the provisions of an insurance policy, Insurance Commissioner Howard P. Dunham urged insurance agents, in addressing the Connecticut Association of Insurance Agents at the Hotel Taft, New Haven, Wednesday night, to study their business thoroughly to the end that they may be in a better position to advise their clients.

"The way insurance policies are sold," he declared, "has a vital bearing on many claims which arise later. Fewer claims would result if less ado were made about volume and more about the proper methods and ethics of insurance salesmanship.

"Several months ago we issued a warning for more careful reading of policies by the insured, pointing out that fully 90 per cent of the complaints with regard to policy claims which come to our attention might be traced to this kind of carelessness. A large part of the responsibility for such ignorance on the insured's part rests with the agent. An insurance policy has been improperly sold if, along with the policy, there is not also sold a thorough understanding of its coverage.

"It follows that the agent should be thoroughly versed in insurance, so as to be able to interpret policies correctly and to render sound advice whenever necessary. In Connecticut the passing of an examination is a prerequisite to obtaining an agent's license. His preparation for this examination should be the starting point, not the finish, of an agent's education in insurance.

"Many property owners carry too little fire insurance, due to the fact that the 80 per cent co-insurance clause has never been properly explained to them. Ignorance of this clause is a frequent cause of dissatisfaction in fire claims. This cause is necessary for the company's protection, but it is naturally looked upon as a "joker" by the insured if he first discovers its significance after a loss has occurred. Or a man might easily suppose, unless he were told, that the insured value of his new car included freight and taxes. Careful explanation of such points by the agent may save trouble when a claim arises.

"Some agents adjust claims arising from policies which they have sold. Between their desire as agents to place the maximum coverage and their anxiety as adjusters to make a good showing, for the company, the insured sometimes gets the short end of the deal. There are frequently cases, however, where the company suffers from the agent-adjuster's excessive liberality toward a client."

Contrasting conditions in the United States with those in England, Colonel Dunham said that here in this country the insurance companies have highly developed agency forces, while over there business is sold by anybody and everybody. Here insurance salesmanship is regarded as a highly dignified profession, while an Englishman's social status suffers by becoming a professional agent. The net result is that here the insurance business is exceedingly prosperous and important, while in England it remains practically stationary by comparison.

Attending Anti-Saloon League Meet

Rev. Myron E. Genter left Wednesday morning for Atlantic City where he is to attend the meeting of the executive committee of the National Anti-Saloon league. He represents the first district, which includes New England.

PLAINFIELD PROS RALLY IN LAST HALF TO BEAT BECKMAN'S DETROITERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 14—Plainfield opened its basketball season tonight by taking Johnny Beckman's team into camp by the score of 41 to 38, in one of the best exhibitions of basketball ever seen on the home court. Plainfield played in mid-season form and, if this game is any indication, when mid-season rolls around Plainfield will be sporting one of the best teams in the country. This was Beckman's 13th game of the year and his second defeat, the Original Celtics having previously defeated this team by one point.

Plainfield, playing its first game, outclassed Beckman's team in every department with the exception of throwing them in from the free throw line. The game opened in whirlwind fashion and Plainfield was the first to score when Tisdell dropped one in from the foul line. From this point on it was anybody's game till the final whistle. The game see-sawed back and forth with first one team in the lead and then the other. At no time during the game was either team over six points in the lead.

At the half, Beckman's team was leading by the score of 26 to 21. Kasper for the home team was the leading scorer, the result of some remarkable team work as well as good shooting by himself. Dissinger did a wonderful job in holding Beckman to one field goal, which is some feat. All will agree who have seen Johnny in action before that this is so. Bernot as usual played well and contributed some of his spectacular shots as well as holding his opponent, Kellett, to six field goals, which is a man's job, considering that this man Kellett was the leading scorer in the American Basketball league last year.

Brusso played his usual steady game as well as Tisdell, the addition to the Plainfield team this year. By all appearances Tisdell is going to fill a weak spot in the Plainfield team which was noticeable last year.

Next week in all probability the Boston Whirlwinds will be the attraction. Manager Salisbury is doing all in his power to get the games over earlier this year and tonight's game was finished before 10 o'clock. If possible, the preliminary game will start promptly at 7:45 and the big game not later than 9 o'clock.

In the preliminary, the Buddies cut-classed the U. S. S. Camden five by the score of 32-23, with Eaton and Peterson starring for the Buddies.

PRO HOCKEY LEAGUES GET INTO ACTION TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—The clang of steel on ice, shrill yaps of forwards whipping the puck through the enemy defense, and the roar of the crowd, thrilled with the fastest, cleanest kind of sport action, will roll again tomorrow night through the ice palaces round the national professional hockey circuit.

The league season of 44 games for each of the ten teams, swinging down through the winter and into the spring for the Stanley cup playoff series and the crowning of a world champion, will open in three Canadian and two American cities. The world champion New York Rangers, conquerors of the Montreal Maroons in the last title series swing into action in Detroit while the Boston Bruins, co-favorites of the American group, tackle Benny Leonard's Pittsburgh Pirates in Pennsylvania.

The rest of the teams clash above the dominion border. Those deadly rivals and international section favorites, Maroons and Canadiens, touch off the yearly frenzy in their home city of Montreal, the Ottawa Senators entertain the New York Americans and Chicago's Black Hawks, almost entirely rebuilt, furnish the opposition for a gala night at Toronto, home of the Maple Leafs.

DOUBT AS TO SYSTEM TO DECIDE CONFERENCE WINNER

Although the game was played Monday, it still remains a question in the minds of Eastern Connecticut fans whether Stonington by battling to a scoreless tie with Westerly clinched the title in the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island league or whether that title still remains to be settled by the Academy-Bulkeley game, if then.

There is quite a bit of mis-understanding regarding the "percentage" or "point" systems. Which system is to be used in determining standings in the league is not yet clear.

The Bulletin has been in communication with officials of the league and it seems to be their viewpoint that the matter will have to rest until the next regular league meeting, to be held in Norwich in December. It seems that no thought was given to a point system when the league was formed last January, but now that this arrangement has been brought out there is quite a bit of sentiment favoring it.

At present Stonington leads the league, her conference schedule of four games completed, with two victories and two ties for six points and 1,000 percentage (points being figured on two for a victory and one for a tie). The Academy is next with two victories and one loss with one more game to play for a percentage of .667 and four points. Westerly has another game but only three points so that school would not figure in the computations. The Academy's other game is the annual classic with Bulkeley, Nov. 24 and should the Academy win her point total would be six, the same as Stonington's. Of course, Bulkeley may win and—well, let's wait and see.

The point system is new to the east but has been in vogue for some time in western interscholastic football leagues as well as in all the hockey leagues. The proponents of the system claim that it is much fairer than the per centage system of games won and lost as it shows the relative strength of the teams better.

A team that lost all its games under the percentage system was just as good as a team that tied all its games, even though the latter team had played tie games against the strongest teams in the conference while the first team had lost by overwhelming scores. In case of a tie in the point system, such as may occur in the local league, the title was decided on the percentage basis. Say a team wins 5 games, loses 1 and ties 2, while another team wins four and ties four. In the point scoring the teams would be tied on a basis of two points for a win and one for a loss, each having 12 points. In case of a tie it would be decided on the percentage basis with the team that had won four and lost none winning.

The point system is fast meeting with favor all over the country as a means of showing more accurately the relative strengths of the clubs.

YALE TEAM SHOWS MANY DEFECTS IN ITS PLAY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14—(AP)—An afternoon of scrimmage behind closed gates for the Yale varsity eleven which will face Princeton in the annual traditional game on Saturday, continued to show up defects in the team's play and because of the unsatisfactory showing Coach Stevens announced scrimmage for tomorrow.

The scrub team, outfitted in Orange jerseys, were able to sift through the Blue forward line repeatedly using a varied set of plays. An aerial attack, which Yale has not been able to fathom this season also worked successfully with Stewart Scott, varsity end last year and now a member of the coaching staff, receiving the passes.

The same lineup which will face the Tiger in its lair took part in the scrimmage, one of the stiffest of the year. While the men came out of it in good shape, they failed to impress the coaches. During the brief period the first team had the ball, loose work with the forward pass was characteristic of the play shown against Maryland. In rushing the team met with little better success against a line outweighed ten pounds to the man.

Tomorrow will mark Yale's final preparation here against the undefeated Tiger. The squad will leave for Princeton Friday morning and will go through a signal and kicking drill in Palmer stadium as soon as they arrive.

Meteors Win from Olympic Five

The Meteors won a hard-fought game from Falcone's Olympic Five, Wednesday night, at the Olympic Roller rink. The score was 5 to 4. Wednesday night's game was the second one this season. The Meteors will play the third game Friday evening. The name of the opponents' team is at present unknown.

Meteors—J. McGregor, 1r; Bill Povey, 2r; Harry Cooke, center; Bob Huntley, halfback; Joe Lee, goal tender.

Olympic—W. Aborn, 1r; W. Givlazdorski, 2r; M. Falcone, center; T. F. Manken, halfback; Norman Cloutier, goal tender.

Goals—Meteors: Cook, 3; McGregor, 2. Olympic: Falcone, 2; Manken, 1; Aborn, 1.

Stops—Lee, 9; Cloutier, 10.

Britton Outpoints Brignolia

BOSTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—Jack Britton, 43-year-old former world's welterweight champion, received an ovation from the Boston boxing public here tonight when he decisively outpointed Larry Brignolia, rugged Cambridge youth, in ten rounds. Britton, who showed all his old-time ring skill except for fast footwork, took every round by a wide margin.

DUWELL AMATEURS SET FOR NOV. 27TH

The Duwells will open their indoor boxing season with a show at the state armory on Tuesday night, November 27. This announcement was made official by the boxing committee of the local athletic organization last night shortly after arrangements had been completed for the securing of the drill shed on McKinley avenue on the mentioned date. It had been previously announced that the season would open on November 23, but since, it has been found that the armory would not be available on that date.

During the next few days, the equipment of the Duwell club, seats, bleachers, ring and other accessories will be removed from the athletic field on the East Side and stored at the drill shed pending the erection of the indoor arena. The state armory was used for Duwell boxing bouts a year ago and on that occasion proved an ideal site. Seats were erected to accommodate between 1200 and 1500 fans and on each occasion were packed to capacity.

While nothing definite has been done by the boxing committee in the matter of lining up a card for the opening bill it is understood that negotiations have already been started with several prominent New England teams and that within a few days the main attraction for the opener will have been signed. Entry blanks for athletes in or about this vicinity who wish to appear at the first show may be had upon application to Sports, Duwell A. A.

It is expected that boxers from Westerly, Danielson, New London, Jewett City, Colchester and Norwich will support any others from other sections of New England that might be brought in for the November 27th card.

As has been previously announced the Duwell A. A. is the only club in the state conducting amateur boxing under A. A. U. sanction, having secured the only sanctions issued for that particular branch of sports since the Conn. Association of the A. A. U. was suspended early last spring.

DOUGLAS WILL BE HEAD OF U. S. GOLF ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—Findlay S. Douglas of New York will succeed Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago as president of the United States Golf association at the annual meeting in January.

Mr. Douglas heads the ticket made public by the nominating committee today. The nomination amounts to election.

H. H. Ramsay, New York, and Roger D. Lapham, San Francisco, were nominated for vice president. Mr. Ramsay is now a vice president and Mr. Lapham has been a member of the executive committee over a period of years.

Prescott S. Bush, secretary, and Charles H. Sabin, treasurer, will be reelected. John G. Jackson, New York, will be the new general counsel.

Another good golfer will join Bobby Jones on the executive committee when Harrison R. ("Jimmy") Johnston of St. Paul takes his place on the committee.

Wyant D. Vanderpool, former president of the association, continues as an honorary member of the executive committee and the president, two vice presidents, secretary and treasurer and members by virtue of their offices. The executive committee will be completed by the election of Herbert Jaques, Boston; Rodman E. Griscom, Philadelphia; Harry Potter, St. Louis; Ganson Depew, Buffalo; Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta; Cornelius S. Lee, New York. Robert M. Cutting, Chicago; Harrison R. Johnston, St. Paul.

Jaques, Griscom, Jones, Depew and Potter now are members of the committee.

The constitution of the U. S. G. A. provides that six of the 13 members of the executive committee must be members of the executive committee or a director of some state, sectional or recognized golf association. This requirement is met on the ticket for 1929 by giving representation to the California Golf association, Lapham; New England Golf association, Jaques; Philadelphia Golf association, Griscom; Western Golf association, Cutting; New York State Golf association, Depew; Minnesota Golf association, Johnston.

The nominations were made by a committee headed by J. Frederick Byers, chairman, and including E. F. Carry, Harold W. Pierce, W. P. Stewart and Cornelius S. Lee.

The nominating committee for 1930 will consist of: Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman, Hobart P. Young, Hamilton F. Corbett, Henry H. Wilder and Thomas B. Paine.

HARD GAME EXPECTED SATURDAY WITH STONINGTON

Prospects of a hard fought battle Saturday afternoon at the campus in the Academy-Stonington High game are seen and it also is probable that this game will attract a banner crowd.

Stonington, probable winner of the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league title, is coming here to decisively determine that the Academy is by far the inferior team. Stonington last year defeated the Academy at Stonington for the first time in many years and then, to make it worse, last spring spoiled an otherwise spotless record for the state championship Wildcat baseball team, winning a 10 inning clash by 3 to 2. That was the only defeat by a state team for the Red and White, which in the regular schedule won 18 and lost but that one.

Now, there are a few boys on this year's football team at the Academy, who played both on the grid team last fall and the baseball team last spring that were forced to such humiliating defeats by Stonington. That they desire to avenge those defeats no doubt, is the truth so that the home forces also will be determined to establish their supremacy on the week end.

There is confidence in both camps. Both teams expect to present their entire list of regulars. Goyette, Stonington's flashy halfback, is expected in action and he, along with Capt. Powers should give the Academy line plenty of trouble. However, in Jack Marks the Academy has as good a back as there is in scholastic football and Jack, together with Capt. Buck LaCroix should offset anything the aforementioned Stonington pair can do. LaCroix was not himself last Saturday against Hartford but that is set down as just one of those "off-days" and, no doubt, on the week end the rugged Academy leader will again reel off his famous dashes as of early season.

The Academy will finish their heavy work for the fray this afternoon and then taper off with signal work tomorrow. Coach Whitney will probably start the same lineup that faced Hartford.

This game is without doubt the major one in Eastern Connecticut this week end. For the Academy it is their last before the annual Bulkeley classic, the 24th.

LEFT FIELD HILL BEING CUT AWAY AT CAMPUS

Improvement of the treacherous "left field hill" at the Academy campus is now well under way and it is expected that by next spring the field will be in first-class shape. A steam shovel is eating away the hill and the brook farther on is being filled in and the land there brought to a level with the main field.

This spot has always detracted from the campus, which otherwise is one of the best school-owned athletic fields in the state. It has been somewhat of a job for a fielder to "play" that slope and consequently hits have gone through there that otherwise would have been fielded. Also, balls have been hit into the bushes in that section for home runs that now probably will be caught.

While no announcement has been made as to plans, it is expected that the brush and trees in this section will be cut down. This would leave an extra long left field where the fielder would have at least an even chance.

The Academy, on its state championship teams the past two years, had two boys who could play this field in good shape, Hymie Sadinsky and Billy Tirrell, but with these boys gone and a newcomer bound to fill this position next season this improvement will not only be a help to outsiders unfamiliar with the layout, but also to the home team.

The new clubhouse at the Academy is fast nearing completion and that also is expected to be ready for the state champions next spring. It is situated in an ideal spot at the northwest corner of the field, just below the Converse Art gallery, and adds another bit of improvement to the Academy's athletic plant, now one of the best in the New England states.

VETERANS STILL CLING TO LEAD IN BIKE RACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—(AP)—Reggie McNamara and Gerard Debaets, the speedy American-Belgian team, clung to their lead of one lap in the six-day bike grind after a series of fast sprints at the Coliseum tonight.

The "Kid" team of Jimmy Walthour and Franz Duelberg was trailing by a lap and two laps behind were the teams of Alfred Letourner-Paul Brocardo and Harris Horder and Ernest Kockler.

Stockholm and Petri led in point scoring in the afternoon sprints, piling up 21, while Spencer and Walker were second with 18.

NORWICH BOYS SPLIT EVEN IN AMATEUR BOUTS AT NEW LONDON

The Norwich contingent split about even at Joe Connelly's second amateur offering at his arena in New London last night. Baby Joe Gans made his man quit in the second round. Young Daizie, the West Side miniature Tom Sharkey, drowned his man with the first blow struck, while popular Johnny Dosh lost a hair line and unpopular decision in his return bout with Larry O'Brien, and Young Antone lost his fight on a technical K. O. when the towel was tossed in in the third round to save him from further punishment.

The crowd was rather small again but those that did turn out witnessed a very fair card. The final bout was easily the best and the hardest fought of the card and had the fans on their feet every minute. Bob Rogers of the Sub-Base, after dropping Paul Martell of Old Lyme for the count of nine in the first, took a terrific lacing from the latter throughout the remainder of the round and was a badly beaten boy when he went to his corner. Paul, too was badly punished from Rogers' hard wallops, but took the offensive in the second and battered Rogers around the ring. He shifted his attack to the body and Rogers punch-drunk, and out on his feet, raised his own arm in token of defeat. It certainly was a terrific battle and one that will be bound to draw the crowd if they are rematched. Rogers' weight was announced as 180 while Martell tipped the scales at 170.

Baby Joe Gans won hands down from Kid Demo of New London. Gans outclassed the Kid from the start and the New London boy was all in in the second and the referee called a halt. The baby weighed 106 and Demo 101.

Young Antone another local lad started off well against rugged Louis Rochette of Westerly but weakened from the latter's blows and his seconds tossed in the towel in the third. Both lads weighed 118.

Antone Salabri, a likely looking boy from the Sub-Base, was altogether too clever for Young McDonald of New London and after handing Mac about everything in the line of punches for two rounds without getting hardly a blow in return the towel came sailing in to give Antone an easy victory. He weighed 145 and Mac 148.

Sheik Gadula the Montville windbill took George Londgren into camp for the second time which leaves no doubt in the minds of the fans who is the best man. Sheik swarmed all over George and had him on the verge of a K. O. in the second when the fight was stopped. Londgren weighed 146 and Gadula 144.

Young Hansen of the Sub-Base hit Oliver Paul of Danielson with every thing but the ring posts, and although he hardly made any impression on Oliver he won hands down. Hansen did most of the fighting while Paul was on the receiving end throughout. Hansen weighed in at 113 and Paul 114.

Red Wells of Danielson decided that Young Daizie was too rough and dropped to the floor for the long count after a minute in the first round. There wasn't much excitement to that fight. Daizie weighed 126 and Wells one pound less.

Johnny Dosh, who has won many friends in New London dropped an unpopular decision to Larry O'Brien in the semi-final bout. O'Brien with his nice left and Dosh with his hard right went at it with honors about even. This was a good battle and although Dosh lost he still retains his following, and will no doubt appear on the next card.

EASTERN TEAMS WORKING HARD FOR SATURDAY TILTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Hard work and plenty of it was the order today as eastern colleges reached the halfway mark in their preparations for a Saturday that will bring many of the year's biggest games. Only a few coaches saw fit to vary the rule and ease up in their workouts.

Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers had only a short drill before starting west to meet Nebraska at Lincoln. Coach Jock Sutherland reported that all of his 28 men were in good codition but refused to predict the outcome of the contest with the westerners.

Princeton did without scrimmage according to the policy of Bill Roper announced yesterday but the Tigers had plenty to do with a dummy scrimmage and special work for the backs. Gloomy reports from Princeton indicated that the Tigers are not as optimistic as their supporters concerning a victory over Yale as injuries to several regulars may cause some trouble. Captain Howe, Stinson and Moore were out of the lineup today and it was not certain that they would be back in time for the game.

At Yale Mal Stevens drove his men through a long scrimmage behind closed gates but reported little to make the Elis chances look brighter. The scrubs sifted through the varsity line for good gains while the regulars could make little headway on the attack.

Harvard got a severe shakeup to start its preparations for the Holy Cross game after the annual two-day vacation. The changes had a good effect in a 90 minute scrimmage and brought the varsity a 37 to 0 score against the second team.

Pennsylvania also had its first workout of the week with most of the time being devoted to sending the team against the charging machines. Penn's rivals of Saturday, Columbia, had an easy time when Coach Crowley shifted his plans and called off a scrimmage.

Penn State's scrubs held the varsity to a draw for the second successive day in a session during which so many changes were made that it often was hard to tell which was the first team and which the second.

Mid-semester examinations interfered with Dartmouth's practice, keeping many players off the field until late but Coach Hawley made up for the delay by turning on the flood lights and sending the team through a defensive drill against Cornell plays. The Ithacans had more time for hard work and went through a final scrimmage of the week. The rushing attack again came in for most of the attention.

Colgate had a long drill preparing for the annual contest with Syracuse, but the Orange began to taper off, working for speed rather than power.

The service schools, Army and Navy, have comparatively easy opponents this week and devoted most of their time to preparations for the encounters with Nebraska and Princeton the following Saturday.

MIDDLETOWN SCOUT HEAD ADDRESSES ROTARY CLUB

With a large number of members and guests in attendance the weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club was held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President Edward W. Jewett presided at the meeting and Weston C. Pullen acted as song-leader. There were a number of chorus numbers by various groups of Rotarians and guests.

The meeting voted the usual contribution to the Red Cross campaign for funds. Attention was called to the charter meeting of the Branford club which will be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 20th at Branford.

After the business session the meeting was turned over to Benjamin H. Palmer Jr., in charge of the program for November who introduced Henry G. Fowler, scout executive of Middletown, who spoke very interestingly on scout work.

In opening his talk Mr. Fowler went back to the origin of the movement by Sir Baden Powell in a fever camp in Africa. Lack of recreation in this camp was the underlying factor that prompted the scout plan. Powell devised the plan of dividing the camp into groups of eight for friendly rivalry. The success was instantaneous and was such that when the expedition returned to England the scout idea was inaugurated there and rapidly spread to America and then to other countries in the world. The growth has been rapid due to the simplicity of organization and the sterling principles involved.

Mr. Fowler told of many acts of heroism by Boy Scouts whose scout training had taught them to think quickly and clearly in an emergency. He told of the work of the Boy Scouts during the Vermont flood, the Mississippi valley inundation and the Florida hurricane disaster. In all these national catastrophies the Boy Scouts have performed men's tasks, acts of heroism that have never been brought to public attention and have carried on even though sorely afflicted themselves.

Scouting is rich in international relations, said Mr. Fowler. This was demonstrated in the great international Jamboree held in London several years ago when boys from 31 different countries mingled in a common bond of friendship and brotherly love. The instilling of the principle of the common brotherhood in the younger generation through scouting is bound to have its international effect in years to come. In conclusion Mr. Fowler graphically described a campfire scene in a Boy Scout camp during the story-telling hour. This scene was touched with humor and pathos, dealing with Ike's humor and the faith of Adrian.

AVOID USING SMALL HOLIDAY GREETING CARDS

Postmaster General New issued an appeal Wednesday to the public to avoid using small or irregular sized Christmas greeting cards this year, stating that the unusual sizes cause much extra work and difficulty in handling on the part of postoffice workers. Poster notices have been sent to all post office and branches throughout the country, urging that only standard size cards and envelopes be used, and that they be mailed early.

According to the postmaster general's office, the smaller cards and envelopes cannot be run through the cancelling machines which makes it necessary to void each stamp by hand. This not only wastes time, but results in delivery delays, the postal officials state. The small envelope or card is frequently so small that when the stamp has been cancelled, the address is obliterated, and they are also difficult for the postman to handle as they cannot be bundled like standard pieces of mail.

The postoffice department has obtained the cooperation of greeting card manufacturers and dealers, but as there are many small independent distributors of greeting cards, the real solution rests with the public that buys and sends the greetings, the postoffice authorities have found. The ideal sized card for the postoffice to handle is about three and a half by five and a half inches.

Mme. Tchaikowsky, who claims to be the youngest daughter of the late Czar of Russia, and who has retained Edward H. Fallows, of New York, as her attorney to fight for the fortune left by the Czar. Further proofs, according to Mr. Fallows, have been found to establish her identity as the Grand Dychess Anastasia.

FISHER MAY BE LOST TO AGGIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 14—Although practice sessions of the Connecticut Aggies have been of the lightest kind all week, another injury came up in practice yesterday that may cause a serious effect on the Nutmeg eleven that faces Rhode Island in the largest home game of the year. Leo Fisher of Bridgeport, the highest scorer on the team and halfback flash, injured his knee in dummy tackling and it is feared that the bruise may develop into a "charley horse." The sophomore Aggie star had to leave the field yesterday and up until this afternoon his injury is still considered serious.

The casualty to Leo Fisher makes the third backfield loss to the squad in the past few weeks. Last Saturday at Durham, William McCombe, regular halfback was injured in the hip and is now in the infirmary with Robert Groat who is also on the injured list. The latter is now resting in a plaster cast with a serious back injury. If Fisher is unable to play Saturday it will mean that the Connecticut Aggies will have to use practically a complete substitute backfield. Flydal will probably play the halfback berth in place of McCombe and Sam Harris will take full. If Fisher is still unable to play, his half will be taken by Ryan and Lamoureux will take the quarterback position.

The largest crowd of alumni and undergraduates from both colleges are reported as attending the home coming day event between two members of one of the oldest New England college rivalries. The Connecticut Aggies were at the beginning of the week favored by most to win but the extent of the recent injuries may turn the opinions in the other direction. Trainer Fred Libutzke is of the impression that Leo Fisher will be in condition to take on active work before the drill sessions end this week.

NO INDUSTRY CANVASS IN RED CROSS ROLL CALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 14—Red Cross flags flown from the staffs in the Shenandoah sidewalk units were a continual reminder Wednesday in Westerly that the annual roll call was in progress. These flags were flown from the sidewalk poles in front of the Westerly town hall and along Broad and High streets. In the Wednesday morning opening of the campaign drive several teams of women began a house-to-house canvass of the town. Prospects for a large membership and financially successful drive are very bright. Mrs. Frank Sherman, who has charge of the women's team stated. Mrs. Sherman is maintaining headquarters in the Washington Trust building. There the various teams obtain their supplies and make reports.

A meeting of the captains and members of their teams was held late yesterday afternoon in the council chamber of the town hall, where they were addressed by Mrs. Sherman, Chairman James M. Pendleton of the chapter, Chairman Karl G. Stillman of the roll call and Mrs. William W. Weeden, field representative of the Red Cross. This year there will be no canvass of workers in manufacturing plants, Mrs. Sherman said. Instead there will be an endeavor made to enlist everyone through the house-to-house canvass.

The basketball season will be started Saturday night at the state armory on Dixon street. Henry Kingsley of Battery E., 243rd R. I. C. A. C., (H.D.) stationed at the armory, beginning with the first of the month has been promoted to first sergeant of the company.

The box barge Harry Hudson Smith, of the Keeler line, was brought up Pawcatuck river Wednesday morning by the tug Westerly to the Wilcox docks at the head of river navigation. The barge was left from a tow in New London harbor, where the tug picked it up. Barges were formerly left in Stonington harbor but the destruction of mooring places there now necessitate the barges being dropped from tows in New London harbor. The Smith was loaded with 570 tons of anthracite coal of stove and chestnut size and the discharge of the cargo by the new hoisting plant was begun immediately after the barge was moored.

Merger of the A. S. Rosenthal Co., Inc., silk manufactures, with Finsilver, Still and Moss, Inc., was announced Saturday at New York. The combined organization will control about 1,000 looms in this country and Japan, and will maintain the existing units of both companies.

The Rosenthal company operates and controls the New England Silk company of Westerly, R. I.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of Westerly townclerk:

Nov. 13—Michael D. G. Papalia to Logia Operaia Italiano, No. 1050 land on the south side of Boston Post road adjoining lands now or formerly of Arthur Dubrulle and John Gallo and John W. Opie.

Nov. 13—Ernest E. Rogers of New London, to N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R. Co., land with buildings on the southeasterly side of High street of approximately 14,525 square feet of 232 foot frontage on High street and adjoining lands now or formerly of Benjamin Bentley with vote of the New Haven directors that purchase money be applied to lands on Water street, New London.

Nov. 13—The above property deeded by New Haven R. R. Co., to C. P. Eccleston.

Nov. 13—The above described property deeded from C. P. Eccleston to Frank W. Coy Real Estate company.

REAR TIRE BLEW OUT FIVE PASSENGERS INJURED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 14—A through passenger bus on the Providence-Westerly line over the Nooseneck Hill state road and an ambulance of the Westerly hospital combined Tuesday afternoon in rushing injured occupants of an automobile accident to the Westerly hospital. As the result of the accident five patients are receiving treatment at the hospital. The mishap occurred about a half mile south of Nooseneck Inn. All were hurt when a rear tire blew out and caused the automobile in which they were riding to leave the road and crash against a tree. The injured are Moris Alder, his wife, Victoria Alder, and Mellich Hoffman, all of 1879 Prospect avenue, New York; Miss Dorothy Pinkas, Jersey City and Bernard Alder of 945 East 163rd street, New York.

Hoffman suffered a fractured pelvis and contusions of the left shoulder and chest. Miss Pinkas sustained a fracture of one vertebra, possible dislocation of another, contusions of the scalp, multiple lacerations of the right leg and ankle, and a lacerated middle finger of the right hand. Adler is receiving treatment for numerous bruises. His wife has a possible fracture of the skull, a lacerated scalp and bad bruises on her right arm, right shoulder and chest. The party was proceeding in the direction of Providence when the left rear tire exploded, causing the automobile to swerve from the highway and collide with a tree. The car was wrecked beyond repair.

This Thursday afternoon "The Pot of Gold," a little play written by Miss Sallie E. Coy and Miss Emily K. Appel, will be given at 4:30 o'clock at the Memorial and Public library. Due to the lack of space it will be presented only to the children of the community, but every boy and girl is cordially invited.

CAR OF FRANK L. FURNESS STRIKES NEW LONDON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 14—Reports were received in Westerly Wednesday noon that Frank L. Furness, president of Pawcatuck board of trade and proprietor of the Elm Tree Inn, was concerned in an automobile accident in the town of Lyme, Conn., and had communicated with Westerly friends to secure bonds required. The accident involved Frederick Saunders, 51, of 3 Howard street, New London, a salesman for the Grand Union Tea company, said to be in a critical condition at the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London. His injuries were sustained in an accident in the town of Lyme, at about 11:30 o'clock this morning. Saunders was hit by an automobile operated by F. L. Furness.

The accident happened near Ely's Corners, on the Boston Post road. Saunders, according to the state police who investigated the accident, had parked his car and was walking across the highway to visit a house, when he was hit by the car operated by Mr. Furness. Saunders was rushed to Lawrence hospital in an unconscious condition. He is believed to have suffered a fracture of the skull and probable internal injuries. The operator of the car was held by the Connecticut state police at the Centerbrook barracks on a technical charge of reckless driving, the bail being fixed by Justice George Griswold at $2,000, to await the outcome of the injuries to Saunders.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The first two weeks of November have been very favorable to building projects in the city and considerable work has been done to bring them to a point where cold weather will not interfere. During the first two weeks there were seven building permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. The estimated cost of the new construction work, which includes a brick and concrete garage and a new six-room dwelling house, is approximately $8500 as stated by the applicants in the permits.

Work on the new athletic building at the Academy is well along, the contractors, Peck-McWilliams Co., having erected the brick walls. Workmen are now engaged in putting on the roof which will be completed this week. A steam-shovel is at work at the campus cutting away the sharp hill at the north side of the campus to enlarge the baseball field.

Contractor P. F. Sweeney has erected the concrete piers for the new brick building for the Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., on Main street and is now engaged in putting up the steel frame for the building. The floor beams for the first and second floors have also been set in place. Part of the brick walls in the rear has been erected.

Contractor W. S. Spencer is bringing the new Masonic home well along and with the roof on work on the interior is progressing rapidly. The electricians have almost completed their work of putting in conduits for the lighting system and the heating system is being installed.

At the office of the fire marshal the following permits have been granted:

To Charles and Mary Jane Lasch to erect a frame house on Gleason street. The house will have six rooms and bath and will be 24x36 feet. The foundation will be of cement blocks and the superstructure of frame construction. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles. The interior will be in hard wood and plaster. The estimated cost is $1800.

To John Kacaj to raise the roof on the present frame house at 160 Sachem street to add another story to the building. The estimated cost is $400.

To Abraham Krieger and Henry St. Germaine to build a brick and cement garage, 100x48 feet, on Franklin street. The garage will be one story high with a tar and gravel roof. The building will be of such construction that another story can be added if it is desired. The estimated cost is $5,000.

To F. Oscar Dahl to erect a three-car garage at 219 Boswell avenue for himself. The garage will be of brick construction and will be 12x34 feet. The estimated cost is $300.

To Stanley Krupck to erect a frame shed, 8x16 feet, at 139 Hickory street. The estimated cost is $50.

To Ivar Johnson to erect a frame garage, 20x20 feet, for himself on Maple street. The estimated cost is $300.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to erect a frame garage at 40 Freeman avenue for J. A. Cunningham. The garage will be 12x22 feet. The estimated cost is $300.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 10 sales of real estate as compared to six sales for the corresponding week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $4,027 and $31,150.

There were eight sales of real estate in New London during the past week—exactly the same number as during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $54,400 and $79,305.

New London

Architects have been asked to submit plans for a $250,000 stone administration building to be built at the Connecticut College for Women. The construction project was made possible by combining the fund made available through the will of David Hale Fanning and the Windham county fund, originally intended for the erection of a dormitory. The proposed building will contain the administrative offices of the college, some classrooms and an auditorium. It has been announced that Architect Charles A. Platt of New York has been engaged to prepare plans for an art and science museum also to be built at the college, as provided under the will of Harriet U. Allyn, the Hartford Connecticut Trust Co. of Hartford, trustee. The ultimate plan calls for a building in three sections. The first will be built at this time and will be a complete building, designed as a memorial to the Allyn family. Provision will be made for two wings to be added later when necessary. The Allyn property adjoining the college campus now consists of more than 75 acres and this will be used for a park. A granite residence on the property will be used during her life by Mrs. Lucretia Latimer Allyn.

Plans are being prepared for a garage to be erected for A. B. Nelmon, 321 Bank street, on Jay street. The building will be 60x125 feet, of brick, steel and concrete construction, one story high. There will be an attached gasoline station in front of the building. The plans will also call for a modern show room, an office and garage.

Bids have been taken for a residence to be erected here for Viggo E. Bird, 1071 Ocean avenue. The house will be fireproof, of bluestone and brick construction, with a stone base. It will be 38x137 feet.

The contract has been awarded for a dwelling to be built for Benjamin Rutman, 12 Harris street, at 60 Linden street. From private plans, the house will be 27x44 feet, of frame construction, arranged for one family.

A frame bungalow has been started by Giluo Minucci, 75 School street, at 288 Coleman street. The owner's plans call for a one-family house, 26x46 feet. All improvements will be provided.

An End of Glory

MUNICH, (AP)—Klessheim castle, near Salzburg, once the property of the Hapsburg dynasty of Austria, is to become a canned meat factory, and pigs will be fattened in apartments once sacred to royalty. The palace was sold by the Austrian government for $80,000.

STOECKEL WANTS LAW AGAINST OLD AUTOMOBILES

Because public sentiment may now favor it, a proposal may be introduced in the next session of the legislature which provides for the regulation of the sale or use of automobiles which by reason of extensive wear and tear have possibly become unsafe for traffic participation. This proposal is in no way a revenue measure. The subject is covered in the monthly bulletin of the State Motor Vehicle department in a discussion of the "junk" car and of the problem which it creates. It is therein claimed that the state might well establish a principle for standardization of the condition of motor vehicles on the highways and that this can be done through the setting up of a time period called in dealers' language, the "turnover," with the end in view that all cars older than the time set will come under the jurisdiction of the state for supervision.

In order that there may be no discrimination against old cars that are kept in good repair the proposal is advanced that the state provide for an examination and sets forth further that without expensive organization and at slight expense such an examination if passed would allow a person intending to keep an old car to get certification as to its fitness to run for the registration period. Such regulation, in the opinion of the department "would compel rigid scrutiny by police and it would happen that the second hand cars which dealers put on the market would need to pass examination." It would give the person who owns the car and who has had it examined a certificate of condition at slight expense. It would mean also a much closer and stricter supervision of the whole second hand car problem and might mean that the problem could be worked out so that there would be no improper and imperfect cars on the highways of the state."

In discussing a possible charge of paternalism, Commissioner Stoeckel says that "the whole participation of the state in motor vehicle matters is based upon the theory of license by government." "The state determines who may have a car and who may operate it and under what restrictions," he adds. "It would seem to be no more paternalistic to determine what car is fit to be on the highway, so far as safety is concerned, than it is to determine who may be on the highway as an operator."

Unsightly automobile "cemeteries" along the highways, and junk dealers who sell unsafe cars are also discussed by Commissioner Stoeckel in advocating measures of control. "It is possible," he says, "under existing law, for anyone to buy such a car off a junk dealer for practically nothing. This particular type of business ought to be controlled. The junk dealer ought to be licensed to sell junk and kept strictly to that account. He ought not to be allowed to sell a complete car."

The law might go further than that and place a responsibility upon dealers who take second hand cars in trade to certify to the state department, or at least to make some kind of a guaranty to the person to whom the second hand car is sold that the car at the time of sale is in good safe condition for transportation and will run the period of the registration year without developing an unsafe or unusable condition."

Regarding car graveyards, he finds that junk dealers are largely responsible for unsightly effects in some of the most beautiful sections of the state. The size, extent and general ugliness of these junk piles, he says, attest the popularity and probable profit of this kind of business. "While there does not appear to be any method at the present time whereby the defacement of scenery and loss of attractiveness of the side of highways caused by such spectacles can be met, there should be some way devised by which owners of land are prevented from making it a public nuisance.

"The argument in favor of this is perhaps idealistic but nevertheless it is practical. The scenery in Connecticut, because it is such a great vacation state, has a real and practical value. Apparently is is perfectly possible under existing laws, to restrain other nuisances, for instance the law may be invoked to prevent erection of a slaughter house or a soap factory in an unsuitable place. Why should there not be a law to prevent a man from making a nuisance in the esthetic sense, and thereby preserve for homebuilders the practical values of real estate. No man, rich or poor, ought to be allowed to have on the highway any motor the status of which is such as to endanger the public. It is a fact that vehicles which have been run a long time and long distances are more apt to be out of order and in the hands of persons who are willfully negligent of their condition than new or nearly new motor vehicles. It is fact and not theory which ought to govern this condition."

"There are many ways in which such a principle as that suggested can be worked out. The one mentioned seems the most direct and the easiest to put into execution, but any adaption which will secure adequate supervision by a state department over the condition of cars on the highway and which can be carried on as a continuing policy is bound to result in a great deal of good and in better all around conditions of traffic."

Machine Sews Tobacco

WINDSOR, Conn.—(AP)—Connecticut growers use a new machine for sewing tobacco leaves to the lathes on which they are to dry. The work is done by girls. They have curing temperature and humidity automatically regulated. They do not have to wait for the usual winter damp or moist "spell" before taking down the cured product.

Hartford Lady Was Guessing

When your child is underweight, pale and listless, is bilious, sallow, feverish, fretful, with bad breath, coated tongue and no appetite, nine times out of ten it's a sure sign his little stomach and bowels are weak.

Don't experiment in cases of this kind. Just follow the example of the millions of mothers who are using California Fig Syrup to regulate their children's stomach and bowels and give tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Mothers all over Connecticut are eager to tell how this rich, fruity pleasant-tasting preparation clears up the most stubborn cases of constipation and makes pale lifeless children rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and full of energy again. Mrs. J. C. Fantone, 72 Capitol Ave., Hartford, says: "From the very first my little son James, had trouble with his stomach and bowels. It had me guessing until we decided to give him some California Fig Syrup. Soon he started gaining weight and now he's the picture of health."

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitators.

Graceful beauty cannot be fat—and now you, too, can be graceful of figure since Pyro-Pine is so easily procurable at your druggists'.

There's no secret about Pyro-Pine. Scientific research and analysis has shown us the active ingredients in the waters of famous hot springs and health baths. In Pyro-Pine these oils and salts are prepared as granulated crystals. You put them into your bath at home. In other words, science makes it possible for you to bring the benefits of world-famous health resorts to your home, instead of taking your body to expensive watering places.

Tonight, put Pyro-Pine in your bath water (it dissolves instantly), get into the warm bath and relax, notice the warm feeling of comfort—notice how your pores begin to open, and the surface flesh becomes stimulated. You will perspire freely—the gland action becomes vigorous, fat oils and body poisons are being flushed out of your skin. You are ridding your body of bulkiness and weight, and at the same time invigorating the circulation. You will sleep soundly and wake in the morning lighter in weight—smoother of skin — refreshed — and happier.

the past months, has been eliminated due to the reassignment of broadcasting wave lengths.

Officer Edward Benoit of the local police was on day duty today in the business section, acting in the stead of Captain Jarvis, who left Tuesday for Brockton, Mass., to attend the funeral of a relative.

Criminal session of superior court will convene at Putnam Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with Judge E. M. Yeomans occupying the bench. The session will mark the awarding of the Governor Trumbull reward of $1,000 offered the person or persons giving information to the state that led to the arrest and conviction of the "Ice-Box" bandits, Albert G. Raymond and Roland Lalone, of Worcester, slayers of State Policeman Irving E. Nelson of Danielson barracks at Pomfret on the night of April 6 last. Several claimants will present their reasons as to why they should be reimbursed for the information presented.

The destruction of the group of buildings in the town of Killingly, known as the Cloister group, is of much interest to residents of this community, interested in the medieval type of architecture used in the colony of tenement dwellings. History students of Putnam have on various occasions studied the designs, only partly finished before the textile slump came that demanded work to cease.

Work on the reconditioning of the Providence street bridge has been resumed by the construction company of New Haven, holders of the contract. Men were engaged today in treating the iron work with a paint preparation and making ready for the steel beams that will strengthen the bridge. The material that is reported as delaying the completion of the span is expected to be delivered within a few days.

Edward Girard, William P. Warren and Clarence Pierce, selectmen of the town of Putnam, will be in Hartford Thursday, attending a meeting of all selectmen of the state.

DISCREDITS MASS. VOTE ON 18TH AMENDMENT

BOSTON, Nov. 13—(AP)—The assertion that the referendum vote on prohibition in the recent Massachusetts election, was not a "real test of public opinion," was made in a telegram sent today to President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover by G. Loring Briggs, chairman of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon league. The telegram also was addressed to James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner; Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league and Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance.

"The dry organizations of the state," the telegram said, "did not conduct a campaign on this referendum. Since it was entirely futile and non-binding they spent their energy along more efficacious lines. However, the wet organizations did put on an active campaign, spending thousands of dollars on advertising and literature.

"The wet vote totalled a little over 600,000 and the dry vote approximately 350,000. Nearly 460,000 citizens who voted in the 36 districts did not register themselves either way on this question."

FINANCIAL PROBLEM CONFRONTING RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 13—(AP)—The national peasants' party said in a statement tonight that the regime of Vintilla Bratianu had left a national deficit of 9,000,000,000 lei (about $55,000,000) as against only three lei found in the state treasury. It was said that the government faced the danger of being unable to pay bills maturing at the end of the month, to say nothing of the payment of the huge payroll of 500,000 state functionaries.

The statement said that advances made by the National Bank of Rumania greatly exceed the figure fixed by law so that the government consequently cannot borrow further from that institution. It further was charged that the note circulation is considerably in excess of the sum authorized by law.

"Thus at the outset of his administration," the statement concludes "Premier Maniu is faced by colossal financial problems which will tax all the resources of the nation."

Dissolving Country.

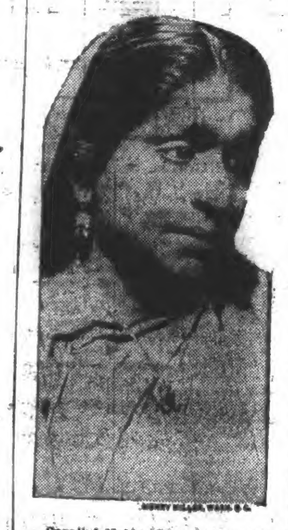
It has been estimated that if the work of erosion performed by water on the total surface of our country were concentrated on the isthmus of Panama, it would suffice to cut a canal from ocean to ocean 35 feet deep in about 75 days.

The average annual erosion produced by water in the United States corresponds to the removal of a layer about 3¼ feet thick in 3,400 years. It is figured that our rivers transport every year 270,000,000 tons of solid matter and 513,000,000 tons of matter in a state of suspension.

India Home Rule Leader Lecturing In U. S.



Sarojini Naidu, first woman ever to preside at the opening of the National Congress in India and a leading advocate of Indian self rule, who has arrived in the United States to lecture on the situation in her home land. She is a member of the party organized by Ghandi.

Patronize These Well Known Concerns

HAVE YOUR CHILD'S PICTURE TAKEN BY BELLE RATHBONE

Now tat the Christmas season is rapidly drawing near, it is time for you to begin thinking of the photographs you have planned to give for presents.

A photo of yourself or of the children is the one personal gift. Only you can give a relative or friend a picture of yourself. There is nothing more precious than a photo.

Especially is this true of photographs of children. As the years go by the children grow up they change. Only by memory can you picture that lovely baby or that cute girl or boy of yesterday. A photo taken now insures a lasting memory picture. Why not have them taken now?

Belle Rathbone of 161 Main street, phone 2125, makes a specialty of photography. In addition she feotures photos done in natural colors. These are lifelike and make wonderful gifts. All work at the Rathbone studio is of the highest type. Work done is guaranteed to last. Only good work at reasonable prices can last. Cheap work and materials fail to catch and hold lasting pictures.

Rathbone photographs are well known for their individuality and the manner in which they attract and hold attention. Early appointments insure excellent work. Do not wait until the holiday rush starts. Have your photo taken now and thus be sure of satisfaction.

MAKE YOUR PLANS FOR HEATING WHILE COLD DAYS ARE HERE

The pleasant fall days are to be much enjoyed but it cannot help but make one think of the cold wintery days which are to come. And, with them comes the problem of heating your home, your office, your business place. Plan now for those days before winter arrives.

Gas is becoming more and more popular every year as a means of insuring comfortable, warm homes and business places, an even temperature at all times, easily controlled, and without any fuss or muss.

The Eastern Connecticut Power Co. at any of their eastern Connecticut offices will tell you how easily and economically this method of heating can be installed, how simple it is to operate and how inexpensive, all things considered, it is to maintain.

ARRANGE FOR YOUR WINTER STORAGE WHILE SPACE IS AVAILABLE

With cold evenings and nights, it reminds you of the time you will soon have to have a warm place to keep your car. Good clean storage places, always heated, in a modern, fire-proof garage, with efficient employes to deliver good service, is not to be had always at your convenience. That is one reason why it is well to arrange for your winter storage before the good spaces are all gone.

The Central Garage at 135 Franklin street is an ideal garage. It is modern throughout, fire-proof, is just a step from the center of the city, is always open and has an efficient corps of employes to render service. Just the right place for the busy business man, where he can have all-night, all-day or intermittent storage. Your car will always be ready to run, no matter how cold the weather, and it will be handy, if you arrange to keep it at the Central Garage.

Gasoline, oils and accessories are also carried, and these can be attended to while your car is idle.

ADAMS MOTOR CO. GIVES MOTORISTS REAL SERVICE

For automobile repairing of quality the Adams Motor Co. of Jewett City, is just the place for particular automobile owners. If you want to make sure that your automobile repair work is properly and conscientiously performed, all you have to do is to take your car to the mechanics at Adams garage, who are well and widely known as experts on virtually every type of automobile. Their long experience in dealing with automobile owners has resulted in building up a business founded on honest dealing. There are so many motorists who have little idea of what constitutes an honest repair job that they are taking chances with poor mechanics at many places. For years dealers in Buick and Chevrolet cars the Adams Motor Co. has a reputation to be protected. Efficient service is its motto.

DEPENDABILITY KEY NOTE IN ALL MATTERS CONCERNING BUICKS

With constant transitions in the operation and maintenance of one of the most prominent and important branches of human evolution today the automobile—the average public man looks more and more each year to a place where he can do business, not today alone, but in the future, with the minimum of effort and annoyance and with a better and more pleased viewpoint each year.

The Jewett City Garage is built upon dependability, starting with the car itself which the concern represents, and carrying on through every fibre of the institution.

The Jewett City Garage handles Buick cars which, year after year, have demonstrated its absolute dependence in the automobile market. The same strong fundamentals which make the car increasingly popular are woven into the texture of the Jewett City Garage in its business dealings with the average automobile buyer and owner.

HEATED GARAGE SERVICE SOUGHT FOR IN COLD WEATHER

The cold evenings of the past few weeks makes you think of what you are going to do with your auto when colder weather continues. Of course you want to keep on using it throughout the winter, and in order to do it you have to have a warm garage to keep it in at night and during the day when not in use.

One of the most modern fireproof, heated garages in Eastern Connecticut is the Adams Motor Co. of Jewett City and Baltic, a step from the business center in either town.

The concern also maintains service in gas and oils and accessories. Almost any service is available and they will tell you now moderately is their storage charge and how complete the service.

HEAVY SELLING OF STOCKS FAILED TO WEAKEN THE VIGOROUS BUYING

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—The mightiest stock market in history raced madly on today, piling up total sales of more than 5,000,000 shares for the third consecutive day, for the fourth day this month, and for the fifth day in the markets existence. Heavy selling in some of the old line favorites was more than offset by a vigorous upturn in a group of new leaders, and about 30 issues broke into new high territory.

The day's sales totalled 5,426,800 shares, which has been surpassed only by the record of 5,670,600 shares established on Monday. The ticker, of course, was left hopelessly behind the transactions, and ran for an hour and 20 minutes after the close. There was more talk than ever among the more confident traders that 5,000,000 share days will soon be accepted as a matter of course. The new ticker which will be installed as soon as a sufficient number can be manufactured, will be able to handle 7,000,000 share days.

The same confusion of opinion that this abnormal market has brought forth persisted, with some operators looking for a fairly sharp reaction in the near future, while others maintained that corrective movements will be only minor in character. A large increase in brokers loans was generally expected in the federal reserve compilation to be announced after the close tomorrow, but this seemed to cause no considerable concern. The statement of President Simmons of the exchange last night that money and more we must accustom ourselves to the financing of business through the use of brokers loans rather than commercial paper, was a reassuring factor.

Call money was in supply at 6 per cent, all day, and there was no calling of loans, although the dividend and interest disbursements tomorrow will be large. There was a slight easing in commercial paper.

There was a feeling that takings of about $40,000,000 in gold in London in recent weeks had materially helped the credit situation.

The days news was largely favorable. "Iron Age" reported but a slight seasonal slackening in the iron and steel industry, and the highest price for pig iron in about 16 months. There were a few good earnings statements and extra dividend declarations, including a 15 per cent. stock dividend by Otis Elevator. A further increase in copper prices to 17 cents was said to be in prospect.

National Bellas Hess, the third largest mail order house in the country, was the most buoyant issue in the day's trading, rising more than 14 points to a new record price. The buying was based on reports that 1928 earnings will run around $13 a share, and the belief that it has been selling far out of line with other mail order issues. Sears-Roebuck rose about 8 points to a new peak, but cancelled its gain in a wave of profit taking at the close.

There was considerable selling in the morning, which carried General Motors and General Electric off a couple of points, and Radio 6 points. U. S. Steel which was held up in an effort to stem the tide of selling yesterday, was again pushed up, past 170 a record price, but it cancelled its gain later.

The specialties, to which the bulls gave strong support included American International, Beechnut Packing, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Commercial Credit, Commercial Solvents, Dunhill International, Johns Manville and Victor Talking Machine, most of which rose 5 to 10 points to new peak prices. However, some gains were diminished toward the close. Electrical equipment shares forged ahead, including Allis Chalmers and Westinghouse. In the motors, Hudson and Briggs moved up, while Chrysler dropped 3 points.

Oils were again in demand, Mexican Seaboard shot up 4 points to a new peak, then fell 3; Phillips, Standards of California and New Jersey and Sun went to new tops. In the coppers, Andes extended its gain, while Greene Cananea fell more than 4 points.

Some of the utilities encountered good buying. Consolidated Gas, Peoples Gas and Coke, and General Gas and Electric B going to new high levels. In the rails, Northern Pacific touched a new top at 106 while Union Pacific lost 3 points in profit taking.

International Nickel lost about 5 points, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, A. M. Byers, Montgomery Ward and Vanadium 2 to 4 points. Wright Aero dropped more than 4 points.

The commodity markets were generally steady, cotton developing strength on the census bureau's consumption report, but cancelling its gains in realising. Wheat was slightly higher on a bullish Canadian crop report.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling easing slightly.

GRAPHIC NARRATIVE OF EVENTS PRIOR TO SINKING OF THE VESTRIS

cause of the waves. I don't think they passed us up deliberately. It's pretty hard to spot swimmers in waves like those.

"Toward sunset it began to cloud up. And then a thought flashed into my mind that made me feel a little sick all over. Sharks.

"I don't know whether Miss Ball ever thought of them or not. If she did, she kept still about it.

Waves And Wind And Rain

"During that long night of waves and wind and rain we clung to the spar—talking intermittently. She told me that she was a stewardess. When we made for the spar and for several hours after we had attached ourselves to it, I had no idea who she was.

"I confess that we spent a good deal of time cussing out Captain Carey for not getting those radio messages out earlier. Miss Ball had heard that one went out at 8 o'clock Monday morning and had been cancelled.

"We agreed, though, that it was a tough break for the captain. Nobody likes to admit he's licked until he has to. Probably he thought the Vestris would ride it out.

"I'd like to know if it's true, though, that he sent out an S O S at 8 o'clock and then cancelled it.

"The night wore on. Several times we saw the searchlights of ships. They were too far away to see us then, but it gave us hope. And several times fish brushed against my body in the water and I squirmed. Mrs. Ball never said a word, if she noticed them. If she was undergoing what I was, she never let on at all. I decided to hold on anyway and wait until a shark actually attacked me before I let go.

"At daybreak came the worst moment of all for us. As the dawn broke—not a ship was in sight. And our piece of wreckage was beginning to break up. We had to hold it together while using it for a support.

"At about 11 o'clock, we sighted the Wyoming. She must have been 20 miles away. But our spar was practically gone.

"How about it?' I asked Mrs. Ball, 'shall we swim for it?'

"Without a word, she started off toward the Wyoming. I kept by her side.

"We had been swimming for an hour, when I looked back and saw the American Shipper. She was only about a mile away, and coming toward us.

"I tore off the tail of my shirt and waved it wildly in the air. They saw it. A boat was lowered.

"As we got up alongside, they threw out a rope. I fastened it around my body, under my arms, and grabbed Miss Ball. I had an idea that, when she could give in, she'd go quickly. I was right.

Hauled Into Boat

"They hauled us into the boat and then hoisted us up in one of those rope cages they use for hoisting cargo. We never could have made it climbing a ladder. We were much too weak.

"I never was treated more wonderfully in my life than I was on the American Shipper. The doctor ripped my clothes off, gave me a couple of shots of whiskey and an alcohol rub and told me to go to sleep, which I certainly did. When I woke up, the steward was ready to shave me. My clothes were all dried.

"I guess there's just one thing more. About five minutes after we were hoisted aboard the American Shipper, a dead body floated alongside. And two sharks—."

GRAVE CHARGES MADE AGAINST BRAVE CAPTAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—Two shiploads of survivors of the Lamport and Holt liner Vestris, arrived today to unfold details of one of the most horrible of maritime disasters.

An official inquiry has been ordered based on their almost unanimous charges of inefficiency, indecision and delay against Captain William J. Carey and his crew.

Interspersed in narratives of heroism—and of brutality—of narrow escape and of suffering invariably appeared assertions that if proper steps had been taken by the ship's officers and crew, most if not all of the 108 now dead would be alive. Even with the S O S call too long delayed, efficient handling of the Vestris' life saving equipment by those responsible would have brought most of those 108 out of danger, declared survivors who arrived today—48 full hours—after the Vestris plunged off Virginia.

These are charges which U. S. Attorney Tuttle announced today that he will begin to investigate tomorrow, but Captain Carey will never be called to answer them.

For after seeing the women and children dumped into a surging sea from shattered lifeboats, other passengers and his crew leaping into the waves from the foundering ship and feeling the bridge sinking beneath him, Captain Carey, one of his stewards said, jumped overboard without a life belt, though plenty were to be had.

Of the 125 survivors brought in on the American Shipper, 41 were passengers and 84 crew, of the 23 on the Berlin, 18 were crew and only five were passengers.

From these 46 rescued passengers came a story of hardship and heroism, of bravery and bungling, of good intentions and incompetence.

The survivors were divided in their opinion as to what had caused the ship to list and sink. Some said the cargo had shifted in the storm and opened improperly fastened hatches, bulkheads and ports. Others thought the whole trouble was caused by waves beating down on poorly secured freight openings in the hold and so flooding the engine room, leaving the ship helpless in the waves to be slowly battered onto its side.

Line officials declined to hazard any estimate of what had caused the disaster until all possible evidence had been taken.

Sixty four other survivers will arrive on the tanker Myriam tomorrow morning and the last of the survivors, eight on the battleship Wyoming, also will land tomorrow.

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—Charges made by surviving passengers of the Vestris, which are to be investigated by the federal authorities include:

Failure to ask aid in time.

Delay in abandoning the sinking ship.

Failure to warn passengers and crew of danger.

Defective lifeboat equipment, flares in lifeboats and to be wet.

Lantern in one boat but no oil, one boat broken to pieces when it capsized, one boat leaking.

Failure to close bulkheads tightly before liner sailed. Also charge bulkheads were weak.

Mishandling of lifeboats, allowing some to dangle in mid-air until passengers were spilled or ship sank.

Misconduct by some members of crew in failing to assist persons struggling in water.

CAREY HAD ESCAPED IN DANGERS OF WAR

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 14—(AP)—Captain William Carey, who apparently went down with his ship, the Vestris, had come unscathed through the dangerous war days although one of his ships was torpedoed. During much of the World war he commanded a vessel carrying troops and provisions in the Mediterranean.

Two of his sons also are officers in the fleet of Lamport and Holt. One is captain of the Raphael, now at sea, but the other, second officer of the Lighton, was at home.

BELIEVES SHIFTING OF AUTOS WRECKED VESTRIS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—David Cook, vice-president of Sanderson & Son, Inc., agents for the Lamport & Holt Steamship company, said today he believed the shifting of crated automobiles in the cargo had started the list from which the steamer Vestris sank off the Virginia capes.

NORTH LYME

G. H. Strong and N. S. Strong were in East Hampton, Wednesday.

J. W. Stark left Friday for a trip to Washington, D. C., to attend the meetings of the National Grange, also visiting New York, Atlantic City, Philadelphia and various points of interest along the route. The trip will cover about ten days.

Mrs. Mary Sisson, Mrs. H. A. Rogers, W. M. Sisson, Dorothy and Gerald Sisson visited C. R. Tinany in Wallingford Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong were in Norwich Thursday.

Mrs. Flora Chappell and Mrs. H. A. Rogers called on Mrs. Mary Sisson Saturday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's

The public, no doubt, is now interested in the forthcoming production of The Yokohama Maid, a Japanese musical comedy. Anything which St. Mary's has put on has been worth seeing, and this play will be no exception. It is a very pretty show, and one which no one should neglect to see. The music is catchy, the comedy good, the principal roles in capable hands, the costumes beautiful and all made by some of the ladies of the parish. We hope that as many as possible will try and see this play. We repeat—it will be worth anyone's time to see it.

At Central Baptist Church

"Suppose that all the world forgot to pray. Would it make any difference if they did forget?" This will be the topic for consideration at the mid-week meeting on Thursday evening at 7:45 at the Central Baptist church. At this meeting reports will be made from all the districts regarding the progress of the parish visitation and the budget for 1929 will be presented and voted upon.

On Friday evening at 7:45 at the Central Baptist church there will be a big church social in order that all may become better acquainted. A stunt by the young people, beautiful music, and readings will be the special features of the evening. Refreshments will be furnished by the Gleaners' class.

New Atwater Kent Factory

"Announcement has been made from Philadelphia, that A. Atwater Kent, manufacturer of radio sets and receivers, has broken ground for a new three million dollar factory which will double the size and capacity of his present, 16 1-2 acre plant, making it the biggest radio factory in the world and one of the largest industries in the United States.

"This addition is made necessary," said Mr. Kent, "in order to meet the steadily mounting demand for receivers and speakers. The production capacity of our present plant is exceeded this fall in spite of the fact that we are turning out 8,000 sets per day. My belief that the future of radio is even greater than the past or present has caused me to take this step in order to be ready for next year's business, which I believe will be greater than ever.

"The policy of handling all manufacturing activities on one floor, under the mass production, belt assembly principle, will be followed in the new factory, which will be situated across the street from the present plant in Germantown, and connected with it by an ornamental arch.

"Mr. Kent himself turned over the first spadeful of earth for the new addition with a silver spade and announced that work would be rushed so that the new branch will be in production by spring. Contractors are under unusually heavy penalty to complete the building, a three million dollar plant, by May 1, 1929." It was announced at the same time that from May 1, 1928, to May 1, 1929 Mr. Kent's company will have turned out one million receiving sets."

AIRPORT OF THE FUTURE TO BE LIKE CITY GARAGE

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 14—(AP)—The airport of the future will be operated just like a modern downtown city garage, Major Frank M. Kennedy, of the Army Air Corps, declared today in an address before the American Institute of Steel construction.

Major Kennedy, who as the official observer of the United States Army crossed the Atlantic in the dirigible ZR-2, now the Los Angeles, predicted airplanes would be taxied up to the warming up line at the storage hangar and the pilot would be given a check for the plane by the hangar superintendent. The hangar's crew then would service the plane with fuel, oil and water and take it into the hangar for storage until the pilot would want it for his next trip.

A 90-foot wing spread commercial plane is virtually assured, Major Kennedy said. He now has supervision of constructing hangars at army air ports.

Disturbed Sleep Is Nature's Danger Signal

Anna F. Dearborn, Pittsfield, N. H. says: "I will tell or write my complete experience with Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). How I was afflicted with bladder weakness for 40 years disturbing me 6 to 10 times each night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 3c each at all drug stores. # "Cleanliness"

Step in before you step out.

There's Personality in SOAP & WATER

The advertisement reproduced is one of a series being published to aid the work of Cleanliness Institute in its nation-wide campaign to stimulate the unanimous use of soap and water.

Medical authorities agree that cleanliness is a big brother to happiness, comfort and success. And, of course, to keep clean, conveniently, an ever-ready supply of hot water is essential.

That's where gas steps into the picture—to provide, instantly and whenever needed, the hot water required for clean and healthful tidiness in home, school and business.

Gas, with its up-to-date and scientific appliances, is the most dependable, surest and quickest source of hot water for bathing, dish washing, the laundry—for every purpose which the good cause of cleanliness demands.

Call on your gas company for demonstrations of water heating, cooking, house heating, refrigeration, laundry drying, incineration, garage heating, fireplaces, and many other uses for GAS—THE BETTER FUEL. Appliances that you desire may be purchased with a small down payment and convenient terms for the balance.

Hot Water Instantly.. with Gas ...THE BETTER FUEL.

For the information of the people of New England a series of messages, of which this is one, is being published by the gas industry of New England. They contain interesting facts about GAS—THE BETTER FUEL—and its importance in your home and business.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

There's no argument here!

YOU HEAR a lot of talk about radio claims and counterclaims... arguments without end. Meanwhile most people are buying Atwater Kent 1929 all-electric sensibly priced radio.

You just can't argue about a set like this. You can't argue about power or range or selectivity when the FULL-VISION Dial brings in station after station so quickly and clearly. There's nothing more to be said about simplicity and economy, when you merely plug the cord of Model 40 into a convenient light socket for unfailing electric current at a fraction of a cent an hour.

And as for dependability, Atwater Kent radio doesn't argue, it just works, and keeps on working year after year, as almost 2,000,000 owners know.

But let's settle the argument with a home demonstration. Then you'll know. Drop in or phone today.

THE 1929 ELECTRIC SET MODEL 40

Model 40 A. C. set. For 110-120 volt, 50-60 cycle alternating current. Requires six A. C. tubes and one rectifying tube, $77 (without tubes).

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

An exceptional crook mystery play is offered this week at the Broadway theatre. The excitement of last night's opening audience was infectious. The slam-bang episodes certainly provide all the thrills that any one can want of a single entertainment.

The same team that made "The Girl from Chicago" such powerful melodrama, heads the cast in this Warner Bros. production. Certainly Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy fit the parts like the proverbial glove does the hand, and give a dynamic go to this fine attraction which will fill the most blase picture patron with suspense and eagerness to learn what's going to happen next.

The others in the cast are perfect. Pat Hartigan is—Pat Hartigan—that is enough praise to anyone who knows his movies, while George [illegible] and William Russell as [illegible] make you glad that you're privileged to be there through the flicker world, and not via a dark hallway on a murky night.

The story? Shall we spoil the fun and the thrill and the excitement (we've used that word twice, but that to a precision expresses what the picture has nothing else but, of) by giving away this arresting mystery picture? We won't, although we'd like to communicate the thrill of the whole thing. There's a murder to be cleared, a twin brother of a suicide who impersonates his brother in order to get the gang leader, and the daughter of the slain police officer, who goes right into the den of crooks to get her revenge, and incidentally (or not so incidentally, as you please) the man she loves.

See "State Street Sadie" if you want to see the best mystery crook picture of this or any other season.

Battery B Circus

The circus planned by Battery B at the Norwich armory promises to present several novel acts which are not to be seen in vaudeville. The Helen Clark Trio, who present a Roman ladder act which has plenty of thrills and calls for real skill on the part of the performers.

The animal acts have not been definitely settled but the children will be assured of the joy which only such an act can give them.

A basketball game played on bicycles is included in the plans and only the best aerial acts ever seen in a circus.

Frigidaire

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 12—Three quarters of a million Frigidaires are now in use. The seven hundred and fifty thousandth unit was shipped last week to an eastern city with a carload of others and is now providing refrigeration in a stenographer's apartment.

"Nearly ten years elapsed in building and delivering the first quarter of a million," E. G. Biechler, president and general manager of Frigidaire corporation said today. "Housewives and commercial users installed the second quarter of a million in fourteen months. And only eight months were required for a steadily growing demand to place the third quarter of a million in actual service. For the past two years Frigidaire installations have exceeded those of all other companies in the electric refrigeration industry combined."

"Prior to 1921 Frigidaires were built only in small numbers; much time and money being devoted to experimental and engineering work. But in that year production increased slightly, a total of 404 household units being shipped. Five times as many were produced the following year. Then annual sales began to double and redouble and the first quarter of a million units was soon placed in the field.

"At this point Frigidaire corporation began an extensive newspaper advertising campaign, which has continued ever since. The second quarter of a million was produced in fourteen months, following the completion of a tremendous factory expansion program. It was hastened by a drastic price cut, in some instances amounting to three-fourths what earliest models had sold for. Thousands of families that had never expected to own an electric refrigerator were quick to add a Frigidaire to their kitchen equipment."

Where the earlier and more costly Frigidaires were offered in only two or three models, the new Frigidaire recently announced appeared in nineteen. Besides being inaudible in operation it is said to be more powerful and efficient than ever before and to possess many other outstanding improvements. This according to Mr. Biechler, is the reason why the 750,000 mark was reached last week instead of about January 1 as had been expected earlier in the season.

One of the early Frigidaires is still operating in a factory rest room. It has delivered the equivalent of twenty years of actual service and does not yet show signs of wearing out.

Breed Theatre

Cecil B. DeMille's highly renowned picture, "The King of Kings," will be shown for the last times today at the Breed theatre.

With 18 stars, 500 principals, and a supporting cast of 5,000 persons, "The King of Kings" devotes its story to the last year and a half of the ministry of the Man of Nazareth. All the characters of the New Testament live and move in this remarkable picture. In the cast are H. B. Warner, Dorothy Cumming, Ernest Torrence, Joseph Schildkraut, Jacqueline Logan, Rudolph Schildkraut, Victor Varconi, Majel Coleman, Montagu Love, William Boyd, George Siegmann, Theodore Kosloff, Kenneth Thomson, Jane Faye, Sam De Grasse, Alan Brooks, M. Moore, Marie [illegible] and Robert [illegible].

FRANK GLEBE, NORWICH TOWN, TRIES TRAIN WRECKING AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—Frank Glebe, from Norwich Town, was arrested this afternoon charged with attempting to wreck a train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, he having been found with a 150-pound draw bar on the westbound tracks. The draw bar weighed about 300 pounds and was sufficient to wreck the train. He will be before the court tomorrow.

COULD NOT PAY HIS FINE— HELD IN PROVIDENCE JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—Arthur Van Etten, residing at the corner of Union and Church streets, in this city, was presented in the Fourth district court, East Greenwich, R. I., Monday, and was fined $100 and costs on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He could not pay and was taken to the East Providence jail and will be retained there until such time as he furnishes his bond.

The continued case of Mrs. Madeline Piscitella, 8 Hamilton street, charged with breach of the peace, was ended in the police court when Deputy Judge John McGarry ordered a nolle, but placed the woman in charge of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Mrs. Piscitella was arrested two weeks ago on complaint of Nicolo Sammataro, 120 Shaw street, who claimed that the woman had attacked him with a cleaver, striking him a blow on the right cheek. The cheek carried a cut from a point opposite the ear to the lower jaw, but however the cut was inflicted the wound was superficial. Mrs. Piscitella declared that she threatened Sammataro with the cleaver, but did not use it. She said that Sammataro visited her at her store and that the pair renewed a quarrel that originated several years ago and when Sammataro attacked her with a knife she scratched his face with her fingernails. It was when Sammataro threatened to renew the attack that Mrs. Piscitella seized the cleaver and indicated that she would use it as a weapon to protect herself against a second assault.

OAKDALE MAN APPEALS FROM FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—George Holmes, of Oakdale, pleaded not guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor, reckless driving, refusing to stop at a signal to do so and resisting an officer. With the introduction of testimony of Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin, probable cause was found and Holmes was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Holmes gave notice of appeal to the next criminal term of the court of common pleas and furnished a surety on his bond of $500. Holmes was arrested by Officer Martin after the police had received information that a man was driving an automobile while drunk on Broad street extension. The officer went to that street in the police Ford and in a short time came upon Holmes. When Martin ordered Holmes to stop the former attempted to speed away. The officer blew his whistle, but Holmes continued to speed. The officer fired several shots in an endeavor to puncture the tires of Holmes' car, but did not succeed. The shots however, caused Holmes to reduce the speed of the automobile, but as he did so he guided his car against the police car, causing the latter auto to be ditched. As this was done, Martin leaped to the running board of Holmes' auto and succeeded in bringing the machine to a stop. Holmes attacked Martin, but a blow from the officer's blackjack subdued him and he was arrested.

At a meeting of Emily J. Cole camp, auxiliary to the United Spanish War veterans, held in the armory last night, the organization was inspected by Jesse Lyons of Bridgeport, deputy president. After business, cake and coffee were served.

CONN. COUNCIL OUTLINES PLANS FOR WINTER STUDY

The program for the winter activities of the New London branch of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women was outlined at the November meeting held at the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service headquarters in Jay street this week. In the educational program a study club in the liturgy is already in progress under direction of Rev. Nicholas P. Caron, of Jewett City, and a course in apologetics under Rev. R. J. O'Callaghan will begin Nov. 20, and classes relative to it will be held Nov. 27 and Dec. 4.

A lecture on the Confessions of St. Augustine and St. Patrick, by Dr. C. F. Kinsman, ex-bishop of the Anglican church will be given in December. Rev. Gordon Bodenwein again will have charge of books, religious articles, Italian cards, etc. Bills before the legislature will be studied in January and February. The speakers will be announced later. The annual banquet will be held at the Mohican, Jan. 14. Rt. Rev. Maurice F. McAuliffe, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Hartford, will be the speaker. Monsigneur Benson's play, The Upper Room, which was presented last year, will be given again at the Lyceum theatre during Lent. A card party will be held this month with Mrs. Frederick Davis in charge, assisted by Mrs. Daniel Keating, Mrs. Julius A. Koch and Mrs. P. L. Glenn.

Lady Aberdeen lodge, Daughters of Scotia, celebrated its 27th anniversary last night at a dinner held in the Hotel Mohican. Following the repast members went to Union lodge rooms where officers were installed. Many guests from other cities of the state were present.

At the weekly bridge party of the Faire Harbour club held yesterday afternoon nine tables were in play. The prizes were won by Mrs. Charles D. Carroll, Mrs. Irvin R. Mitchell and Mrs. Frank Mix.

Members of the Women's league of the First Baptist church will hold their annual thank offering tomorrow afternoon in the parish house.

Members of the Catholic Women's club plan a card party in the club rooms on State street.

Members of Orient Rebekah lodge at the regular meeting in Odd Fellows hall last night rehearsed drilling, in preparation for inspection to be held November 27.

Ensign H. T. Jewell, commander of Division No. 3 of the Offshore Patrol will leave this port within a few days to take command of a naval unit on the west coast. Six 125 foot patrol boats will be under his charge on the long voyage to California. Officer Jewell is well known in this city and will leave a host of friends here.

Announcement was made today of the marriage in Hartford October 29 of James E. O'Donnell and Miss Florence B. Ennis, both of this city. Friends were unaware of the marriage and news did not leak out until yesterday when they returned to this city to reside in their new home on Squire street.

Eighteen officers from the local coast guard unit are taking examinations this week for promotion. All work is being done at the state pier under the direction of Lieut. Commander M. A. Doyle. All the officers who successfully pass the tests will secure promotion at an early date.

BOND OF $1,000 REQUIRED IN WATERFORD WOMAN'S CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—Waterford constables and other officers swooped down upon the home of Mrs. Catherine Homans Miller, wife of Valentine Miller, yesterday and discovered a quantity of gin. She was arrested on a charge of possession with intention to sell and has been released on a bond of $1,000, for appearance in the Waterford town court Monday morning next.

SISTER DID HER BEST BUT BROTHER ENDS IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—Samuel Bercume, a farm hand, employed at Eastern Point, does not apparently appreciate leniency showed him by the courts as a result of his constant indulgence in liquor. As a result of Bercume's indiscretion he was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Deputy Judge John McGarry, in the police court today Bercume was arrested Monday by state police from Groton barracks, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, upon complaint of Charles Lillibridge, of Norwich Town, after the car that Bercume was driving had collided with four automobiles near Uncasville. His case was tried in Waterford town court Tuesday and he was fined $100 and costs. Bercume's sister assured the court that she would pay her brother's fine and on that assurance Bercume was released that he might return to his employment. The fine still remains unpaid. Instead of Bercume returning to his work, he was successful in getting more drink and again became intoxicated. He went to police headquarters Monday night and requested lodging. When his condition was observed, Bercume was locked up.

NORWICH PASTOR CONDUCTS HARGEY FUNERAL SERVICES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—The funeral of Charles P. Hargey, of Yantic, who was instantly killed near Lyme Saturday when thrown from the motorcycle he was riding after the cycle had collided with a pleasure automobile, was held this noon at 15 Masonic street. The services were conducted by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, Norwich. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Mrs. Helen Delleo

The funeral of Mrs. Helen Delleo, of 24 Allen street, Groton, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, the mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. George Clark of this city. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, New London.

The body of Francis J. Riley, who died of apoplexy at Lawrence-Memorial hospital yesterday an hour after he had been stricken in a Bank street coal office, was forwarded today to Brooklyn, N. Y. A brother of the dead man came to New London this morning and took charge of the body.

Mrs. Julia M. Davis, 62, wife of Frank Davis, 8 Tenth street, died last night at her home. Besides her husband, Mrs. Davis is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Rundle, New Haven and Mrs. Hannah Hayes and Mrs. Alice Morrissey, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Davis was born in Ireland, but had resided in this city since she was a young woman.

Abbott C. Josslyn, 50, a mechanic residing at 12 West Coit street, was arrested this afternoon by Lieut. Bushey, state police barracks at Centerbrook, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Josslyn was unable to obtain a surety on his bond of $150 and was locked up. He will be in court tomorrow. Josslyn was arrested four years ago on the same charge and at that time was fined $50 and costs.

BOOTLEGGERS TAUGHT LAW MUST BE OBEYED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 14—Several additional cases of violation of the liquor law were disposed of before Deputy Judge John McGarry in the police court this morning, all of the accused having been arrested several days ago.

Mrs. Josephine Truken, 101 North Bank street, was fined $400 and costs. She was not arrested until Monday, although a warrant for her arrest was issued at the same time as were the others, but as the woman was ill in bed when officers went to her home, her arrest was deferred until her condition was such as would permit her appearance in court.

Frank Paul, 45 Atlantic street, was fined $50 and costs. Paul was extended leniency by the imposition of a small fine because his partner, Joseph Feni, was fined $400 and costs two days before the result of testimony being brought before Paul's arrest the same day was out during the trial of Feni that it was Paul who sold the stool pigeons liquor and not Feni.

Joseph Poretta, 47 Summer street, was fined $400 and costs. When the Poretta house was raided the police experienced much difficulty in finding the hiding place of the liquor, the secret compartment being between partitions in a rear hall, where a considerable quantity of liquor was seized.

Harry (Herman) Schuman, employed at a club room, 24 Golden street, was fined $200 and costs. There was but one charge against Schuman.

The case of Oresto Piccentti, 802 Bank street, was continued again, this time for a week. When the police raided the Piccentti home a large quantity of liquor was seized, in fact, the greatest amount of liquor was found at the Piccentti home.

The continued case of Joseph Chamberlin, 50 Moore avenue, was continued another week. Chamberlin, who is a taxicab driver, denies the charge and declares that if the stool pigeons were supplied with liquor by a taxicab driver, it was some one other than himself.

Charles Lawski, 125 North Bank street and Robert Donohue, 338 Huntington street, were charged with breach of the peace, but the cases were nolled. Lawski and Donohue engaged in a street fight on Main street several nights ago. During the fight, the battlers smashed a store window and Donohue sustained a fractured collarbone.

WEDDINGS

O'Connor-Murray

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, Miss A. Adelaide Murray, daughter of former Mayor John F. Murray of Blackhall street, and Charles J. O'Connor of Garfield avenue, were united in marriage by Rev. Gordon Bodenwein, who also sang the nuptial high mass. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white transparent velvet and a bridal veil of silk tulle and rose point lace fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Norah Burke of this city was the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of seafoam green transparent velvet draped with tulle. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. Her hat matched her gown. John J. Daly of this city was best man and the ushers were Timothy J. Sullivan of this city, and James J. O'Connor, of Hartford, brother of the bridegroom. Following the ceremony there was a reception and breakfast. About 80 attended. Guests were present from Holyoke, New Britain, Hartford, New Haven, New York city and Warwick, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor left later in the day for New York and Buffalo, the bride wearing ombra transparent velvet with hat to match. Her coat was of beaver. On their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor will be at home to friends at their newly erected residence at 25 Granada Terrace. The bride is a graduate of Williams Memorial Institute in 1918. For several years she has been employed at the National Bank of Commerce. The bridegroom is a native of New Britain, but has made his home in this city for the past 12 years. He was educated in the public schools of New Britain and at Canisius college in Buffalo. During the World war he served in foreign waters as a member of the United States Coast Guard. He is now an advertising representative.

Kirkwood-Dolbeare

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson E. Dolbeare of Waterford, Saturday, at 12 o'clock, their daughter, Mary Mitchell Dolbeare, became the bride of Benjamin Shipway Kirkwood of Queens Village, L. I. The wedding day was the 31st anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Byron U. Hatfield of Mystic, a friend of the bride from her childhood. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in white flat crepe trimmed with shadow lace. She wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and a band of pearls and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lillies of the valley. She was attended by Chereida Waters of Brooklyn as maid of honor. The latter was dressed in green crepe and carried pink rosebuds. Her two bridesmaids were Mignonne Raymond, her cousin, who was in orchid georgette, and Miss Margaret Eglise, who was in blue satin crepe, both carrying yellow rosebuds. William R. Shipway of Lynbrook, N. Y., a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Pierson E. Dolbeare of this city and Kenneth Dolbeare of Simsbury, brothers of the bride, were ushers. A reception and luncheon, attended by about 75 guests, was held at the bride's home following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood left for a motor trip to Washington. On their return they will reside in Queens Village, L. I., where Mr. Kirkwood is manager of a garage. The bride is a graduate of Chapman Technical high school and of the training school for nurses of the Brooklyn, N. Y., hospital.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY MASS FOR MRS. NICHOLAS WALSH

At St. Mary's Memorial church, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, a second anniversary requiem high mass offered for the happy repose of the soul of the late Mrs. Nicholas Walsh was celebrated by Rev. John Walsh of Bridgeport, a son of the deceased. The musical part of the mass was in charge of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist. Relatives and family friends were present at the mass.

Andrew and Joseph Farrell of Prospect street are spending a few days with relatives at Fall River, Mass.

Thomas McCurry has returned to his home in Webster, after spending a few days as the guest of relatives on North Main street.

William Leeney has returned to his home on Heath street, after spending a few days with relatives at Providence.

Carl Pearson has returned to his home at Providence, after spending a few days recently at the home of his parents on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maynard have rturned to their home at Niantic after spending a few days at the home of her father, on Fifth street.

Rev. Harry Brothwell, pastor of the Third Baptist church, has changed his residence from North Main street to Boswell avenue, occupying the tenement that was vacated by Mr and Mrs. John Eichelberg, who have moved to Smith avenue.

Mrs. William J. Carroll of Boswell avenue spent Wednesday with relatives at Southbridge.

Miss Catherine Brennan has returned to resume her studies at the Willimantic State Normal school after spending the holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Brennan, of Prospect street.

Miss Gertrude Fontaine has returned to Hartford to resume her duties as a teacher, after spending the week-end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fontaine, of Central avenue.

David Goldblatt spent Wednesday at Hartford.

Lynwood Crary has returned to his home in Preston, after spending a few days with relatives at Wauregan.

Miss Mary Keenan has returned to her home on Fifth street, after spending a few days at the home of her uncle at Hartford.

Miss Elizabeth Donovan has returned to her home at Hartford, after spending a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gadle of Hickory street.

COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT IN WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Workmen's compensation payment of $133 to Hyman Alpert of the Bronx, N. Y., in his claim against Daniel Goldberg of Colchester is given in a compromise agreement which has been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey in settlement of the case. The insuring company is also to pay to the claimant the sum of $14 to reimburse him for medical services already paid to Dr. E. J. Howland by him, and shall also pay the balance of $14 on the medical bill.

Alpert was injured when he was kicked by a cow on July 5, 1928. The attending physician claimed that Alpert was disabled for eight weeks and five days, up to Sept. 4, 1928, but Alpert claimed a longer period and the compromise agreement was reached in lieu of a formal hearing.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Take a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

LIQUOR CASES DISPOSED OF BY FINES IN NORWICH CITY COURT

Four men were each fined $200 and costs and given 10 day jail sentences, Wednesday morning in the city court, on charges of violation of the liquor law. Those fined and sent to jail were: William Farrell, 48 of No. 43 North Main street. Walter Morcvitch, 40, of Norwich Town; George Piller, 30, of No. 251 West Thames street and Stanislaw Kusek, of No. 60 Monroe street. They were four of ten arrested over the week end by the state and local police as the result of liquor raids.

Mrs. Ida Roy, boarding house keeper of No. 261 Yantic street, was fined a total of $400 on two counts and given 20 days in jail. The counts were keeping with intent to sell and making an actual sale. The fine on each count was $200 and the sentence on each count 10 days. Mrs. Roy took an appeal through her counsel Thomas M. Shields and bonds were set at $1,000.

On request of counsel the cases of Arthur Disco, tax driver and James Jones, who has charge of a gas station on North Main street, were continued until Saturday November 17th. Disco faces a charge of making an actual sale and Jones a charge of keeping with intent to sell.

Earl Rollinson, 37, and Percy Robinson, 23, taxi drivers, were discharged by the court. They were charged with actual sales. Ralph Smart, of Old Mystic, charged with violation of the liquor law, was also discharged by the court. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon in a raid at the home of Mrs. Pecola Thompson.

Rollinson was discharged when City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy informed the court that his arrest was a mistake. It is said that a state police officer while riding in a cab several days ago, Robinson driving, that Robinson gave them a card bearing Rollinson's name. On the strength of the card Rollinson was arrested Saturday. The city attorney referred to Mr. Rollinson as a cab driver of good calibre and expressed regret over his arrest.

Robinson was discharged because the court learned that he was acting as an agent for a buyer instead of selling. State Police Officer Smith testified that the accused took him to Farrell's place on North Main street and purchased a pint of liquor for him with money that the officer gave him. The transaction took place last Friday and the state officer remained in the cab.

Reckless Driving Case Continued.

The reckless driving case against Frank Mader of No. 15 Dunham street, was continued until Tuesday December 5th, when it came up in the city court Wednesday morning. The bonds remain at $200. The case was continued to await the result of the injuries Mrs. Arthur Bessette of Norwich avenue received, when a machine driven by Mader ran into a group of people while they were waiting for a trolley car at the Lisbon bridge stop last Saturday. Mrs. Bessette is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital.

Fined For Defective Lights.

In the city court Wednesday morning Salvadore Mingola, 26, was fined $5 on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws. He was operating with defective headlights. Accused admitted that there were no lights on his machine when he was stopped by the police Tuesday night. He claimed a fuse had blown out.

LEBANON D. A. R. MET WITH FRANKLIN MEMBER

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., held its November meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of one of its members, Mrs. Fred J. Bliss, of Franklin, having an attendance of 17 members and two visitors and the regent, Miss Annie Gillett, presiding. The meeting opened with the Lord's prayer, singing of America and salute to the flag.

Miss Marjorie Ayer gave an interesting report of the meeting held with Mrs. Wickham in Hartford for the committee on patriotic education, which she and the regent attended.

It was voted to send $5 to the Blue Ridge school and to give two prizes of $5 and $2.50 in the Lyman Memorial high school for the students standing highest in history.

Papers on Americanization work were read by Mrs. L. P. Ayer and Miss Bertha Perry and articles on defense of family relations were read by Mrs A. R. Manning and Miss Laura McCall. Miss Bertha Perry read a very fine paper on Old Mirrors which she had written.

Following the close of the meeting with the D. A. R. pledge to the flag, the hostesses, Mrs. Bliss and Mrs. Clinton Goodwin, served rolls, fruit salad, fancy cookies and coffee.

FOUR ARE FINED ON DISORDERLY HOUSE CHARGE

At the Wednesday morning session of the city court Pecola Thompson, 42, occupant of a disorderly house on Lexington avenue, East Great Plain, was fined $10 and costs and given a 30-day jail sentence, suspended. She was charged with conducting the house. Ralph Smart, Barbara Simons, colored, and Ralph Clark, 21, white, were each fined $5 and costs on charges of frequenting. The four were arrested Tuesday afternoon by the state police in a raid on the place.

State Police Officer Smith visited the house, with an aide several days ago, and secured evidence that the place was being used as a disorderly house.

SEEKS DIVORCE ON CLAIM OF DESERTION

Rudolph Walter of New London has brought a petition in the superior court asking for a divorce from Goodwin Anderson Walter, of parts unknown, according to papers filed with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court.

They were married Nov 9, 1921, and desertion is alleged since Jan. 15, 1923.

UNIT LAND VALUES IN GREENEVILLE SECTION SHOWN

Interested taxpayers may now begin to make comparisons of the unit values in which he may be interested. The accompanying map shows the unit foot values in the Greeneville section and with the maps already printed, a large portion of the city has been covered. One more map is to be printed and then the taxpayer may see how his values compare with those of his neighbors or other streets of similar value.

EXONERATES DRIVER IN FATAL ACCIDENT CASE

Morris Grange of Southington, driver of an automobile that struck a stone wall in New London on Sept. 2, resulting in fatal injuries to his six year old daughter, Madeline, is exonerated from criminal liability in a finding made by Coroner Edward G. McKay.

The accident happened at the intersection of Montauk avenue and Thames street. In concluding his finding, Coroner McKay says:

During the ride on Montauk avenue, the Orange party were preceded by another party from Southington made up of neighbors of the Orange family. At a point near the intersection of Montauk avenue and Thames street, the latter car was ahead of the Orange car at some distance which is not definitely shown. At any rate the testimony shows that the Orange car was following another car when it came to the intersection and there is a variance in the distance at this point as testified to by the witnesses.

When the Orange car came to the said intersection it turned to the left and went diagonally across the intersection, hit the curb at the southeast corner of the intersection and collided with a stone wall the right side of the car hitting the wall. The car then came back to the curb and came to rest upright, partly on the road and partly on the sidewalk. All of the occupants of the Orange car, except the driver were injured to a greater or less degree. They were taken to the Lawrence and Memorial hospital a short distance away and were given treatment. The deceased was apparently the least affected when she was brought to the hospital but expired shortly after reaching there.

Testimony taken after the accident disclosed the fact that at the time of the accident which occurred at about 11.45 a. m. (E. S. T.) there were three automobile at or near the intersection of Montauk avenue and Thames street. Two of these said automobiles were going south on Montauk avenue and the third was going east on Thames street. This latter car was a Chervolet roadster owned and operated by Lawrence Knowlton of New London and had as a passenger Joseph Giardina, also of New London. As far as could be learned there were no other cars traveling north on Montauk avenue nor west on Thames street at or near the said intersection.

The testimony disclosed this situation, namely: that the Knowlton car came to the intersection an slowed down. It allowed the automobile that was preceding the Orange automobile to pass in front of it and then started into the intersection to pass across Montauk avenue. While it was in the intersection the Orange car came up to the intersection and veered off to the left, while the Knowlton car veered off to the right. The Knowlton car came to rest on Montauk avenue on the east side of the street and south of the intersection. The course of the Orange car has been described above.

It appears that had the Orange automobile continued straight along through the intersection, instead of turning, it would have passed safely in the rear of the Knowlton automobile. However, the course was not taken, and the accident happened rather through an error in judgment than through carelessness.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said Madeline Grange was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or negligence of any other person or persons.

LICENSES SUSPENDED FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

A list of 27 operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The list follows:

Avon, Pete Manuck; Bristol, Fred Leger; Danbury, Arthur A. Baril, Hipolit Pracuta; Danielson, Henry Twogood; East Haven, Arthur W. Roberts; East Norwalk, Marshall Nichols; Hartford, Thomas F. Phillips, Frank Stanish; Manchester, Robert McBride; Meriden, Oscar W. Benson; Montville, Frederick Spencer; New Britain, Michael Norkunas; New Canaan, Alfred I. Unterreiner; New Haven, Booker T. Gibson, Ralph Goldman, Bernett E. Pierce; South Manchester, Geo. N. Hoffman, Arthur F. Sullivan; Stamford, K. Morgan Robinson; Stratford, Nick Ladusky; Warehouse Point, August H. Veits; West Haven, Frank Cheeseman; Willimantic, Chas. S. Myers; Springfield, Mass., John W. Garlin; Manchester, N. H., Omer Juneau; Millerton, N. Y., Theodore McGhee.

Given Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Joseph Barron, Jr., was held Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Samuel Fish of Hallville.

During the evening there were music and games and a mock marriage in which the young people participated. The rooms were prettily decorated with pink and white. Mrs. Joseph Barron, Jr., received many beautiful gifts, including cut glass, silverware, linens and kitchen utensils. Among the guests present were Miss Kate Richardson, Miss Rose Perkins, Mrs. Ida Hadey, Miss Annie DeWolf, Mrs. Lena Hill, Miss Alice Collins, Miss Lillian Noma, Miss Alma Carpenter, Miss Helen Gromko, Miss Lulu Barron, Mrs. Joseph Barron and Mrs. Samuel Fish. Luncheon was served by Miss Kate Richardson and Mrs. Samuel Fish, consisting of sandwiches, assorted cookies, apples, popcorn and coffee.

TAFTVILLE

A Therrien, who has been spending the past five months in Canada, has returned to his home on Terrace avenue.

Several of the departments in the plant of the J. B. Martin Co., Ltd., are closed this week for inventory purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence M. Buckley of South C street had an unusual experience this last week, when, through their short wave length radio set, they listened last Sunday to the Armistice day services in the Anglican Pro-Cathedral at London, England. After listening to the service they were able to hear the big gathering of ex-service men at Albert hall in London.

The members of St. Veronica's society met Wednesday evening in their rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Nolan, presiding. The members voted to change the name of the society from St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society to St. Veronica's society, the reason being that they are no longer connected with the state organization of Total Abstinence and Benefit societies.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bearsley and the latter's son, Joseph Cady, who have been residing in Galina, Kansas, for the past few months, have returned to the village and have taken a house on South B street. Mrs. Bearsley is the former Mrs. Sadie Cady, and since her marriage to Mr. Bearsley, the couple have resided in Galina. They have decided to make their future home in Taftville, however, and their many friends are welcoming them back. Both Mr. Bearsley and Mr. Cady have accepted positions with the farm department of the Ponemah mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seddon and family of New Bedford have moved to the village and have taken a house on Norwich avenue.

Henry Tetreault has resigned his position with the weaving department of the local mills.

John Haskell of Occum road has accepted a position in Norwich.

E. W. Terrington of South Second avenue, Kurt Seifert of Norwich, Carl Krauss and George W. Weller, Jr., of Blissville have been on a duck hunting trip to Saybrook.

Henry E. Oliver of Hartford was calling on friends in the village Wednesday.

Foresters have been trimming up the big elm trees on North and South Second avenues, removing decayed limbs and unsightly branches.

The state highway department, which has had men working recently on the new road layout in Lisbon, has had its surveyors busy on the Old Canterbury turnpike into Norwich Town, and stakes have been set out marking the measurements which they have taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tennat of the Old Canterbury turnpike were Wednesday visitors in Warwick, R. I.

TRUMBULL GAVE $2,000 FOR ELECTION EXPENSES

Reports of election campaign expenditures made by various party workers and candidates to the secretary of state on Wednesday show that Gov. John H. Trumbull gave $2,000 to the republican state central committee; that DeWitt Page of Bristol, republican presidential elector, "for political purposes" gave $8,000, of which $7,000 went to J. Henry Roraback, treasurer of the republican state central committee, and $1,000 to H. B. Reed; that Ernest E. Rogers of New London, lieutenant governor-elect, gave $1,110, of which $1,000 went to the republican state central committee, $50 to the New London republican town committee, $30 to the Norwich republican town committee and $5 each to the New Haven Italian Republican club and the New Haven Hoover club.

William L. Higgins of Coventry, successful candidate for secretary of state, contributed $788.34, of which $500 went to the republican state central committee. William E. Thoms, Waterbury, democratic presidential elector, gave $50 to the democratic state central committee. Alton T. Minor, New London, democratic presidential elector, gave $75, and George J. Bassett of New Haven, democratic candidate for state treasurer, gave $310, of which $300 went to the state central committee. Bernard F. Gaffey, New Britain, judge of probate, contributed $350, giving $250 to the democratic and $100 to the republican town committees.

Richard T. O'Connell, East Hartford, judge of probate, gave $60; William R. Palmer, Oxford, democratic presidential elector, and Joseph E. Stone, New Britain, democratic presidential elector, gave nothing. Edward O. Goss of Waterbury, republican presidential elector, contributed $1,000. Fuller F. Barnes, Bristol, fifth senatorial district, gave $1,105, of which $500 went to the state central committee and a like amount to the town committee.

Francis A. Pallotti, defeated in the nomination for lieutenant governor at the republican convention, spent $104.90 for headquarters at the Hotel Taft.

TROLLEY CAR AND COUPE IN COLLISION

Shortly before 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning a Dodge coupe owned by the Whiting Milk company of Charlestown, Mass., and operated by Bernard E. Paterson of Campon, Maine, was quite badly damaged when it figured in a collision with a one man trolley car at the intersection of Broadway and Williams avenue. The coupe, proceeding towards Norwich Town, crashed into the side of the trolley car. The compressed air tank and some of the wood work of the trolley car suffered.

NORWICH TOWN

PASTOR OF FIRST CHURCH ISSUES CIRCULAR LETTER

Copies of the following letter are in circulation this week among parishioners:—

Norwich Town, Conn.,
Nov. 8, 1928

To the friends of the First Congregational church of Norwich.

Greeting: Again we send you an autumn message concerning our church.

A year ago we announced to you our plans to rebuild the church organ, install a new furnace in the chapel, and to adopt the project plan for our benevolences. Those three things have been done. In addition the young people of the church have had the interior of the chapel repainted at a cost of $200, new lights installed, and have raised the money for the same by entertainments. At the same time the ladies have contributed $200 toward the new floor which was laid in the chapel main room.

All rejoice in this renewal of our Sunday school and social rooms.

The rebuilt organ was dedicated in April with appropriate services on Sunday, and an organ recital on Friday, April 20th.

By the adoption of the project plan for benevolences our former missionary societies were all merged into one group, composed of both men and women, and is called the League of Service. Instead of sending our contributions to the general work of the mission boards we now designate the specific work we wish to help. The projects for our church at present are: (1) On the foreign field; hospital at Ahmednagar; toward the salary of Miss Gertrude S. Avery; toward the salary of Rev. and Mrs. Edward H. Smith; to the work of Miss McClure and Miss Cushman. (2) On the home field; Colibran, Colorado; superintendency of southern states; toward the salary of Miss Ruth Beebe, Athens, Ala.; Piedmont college; toward the salary of Miss Lydia Hartig in Connecticut; to the fund for ministers; Boston Seamen's Friends society.

The annual canvass of the parish will be made Sunday afternoon, November 18.

Your cheerful and generous cooperation in past years has made the work of canvassing the parish a pleasure to our solicitors who have devoted the afternoon to calling upon you.

In addition to our regular church expenses we shall need from $400 to $600 for repairs to church property as the roof of the parsonage must be attended to, and the unexpected is always confronting us.

Our income from invested funds will be increased for 1929 by the will of the late Mrs. Sarah J. Moffit, but our repayment on the organ fund will leave the need of your assistance about the same as last year.

You will certainly be interested in our definite work in the larger world as outlined in the projects listed above.

A pledge card is enclosed. Please check the amount you wish to give per week for 1929.

If you are particularly interested in any item of the projects kindly indicate the fact on the back of the card and your wishes will be carried out.

For the Trustees of the church and the committee on benevolences of the First Church of Norwich.

G. F. BAILEY, Minister.

VESTRIS SURVIVORS TELL ASTOUNDING TALE OF THE NEEDLESS LOSS OF LIFE

Six of the Rescued, Under Oath, Charged That the Disaster Was Marked by Entire Lack of Discipline—That Neither Officers Nor Men Were Equipped to Meet the Emergency—Passengers Were Left to Their Own Resources—None of the Witnesses Saw Any Officer But the Captain on Deck While the Crew Was Making Vain Attempts to Launch the Lifeboats

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—Six survivors of the foundered steamer Vestris today charged under oath before a United States commissioner that the disaster was marked by entire lack of discipline that neither officers nor men were equipped to meet the emergency, and that lives were needlessly wasted by rotting lifeboats that no one knew how to handle.

When the distress signal was at last sent out, hours late they said, the crew was left to its own devices and the passengers were neither told to don life belts nor given any assistance in getting to the lifeboats.

Husbands were ordered out of boats in which their wives were stationed and members of the crew allowed to take the vacant places, they testified. And the lifeboats were sprung in the seams so they leaked faster than they could be bailed out. Two witnesses told of gaping holes in the boats, one saying that women and children were put into a boat that had a hole six inches across in its side.

None of the witnesses saw any officers but the captain on deck while the crew was making vain attempts to launch the boats and there was one hearsay report of an individual instance of mutiny in which an officer was said to have drawn a pistol while a Negro member wrenched from his grasp and threw overboard.

The survivors testified at the opening session of the federal inquiry before United States Commissioner Francis O'Neil conducted by United States Attorney Charles Tuttle and four assistants. Today's witnesses were all passengers, beginning with Frederick W. Puppe, whose wife and 7-months-old baby were lost when the ship sank, and ending with Carlos Quiros, chancellor of the Argentine consulate general at Washington. Tomorrow officers and members of the crew of the Vestris will be called.

Tuttle told reporters at the close of today's session that he was not sure about the jurisdiction of United States courts in the matter, the Vestris being a British ship, but added that he was giving little thought to jurisdiction.

"What I want to find out," he said, "is whether charges are true that American citizens have lost their lives at sea through negligence. If anybody's negligence has cost the lives of American citizens those people will be called to account by this office. We'll talk about jurisdiction later."

Dramatic Witness

The first and most dramatic witness was Puppe. In a broken voice, choking up at times and once breaking off his testimony to remove his spectacles and polish them—Puppe told how he stood with his wife and baby on the sharply sloping deck of the Vestris on Monday forenoon and anxiously scanned the horizon for "the steamers we were absolutely sure must have been called to our help."

"Suddenly, though we heard no orders and though no officers were in sight," he said, "the crew began to take down the lifeboats. You could see that none of them had ever even tried to lower a lifeboat before. They ran from one boat to another, taking things from one and putting them into another. I didn't realize what this meant, but later I discovered. At night, when we were out in the lifeboat, we saw that there were flares in some of the other boats, though ours were wet. Then I realized what it meant when I saw men taking things from one boat and putting them into another. They were fixing a few with proper equipment, planning to ride in them themselves, and they winked to their friends to join them."

Charges Steward Was Drunk

Puppe charged the ship's crew with an inefficiency which he said, was indicated first when they sailed Saturday and he was told that the steward in charge of his stateroom was drunk and continued so right through to the long hours in the lifeboat, when he testified that the occupants found salt water in the drinking casts. Monday morning, when he went to the kitchen to find some food and water for his wife and baby, he said he was told to "go find it yourself."

Puppe testified that, separated from his wife and child, he saw one of the lifeboats break and plunge its occupants into the sea, and that he finally got into a boat and rowed away, not knowing the fate of his loved ones.

"I saw two lifeboats," Puppe testified, "still clinging to the ship when she went over."

Quiros a dapper figure in spats with a new pearl grey hat resting on his knees, furnished some of the most dramatic moments of the afternoon. In broken English he described the confusion on the slanting deck of the Vestris Monday morning.

"A man I knew, a purser," he said, 'came up to me and said; 'things are getting bad. I just saw an officer pull a gun on a Negro seaman, and the Negro grabbed the gun and threw it into the sea.'"

"Anyone with common sense," Quiros said, "would have sent an S. O. S. from the Vestris more than 12 hours earlier than Captain Carey did."

Quiros testified that even as she left the harbor Saturday the Vestris was listing. Friends who saw him off, he declared, warned him against the boat, saying it was "one of the worst in the service."

Men Separated from Wives

His dark eyes flashing with indignation, Quiros declared that men were separated from their wives as the lifeboats were filled, and their places in the lifeboats taken by members of the crew. He said that, as one boat was being lowered, members of the crew were patching a hole in it's side—"an old hole," he declared, "dark around the edges."

Wallace Sinclair, one of the calmest witnesses, said that the flares in his lifeboat were in a canister so rusted that nobody could get it opened until a Negro seaman finally chopped it open with a hatchet. No members of the crew in that lifeboat, he charged, knew where the flares were. "We had to find them ourselves," he said, "and when we did, and finally got them out of the canister half of them broke."

Sinclair said the lifeboat in which he rode was minus patches of paint as big as his hand and leaked through the seams.

Sinclair charged that there was "an entire lack of any intelligent plan of getting the lifeboats down or getting the passengers into them."

"I did not hear at any time," he declared, "an order to the passengers to put on their life belts."

How the Ship Lurched

Herman Rueckert, of Leipzig, Germany, a first class passenger, gave a graphic picture of the way the ship lurched before the storm that struck it almost as soon as it got to sea.

"At dinner on Sunday," he said, "there was a port hole that wouldn't close. A woman was drenched and had to move to another table. The same thing happened there. Then the ship gave a great roll. Dishes went everywhere and one man was thrown under a table."

The next morning he opened his cabin door to see a steward running by with a life belt on. "Should I also have a life belt?" he asked, and said the steward told him he might as well. That, he said, was all that was done by way of preparing the passengers to go overboard. He got into a lifeboat but it leaked so badly that he jumped out and swam to another which was rowed away from him. Then the boat he had been in sank. He said it was the roughest sea he had ever experienced and he had traveled widely.

The witness, Walter Spitz, a business man of Berne, Switzerland, testified in German through an interpreter. It was he who told of seeing a great hole in one of the boats into which women and children were placed. The hole was knocked in the boat, he said, while the crew was getting it loose preparatory to lowering it. But the women and children were put in anyway, and then left swinging in the davits, no one, he said, paying any attention to them, until the Vestris sank and carried them all down with it.

Spitz himself got into a boat crowded to the guards, he said and as it was being lowered it turned over and all were hurled into the water.

WYOMING ARRIVES AT NORFOLK WITH SURVIVORS

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 15—(AP)—The battleship Wyoming arrived late today at the Hampton Roads naval station from the scene of the steamer Vestris disaster, carrying eight survivors and one body.

The Wyoming first sighted survivors swimming directly ahead of her Tuesday morning and lowered a boat, picking up four swimmers. Then the improvised raft was found with four persons clinging to it and a battleship motorboat was sent to their aid.

The four swimmers were Mrs. Ulrich, Mrs. Batten, and two of the Negroes, Morris and Burton. They said they had been in the water for more than ten hours.

The Negro Boxil, who is suffering from a fractured skull and was the only seriously injured survivor, was found lying on a piece of wreckage close to the raft, unconscious.

The sailors of the Wyoming threw a rope toward him as their boat neared the wreckage. The rope struck his arm and he failed to move. A sailor jumped into the water and swam alongside the wreckage and, fastening a rope about the Negro, he helped his mates haul the victim aboard.

On the improvised raft were Mrs. Inouye, Mrs. Raa and Mrs. Doril. The body of Major Inouye was transferred to the coast guard destroyer Shaw.

None of the women suffered any injuries except bruises. But all had high temperatures from the exposure. The Wyoming's doctor, however, said he expected no serious results from this condition.

Burton, who showed no ill effects from the exposure, proved the hero of the group. When the lifeboat capsized, he told Mrs. Batten and Mrs Ulrich to remain with him and aided them continually during their long immersion.

The officers of the Wyoming told newspapermen that when the battleship first reached the scene of the disaster a dozen dead bodies were sighted on all sides. Each body was examined in an effort to find whether there were any signs of life. All living persons were picked up, while coast guard vessels took the bodies aboard.

17 MEN PERISH WHILE BENT IN RESCUE WORK

LONDON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Great Britain's grief over the losses in the Vestris disaster was deepened today by another marine tragedy, which cost 17 lives and almost wiped out the male population of Rye harbor on the Sussex coast.

The dead are 14 men of the regular crew of the Rye lifeboat and three volunteers, the entire company perishing in a gallant performance of duty in an effort to bring aid to a vessel in distress off their coast.

To make the tragedy even more pergnant, the lifeboat was swamped by huge seas within sight of the mothers, wives and sisters of the men. Crowding the beach they saw the boat upset and saw their loved ones hurled into the waters, while over the roar of the seas came their heart-broken cries and screams.

Terrific seas and a wind of gale force prevailed in the channel when the Rye life crew launched their boat at five o'clock this morning to bring aid to the wrecked Latvian steamer Alyce, scarcely was the little boat launched when it was learned on shore that the steamer's crew already had been rescued by the German steamer Smyrna.

The brave men of Rye were returning to their port and were laboring through mountainous seas when disaster overtook them. A huge wave overwhelmed and capsized their craft and they were buried in the swirling waters.

Throughout the afternoon and evening bodies were washed ashore by ones and twos and were re-claimed with heart-breaking cries by their relatives. The boat itself was tossed ashore with two victims underneath.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Nov. 15—(AP)—The Italian senate today passed a government bill giving constitutional status as an element of the government to the grand council of the national fascist party. The vote was 181 to 19, with two abstaining from the ballot.

GODESBURG, Germany, Nov. 15—(AP)—A meteor weighing about 200 pounds fell on the bank of the Rhine near here. Its arrival was accompanied by a loud report. The metallic mass made only a slight impression on the rocks on which it struck.

PARIS, Nov. 15—(AP)—The Havas agency says that the ministerial declaration to parliament will affirm the necessity above all else of completing financial stabilization. The government is ready to attempt reduction of military and naval expenditures in order to keep strictly within the budget.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TO CONFER WITH TILSON

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 15—(AP)—Congressman John Q. Tilson, floor leader of the house received a letter from President Calvin Coolidge today in which he was urged to come to Washington as far in advance of the opening of congress as possible to confer with the president of matters of legislation, prior to the preparation of the president's annual message to congress.

Congressman Tilson also received a telegram from President-elect Herbert Hoover in response to one of a congratulatory nature which Mr. Tilson sent immediately after election.

Mr. Hoover's telegram read "I am deeply grateful for your kind telegram. Our congratulations may well be mutual in the success of a great cause to which you have so greatly contributed.

TERRIFIC WIND STORM S. E. OF ORLANDO, OKLA.

ORLANDO, Okla., Nov. 15—(AP)—A terrific wind which struck a farm region southeast of here tonight caused one death, injured two persons and wrecked two homes.

Mrs. John Stevens was killed in the debris of her home, and her husband was injured. Ernest Thedford, about 17 years old, also was injured. Stevens and Thedford were taken to a hospital at Guthrie.

Lights were extinguished by the storm which tore down electric power lines and tangled telephone lines.

TOOK A LONG WALK ON HIS 102ND BIRTHDAY

UNIONVILLE, Nov. 15 (AP)—George M. Buck today celebrated his 102nd birthday the same as many others, with a long walk. Mr. Buck, who is the oldest man in the town, attributes his long life to frequent outdoor exercise. For a diversion he chops wood. He was born in Portland, Me., in 1826 and this year carried out his regular policy of voting the democratic ticket. He lives with his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Buell.

FIRST SNOW OF THE SEASON IN PRESCOTT, ARIZ.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 15—(AP)—The first snow of the season greeted citizens of Prescott today and Tucson in the heart of blistered desert country, wondered at the spectacle of snow and hail pelting pedestrians during a rainstorm.

Hills near Prescott were snow-clad and the white mantle blanketed the roofs.

Bank Robber Killed; Another Wounded

Shot by Posse of Citizens at Marietta, Okla., While Fleeing With $10,000.

MARIETTA, Okla., Nov. 15—(AP)—An attempt by two men to hold up the First National bank here late today resulted in a gun fight in which one of the robbers was killed and the other critically wounded.

The dead robber was identified as Colbert Keel, 55, who lived near here.

R. C. Morris, a tailor and A. W. Stafford, who joined the hastily recruited posses which battled the outlaws were wounded slightly in the exchange of shots.

M. D. Conrad, president of the bank, and D. A. Dillard, vice president, together with employes of the institution, were present when the holdup men entered, and seized approximately $10,000. Compelling Conrad to accompany them, the robbers then started for a rear door. As they passed out of the bank, Dillard slipped through a side door and into a hardware store next door, where he spread the alarm.

A posse of citizens reached the rear door of the bank and opened fire before the robbers were able to start their motor car. The men attempted to flee on foot but were soon brought down. Between thirty and forty shots were exchanged.

LONDON POLICE SERGEANT WEALTHY FROM GRAFT

LONDON, Nov. 15—(AP)—A West End police sergeant named Goddard received $240,000 from night clubs, bookmakers and others of their line before his malfeasance was detected and he was dismissed, the house of commons heard from one of its labor members today.

The constable who assisted Sergeant Goddard was allowed to resign although there was alleged to have been found in his possession a total of $60,000.

These two matters were brought to the commons' attention in the course of questioning of Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary, regarding recent allegedly corrupt activity of London policemen. The labor members particularly demanded an explanation of what was termed the anomaly of Sergeant Goddard's dismissal, and the six weeks prison sentence given another policeman for accepting a £10 bribe from a bookmaker, while the constable even was allowed to resign.

ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF GUN WOUNDED BOY

HAZARDVILLE, Conn., Nov. 15—(AP)—A gun, which the holder did not know was charged, exploded causing serious injury to Adam Savage, 15, here today. The boy was taken to the Springfield hospital with a wound in the left leg near the knee. The firearm was recently received from a mail order house and Earl Carson, was about to show it to Savage when the weapon discharged.

As witnesses told authorities the shooting was accidental it was declared that no action would result.

GUARD SELECTED TO ACCOMPANY HOOVER

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 15—(AP)—Bill McSwain, since 1921 head of the Portland offices of the United States secret service, will be in charge of the secret service guard which will accompany President-elect Herbert Hoover on his South American trip.

During his connection with the secret service, McSwain has served two presidents in this capacity. He traveled with Warren G. Harding and was with President Wilson when he made his trip west.

BOILER TROUBLE DELAYED LAKE STEAMER 24 HOURS

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Nov. 15—(AP)—The steamer John Gehm, 24 hours overdue from Lackawanna, N. Y., with a cargo of steel and a crew of 25, docked here at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Boiler trouble in northern Lake Michigan, which crippled the ship in a heavy storm, caused the delay, port officials reported.

OBITUARY

Prof. Thomas C. Chamberlin

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—(AP)—Prof. Thomas Crowder Chamberlin, originator of the planetesimal hypothesis of the formation of the earth, died here today of bronchial pneumonia and heart disease. He was 85 years old.

Prof. Chamberlin, a noted geologist, held that a giant star passing close to the sun from three to five billions of years ago drew in its wake fragments of the sun, which eventually came together and formed the earth. Other planets, he believed, were formed in the same manner. Prof. Chamberlin elaborated on his theory in his latest book, "Two Solar Systems—the Sun's Children," published just three weeks ago.

Late last year, the geologist was awarded the Penrose medal of the Geological Society of America for distinguished work during 1927.

French Deputies Sustain Poincare

Radicals Refrained From Voting in the Interests of Party Discipline

PARIS, Nov. 15—(AP)—Twice today the new Poincare government submitted itself to the acid test of a vote of confidence in the French chamber of deputies, and twice it emerged bolstered and unscathed, once by a vote of 335 to 147 and at the close of debate by a vote of 330 to 129.

The first vote came when the socialists challenged the premier's right to alter the order of the day for the reading of his new declaration of principles, the socialists inferring that if put to a vote M. Poincare could not obtain priority. The premier insisted on the vote and made it a question of confidence, the chamber supporting him overwhelmingly.

Later when he had finished his declaration of principle, in which he had declared that the future condition of European countries rested largely on the disposition that is made of the vexatious reparations problem, a direct confidence vote was taken, and the new government favored by a vote of 330 to 129.

In neither vote did the hundred or more radical members participate, refraining from voting in the interests of party discipline.

Both in the declaration of principle and in his answers to interpellations regarding the declaration the premier made it clear that he considered the reparations question the most vital consideration in Europe today. He did not touch upon the war debts problem, save indirectly. A large part of his speech was a discussion of internal policy as regards the budget and the stabilization of French currency.

As to reparations he declared that France did not seek to take the initiative in asking revision of the Dawes plan, and that for her part "we are quite satisfied with just plain execution of the Dawes plan. It has functioned thus far with perfect regularity and to our complete satisfaction. We, however, have no reason to oppose new negotiations tending to a final equitable solution by which France and Europe might recover prosperity.

"But we cannot abandon lightly the guarantees awarded us by treaties until payment is assured us." In another place he reiterated his old contention that these payments from Germany should equal French debt payments to the United States and Great Britain and the amount spent in reconstruction of the devastated French war areas.

In the course of the interpellations M. Cachin, the communist leader, attacked the United States and England, and the socialists and radicals.

"A great noise has been made about the Kellogg pact," he said, "but the ink was not yet dry on that document when the famous gold fountain pen presented the secretary of state in this country was used to sign the authorization to build more cruisers.

"The Americans are going to spend the equivalent of several billion francs on new war ships in response to the Franco-British accord, and then there will exist in the world the same situation as before 1914—frantic competition in armaments. Then it was between England and Germany, now between England and the United States but the result will be the same."

DELEGATION OF CLASSMATES VISITED HERBERT HOOVER

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Nov. 15—(AP)—Herbert Hoover was immersed in the work of completing preparations for his good-will trip to South America today and laid it aside only to receive some of the well wishers who called upon him.

Among these was a delegation of classmates of the president-elect at Stanford university in 1895, most of themn ow San Francisco businessmen. The group, more than a dozen strong, was headed by former Judge George E. Crothers, of San Francisco, and Thomas K. Code, the first quarterback Stanford university ever produced.

Another caller during the day was Representative W. E. Hull, of Peoria, Ill., who called to convey his congratulations. Hull traversed the same route through South America year or so ago as will the president-elect, the Illinois congressman having been a member of a commission appointed to study and aid in the promotion of good roads on the southern continent.

DOMESTIC QUARREL ENDED IN TRAGEDY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 15—(AP)—Wayne Bauer, 35, and his wife, Hazel, 32, were the principles today in a domestic tragedy whose last act left the wife dead in the kitchen of their home in the suburb of Greece, her throat slashed and skull battered in by a flat iron and her husband crushed on the rocks 200 feet below Driving Park avenue bridge.

When the Bauers three children Wayne Jr., 12, June, 11, and Wallace 5, returned home from school, they found their mother lying on the kitchen floor. They ran to the home of their grandmother nearby.

Bauer had quarreled violently with his wife, neighbors told police. Bauer went to his mother's home after the crime and chatted with her and his sister for a half an hour, then kissed them goodbye and said that they would never see him again. Soon afterward he eluded the grasp of a passerby and vaulted the rail of the bridge with a nonchalant "Well, so long, I'm going."

FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGE OF MAINTAINING A NUISANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—A verdict of guilty on a charge of maintaining a nuisance in a Greenwich Village restaurant, for which a witness said he had been told U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner was the "fixer" was returned in federal court today against Luigi Cardi and four other men.

Sentence was deferred until Wednesday.

NEW RECORD FOR LARGE POWER DRIVEN SHIPS

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Nov. 15—(AP)—World's records for speed and power developed by large power driven ships were shattered by the United States naval aircraft carrier Lexington in speed trials here today when she made an estimated 34.5 knots and developed 214,000 horsepower.

RELIEF LEGISLATION THE NEED OF AMERICAN FARMER

Opinion Expressed in Reports of Most of the State Masters to the National Grange—Decreased Value of Farm Lands and High Rents and Taxes Are Difficulties to Be Surmounted Before the Farmer Reaches the Economic Status of Other Workers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Relief legislation is the outstanding need of American farmers in the opinion of most of the state masters of the National Grange, expressed in reports submitted here today at the 62nd annual convention of the organization.

Decreased value of farm lands, and high rents and taxes were noted among difficulties yet to be surmounted before the farmer reaches the economic status of other workers. The dairy industry was held to be in a comparatively satisfactory condition, but nearing the saturation point in development.

Terming the farmer, the "football of politicians," G. D. Palmiter, master of the Oregon grange, declared that millions of dollars have been extended to aid other industries.

Agriculture has continued to decline, he declared, because of lack of proper organization while other industries prosper and secure necessary protection through unified effort.

The question of tariff equality was raised by James T. Phillips, Missouri grange master, and E. B. Dorsett, Pennsylvania grange master. Dorsett declared that the farmer would be able to solve his own problems, if he is given "the same measure of protection that is given the manufacturer."

Indiana's vote in the recent presidential election should remove any doubt as to the position of Hoosier farmers on the McNary-Haugen bill, Jesse Newsom, grange master in that state, reported.

"All are looking hopefully to the new administration for justice and equality for agriculture," he added.

TWO ALLEGED POACHERS WERE SHOT AND KILLED

SANTA ANA, Calif., Nov. 15—(AP)—Two alleged poachers on the California Gun club preserve near Seal Beach, were shot and killed late today in a gun battle with Deputy Sheriff J. W. Montgomery, and game keeper at the club. Reports to the sheriff's office here quoted Montgomery as stating that the men fired upon him when he ordered them from marshlands in the club's duck hunting preserves.

Two sheriff's deputies were sent from here to the isolated area to place Montgomery under arrest on technical charges of murder.

Montgomery reported that when he ordered the men off one fired upon him with a shotgun, puncturing his hat. He returned the fire with his rifle and the man crumpled, mortally wounded. A moment later, the game keeper declared, the second poacher opened fire upon him and he too was shot down. The bodies had not been recovered from the marsh late today but one had been identified as that of C. R. Mahon, about 40 years of age, who lived at Sunset beach near the gun club.

SIX PLANE VICTIMS WERE TRAPPED IN CABIN

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 15—(AP)—Evidence indicating that the six enlisted men who lost their lives in the crash of an army bomber near here yesterday were trapped in the cabin of the falling plane by a parachute fouling the cabin door, was developed at an investigation today by Brooks field officials.

Army officers said it appeared that one of the men had pulled his rip cord prematurely, instead of waiting until he had leaped clear of the plane. The theory was that the unfolding parachute became entangled with the door preventing its wearer and his companions from jumping.

Lieut. Harvey F. Dyer, the pilot, and Staff Sergeant Frank J. Siebenaler, who rode in the mechanic's seat, were able to get clear and saved their lives with their parachutes.

Flying at an altitude of 4,000 feet Dyer related, he started a "tight bank," a stabilizer, I believe, went wrong," he said, "and the ship started a straight dive toward the ground."

NEW OIL FIELDS BRISTLE WITH LIFE AND INDUSTRY

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 15—(AP)—Nearly 100 whirling drills were tearing through the surface of the earth tonight in the Maud and Mission pools of the greater Seminole oil area in a race for "black gold."

From a scene of virtual inactivity, to one bustling with life and industry, the fields were transformed today by the termination of a drilling restriction agreement which operators had enforced to hold down production of the flush Seminole area. The two pools had been held in check almost since their discovery because of the flood of oil in other parts of the Seminole area was acting as a depressant on the entire petroleum industry.

Temporary communities of tents and rough shacks sprang up almost overnight as an army of field workers moved in to man the drilling machinery. It was estimated that the newcomers, including workers and their families, numbered approximately 10,000.

TWO 4-YEAR-OLD BOYS BEAT 6-MONTHS OLD GIRL

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—A six months old girl, missing for a few hours, was found today in an ash can, bruised, cut and with a probable fracture of the skull.

Police who found Rosalie, infant daughter of Mrs. Rosalie Roman, of Brooklyn took into custody two four year old boys who said they took the child for a ride in her carriage, wheeled her into a basement, beat her and put her in the ash can. Each blamed the other for the beating.

Because of their ages the boys were turned over to their parents as legally irresponsible. The little girl was taken to a hospital where her condition is described as critical.

INCREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers, held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending November 14, were announced by the federal reserve board today as $4,980,817,000, representing an increase of $1,849,000 as compared with the preceding week.

DENVER THEATRE OWNER ACQUITTED OF MURDER

DENVER, Nov. 15—(AP)—Alpheus F. Dickson, Denver theater owner, charged with the murder of Herbert H. Powell, 19-year-old "butcher boy," July 7, in the Dickson home, was acquitted by a jury in district court here late today. The jury deliberated only seven minutes.

BRIDGEPORT CONTRACTOR ROBBED OF $2,700 CASH

NORWALK, Nov. 15—(AP)—Two robbers early tonight attacked John Petitti, a contractor of Bridgeport, and escaped with $2,700, collected in his day's business. The robbery took place near the South Norwalk railroad station where the victim was found in a weakened condition.

Petitti said he went to the station to meet a friend and was grabbed by two men near a dark alleyway at the far end of the platform. They struck him in the face and back with a blackjack, he said, and then fled after going through his pockets. He could not describe his assailants.

At a hospital where Petitti was taken he was treated for a bruise on the cheek and held for further observation. Vincent Satarelli, who rode to the station with Petitti in his machine, said his friend was to meet an acquaintance aboard a train. The first he heard of the attack was when told by several men who approached him in the automobile.

PHILADELPHIA CAFE MANAGER ARRESTED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15—(AP)—William Smith, manager of the Piccadilly cafe, prominent night club, and two other men connected with the cafe were arrested tonight by order of District Attorney Monoghan as an outgrowth of the special grand jury's investigation of bootlegging and police corruption. They were charged with illegal sale, possession and transportation of liquor and conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Fugitive warrants containing similar charges also were issued for Charles Schwartz and Samuel Lazar, who with Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, alleged "king of bootleggers," were said to be financially interested in the Piccadilly. Schwartz and Lazar have been absent from the city since shortly after the start of the grand jury inquiry on August 20.

Smith at one time was a deputy United States prohibition administrator in this district. He and the two other men arrested were held in $5,000 bail each for court.

MORE THAN 2,000 PERSONS AT WHITE HOUSE FUNCTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—(AP)—The gayest white house social function of the year, the diplomatic reception to which more than 2,000 persons had been invited to meet President and Mrs. Coolidge took place tonight.

Arranged in the order of the seniority of the embassies and legations, the diplomats, dressed in their gold embroidered uniforms and swords at their sides and plume hats in their hands, were received by the chief executive. In addition, numerous other prominent guests had been invited.

The marine band, its members wearing scarlet uniforms, played music throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, surrounded by aides, received each guest individually, standing for about one and a half hours while the long line filed by them.

The white house had been specially decorated for the occasion with flowers and ferns from its gardens. All the rooms on the ground floor were open for the guests' pleasure.

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO DESTROYED BY FIRE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 15—(AP)—An arsenal and storage building at the Metropolitan Motion Picture Studios today was destroyed by fire following an explosion which blew out one side of the structure. The arsenal contained smoke bombs used in making motion pictures, and other explosives. The damage was estimated at $15,000.

A similar explosion at the First National Studios in Burbank yesterday killed one man, seriously injured two others and caused damage of $40,000.

CITRON CORPORATION COUNSEL OF MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 15—(AP)—At a special meeting of the common council tonight, William M. Citron, former minority leader in the legislature, was appointed corporation counsel for a two year term. Dr. John H. Mountain was named as permanent health officer, a position he has held since the death of the last incumbent. It was also voted to increase the salary of Mayor Frederick J. Bielefield from $500 to $1,500 a year.

FOUR BROTHERS WERE KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

PECONIC, N. Y., Nov. 15—(AP)—Four brothers, the eldest, 19, were killed instantly today when a Long Island railroad freight train struck their automobile truck at a grade crossing here. A fifth brother was injured.

The dead are: Joseph, John, Harold and Frank Zelenski. Anthony was the injured member of the group. All lived in Peconic.

TOWN APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE BY SELECTMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 15—Appointments to town offices were made today at a meeting of the new board of selectmen elected in the last elections which proved a democratic landslide for Windham candidates. The board made the following appointments for one year: Town counsel, Attorney Arthur T. Kelley; town physician, Dr. Michael D. Riordan; property tax collector, Louis Vegiard; personal tax collector, James J. Lee; personal tax enumerators; first ward, Mrs. Lucy Lynch; second ward, Romeo Benoit; third ward, T. Armand Perreault; fourth ward, Robert O. Snow; Windham, Joseph F. Simpson; janitor of town building in day season, Joseph T. Ellis; night season, Edward A. Jackson; tree warden, David P. Ahern; clerk of board of selectmen, Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton. Windham cemetery committee: Everett D. Hopkins, H. Clinton Lathrop, George H. Backus, James D. Wilson, J. Raymond Smith; Willimantic cemetery committee, William A. Buck, John Bowman, James P. Mustard, E. Frank Bugbee; North Windham cemetery committee, Charles F. Spencer, Leslie F. Hartson and Raymond A. Harris. Weighers, Raymond A. Parker, Patrick J. Twomey, Kenneth H. Hillhouse, Abraham Sussman, George H. Backus, John N. Potter, Alfred V. Eaton, John M. Bransfield, Louis N. Ayer, Charles F. Beck, George A. Vanderman, Alfred Desrosiers, William Anderson, Harry Larkin; wood inspectors, Robert E. Casey, Harold A. Taylor, George C. Wilcox, Abraham Sussman, C. Arthur Keeney, Jeremiah C. Healy and Hobart Wright. In view of the fact that the duties of guagers, haywards and poundkeepers have virtually become extinct, the board did not appoint officers to these positions. The appointments of a superintendent and marton of the town farm and sealers of weights and measures were also deferred.

The appointment of Louis Vegiard as property tax collector follows an announcement on the part of Conrad E. Dubeau, democrat, who was elected to the office in the last election, that owing to other duties he would be unable to qualify as collector. This created a vacancy left for the selectmen to fill.

SHORT CALENDAR SESSION HAS NINE CASES LISTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 15—Notice of a short calendar session of the Windham county superior court to be held here Friday at 10 a. m. with Judge Edward M. Yeomans on the bench, has been given. There are nine cases listed on the short calendar and one uncontested divorce case. Clerk Curtis Dean has also notified the members of the bar that Jeremiah Olney Brott of Thompson and Arthur H. Plessis of Putnam have given notice of their intention to make application for admission to the bar of Connecticut and to be examined therefore in Hartford next month. Bar members will meet prior to the opening of court to take action on these applications.

The short calendar cases are: Eckley R. Storrs vs. Chauncey E. MacFarlane, hearing on judgment and limitation; Ulysses G. Jessup vs. George W. Butts, Jr., motion for judgment by default; hearing and damages; United States Mortgage and Realty company vs. Alcide M. Page, finding of actual notice, default for failure to appear and plead, hearing and judgment, limitation; C. Chester Gooding's appeal from highway commissioner, reference to state referee; Alfred J. Goulet vs. Amedee Proulx, default for failure to answer; Charles Briere vs. Putnam Theatres corporation, judgment by default; Cecile L. Benard vs. Fred D. Benard, non-resident defendant, three months continuance; William Tamulewcz et al vs. Mary A. Allen et al; Webster National bank vs. Edward J. Keegan, et al, judgment by default. The uncontested divorce case is that of Marie P. Farrell vs. Mathew R. Farrell.

The Windham town school committee has before it the problem of defraying the cost of giving medical attention to a number of about 100 school children who are in need of treatment and whose parents cannot afford the expense. There is no provision for this work in the school budget and the committee is now casting about for some solution to the problem. The monthly report of the school nurse, Miss May Sweeney for September and October and covering her work at the Windham Center, North Windham and Natchaug grammar schools shows that about 100 school children who are in need of treatment and whose parents cannot afford the expense. There is no provision for this work in the school budget and the committee is now casting about for some solution to the problem. The monthly report of the school nurse, Miss May Sweeney for September and October and covering her work at the Windham Center, North Windham and Natchaug grammar schools shows that about 100 children have diseased tonsils and adenoids. The committee is looking to some philanthropic organization to take up this matter.

Herbert I. Sanderson was tendered a dinner and party at Clearwater Inn in East Hampton Wednesday evening in honor of his approaching marriage to Miss Dorothea Buckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Buckley of Norwich. His friends assembled at his home on Tingley street and presented him with a breakfast set, the presentation being fittingly made by Alexis Caisse Jr. The party then motored to East Hampton where a chicken dinner was served. Royal entertainment was furnished by an entertainment bureau of Hartford, the song and dance numbers being introduced by Jerome L. Piche, toastmaster of the post-prandial exercises, Maurice King was master of ceremonies for the evening. Present were: Minot S. Fryer, Theodore Marrotte, Richard Herrick, Arthur Caisse, Alexis Caisse Jr., Francis Ryan, Alvin Nelson, Herman Lariviere, Everett Beckwith, Maurice King, George Thompson, Harry Morrison, Alfred Judge, Charles Gifford, Dan Ives, John Regan, Edward J. Somers, Herbert I. Sanderson and J. L. Piche.

John F. Ash, of Pomfret, Windham county game warden stated today that violations of the game laws during the present season were much lower in number than last year and were for the most part confined to arrests for hunting without licenses. The season on birds closes the coming week with only the more expert hunters reporting good luck at the sport. Next Monday is the time limit on woodcock and Friday of next week on partridge.

Included in the plans for a series of entertainments during the fall and winter months by the South Coventry Men's club are a mock trial and a charity ball. The trial will be put on by a committee headed by DeWitt Kingsbury while Joseph O'Brien has been named chairman of the ball committee. Judge C. Hershey Robertson will have charge of a rendition of a session of Ye Old School District as a prelude to the charity dance.

The properties committee of the Windham town school committee is to make a thorough inspection of the North Windham grammar school building and land and report on the prospect of putting the school and its attending sanitary conditions in satisfactory state.

Judge Frank H. Foss of this city presided over a session of the Ashford town court held in Warrenville this morning when James Frumar of Ashford was arraigned for the illegal possession of the carcass of a deer. Frumar was found guilty and given a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $44.75 plus a suspended 30-day sentence to the county jail at Brooklyn. County Game Warden J. F. Ash of Pomfret and Deputy Game Wardens John Brecka of Ashford and John Ethridge of Eastford testified against the accused, who was arrested November 9.

Principal George H. Shafer of the Willimantic State Normal school was one of the speakers on the subject, The Problem of Preparing Teachers for Elementary Schools at a meeting of the New England Teacher Training association held in Boston, Mass., last week. The speakers stressed the necessity of a four year course to weed out pupils not prepared to take the subject seriously and to give those who complete the course an adequate scholarly background.

President Robert H. Fenton of the Exchange club has appointed the following as a committee to provide a suitable sign for the guidance of airplane traffic over Illimantic: Dixon VanZandt, George M. Graves and Patrick J. Twomey.

WARDEN THE FIRST TO JOIN LOCAL RED CROSS FOR 1929

The annual Red Cross roll call in the local chapter's jurisdiction opened Thursday evening with a supper for the canvassers, 43 of whom were present. It was served in the Congregational church vestry by the members of the committee. The menu included roast fresh ham, escalloped potato, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee. The arrangements for the supper were in charge of Miss M. A. Burdick.

The first person to join the Red Cross again in Jewett City was Warden Edmond Jodoin, who gave his membership dues for his family. His daughter is also an accredited Red Cross Junior Life Saver. The room in the town hall will be opened each evening until 9:30, for two weeks, and any membership dues may be paid there, or to Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, the roll call chairman. The one big thing this chapter does, is to stand back of the support of the district nurse, if necessary. Time proves every day what a splendid thing it is for anyone to be able to secure the services of a graduate nurse, at any time. Another member of the executive board, Miss Margery Leyden, a graduate nurse, has a class in home nursing instruction, sixteen in number, held under the auspices of the Red Cross.

The committee in charge of the roll call is Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Miss W. A. Burdick, Misses Mary Driscoll, Catherine Barnett, Margery Leyden, Rosanna Des Jardines, Margaret Driscoll, Ida Foster, Alice Brennan, Mrs. F. I. Ray, Mrs. E. B. Cheney, Mrs. A. H. Anthony, Mrs. J. H. Tracy, Dr. G. H. Jennings and D. L. Phillips.

One of the endorsements of the work of the organization received by the officials and syndicated to local branches reads

Statement by William, Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston: The American Red Cross deserves the highest praise for the very commendable work which it is doing in behalf of stricken humanity. During the past year this organization has responded to countless appeals for help and has brought relief to the afflicted and the distressed of our own country and elsewhere. It has maintained the fine traditions which years of faithful service have merited in its favor and it richly deserves the whole hearted cooperation of all in whose name it has endeavored to carry on a work of God, for charity is the highest of virtues. I am sure the loyal support of the people of this country to the cause of this society will enable the Red Cross to continue and expand its noble work.

Signed)

What Will you do When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grownups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use: in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

Dear Dot:

I've something very particular to say to you today. Tell all the Folks ... Tell your Friends ... tell the Whole World!

About the Gigantic OVERSTOCKED USED CAR SALE STARTING TODAY (FRIDAY) AT THE LEONARD BROS. GARAGE, INC., CORNER MAIN AND WALNUT STREETS, Willimantic. It's the first sale of this type ever attempted by Leonard Bros., and you will find it the greatest price-slashing automobile event of the year. Leonard's are overstocked with used cars. Room must be made for the coming, winter and all kinds and makes and models of used cars are Going at Tremendous Sacrifices.

Just scan these for instance: 1927 Hudson Coach, $500. 1925 Essex Coach, $175. A fine looking 1927 Nash Sedan for $575. A 1927 Oldsmobile Coach, $525. A 1925 Buick Touring car, big six, for $150. That Buick and one other are the only two open cars in the stock. All others, and there are many, are closed. Just the thing for this time of the year.

Leonard's will take any used car in trade and offer Easy Payments. Car prices during the great sale range from $75 to $1,000. There is a car for your particular need and pocketbook. It certainly is a "buyer's" and not a "seller's" market. Every car in the display has been inspected and is in good serviceable condition.

Can you ask more? Ridiculously low prices. All makes of cars to chose from. Your old car in trade. Easy payments. An old reliable concern back of the deal. What more? Take a tip and get in on this mammoth sale right now!

Your friend,
JANE

—yes, the picture is attractive, but what of the coat?
A picture does not show either quality or workmanship, which are really the details which make the difference between a coat that is good, and one that is no good.
The material of which a coat is made, the manner in which it is made, the way it fits and looks on YOU, are the three considerations for you to decide. After considering these three questions; let's look at the price ticket; because among reputable makers the price is based upon the value of the garment.
This is the test which we invite you to try out at our little store because the garments are all reputable, and the prices all fair; fair to those who have purchased, fair to those who are looking and fair to the merchant.

MRS. BENJAMIN L. HOLMES DIES IN HOUSE WHERE BORN

(Special to The Bulletin)

MYSTIC, Nov. 15—Theakful Alette Cliff, wife of Benjamin Latham Holmes, died at her home, No. 1 Cliff street, this afternoon at 1:30, following several weeks of failing health. She was born in the house where she died, May 9, 1854, the daughter of Waterman Cliff and Esther Hazard Cliff. Oct. 28, 1886, she married Mr. Holmes, during the pastorate of Rev. Charles H. Oliphant of the Congregational church. She united with the church July 4, 1880, and had been a regular attendant and active worker in the Ladies' Aid society and all other departments of the church until ill health prevented. She was one of the sixteen charter members of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., organized in June 8, 1893, leaving only two living charter members. Mrs. Holmes was also a member of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America with National No. 759, and State No. 49, and of the Connecticut Mayflower society. When Mystic country club was organized many years ago Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were charter members and have been regular attendants at the club. The Holmes and Cliff families are among the most prominent businesswise and socially in the village. Mrs. Holmes' interest in the welfare of the village will be greatly missed. Mr. Holmes sold out the coal business that was founded by his father and retired some years ago. A year ago he was taken ill and has been confined to his bed for nearly a year, having a nurse in attendance. Much sympathy is being expressed for him in the loss of his wife and companion for 48 years.

At the W. C. T. U. meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Byron Billings, the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb presided. After the business session the following program was given, the subject of the meeting being Peace: The Thing That Makes for Peace, Mrs. W. L. Rollinson; The Power of Petition, Mrs. Leander Park; A Call to America, Mrs. Gurdon C. Allyn; First World's Youth Progress, Mrs. Mary F. Brown; America Awaits, Mrs. Palmer Bindloss; A New Armistice Day Psychology, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell; Healing and Helping a Wounded World, Mrs. Edward A. Smith; Thanksgiving, a poem, Miss Clara S. Murphy; Roll Call of the Nation, Mrs. W. H. Lamb and Miss Emily N. Murphy. The meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction. Tea was served, the proceeds to go to the American Relief fund, Near East.

The Ladies' Aid society of Old Mystic Baptist church, met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Maurice R. Cantwell. The members finished piecing a quilt. The November mission meeting was held and a very interesting letter was read from Miss Marguerite Eldredge, a missionary in Africa. Miss Eldredge is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Frink of Old Mystic, and with her parents and sister visited here a great deal before going to Africa. Her friends will be glad to welcome her home at the end of next year. She expects to leave Africa in October.

Rev. and Mrs. L. P. MacLennan were guests of relatives in Moosup, Tuesday.

Warren Patten spent Tuesday in Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Desley of Old Mystic entertained Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Treffley Morin, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Keigwin of Mystic. The four men are the members of the Viking quartet.

The United Workers met in the Old Mystic parish house Wednesday afternoon and tied a quilt.

Serenaded Commander and Bride

Installation ceremonies of A. C. Latham camp, No. 19, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, were conducted Tuesday evening by A. W. Butler. About 25 members of Jared H. Avery camp, No. 20, New London, attended. They brought an orchestra with them, which furnished music during the installation. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. F. Harmon Bradley, the newly installed commander, who was married last Saturday evening, was persuaded to go home early. After waiting a short time the members and guests followed and tendered Mr. and Mrs. Bradley a serenade at their home on Thomas street. Officers elected were: Commander, F. Harmon Bradley; senior vice commander, Walter C. Morgan; junior vice commander, Arthur Rathbun; patriotic instructor, Fred Godfrey; chaplain, Alfred Butler; guard and color bearer, Royce Wolfe; inner guard, Perley Crowley; secretary and treasurer, Fred M. Williams; camp council, A. W. Butler, Albert Neff, Jr., and F. A. Godfrey.

When Stonington lodge, No. 78, I. O. O. F., held a meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows hall, the third degree was conferred on a class.

Mrs. Carrie B. Denison and daughter Stella, spent the week end with Jewett City friends.

Mrs. Clinton Shelburne and infant have been dismissed from the sanitorium on West Mystic avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Thompson, recently married, formerly of Mystic, are keeping house in Westerly.

Mrs. Fannie Travena has returned after two days' visit with her daughter, Miss Frances Travena, R. N., of Boston.

Mrs. Leander Park, Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Neff, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Leeds Main and Miss Arlene Thompson attended the wedding of Miss Marian White and Sidney G. Hall at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. White in North Stonington, Monday afternoon.

G. A. R. members held a meeting Tuesday in G. A. R. hall with Horace Clift presiding. Williams' Relief corps assisted in the meeting and served refreshments.

Among those attending the Grange supper and dance at Ledyard, Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McGaughey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Main and guest Miss Grant, R. N., Mr. and Mrs. James Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lamphere, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Larch, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Main, G. W. Brooks, Raymond Smith, Gurdon Gates, Milton Brown, Leslie Burdick, Mrs. Harlan Burdick, Mrs. Eva McAslan, Mrs. H. S. Williams, Miss Hazel Main, Helen and Mary Lamphere, James Main and William Fish.

Miss Rosalie Huribert of New London visited her aunt, Mrs. E. V. Whiting, Wednesday.

Mrs. George Tift was in New London, Wednesday to see her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Moeller, a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital.

Charity chapter of Eastern Star held a whist Wednesday evening in Masonic temple with nine tables in play. Prizes were won by Mesdames Wilcox, Mrs. Alice Clarke, Mrs. A. H. Wilcox and C. C. Dodd.

Fred Phillips of Cornfield Light is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillips.

John R. Gould is having a tract of land cleared of stone on his estate on Cedar Road and is making other improvements.

HELP THAT WAS NEEDED

How important it is that all vessels should be equipped with radio is illustrated in the case of the steamer Montoso which arrived at Boston on Tuesday after having passed within 30 miles of the Vestris while it was in distress.

According to a Boston dispatch this freighter was within two hours of the sinking passenger ship to which it probably could have gotten to before it was necessary to leave the ship, but it knew nothing about what was occurring because it does not carry wireless. At the same time it is to be realized that had the same thing happened to the Montoso that did to the Vestris the chances are that nothing would have been heard of it and only by good fortune in being able to get into the path of some vessel would any who had taken to boats have been rescued.

While it is obligatory for passenger carrying vessels to carry wireless, it is not required of the freighters. That means that they are avoiding the expense involved in providing the equipment and paying for an operator, but at the same time they are denying protection to the crews of those ships and failing to put themselves in a position to render assistance in case it is needed by others.

In view of the situation in which the hundreds aboard the Vestris were placed, the suffering they were subjected to, the losses of life that were sustained, it is a distressing fact that the Montoso was so near and yet could not be reached by the frantic appeals for assistance.

The possibilities of such cases have been realized in advance. The tragedy off the Virginia capes this week has emphasized in the strongest possible way the importance of having each and every ship so equipped with wireless that it will be able to summon aid for the protection of the humanity abroad and at the time be ready to respond to the calls which may be issued by other vessels in trouble on the high seas.

It is through just such cases as that in which the Montoso figured that much needed improvements have been obtained in the past. The large loss of life on the Vestris certainly warrants steps to prevent anything of the kind in the future.

FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION

At the coming session of congress the question of farm relief is going to get much attention. Senator McNary who fathered the bill that was vetoed in the last session has experienced a change of mind. He has recognized the mistake that was made in trying to push through his bill carrying the equalization fee and he is hopeful that the session of congress opening next month will adopt the new bill which he is to introduce and thus make unnecessary the special session which Mr. Hoover has promised to call in case the present congress doesn't act.

Senator McNary has been in conference with President Coolidge in regard to this bill and it is understood that his bill will be in keeping with the president's views expressed at various times concerning such legislation. It is furthermore declared to be in accord with the plan which was advocated by Mr. Hoover during the recent campaign. It is thus a measure that ought to prove a big step forward toward meeting the farm relief problem if, in fact, it doesn't actually solve it.

The desire is to get this legislative action as early as possible in order that the benefits of it may be obtained by the farmers during the coming year. That should appeal to all friends of the farmers, but in light of all the developments it is much regretted that this very move could not have been carried through at the last session of congress and thus have been in operation for a large part of this year.

It can be readily seen now that a mistake was made in not giving the proper appraisal to the defects which the president pointed out in the bill which was insisted upon in the early part of this year. There were those who would have the McNary-Haugen bill or nothing. They got nothing but they have since seen a light. The need now is to correct that unfortunate situation, put through sane legislation and put an end to the situation. Senator McNary has taken a course which is to be commended. It has no doubt been recognized by others and it is time to recognize the need of ending political play and produce some constructive legislation.

THE SAFETY URGE

The belief prevails in Cincinnati that through proper efforts the public can be made more safety-minded and attention is given to the many accidents and this week a campaign is being conducted for the purpose of awakening the safety conscience.

This is not as different from similar efforts put forth elsewhere for the same purpose except that it is declared that this campaign for safety is going to be a permanent thing. Instead of allowing it to die after the week it is going to be continued through the year. It is a campaign in which many organizations are given something to do and, considering the object, they have every reason for doing well what is asked of them.

It is unfortunate that more serious attention is not given to safety efforts. We hold up our hands in horror at the frightful accidents that are occurring almost every day and yet we sit calmly by and watch the state of affairs continue. Many who have reason to profit from the experience of others are making contributions to the unsafe conditions and are being numbered among the dead or the injured.

If all are alert constantly to so conduct themselves as to insure safety for themselves as well as others there will be greater safety. It is a goal worth striving for and the idea of arousing an entire community to meet its responsibilities is excellent. Its success will depend, however, upon the cooperation that is given.

When we stop to realize the great number of accidents and the needless number of deaths, and note the fact that the tendency is to increase, it is next to impossible to explain the attitude which makes such things possible. Should the same number of accidents, or fatalities, occur at one point there would be a great stir, people would be aroused and demand different conditions. They fail to realize that there is just as great need even though the many accidents and fatalities are distributed over the country.

Cincinnati is doing what every other community should do—bearing down heavily on a much needed reformation—and it is to be hoped that by its results it will be able to inspire others to do as much if not more. Safety is certainly worth working for.

TOLLS AT PANAMA

The demand for the reduction in tolls on the Panama canal is in keeping with the efforts which have been made to have the tolls eliminated altogether. It comes up again at this time because of the increase in the business of the canal and the showing which it makes as to receipts.

It is pointed out however by Governor General Walker of the Canal Zone that while the operating profit for the last fiscal year was over $18,000,000 the earnings of the canal have not as yet covered the interest on the $375,000,000, which is regarded as the commercial part of the investment.

It is not improbable that the time is coming when that point will be reached but it can be expected that there will be opposition to any change in the rates until that time actually comes. It will then be possible to act in accord with facts and not rely upon guesswork. The governor general has declared himself against the idea of reducing the tolls, and his view is entitled to due consideration.

It is not to be forgotten that even though the canal is showing larger operating profit there is work being done there for the betterment of the canal which will run well up into the millions. The work on the Chagres river will cost $12,900,000, or two thirds of the operating profit of the last fiscal year.

The growth of business through the canal demonstrates that the waterway is appreciated and that it is stimulating waterbound traffic. It is logical to look forward to the day when rates can be reduced but there can hardly be any thought of that until it can be done on a sound business basis.

MR. SMITH'S ADVICE

That Alfred E. Smith should speak to the country and particularly to his party this week was fitting. He has shown that he is a good loser and the advice which he gives to the effect that the president-elect will not be president of the republican party but of the country and that he should be given earnest support was sound and timely. He bids his followers to view the situation in the same manner that he does and that is that the man selected "is the president of all the people and as such is entitled to the cooperation of every citizen in the development of a program calculated to promote the welfare and best interests of this country."

Mr. Smith spoke as the democratic party's standard bearer. He is the one to whom it still looks for leadership. He has declared that he will not be a candidate again but he announced furthermore that he will continue to fight for the fundamental democratic policies. He in fact urged this upon his part with the appeal to work for the accomplishment of them.

His appeal comes at a time when the democratic party appears to be badly torn. There is division in its ranks and the need exists of overcoming that break if possible. When he talks about establishing a constructive organization and not devote attention solely to obstructive tactics he has given food for thought to many who have served as leaders in legislative activities.

It was a speech which should do much toward healing the breach in the party if, in fact, that can be accomplished through such an after-election appeal.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Turkeys are not going to be alone in finding out that it doesn't pay to eat gluttonously.

The man on the corner says: Elusive Indian summer, make the most of it while it's here.

"Roosevelt sees gain for democrats." There were those who could see victory ten days ago.

Alfred E. Smith shows himself a much better loser than some of those who supported him.

There are more desirable places to be than on a sinking ship 230 miles from shore and help hours away.

Of course the authorities who dropped those police officials in Philadelphia should have overlooked the captain who would be eligible for a pension in four months, but he didn't think it necessary to protect that pension himself.

AN OUNCE OF TAFFY

Somehow the bug of perverseness had wiggled under Dot's skin.

"But you couldn't help knowing it would displease him," Aunt Prude admonished. "He always did hate black."

"I did not buy this dress to displease my husband," retorted Dot. "I bought it to please myself."

"When I was a girl," returned Aunt Prude sedately, "a young wife was pleased when her husband was pleased."

"But that was some time ago," Dot flared back. Aunt Prude regarded her nephew's wife in stony grandeur.

Bob was late in returning home that evening. When he did come, he said: "I stopped at Aunt Prude's and asked her up for dinner tomorrow evening." Dot thought of the dress and anticipated static. She broke the news to Bob immediately.

"I brought a new dress today," she said. "I thought since I was going to invest in something, anyway, I might as well have it for the party at the Maynard's tonight."

"Trot her out," suggested Bob. As she went in quest of the garment she said to herself, "Oh, dear, I know he'll blow up." She returned with it dangling over one arm, and regarded her husband's face with puzzled anticipation.

"S'al right," he finally commented. "Pretty foxy. Sure."

"You mean you like it?" She was bewildered—altogether frustrated. Upstairs, she slid into the thing. For some reason her adventure had lost its spice.

Bob looed in on her for the third time.

"If we're ever going—"

"Yes, yes." Another dab of powder and a dash of perfume. Below the hall mirror was unfriendly. Ordinarily she got snap out of it, but now she stole a clandestine glance over her shoulder and was disgusted.

"My hair looks awful; I've got too much makeup on."

"Come on," bellowed Bob.

The bright lights and buzzing conversation at the Maynards' reassured her temporarily. The crowd drifted into cards. Dot lolked about for Bob and found him regarding Alice Maynard's niece, a mere youngster rather flapperish and certainly unbecomingly attired for one so youthful, in a golden-brown creation with a tremendous gold flower on one shoulder. Dot drew her giddy husband reluctantly away and made a mental note to keep tab on him the rest of the evening. But as soon as the game was finished up bobbed the impossible young creature.

"Mrs Perkins," she said in a molasses voice, "do you mind if I carry your husband off to the kitchen? He's promised to help auntie and me serve."

Cornered, Dot affected hilarity. She replied with a forced little laugh: "I'd be delighted if you'd relieve me of him, my dear." A general titter issued from the immediate surroundings, and Dot felt like a stick of dynamite that did not dare to explode.

On the way home Bob slipped an arm around her. Under the circumstances she considered the move an insult. His voice broke into the whir of the car.

"Cute little trick, Alice Maynard's niece."

And he could slay her with such insolence! Surely men had nerve.

"Twinkies, that kid made me think of the way you used to look."

"Used to look?"

"Fashion. Rose-brown cheeks, lustrous eyes. Make a fellow dizzy in the proper story. Gosh!"

"Bob Perkins, watch your driving or you'll clinch a lamp-post! Anybody but a man would know it was that girl's brown dress and not her cheeks and eyes."

Aunt Prude came out for dinner on the following evening. In the kitchen Dot caught a gust of words through the doorway.

"Well, Robert, did you succeed?" Aunt Prude was speaking.

"I'll tell the world. She traded the black one in on a cinnamon brown today."

Dot dipped floating island on the salad instead of mayonnaise, as Aunt Prude replied in a voice that crowed with exultation. "Didn't I warn you that an ounce of taffy was worth a pound of row?"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—Informed opinion in Washington anticipates the selection of Dwight Morrow, ambassador of Mexico, as secretary of state under President Hoover.

Many considerations will prompt that development, those in the know hold, although Mr. Hoover is declared to have gone through the campaign without having committed himself in advance in any way as to his cabinet selections.

Morrow to Succeed Kellogg?

Among compelling reasons for Morrow's probable promotion to head the cabinet is the belief that the Hoover administration will concentrate every effort on expansion of the Latin-American market for American manufactured goods. Mr. Hoover is described as realizing fully the probability that he will have to deal with an industrial surplus as well as with the farm products surplus.

He gave indications frequently as secretary of commerce that he regarded South and Central America as the natural outlet for American manufactured goods which must find foreign consumption. And with Morrow at the helm in the state department, fresh from what amounted to his single handed success in restoring amicable relations with the Calles government in Mexico, the old cry of American imperialism cannot have any great value to anti-American agitators in the south. Morrow is a proven quantity, an anti-bigstick diplomat due to his Mexican experience.

Morrow-Kellogg Story.

The queer thing about nomination of Morrow to succeed Frank B. Kellogg as cabinet dean would arise from the fact that the ambassador is understood to have been opposed to the Kellogg nomination by President Coolidge. A well authenticated tale pictures Morrow as failing to reach the Coolidge ear to protest against that selection only by an accident of time. He actually made a breakfast engagement with the president for the purpose, but reached Washington the day after Kellogg's selection was announced.

According to this tale Morrow was resting and golfing at a spa in the south when friends from the corn belt visited him to urge that he intercede with the president against Kellogg's nomination. Morrow finally agreed and made his breakfast date with his old college chum in the white house, but did not indicate what he wanted to talk about. The financier and his Iowa friend, accompanied by Morrow's brother, the general traveled up to Washington in a private car, arriving very early and their car being switched out on a siding while they slept.

It so happened that the Morrow brothers have a favored New York paper to which they largely confined their news reading at that time. The general was restless and popped out at the Washington station to get a paper while his traveling companions still slept. It was too early for that morning's New York dailies to have been distributed, so he got a day old edition and then took a stroll.

No until he started back to the car did he open his paper and when he did so announcement of Kellogg's appointment stared him in the eye from the front page.

It's easy to imagine that Morrow objections to the Kellogg appointment got no mention at all at his breakfast talk an hour or two later with President Coolidge. What would have been the use?

Stories That Recall Others

Picking The Winner

It was a large family of small children gathered around the supper table. They were allowed to discuss such topics as they pleased and the question of the choice of candidates election day came up.

One boy piped up, "I'm for Smith."

Another said, "I'm for Hoover."

Then a third little fellow chimed in, "I'd laugh if God should get it."

Resigned to Fate

Nancy was being given a mental test and the four year old was asked many questions. Finally she was asked: "Nancy, what would you do if you missed a street car?"

"I don't miss 'em. I get the one I want," was her quick reply.

"But suppose you did miss one, what would you do?"

"Oh, do just like my mother does when she misses one. Get awful mad and then wait for the next one."

YOUR HEALTH

RICKETS, CAUSING BONE DEFORMITIES, NOW, PREVENTABLE AND CURABLE.

(By Otto H. Leter, M. D. New York)

Rickets is the most common nutritional disease of childhood in this part of the world. It occurs chiefly in the first two years of life, more especially in the latter half of the first year and the first half of the second year.

Most people associate rickets and correctly so, with changes in the growing bones changes that produce such deformities as bow legs, knock knees and pigeon breast. These deformities are brought about by a disturbance in the deposit of lime salts in the bones, thus making them less able to withstand the increasing stress and to bear the weight of a growing child.

But beyond these effects, serious enough as they are there are changes in the child's body such as in the blood the muscles and the nervous system that produce an important influence on health at this period of life.

Nor must we assume that this disease is seen only in poorer homes and in under-nourished children. Frequently it occurs, on the contrary, in the child apparently well-nourished and of normal weight.

Rickets is not only of the most widespread but one of the oldest recognized diseases of infancy. During all this time there have been many conflicting theories as to its cause, and even today authorities are still at odds as to the exact nature of the disease. We now know enough of its nature, however, to be convinced that we can both prevent it before its occurrence and cure it after its appearance, although many of the deformities produced may remain throughout the remainder of the child's life as a handicap of greater or less extent.

The two most active measures recognized in the prevention and cure of this disease are sunlight and cod liver oil. The vital influence of the former is seen in the far greater incidence of this disease in the early spring after a winter of short days and lessened opportunity for exposure to the sunlight. In the large cities, or where the climate or season of the year prevents a child having the full measure of sunshine necessary for the best of health, the mercury arc lamp producing ultraviolet rays have been used in skilled hands to give the same or even better effect.

It must not be thought that the sun or ultraviolet rays produce merely a local effect on the skin. They have an important constitutional effect in promoting proper food assimilation in a manner as yet unknown.

In addition to this we know that the breast-fed child is less susceptible to the disease than the bottle-fed, also that proper hygiene, care, and nourishment adapted to the infant's age, are of the greatest importance.

A good deal of our knowledge of the prevention and cure of rickets is of comparatively recent standing. But with the necessary measures so simple, so inexpensive and easily adopted, another few years should show a great decrease in this disease, and in another generation perhaps we shall look in vain for a case of a rickety child.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

THANKSGIVING DINNER FOR BOYS THROUGH LIONS

Over 100 Norwich boys will be entertained at a roast turkey dinner Wednesday, Nov. 28 by the Norwich Lions club. A report of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the dinner was made at the weekly meeting of the club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President Kopland K. Markoff presided at the meeting. A new member, Leon Dix, was welcomed.

Selectman William S. Murray was the speaker of the day. Mr. Murray congratulated the various local organizations for the splendid work they do from time to time for the poor people of the city and town. Mr. Murray spoke of the efforts of the town in behalf of the poor. He said that annually the town expends about $44,000 for the care of the poor. He also said that a number of patients are cared for at the state hospital and the tuberculosis sanatorium.

With reference to the children that come under the care of the town, Mr. Murray mentioned the fact that dependant children under the ages of four years are taken care of in private boarding houses, accepted and investigated by the child welfare league. After they have reached the age of four years, the children are then cared for at the county home.

Mr. Murray also spoke of the fund of the state and town for dependant widows and children and spoke of the splendid work of the matron and overseer at the Alms house in caring for the 47 members of the family there. The average cost of caring for a person at such an institution is about $4 per week but because of the fact that the inmates at the Alms house raise considerable produce, this cost is reduced to about $3.20 per person.

The club voiced its appreciation of Mr. Murray's talk, after which the meeting closed in the usual form.

RADIUM EXPERT ADDRESSES MEETING OF DOCTORS

Dr. Ira Kaplan, radiation therapist at Bellevue hospital, New York city, was the speaker Thursday evening for the regular meeting of the Norwich, New London and Willimantic medical associations, which was held in the ball room at the Wauregan hotel. He gave an instructive address upon Radium and Its Uses.

Dr. Louis T. Cassidy, president of the Norwich association, presided at the business meeting and the evening closed with a dinner, which followed Dr. Kaplan's talk. There was an attendance of about 40.

FORMER NORWICH MAN SAVED IN VESTRIS WRECK

A former resident of this city and Mystic, Michael Coriarty, was one of those rescued when the steamer Vestris of the Lamport & Holt line sank Tuesday off the Virginia capes with the loss of more than 100 lives.

Mr. Coriarty was on his way to Brazil. He resided here about a year ago with a relative, Mrs. Sarah Lewis, of 66 High street, and more recently had been living in Mystic up to about two months ago.

BOUND OVER FOR THEFT FROM GRANDMOTHER

Arrested by troopers from the Groton state police barracks on a charge of stealing $200 from his elderly grandmother, Charles Tillinghast, 18, of North Stonington, after a hearing in justice court in that town Wednesday night, was bound over to the next term of the criminal superior court. Three boys, all of whom are under 16 years of age, who were also implicated in the theft, were placed on probation.

OBITUARY.
Rev. Henry M. Thompson

Rev. Henry M. Thompson, for 31 years pastor of Memorial Baptist church of Hartford and more recently pastor of the Stonington Baptist church for eight years, died at his home in South road, Poquonoc Bridge, Groton, shortly before midnight Wednesday, after an illness extending over a period of 11 months. He was 73 years old, and was born Nov. 26, 1854, at Windsor, Vt.

He was the son of the late Harrison S. Thompson and Aldina M. Horton Thompson. His early schooling was obtained in Vermont, following which he graduated with honors from Colby university in Maine and later Newton Theological seminary at Newton Center, Mass.

After serving as substitute minister in several churches in New England for a short time he accepted a call to the Hartford church. After 31 years as pastor of the Hartford church his resignation was accepted with regrets, and he then accepted the call from the Stonington church.

He took a keen interest in the affairs of Stonington, particularly the schools.

Last Christmas he delivered his last sermon from the pulpit and on Jan. 1, 1928 he was forced to resign because of his health. He remained at the Stonington church parsonage until last July, when he moved to the South road house. He had been confined to his bed for the last month.

Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Maj. Clarence Thompson of Glenn Cove, L. I., and Rev. J. Harrison Thompson of Wollaston, Mass. Also one daughter, Mrs. Alvord Churchill of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gave Talk On Fertilizers.

Professor Henry Dorsey of Connecticut college was the speaker Wednesday night at the county farm bureau room before the monthly meeting of the Norwich Vegetable Growers' association. Professor Dorsey spoke of the uses of common fertilizers and especially of the new forms of synthetic nitrogen which are being used in many of the mixed grades.

The members participated in a general discussion upon the subects introduced by Professor Dorsey.

TWO VACANCIES FILLED ON FACT FINDING COMMITTEE FOR G. & E. DEPT.

Two of three members who have resigned from the "fact finding" committee appointed at the city meeting a week ago Thursday evening have been replaced. There is still one vacancy on the committee which the four members hope to fill in a day or so. Those who have resigned from the committee are H. H. Gallup, Michael H. Hourigan and Roy D. Judd and the two new members are John A. Holland and Adelard Morin. The committee met in the common council room Thursday evening, for the purpose of organizing, but as there is still one vacancy the organization meeting went over until the vacancy is filled.

By invitation of the four committeemen, J. L. Merrill of New York, an expert in electricity and electric power rates, conferred with them during the evening. It is understood that Mr. Merrill is in Norwich to assist the board of gas and electric commissioners in adjusting the electric power rates recently put into operation.

The "fact finding" committee was appointed by the special city meeting last week, for the purpose of conferring with the board of gas and electric commissioners in regard to the new electric rates, which have met the disapproval of many consumers, especially those engaged in business, and for the purpose of placing before another city meeting to be held not later than January 15th, recommendations for a new rate schedule.

The committee held a meeting Wednesday evening at the mayor's office, at which time the resignations of H. H. Gallup, Michael H. Hourigan and Roy D. Judd were received and accepted. It was on recommendation of Mr. Hourigan that Mr. Holland was named a member of the committee as his successor. Mr. Morin's consent to serve on the committee was secured Thursday. Pending organization of the committee, Albert Boardman is acting chairman.

Mr. Morin is vice president of the Plaut-Cadden company and Mr. Holland is an inspector for a Hartford boiler insurance company.

FORESTERS HAVE CLEAR LEAD IN PINOCHLE

The fourth night's play in the city pinochle league was held at the Moose home Thursday evening when the Foresters, by winning both games, increased their hold on first place with six teams contesting second position.

To overcome the confusion that has existed in the past the executive committee held a meeting to agree on a league night. After considerable discussion it was decided to play Nov. 22 at the K. of C. home, on Monday, Nov. 26 at the Moose home, then the league would meet every Thursday.

The results:

First half, K. of C. 24470 vs. Eagles 24120; American Legion 27070 vs. J. O. A. M. 27080; Thermos 26950 vs. Duwells 25300; Foresters 27810 vs. American L. C. H. 26720; Grotto 27600 vs. Moose 24660.

Second half: American L. C. H. 24270 vs. American Legion 26180; K. of C. 25140 vs. Thermos 26260; Duwells 26910 vs. Grotton 24470; Eagles 24340 vs. Foresters 26650; J. O. A. M. 26180 vs. Moose 28050.

The standing is as follows:

GAVE TALK ON CUBA FOR TRINITY CHURCH MEN

A supper meeting of the Men's club of Trinity Episcopal church was held Thursday evening in the parish room. There were 35 members and guests present. After supper a very interesting talk on Cuba was given by Frank Edward Johnson of Cuba, formerly of Norwich, who is visiting here. A committee was formed to arrange for a travel talk on the Mediterranean illustrated with colored slides by Prof. Thomas G. Brown, son of Rev. J. Eldred Brown, in the near future. The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

TAKES HIS LIFE IN MOOD OF DESPONDENCY

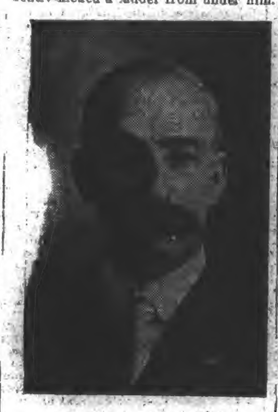
Despondent because of ill health, George E. Parsons, retired clerk of the New London county superior court, took his life by hanging Thursday morning about 9 o'clock, at his home, No. 24 Fairmount street. Mr. Parsons, prominent in Masonic circles throughout the state, and widely known throughout the county, had been in ill health for some time. Judge and Mrs. Parsons since 1911 had made their home with Mrs. Parson's mother, Mrs. Lucy Sparks on Fairmount street.

He had his breakfast about 8 o'clock as usual, Thursday morning and afterward talked with his brother-in-law, Earl Sparks, local music teacher. After commenting about the heat in the house Judge Parsons remarked that he would look at the furnace, which he did. Then he went upstairs. An hour later Mr. Parsons went to look for him. In the attic she found him hanging from the rafters.

Mrs. Parsons rushed down stairs for help and her brother, Earl Sparks, cut the rope but the judge was already dead. He used a clothesline and evidently kicked a ladder from under him.



GEORGE E. PARSONS

Dr. Emma Dunham who had been treating Judge Parsons for some time and Dr. H. E. Hinkins were summoned but the judge was beyond aid. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve pronounced death due to suicide.

Judge Parsons was retired, at his own request, from the clerkship of the New London county superior court on September 1st. He had held the position of clerk of the court for 21 years. His voluntary retirement was due to ill health as he was a sufferer from nervous indigestion.

Judge Parsons was a native of Newburg, Maine, and was born May 31, 1863, the son of George W., and Emeline P. (Greene) Parsons. He attended the schools in Newburg, and in 1875 came to this city with his parents, having since made his home here. He graduated from the High street school and graduated with honors at the Norwich Free Academy in 1884. He was chosen as one of the class orators.

Deciding to enter the legal profession he started to read law in the offices of John M. and Charles F. Thayer and was admitted to practice law in the state of Connecticut on December 17th 1888. Judge Parsons, after following his profession for several years, was elected judge of probate for the Norwich probate district January 6, 1897 and ably presided over the court until January 4, 1905, when he voluntarily retired. He was three times elected probate judge by the largest majorities ever given in the district. During the time he held the office he introduced important improvements in the methods of the probate office.

Judge Parsons was appointed assistant clerk of the superior court in 1894 under Clerk John C. Averill, and served as assistant clerk of the court until his appointment as clerk in 1907. He conducted the affairs of the court office efficiently and inaugurated many beneficial changes. He served as clerk until he retired September 1st.

Under Parsons' administration in Masonic circles throughout the state, being affiliated with practically all of the Masonic bodies. He was raised in St. James' lodge, No. 72, F. and A. M., June 21, 1447. He was soon after appointed to the office of senior steward, and from that held all the offices up, serving as master of the lodge in 1892 and 1894. The latter year was the one in which the new Masonic temple on Broadway was first occupied. He was exalted in Franklin chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., Dec. 11, 1886, received in Franklin council, No. 3, R. and S. M., Jan. 3, 1889, and knighted in Columbian commandery, No. 4, K. T., June 12, 1891. In all three of these bodies he has been prominent. In 1895 and 1896 he was high priest of the chapter and held the office of thrice illustrious master of Franklin council for two years. He was a incorporator in The Masonic Temple corporation, representing Franklin chapter in that body.

In 1897 Judge Parsons was appointed grand senior steward by Grand Master George A. Kies and afterwards served as grand master of this state. He was eminent commander of Columbian Commandery, K. T., in 1914 and 1916. He was a 32nd degree Mason, being a member of all the Scottish rite bodies, and was past thrice illustrious master of King Solomon Lodge of Perfection.

He was also a member of Noble Shiinz Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. He was a member of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., Court Quinebaug, No. 128, Foresters of America, of which he has been a trustee for four years; Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E., of which he was a trustee, and of Norwich council, No. 720, Royal Arcanum, in which he has held several offices including that of trustee. He was also a member of the Arcanum club.

Politically he was a republican and was actively identified with his party from 1884 until about ten years ago. In 1895 Judge Parsons was united in marriage with Miss Vinnev E. Sparks, daughter of the late Albert A. Sparks, at one time telegraph editor of The Bulletin. Surviving are his widow, and a brother, Adrian Parsons of Providence. Judge Parsons' mother died in this city last August.

Judge Parsons was an athlete of considerable ability in his younger days and took an active part in school sports while attending the Norwich Free Academy. He will be given a Masonic funeral in accordance with a request he made some time ago.

The death of Judge Parsons came as a shock to the entire community. Ever fair minded, strictly honest and of a genial and pleasing personality, Judge Parsons easily made lifelong friendships. He was a man of sterling character and was highly respected by all who knew him.

The news of his sudden passing was received with deep regret by his numerous friends and acquaintances and the sympathy of the community is extended the bereaved family.

GARMENTS FOR INSTITUTIONS

The annual meeting of the Norwich Needlework Guild was held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the ballroom of the Wauregan hotel, where articles made during the year by the various groups made an interesting display.

Between 700 and 800 articles have been made and will be distributed as usual to the Backus hospital, Rock Nook home, Sheltering Arms, United Workers, almshouse, county home, and Salvation Army. Mrs. Channing M. Huntington, who has been president during the past year, presided and reports of the work were made by the committees.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Flint Brayton; vice president, Mrs. Frank L. Woodard; treasurer, Miss Susan D. Gallup, secretary, Miss Ruby B. Vaughn. Following the meeting tea was served by Mrs. Brayton and Mrs. Joseph C. Worth, who were assisted by Miss Mary E. Richards and Mrs. Philip T. Welles.

The group directors in the year have been Mrs. George M. Adams, Miss Jane Aiken, Mrs. W. S. Alling, Mrs. Albert J. Bailey, Mrs. H. R. Branche, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Miss Case, Mrs. Telley E. Babcock, Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Mrs. George W. Carroll, Miss Gertrude Murray, Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, Mrs. H. M. Leroy, Mrs. C. M. Huntington, Mrs. E. W. Perkins, Mrs. John Phillips, Miss Grace Taft, Mrs. James, Mrs. M. C. Watrous, Mrs. Philip T. Welles, Mrs. Frank L. Woodard and Mrs. Allen Brand.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD MADE Contribution To Firemen's Fund.

Chief Howard L. Stanton was the speaker Wednesday night at Wauregan at the annual banquet of the Atwood Hose company and while there was presented a check for $10 to be added to the local firemen's pension fund. Chief Stanton's subject was "Fire Prevention."

Name Omitted From Pageant

Through error the name of Miss Winifred Burdick was omitted in giving the characters in the cast for the pageant Sunday evening at Preston City Baptist church. She took one of the leading characters, The Angel of Peace, for which she was appropriately costumed in white.

INSTRUCTION TO PARENTS ON MENTAL HYGIENE

The fifth in a series of lectures by Miss Hester Crutcher of New Haven under the auspices of the Norwich Mental Hygiene society was given on Thursday afternoon at the Wauregan hotel. The topics discussed by Miss Crutcher were imagination, Curiosity, Temper and Fears—What they mean in our development. The speaker went into detail showing how these things are applied to every day life. Taking the subject of imagination she said no possession more precious than the power to create visions, so long as it gives stimulus for putting them together, is given to the child. This power is much needed and is of practical importance as it sharpens observation and gives to the child ability to carry out orders. All creative work is the result of imagination. The highest form of imagination is an organ of penetration into the hidden meaning of things. In children this peaks at two years and reaches its height between the ages of four and six years. At this age imagination is often mistaken for falsehood. It takes wise guidance through this period, not to stress too much on this phase as the two are very closely connected. Many question the habit of telling fairy tales to healthy imaginative children, but if these are presented in a rather humoring and entertaining way they get the imaginative and not the harmful results.

In speaking of curiosity Miss Crutcher said that this adhesive force gives us willing rather than forced tenacity of purpose. It is probably the greatest asset of learning. Advertisements in magazines and illustrations have capitalized this force of curiosity. Curiosity in children should not be suppressed, as it is a valuable contribution in life as we learn by being curious. Parents and teachers should not force the child's curiosity, but should give facts as near truth as possible.

Taking up the subject of temper, it was brought out that in the majority of cases temper in a child is aroused by thwarting or frustrating some plan of the child. Even in a small baby a display of temper is shown if its hands are held. Temper comes from over excitement, over-fatigue or lack of rest. Children can be taught control by the effects temper and their tantrums if these tantrums are simply to attract attention. Children can be reasoned with at an early age and the proper handling of children in tempers can do much toward establishing desirable future behavior.

In closing Miss Crutcher touched on the fears of children. The first fears of a child are the fear of falling and the fear of loud noises. A child's fear of loud noises can be overcome by associating pleasant reactions with these noises and in this way they soon overcome their fear. As children go older they seem to love loud noises that generally make the grownups cry for mercy. To correct fears in a child it is always best to give some pleasant association with the fear when possible. Fears develop with insecure environment. Give the child a feeling of security by letting the child know you love him, have his best welfare at heart and teach that his home is a heaven.

CHARGED WITH THEFT FROM GARDNER LAKE EMPLOYER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—Fred Stam, 35, was arrested in Hartford this afternoon, charged with the theft of $70 from his former employer Ernest Lathrop of Gardiner lake. Stam was discharged this morning at 10 o'clock and immediately caught a bus at Salem Four corners for Hartford. Shortly after he had left, Lathrop discovered his loss and notified the police. A description of the man was sent to Hartford; troopers stopped the bus Stam was in and made the arrest. He had only spent one dollar of the sum alleged to have been stolen.

YANTIC ENGINE COMPANY DISPUTES NEW LONDON CLAIM

The Yantic Fire Engine company has entered the lists with a claim to be considered the oldest existing fire company in the state, disputing that distinction which had been tentatively assigned to the Niagara Engine company of New London, organized in 1848.

The charter for the Yantic company was secured from the legislature in May, 1847, and the company was organized in July of that year. It is still in active service.

The state firemen's association which is making the quest to locate the oldest fire company in this state, has been notified of the Yantic claim by the officers of the company.

SHOWING UNIT VALUES IN THE PLAINS SECTION

The fifth and last unit map to be printed covers the Plains section of the city. In this way, all of the land unit values of the city have been shown, and in a later issue, the streets and roads, as well as the acreage values to be used in outlying sections of the town will be printed in tabulated form. The assessors and the representatives of the Manufacturers' Appraisal company invite interested parties to offer any constructive criticisms regarding the values which have been shown by this and earlier maps. Both the assessors and appraisal company are interested in obtaining equalized land values and with this in mind have informed the public what has been done by the revaluation now about to be completed.

FOUR NORWICH PEOPLE HURT IN WESTERLY CRASH

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 15—(AP)—Four Norwich, Conn., residents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clark, of 218 West Main street, Mrs. Mary Bates, of 224 West Main street, and her daughter, Mary E., aged 11, were injured near Westerly, R. I., late this afternoon, when the automobile in which they were riding capsized in a ditch after colliding with another car. Philip Gagnon, a young son of Mrs. Clark's, escaped injury.

The injured were first rushed to the Hope Valley barrack of the Rhode Island state police and from there to the Westerly hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Clark suffered severe scalp lacerations and were badly bruised about the body. Mrs. Clark also received a fracture of her left shoulder. Mrs. Bates suffered from shock and a deep scalp laceration. Her daughter's left ankle was broken.

SMALL BRAIN RUPTURES MAY CAUSE PUNCH DRUNKENNESS SAYS MARTLAND

By Edward J. Neil
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—The boxing world, jarred somewhat by a scientific left hook, still is echoing the effects of medical research into the condition commonly known to the ring as "punch-drunkenness."

The revelations of Dr. Harrison S. Martland, of Newark, N. J., in a recent issue of the American Medical Association Journal, have developed a widespread reaction in professional boxing circles where the symptoms of "goofiness" heretofore have been dismissed by the explanation: "His brains are scrambled from taking 'em on the chin." Medically, there has never been established actual proof that such a condition as "punch drunk" existed, but Dr. Martland, coupling the opinions of observers with his own examination of five boxers considered "slug batty" has finally a workable theory.

"I realize," he wrote, "that this theory, while alluring is quite insusceptible of proof at the present time but I also am convinced from my former studies on post-traumatic encyephalitis (inflammation of the brain following blow) that this is the logical deduction that I feel it is my duty to report this condition."

Stripped of medical terms, the theory is that a blow or succession of sharp blows on the jaw or head, while not severe enough to injure the skull, can cause pin-point hemorrhages in the working parts of the brain, principally the portion where the nerve strings that control the limbs and other parts of the body bunch together in the brain.

The theory indicates that the blow increases pressure on the brain fluid, causing minutes ruptures of thin blood vessel walls and resulting in hemorrhages. Such a condition never is found when the skull is fractured and pressure on the fluid released by the breaking of the bone simultaneous with the shock.

After studying many cases and the research work of other scientists who touched upon a similar condition without establishing the cause, Dr. Martland drew the conclusion that punch-drunkenness, with its early symptoms of dragging legs, unsteady gait and staggering, can cause death. The report was warranted, he said, by the fact that "nearly one half of the fighters who have stayed in the game long enough develop this condition, either in a mild form or a severe and progressive form which often necessitates committment to an asylum.

Dr. Martland, was given a list of 23 boxers whom a promoter, "whose ability to judge the physical condition of fighters is unquestionable," considered punch drunk. Five of them, he examined. The condition of others particularly those confined to asylums, could not be learned accurately.

No actual names are given but close followers of the ring may identify them by their initials, their class, who they fought and their present condition, are as follows:

B. H.; lightweight; Joe Gans, Jarkinson; syndrone (little control of features and limbs).

J. D.; heavyweight; Weiner, Fulton; talks slow, drags leg.

J. T.; lightweight; Leonard, Kansas, Dundee, Tendler; drags leg, talks slow.

B. B.; lightweight; Walker, Tendler; punch drunk.

W. J.; lightweight; Dundee, Leonard; punch drunk.

F. J.; heavyweight; Willard, Weinert; punch drunk.

A. W.; lightweight; asylum.

B. M.; heavyweight; Moran, Tunney; asylum.

J. G.; heavyweight; Fitzsimmons, Johnson, Jeffries, Sharkey; asylum.

BATTALINO HANDS COHEN A DECISIVE BEATING

HARTFORD, Nov. 15 —(AP)— Bat Battalino, of Hartford, scored a decisive win over Milton Cohen, of New York, in a ten round bout here tonight. Battalino's superior punching had Cohen hanging on most of the time, Cohen was in there to hold on and stay the limit. Bat Battalino weighed 124 1-4 pounds and Cohen the same. Other results:

Eddie Reed, Hartford, 118, won a four round decision over Nick Florentino, New Haven, 114. Bobby Freeman, Hartford, 153, won a four round decision over Kid Thomas, New Britain, 152. Rene Lubear, New Haven, 139 3-4, won a technical knockout in the sixth round over Dick Martin, Springfield, 127 3-4. Pancho Villa, Hartford, 138, won a six round decision over Gene Martin, Terryville, 142. Marino Pagoni, Springfield, 136 1-2, won on a technical knockout in the second round over Jean Lajean, Waterbury, 140.

EARLY OPENING OF COAST LEAGUE CURTAILS EXHIBITIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—Early opening of the Pacific Coast league probably will not interfere with the plans of three major league clubs to go west for training. The Pacific coast will open its 1929 season March 26, one week earlier than in 1928, and as a result a number of exhibition games scheduled with visiting major league outfits will have to be cancelled.

The Chicago Cubs, however, will remain at Catalina Island and the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles. The western movement for spring baseball conditioning has gained a recruit in the Detroit Tigers, although the American leaguers will not continue on to California, stopping at Phoenix, Arizona.

The Tigers under George Moriarty used San Antonio as a camp and John J. McGraw with his New York Giants will pick up in Texas where Detroit leaves off.

William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Cubs, also owns the island where his club trains and he will not permit changes in the Pacific coast schedule to cause him to move. The White Sox, the other Chicago entry, also is moving its training camp west but not far enough to be concerned over the Pacific coast schedule. The Sox will train at Dallas, Tex., instead of Shreveport, La.

The Pirates may not be able to get in their series with the Los Angeles club but will play San Francisco and then move on to Phoenix, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio and Memphis.

It is understood that Detroit will play both the Cubs and Pirates as they move east and follow with games in Texas and other southern states.

PLAINFIELD HIGH CLOSES FOOTBALL SEASON TODAY

This (Friday) afternoon, at 3 p. m. at the old mill grounds in Plainfield, the Plainfield high school eleven will close their present season meeting the speedy Tourtellotte high school team of North Grosvenordale. The Plainfield boys, after a poor start, have come along very fast, defeating Killingly and holding Putnam to a 6-0 score in their last two starts.

Putnam, with their championship bug, was very lucky to emerge the victor. Plainfield stopping her vaunted four horsemen at the line of scrimmage and but for a bad pass from center late in the game which Putnam recovered and converted into a touchdown, the game would have ended 0-0.

Ira Kose, P. H. S. has one of the greatest defensive backs that has ever represented the school. He weighs 160 pounds and hits a line with the force of a trip hammer. Burby and Shippe play the halves and both are excellent broken field runners. Capt. "Moose" Bakanowski completes the backfield. This boy is worth the price of admission alone. He has played quarterback for three years and is easily the cream of Eastern Conn., at his position and is a tackler of the "Death" Dooley type.

For today's game the teams appear evently matched and as this is the last tilt for both teams until next year the boys will play as hard as possible, holding nothing in reserve. A record crowd is anticipated by the management and preparations have been made accordingly in regards to parking, etc. C. A. C. will furnish the officials.

SENATORS AND AMERICANS BATTLE TO TIE SCORE

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 15—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators and the revamped New York Americans battled 70 minutes to a scoreless draw in a bruising National Hockey league match here tonight. Five thousand spectators saw the play, one of them being Sir William Clark, Great Britain's commissioner to Canada, who was witnessing his first game of ice hockey.

Sensational goal-tending by "Flat" Walsh of the Americans and Alex Connell of Ottawa, was all that kept the game a scoreless draw. The first three periods were fought at a terrific pace but both sides, groggy from bruising body-checks, slowed down almost to a walk in the overtime session.

Next to the goal keepers, Lionel Conacher, big American defense man, and Billy Towney, youthful wingman of the Senators, were the outstanding men on the ice.

Lions Challenge

The Lions challenge any team averaging from 12 to 15 years to play them Sunday. If challenge is accepted answer in Bulletin or meet the Lions at N. F. A. grounds at two o'clock. If Laurel Hill Bulldog Juniors want to play Sunday, meet at the place designated. The Lions will play the Troop 1, Boy Scouts Monday at 4 o'clock, Academy grounds.

SPORT SLANTS

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—The All-American epidemic is spreading rapidly again as Old Man football hobbles along toward the close of another campaign.

Never before, it seems, has there been manifested such widespread interest in this nebulous business among the experts. The consequence is that so far there is an almost total lack of agreement among the critics with one notable exception—the opinion of Christian Keener (Red) Cagle.

Not a dissenting voice has been raised so far to the All-American rating of the Army's fleet ball-carrier. If there was any thought that his performances against Harvard and Yale were insufficient to clinch the debate, it was dissipated after the Notre Dame game.

But it's another affair when it comes to grouping a supporting cast around Cagle. You can suggest that Fred Hovde of Minnesota, Ken Strong of New York university and Blue Howell of Nebraska fill out the backfield and find quite a range of support. Or you can select Howard Harpster of Carnegie—Bennie Lom of California and Mayes McLain of Iowa to help the redhead do the mythical balloting.

Without impairing the all-around threat in the least, others seem willing to select a third backfield group consisting of Cagle, Don Williams of Southern California, Warner Mizell of Georgia Tech and Redman Hume of Southern Methodist.

All of these stars have strong claim and strong support in the All-American scramble. The point is that it's difficult to find any real agreement of opinion in a sport that covers so wide a range or territory in so kaleidoscopic and brief a season. The experts who argue the case of one or two stars haven't seen the others. It's largely guesswork.

Among the star quarterbacks of the season, Fred Hovde, of Minnesota, has plenty of achievement to recommend him. He was somewhat overshadowed at the start by the ballyhoo for Bronko Nagurski, the big tackle groomed to fill the fullback shoes of Herb Joesting, but Hovde has jumped into the spotlight and seems likely to stay there.

Up in the wheat belt, they rate this 155-pounder as the best ball-carrier Minnesota has had since early Martineau gained All-American fame in 1923. Hovde was a big star in the Iowa, Northwestern and Indiana games. He gained 116 yards in the 14 times he lugged the ball against the Hoosiers last week, besides playing a fine defensive game.

There seems to be an abundance of good tackles this year. The Army has Sprague and Perry, two great veterans, but they were outplayed by Twomey and Miller of Notre Dame last Saturday. Cornell has two stars in Waweman and Anderson. Others who have stood out include, Brewster of West Virginia, Lassman of New York university, Brown of Texas, Mooney of Georgetown, Hibbs of California and Raskowski of Ohio State.

Notre Dame's tradition of having a great center to lead the charge into opposing lines is being ably upheld by Moynihan this season. He is carrying on where Adam Walsh and Bud Boering left off in recent seasons but he had his hands full when he bucked into Peter Pund, robust captain of Georgia Tech's fine eleven. Pund is the keystone of as sturdy a line as has swung into action anywhere this year.

The University of Detroit's fast-stepping eleven comes east this week to play Fordham and demonstrate the stuff that has carried it through seven successive victories. Detroit has an outstanding back in Lloyd Brazil, a husky line and the distinction of being described by Harry Kipke, Michigan State coach, as the "best team" he has ever seen.

Kipke was an All-American at the University of Michigan. He played on and against quite a few great teams so that his opinion ought to count for something, influenced though it probably was by the sudden shock of seeing his team licked, 39-0 by these football tigers.

Griffiths to Fight Braddock

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Ia., light-heavyweight, was matched today to fight ten rounds with James J. Braddock of Jersey City at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 30. The fight takes the place of a scheduled bout between Jack Delaney and Jimmy Slattery, postponed when Delaney suffered an injured shoulder.

Baby Joe Gans Issues Challenge

Baby Joe Gans, the midget junior flyweight of the West Side, issues a challenge to any 105-pound amateur boxer in the state. Gans is after the junior flyweight title. Chick Spivery of this city is handling the midget's business affairs.

AGGIES MEET RHODE ISLAND IN BIG GAME OF YEAR AT STORRS SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 15—One of the oldest traditional football rivalries between two eastern colleges will come to the fore Saturday at Storrs when the Connecticut Aggies meet the Rhode Island state college eleven after a decade of relationship on all fields of sport. It will be the twentieth meeting on the gridiron of the two interstate elevens and also the final home game on the Nutmeg schedule that will be featured with the annual "home coming day" celebration by alumni and undergraduates of Connecticut. The largest crowd to turn out for a football game at Storrs is expected Saturday combined not only with members of the alumni and students at the state college but also those from the Clam State institution.

Head Coach Sumner A. Dole has been drilling his varsity eleven all week on an intensive ground and aerial attack that is sure to play havoc with the Engineers who have not been going at a great pace all season. Most of the attention was focused on the overhead attack which is expected to be used mostly against Rhody with the intent to save the harder playing department of the game, that is the line plays, for the contest with Boston college next Saturday at the Hub city. Very little scrimmaging and hard work was indulged in this week following the struggle that ended in a scoreless tie with New Hampshire last Saturday. Yesterday was spent mostly on signal and dummy tackling practice while this afternoon a check-up on all plays and formations with the purpose of making a survey on assignments in each will be made by the Nutmeg mentor and his assistant Paul E. Bilgood. The varsity coach will take the backfield while the latter will have charge of the line.

Two very recent injuries have stripped the Nutmeg regular backfield to only two remaining varsity players. Last Saturday William McCombe was removed from the game with a sprained muscle in his back just above the hip which will keep him out of the lineup Saturday and very probably for the rest of the season. Yesterday another serious injury developed. Leo Fisher, sophomore regular halfback and high scorer for the season, did not report for practice due to a leg bruise received in dummy tackling. He is now under the care of Trainer Libutzke and it is very probable, however, that his injury will not be as serious as first thought. He may be back to normal by Saturday but if he is not, it will mean that the Nutmeg backfield will have to consist mostly of second string men. As it is, Coach Dole will mostly likely start Flydal at halfback in place of McCombe and Harger at full in place of the former. This change will not make any noticeable effect.

The Connecticut Aggies are holding a very large margin over their traditional rivals on paper due to not having lost a game all year and also not being scored upon. The Nutmeggers are the only team in the country that has not had its goal line crossed. The Aggies have completed six games out of their eight game schedule, won three and tied three in scoreless ties.

Wesleyan went down to a heavy defeat by the score of 33-0, Maine was held in a scoreless deadlock, Lowell Textile in the same manner, and the second victory came against Vermont with a 6-0 margin. The Coast Guards offered very little opposition and took the short end of a 20-0 score. Last Saturday New Hampshire and the Aggies played four hard quarters to a deadlock. Rhode Island has not been going nearly as well and have been beaten by most of the above named Connecticut opponents.

Such a record for the Connecticut Aggies shows the eleven to be a very strong aggregation on the defensive. The line, especially, has been the exponent of that fact due to their excellent playing all season. The strength of the forward wall lies in the fact that the Nutmeggers are fortunate in having five seniors in the middle starting with center, the two guards and tackles. The backfield has shown its strongest defensive against passes and in backing up the line well on line bucks.

During the period of relationship between the Aggies and Rhode Island, the Nutmeggers took eight games and the Engineers nine. Three games have been tied. Last year the Blue and White took the short end of a 14-0 count at Kingston. The summary of the games played is as follows:

| Year | Ct. | R. I. |
|---|---|---|
| 1897 | 22 | 8 |
| 1899 | 17 | 0 |
| 1900 | 43 | 0 |
| 1901 | 37 | 0 |
| 1904 | 10 | 10 |
| 1907 | 0 | 42 |
| 1908 | 10 | 12 |
| 1909 | 0 | 51 |
| 1910 | 0 | 33 |
| 1915 | 7 | 3 |
| 1916 | 5 | 13 |
| 1919 | 7 | 3 |
| 1920 | 0 | 0 |
| 1921 | 21 | 27 |
| 1922 | 7 | 12 |
| 1923 | 7 | 0 |
| 1924 | 22 | 0 |
| 1925 | 0 | 0 |
| 1926 | 33 | 0 |
| 1927 | 0 | 14 |

RANGERS SHUT OUT COUGARS IN OPENER

DETROIT, Nov. 15—(AP)—The New York Rangers, world's champion professional hockey team, scored a victory in the season opener here tonight over the Detroit Cougars, 2 to 0. A capacity crowd of 14,000 persons witnessed the game.

The Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, and Frank Boucher, Ranger forwards, proved too much for the Detroit team. Their stick handling, fast skating and passing broke up every combination Manager Jack Adams was able to swing against them.

"Dollie" Dolson, new Cougar goalie, did sensational work in the net, saving more than a score of Ranger drives through the Cougar defense. "Butch" Keeling, Ranger forward, scored a goal in the initial period when he took a speedy pass from Thompson to beat Dolson. In the last minute of the third period, Herbie Lewis, Detroit forward, threw his stick at Boucher as the latter was making a shot and Referee Dave Ritchie awarded Boucher a goal for the act.

Sonnenberg Beats Walker

BOSTON, Nov. 15—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg of Providence, former Dartmouth star, defeated George Walker of Canada in two straight falls here tonight in the first of a series of elimination wrestling matches, the winner of which will meet Strangler Lewis for the world's heavyweight championship. Sonnenberg won the first fall in 22 minutes with a combination cross foot scissors and the second in 14 minutes and 45 seconds with a flying tackle.

Bass Kayoes Petrone

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 15—(AP)—Benny Bass of Philadelphia won a technical knockout here over Dominic Petrone of New York. The decision came in the first minute of the first round of a ten-round bout.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Plenty of big games are down for the state's high school grid aggregations this week end. Hartford-Weaver, Meriden, Nashua, (N. H.), Harding-Central, Academy-Stonington and others top the list.

With but one more week to go the games today and Saturday should go a long ways towards settling the state title. Should Hartford or Harding slip on the morrow their chances for the bunting will take a big flop.

Eastern Conn. teams play as follows:

Stonington at Academy—It should be a close battle.

Manchester at Windham—Manchester is favored.

Bulkeley at Ansonia—Bulkeley should win.

Warwick at Westerly—Westerly should get a close verdict.

Chapman Tech at Middletown—Tech ought to win.

Tourtellotte at Plainfield—Plainfield should win.

Bulkeley's chances of winning its last game before the Academy-Bulkeley classic are greater than those of the locals. Stonington is a tough team, especially against the Academy while Ansonia has not done much to date.

Westerly High's great cross-country team meets Warwick High this afternoon at Westerly during the halves of the football game. Thanksgiving day the team travels to Newark, N. J., for the National run.

MAPLE LEAFS TAKE OPENER FROM BLACKHAWKS

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 15—(AP)—Two newcomers to National Professional Hockey league ranks grabbed the spotlight tonight when the Toronto Maple Leafs opened the season with a 2 to 0 victory over the rebuilt Chicago Blackhawks.

The Toronto scores were netted in quick succession in the second period by Andy Blair and Shorty Horne.

The Blackhawks spent the first period and part of the second trying to find a workable combination. As the game progressed the visitors finally solved the Leaf attack and developed an offensive system of their own that had Lorne Chabot, Toronto goalie, constantly on the move.

Whirlwinds Wonder

The Taftville Whirlwinds are wondering if the Y Emps are really afraid of them or not. The Taftville boys had a game scheduled for Thursday night with the Emps but the latter cancelled the game without apparent reason. In place of this game, the Whirlwinds were offered a game Saturday with the Y seconds. The Whirlwinds hope that the Emps will give them a game in the near future.

EASTERN ELEVENS SMOOTH OUT THE ROUGH PLACES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—A little more sandpaper on the rough edges and eastern college football elevens will be ready for the actual conflict that comes this Saturday.

There was no let-up in the practice sessions at Princeton and New Haven. Yale and Princeton, it is rather widely known, set more store on victory in their coming clash than they have on all the rest of the games they've played so far this season. Mal Stevens has selected Hoben, Decker, Loud and Hubbard to start in the Yale backfield. Hoben, it will be remembered at Princeton, tossed the pass to Flebwick that enabled the Elis to win last season, 14 to 9.

Eighty minutes of signal drill at Hamilton ended Colgate's preparations for the Syracuse game. Syracuse went through a dress rehearsal of the defense to be used against the Maroon, a signal drill and kick-off formations before calling it a day.

Jesse Hawley left five of his varsity squad behind as the Dartmouth Indians left for Ithaca where they will attempt to end a four game losing streak at Cornell's expense. Harris and Sherman, of the first team, and Sutton, McInnes and Jeremiah, reserve backs, were left at Hanover to doctor assorted injuries. Gil Dobie contented himself with a tapering off drill at Ithaca.

Lou Young has given his Pennsylvania Warriors very little hard work for the Columbia contest but the Lions have not escaped so easily. Charley Crowley has had the Columbia varsity hard at it all week although today's workout was devoted to polishing up of plays.

Carnegie Tech's varsity, its record unmarred by defeat or tie, left tonight for South Bend where Notre Dame is to be encountered. Tartar rooters will leave Pittsburgh tomorrow for the game. The Pitt Panthers, who meet Nebraska in another important intersectional game in the west, already are enroute to Lincoln, Neb. Another of western Pennsylvania's "Big Four", West Virginia, entrained for Washington for its battle against Georgetown, Washington and Jefferson, which travels no further than Johnstown, Pa., will not leave Washington, Pa., until tomorrow for the Bucknell battle.

Dummy scrimmage and signal drill ended Hugo Bezdek's preparations at Penn State for the fray at Easton against Lafayette. Harvard's varsity smeared Holy Cross plays consistently as put on by a team of Crimson ineligibles in a 90 minute scrimmage. A long scrimmage preceded the departure of Boston college for Buffalo where the Eagles play Canisius. Tackling dummies took a lot of punishment at West Point where Biff Jones is looking ahead to the Nebraska game rather that to this Saturday's combat with Carleton. Navy also is not bothering itself particularly about Loyola of Maryland, concentrating rather on the Princeton game at Philadelphia ten days hence.

ESPINOSA LEADS FIELD IN OREGON GOLF TOURNEY

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 15—(AP)—Slicing two strokes from par with a 70, Abe Espinosa, Chicago professional, led the way in the opening round of the $5,000 Oregon open golf tournament here today.

Walter Hagen, British open champion; Mel Smith, Portland; Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., and Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, were tied with 72s.

Johnny Farrell, New York, one of the late finishers, turned in a 74.

12,000 FANS ATTEND OPENER AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 15—(AP)—Twelve thousand persons, a capacity crowd, saw the Canadiens defeat their intro-city rivals, the Maroons, in the opening game of the National Hockey league season here tonight. The score was 3 to 1.

Players and fans alike were slow to warm up to the play but both got going in the second period and before it was over the fast look on all the appearances of a typical mid-season Maroon-Canadien battle.

After Joliat had scored a goal for the Canadiens in the first period and Siebert had knotted the count later in the same session, the two teams battled on even terms until the third period. Then Gagne scored on a pass from Ledue and less than a minute afterwards, Patterson placed a perfect pass in front of Joliat, who shot the goal. Penalties were frequent but only one was a major.

TWO TEAMS DEADLOCKED IN QUEST OF BIKE HONORS

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—(AP)—The deadlock for first place in the international bike race at the Coliseum remained after another day of wild riding today between Harris Horder and Ernest Kockler, the Australian-American team, and Jimmy Walthour, Jr., and Franz Duelberg, the German-American duo.

Horder and Kockler had a slight advantage in points but in miles and laps they were tied, at the end of the 91st hour. Vannek and Zuchtti scored the most points in this afternoon's sprints, piling up 24. The leading teams each had covered 1,372 miles, 9 laps, but the Horder-Kockler team point score was 118 to 106.

BOSTON BEATS PIRATES IN OVERTIME GAME

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15—(AP)—Before the first sell-out crowd in National Hockey league history loosily, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Bruins inaugurated the 1928 season here tonight, Boston winning in an overtime period, 1 to 0.

Clapper scored the deciding point in the ten-minute overtime play on a returned shot from Miiks, the Pirate goalie, who had just saved a shot from the same player.

Shore, Hub defense man, was in the penalty box 11 times, five being on a major foul. Frederickson was fined $5 by Umpire O'Leary for profanity.

AL KOZIOL FIGHTS AGAIN AT PROVIDENCE TONIGHT

Al Koziol, local fistic flash, resumes his battling at the Arcadia in Providence tonight, taking on two opponents. The first will probably be Bill Martin, who gave the local lad such a battle a few weeks back, having him down for the nine count twice before Koziol came back to win the verdict. Koziol's other opponent is not known. A large crowd of local fans will go down tonight to see Koziol in action.

National Professional Hockey Final

Canadiens, 3; Maroons, 1.

Toronto, 2; Chicago Blackhawks, 0.

Boston, 1; Pittsburgh, 0 (extra period).

New York Rangers, 2; Detroit Cougars, 0.

At Ottawa: New York Americans, 0; Ottawa, 0 (tie).

DEATH OF GEO. L. RANDALL AT HIS HOME ON W. TOWN ST.

The community was saddened upon learning of the death, Thursday afternoon, at 3:20 of George L. Randall, 66, of 67 West Town street, following an illness of little over seven weeks. Although Mr. Randall has been afflicted with angina pectoris for the past two years, apparently he had been in his usual health until Tuesday, Sept. 18, when he was stricken with a shock, since which time he has been confined to his bed. Born in Salem, Conn., June 27, 1862, he was the son of George D. and Almeda Thomas Randall. He was united in marriage with Miss Annie M. Packer, Sept. 7, 1883. His wife survives him, with one son, George L. Randall, of Lebanon. Another son, Homer Packer Randall, died many years ago and a daughter, Marion Randall Bull, died in Maine 12 years ago. There are four grandchildren, David, Mariah, Florence and George Packer Randall, of Lebanon. A niece is Mrs. Herbert Mitchell. Mr. Randall, a carpenter by trade, was a resident of Colchester before coming, 27 years ago, to Norwich Town, where he has been esteemed by the many who knew of his work. A kind husband and father, he will be missed in the home circle, where his chief interests centered.

Shot Two Raccoons

John Muzikensturm of No. 6 Town street bagged two raccoons, weighing 16 pounds each, Thursday evening, in Franklin.

To Picture Indian Missions

Sunday evening in the Methodist church the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter is to give his second lecture with stereopticon on the subject, "The Indians of the Southwest". This is a World Service lecture. There are 42,000 Protestant Indians in the west and the lecture deals especially with the life and customs in the New Mexico and Arizona Methodist Episcopal missions. During the lecture 70 colored slides will be shown. The machine will be operated by Ralph Smith. The lecture will be at the public service beginning at 7.15.

The Camp Fire Girls of Norwich Town elected officers Wednesday night at a meeting held at the Methodist parsonage in charge of their guardian, Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter. There was an attendance of 18 girls. Doris Rose was elected president, Margaret Phillips vice president, Rita Dalton, keeper of the count, Virginia Ward keeper of the books and Grace Hinrichs keeper of the treasury.

A Providence, R. I., hotel donated 110 pieces of china to the Norwich Town Methodist church Tuesday.

Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington told the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the World at its semi-annual meeting in Atlantic City, that the Kellogg peace pact and the universal religious peace conference were the greatest strides toward world peace.

FOGEL, FORMER BASEBALL MANAGER DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15—(AP)—Horace S. Fogel, former president of the Philadelphia National League Baseball club, and once manager of the New York Giants, died today of apoplexy. He was 55 years old and had been ill several years. Prior to entering the baseball field, Mr. Fogel was widely known as a sports writer.

Fogel once was sports editor of the Evening Telegraph. His baseball articles were widely read. Mr. Fogel forsook the newspaper business to become manager of the New York Giants. He became president of the local National league club in 1909. Upon his retirement three years later, he published for a time a monthly magazine devoted to the diamond sport.

Famous Golf Shots of 1928

Stopping Voight's Rally

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

Thomas Philip Perkins, the British amateur champion, found his way to the American championship successfully barred by the stalwart figure of Bobby Jones, but in getting nearer to this goal than any Briton had done in 17 years Phil pulled off a number of startling shots at Brae Burn.

There was his 45-foot putt on the eleventh green against George Voigt of New York, a curling poke three-quarters of the way across the green that sounded a heart-breaking clink to the American. This was as great a stroke on the green as any in the whole amateur championship, but it wasn't as important as a recovery from the rough that Perkins made on the 17th hole of this same match.

Perkins won the match finally by the decisive margin of 6 and 4. He might have done as well anyway, but his work at 17th, saving a half and checking a determined rally by Voigt, seemed to contribute vitally to the final outcome.

The New Yorker, after a bad start, was coming like a house afire on the inward journey of the morning round in this semi-final struggle. He had cut a deficit of four holes down to one. From the 17th tee he had driven a beautiful shot well to the green 255 yards away, while Perkins hooked wierdly to the rough. It appeared a certainty that George would square the match and have a chance to gain the lead on the 18th. But the aspect changed quickly when Phil dug a remarkable shot out of the tall grass and laid his ball within three feet of the cup, for a par 3 that he clinched when Voigt missed his first putt. It enabled Perkins to go to lunch with a lead that he added substantially to in the afternoon and discouraged Voigt, perhaps, at a moment when his best chance of victory seemed ahead

GOODYEAR FIRE CO. OLDER THAN NEW LONDON NIAGARA

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 15—The Niagara Fire company of New London must step into the background as a proposed claimant for the honor of being the oldest fire company in Connecticut. Right here in Killingly there is a fire company—at Goodyear—that outranks the Niagara Fire company, founded in 1548. This is the Williamsville Fire Engine company, which dates back to 1833, when it was chartered, and which recently at Goodyear held its 95th annual ball. The claim is not put forth at Goodyear, formerly known as Williamsville, that its fire company is the oldest in Connecticut, but the fact is made known for the information of the executive committee of the State Firemen's association that it is a candidate for consideration as being among the oldest in the state, with the possibility that it outdates any other. Representative William S. Hunter of Goodyear said this afternoon that he has printed records showing that the company was chartered back in 1833, and that he hopes to produce the original charter. The quest now being made for old fire companies is in the interest of establishing which one dates farthest back into the past.

New Flagpole for Borough

The borough is to have a fine new flag pole, free, for Davis park. It is of white cedar, in two sections, and will tower 74 feet into the air. The pole is a gift from an Idaho lumber company to the borough through Burgess L. E. Young, member of a local lumber company. The pole, already here, likely will not be erected until spring and is to replace the present one on the park now considered dangerous on account of the number of years it has stood.

The new pole, in two sections, came from one tree, and it is understood that another section 20 feet in length was obtained from the same tree, a giant of the Idaho forests. Of the sections received here one is 30 feet in length, the other 35 feet.

A member of the court of burgesses said that the new pole when erected probably will be so put up that it can be lowered if necessary for any purpose. There is a modern arrangement for setting such tall poles that makes it easy to lower them when there is any reason for so doing.

FUNERAL

Alexander LaRock

This morning the funeral of Alexander LaRock was held from the home in Wauregan with funeral services at the Sacred Heart church there at 9 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Quinn being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were Albert Ducloa, Aldei Boucher, Noe Plankey, Alfred Messier, Ovila Guertin and Ozias Pellerin. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

OBITUARY

F. W. Burnett

A death at the Middlesex hospital in Middletown last night was that of Fred W. Burnett, 65, of Dayville. Mr. Burnett went to Middletown a little more than a week ago. The body was brought here this afternoon in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Burnett was a native of England, but had lived in this country the greater part of his life. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burnett.

Mr. Burnett leaves his wife, a daughter, Miss Fred Miller of Middletown, and a son Milton Burnett, of Worcester. For years Mr. Burnett was employed as a dresser tender at the mill in Dayville.

Wanted: A Good Samaritan

There is a chance for some good Samaritan to make a group of Danielson Boy Scouts very happy this week end and at the same time get a pleasant outing for himself. It so happens that tickets are available for fourteen boys to go from Danielson to the Brown-New Hampshire football game at Providence Saturday afternoon. These are furnished through the County Y. M. C. A. Scoutmaster Arthur Dupre said this afternoon. This afternoon, members of the Boy Scouts, feverishly anxious for the trip, appealed for some publicity that might interest some good-hearted automobile owner to take at least some of the boys that want to go to the game. The situation simmers down to this—if the boys do not get the transportation, they miss seeing the game, an enjoyment of what they look forward to as a glorious afternoon.

Electricity for So. Killingly

South Killingly is going to have electric lights! Manager William Sangster of the Eastern Connecticut Power company said this afternoon that poles for the construction of the line eastward a distance of two and a half miles from the junction of Stevens and Reynolds streets in Danielson to a point in the central section of South Killingly are being hauled in this week, and that the work of constructing the line will begin next week. The prospect is that South Killingly will have electric lights for Christmas, and that for those who wish kerosene and gasoline lights will be a thing of the past over there. South Killingly is the last of the communities in this town to be included within the realms of electric lighting service. While nothing has been heard about such a possibility, there is the chance that South Killingly residents may arrange to have a few street lights, something it does not now possess.

Henry Heriwell of Providence damaged his new car this afternoon when it nearly went headon into a large tree on the south side of Davis park. Chief John McFarland, who checked up the accident, said he understood that the accident was the result of the steering gear locking, causing the car to go out of control. A young man who was riding on the front seat with Mr. Horswell received a cut on the nose, probably from a broken windshield glass, and was taken across the street into the office of Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard for treatment. The damaged car was towed to a garage for repairs.

That a more even gas pressure may be maintained, especially during the noon hour, when the drain on the main is particularly heavy, the Eastern Connecticut Power company is to install a regulating and compensating device beneath the surface of South Main street, opposite the plant of Powdrell and Alexander. The pit has been excavated and concreted, and installation of the regulator will be made within a few days. This device, operating automatically, will at once increase the pressure in the low-pressure main servicing the Riverview section of Danielson, streets in the southerly part of the borough and even in the Broad street section, if it falls below the required pressure of from 5 to 6 inches. There is a high pressure main on the opposite side of the street from the low pressure main. The regulator will be installed between these two mains and connected with them. The device is expected to correct, even out at the end of the life, any situation heretofore existing that has resulted in an insufficient supply of gas to consumers at any time.

At the request of the Killingly Woman's club, the chamber of commerce will again take up the matter of finding a suitable building and the means of painting the name of this community on the roof of some structure in the interest of aviators flying over this territory. The chamber has a committee, appointed some time ago, to consider this matter, and its activities will now be revived.

Friday afternoon of this week members of the Roundabout club are to meet with Mrs. John A. Gilbert of Spring street.

As arranged certified public accountants this morning began the audit of the books of the town of Killingly. They are working at the offices of the selectmen in the town hall building.

Mr. and Mrs. Cosmer A. Young and daughter are to leave this week end for New Smyrna, Fla., where they will remain during the winter season.

Saturday of this week will bring to a close the annual roll call of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross.

Half the width of the new concrete bridge on the Danielson-Putnam highway at Attawaugan has been opened. The other side will be ready for use in the very near future. The new bridge replaces an old iron one that was located a few feet west of the new one.

Old-timers described today's beautiful fall weather as part of the real Indian summer, which, they assert, may be expected between Nov. 10 and 15 each year.

George C. Lavesque of Brattleboro is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

The body of Mrs Downing D. Smith, 85, who died Wednesday morning at Cleveland, O., is en route to Danielson and is expected here during Friday. Mrs. Smith was a daughter of John W. and Lilly M. Anderson Whipple and was born in Georgiaville, R. I. She leaves her father and a brother, Irving, of Colorado Springs. Col. Henry E. Anderson of Maple street is an uncle of Mrs. Smith.

CHAPLIN

The Ladies' Aid society annual supper and sale held at the Congregational vestry Tuesday evening was attended by a large number. Friends came from Willimantic Hamrton, North Windham and Scotland. Mrs. W. I. Copeland was in charge of the useful and fancy articles table. Mrs. Merritt Welch the handkerchief table, Mrs. Charles Perry the candy table and Miss Edith Welch the grab bag corner. All the tables were well patronized. The proceeds from the supper and sales will be about $100. A feature of the sale was the handkerchief table, a large number being given by friends in and out of town, together with money sent in which made the proceeds from this table about $50.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gallup and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moseley, of Scotland, Wilfred E. Burdick and family are now occupying the brick house recently purchased from B. M. Welch.

Cat and Rat Pals.

ORANGE, Mass.—(AP)—A cat owned by a woman here was discovered, she says, romping in friendly fashion with a rat in her cellar. Time has shown them to be regular pals, she asserts, but as a mouser the cat is a "dud."

REWARD DIVIDED BETWEEN TWO MASSACHUSETTS OFFICERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 15—One thousand dollars more was paid out today by the state of Connecticut and was charged to the prosecution account of the two Worcester youths Albert G. Raymond and Roland G Lalone convicted slayers of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson of Danielson barracks at Pomfret on the night of April 6th. This came when Judge E. M. Yeomans at a special session of Windham county superior criminal court awarded $500 each to Motorcycle Officer Raymond P Gallagher of the Springfield police department and Lieutenant Detective William P. Finneran of the Worcester police department in recognition of their efforts in securing evidence that placed the bandits in state's prison at Wethersfield to serve a life sentence for the murder of the Danielson police officer.

For many weeks past, there has been much interest in who would receive the reward offered by Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut. There were seven claimants, who filed application for the purse and three appeared in court this morning with counsel except for the two Massachusetts police officers, to fight their claim for them. Thomas L. Martin of Webster, a sedan confender was represented by Attorney Gengeneaux of Webster; Frank Spikowski of Webster was represented by Attorney Albert H. Cohen of Webster; Harold Lester of Willimantic was represented by Attorney John Harvey of Willimantic; while Lieut. Finneran, Officer Frank P Carroll, Mrs. Mary Hannifan and Officer Gallagher spoke in behalf of themselves.

The first to take the stand was Harold Lester, 15 year old Willimantic boy who figured in the trial of Lalone and Raymond a few weeks ago. Lester told of his selling gasoline to Raymond on the night of April 6th, and calling his attention to a number of bullet holes in the body of the car. He also told the court that he had identified the men at Springfield after their arrest in Worcester.

Officer Gallagher was the second to place his testimony before the court. The officer related his chase through the streets of Springfield on the night of April 6th, when he was fired upon by the bandits, wounded by the gunplay and thrown off the track. He told of his going to Dudley on the following morning, identifying the car as the one he had on the previous evening pursued and of his work in connection with the identifying gallery photos of three men alleged to have been the ones who fired at him. With Lieut. Finneran, a case was woven in the Grafton hill district of Worcester. Later Lieut. Finneran brought a number of suspects to the police station in Worcester of which Officer Gallagher identified both Lalone and Raymond as the ones who had fired at him.

Lieut. Finneran was the third to present his reasons for asking for the Connecticut purse because of his valuable work in the bringing of the men to justice. Lieut. Finneran said that soon after he learned of the bandit chase into Webster he at once suspected the "home talent" and he at once commenced an investigation in the Grafton Hill section of the city where Worcester's noted bad boys frequent. His information from Gallagher directed him to the homes of Lalone and Raymond, where he induced the youth's to mnd, where he induced the youths to come to the police station with a third suspect Arthur Cicuthier of Summer street, Gallagher was then directed to pick out two of the group as the ones that had shot at him. He was but a few minutes in the task and soon the men were taken into custody.

Officer Frank Carroll of the Worcester department working under Lieut. Finneran took the stand in his behalf told of being detailed to Webster where he assisted Lieut. Ross Urquhart of the Danielson barracks with finger print work, eliminating the tell-tale marks of those who removed the car from Dudley to Worcester and later secured the marks that were identical of Lalone and Raymond.

Thomas L. Martin of Webster a starter at the Acme Bus terminal who based his claim on the fact that he had obtained from Frank Spikowski information that "Spinnie" had taken two suspicious characters to Worcester on the night of the shooting of Officer Nelson. The description answered that of the bandits. Martin produced affidavits showing the work he had done. Chief of Police James H. Hetherman and Officer Roy Burns of the Webster police department testified in behalf of Martin's claim.

Mrs. Mary Hannifan of Springfield told of her giving the number 431,876, registration to the police on the night of April 5th, setting the police after the men who had terrified Springfield for nearly a week previous. She was commended for her work by Supt. of Conn. State Police Robert T. Hurley and was urged to apply for the reward by the Connecticut state police official.

Frank Spikowski, Webster taxi driver told of his driving the bandits to Worcester.

At the close of the hearing Judge Yeomans deliberated a few moments and announced that Officer Gallagher and Lieut. Finneran had performed the most meritorious work in the case and most meritious work in the case and would therefore share the $1,000.

The annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers association was held Wednesday afternoon at the Odd Fellows hall in this city. Many interesting agricultural subjects were dusated by leading farm instructors in the state. The most important incident of the meeting was the election of officers: Alexander Maitland of Thompson was elected the association's present for the coming year to succeed A. H. Amidon of Abington, and the following members were elected to fulfill the minor offices: Vice president, John Z. Labelle of Killingly; secretary, Whitman Danielson of Putnam treasurer, S. Howard Peckham of Woodstock Raymond E. Wing, county agent and Miss Marion A. Mills read the annual reports containing the year's accomplishments of the organization.

The roll call is being answered 100 per cent strong by the people of Putnam and it is purely evident that the local Red Cross chapter will go over the top in their drive for funds this year. Up until late Wednesday afternoon 237 members had been enrolled, with 72 of the total number of members being accounted for by a team of workers under the captaincy of Miss Jennie Willis. The drive was launched on Sunday, Nov. 41, and will continue for the balance of the week. The campaign is being conducted in the form of a house to house canvass, and invites every resident of the city to come to the support of the cause.

The members of the Putnam town school committee held the monthly session last evening at the law offices of Torrey and Geigler and acted upon the bills of the current month in addition to carrying on the regular business. The only act of importance was the announcement that the committee had decided to drop work on the Putnam high schol athletic field until the spring of the year.

The staff of the Day Kimball hospital will receive from the public their annual Thanksgiving offering. The institution each year begins to solicit for products of the countryside that have been reaped during the fall months from the gardens. The campaign for foodstuffs will be held on Nov. 22 and 13, and asks that a wide response be given to the Thanksgiving bags that will be circulated within a few days. The bags may be left at the vacant store on Pomfret street, neath the Bonnville clothing store. All of Eastern Windham county will be relied upon by the woman's board to support this cause that will bring relief to the suffering humanity of this part of the county.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin has issued a statement relative to the attendance of the school children for the month of October. The report indicates considerable increase over that of the previous month. Following is the attendance of the students of each instructor in the schools of the city according to the records established: Miss Abbie H. Keith, Putnam high school, 47 pupils 99.70; Belinda Snow, Putnam high school, 29 pupils 99.65; Angelina O'Flynn, Sawyer district, 27 pupils 99.48; Edith M. Kent, Putnam junio rhigh, 29 pupils 99.20; Bertha W. French, Sawyer district, 22 pupils 99.13; Elizabeth Smith, Putnam high school, 39 pupils 98.84; Marjorie McGillicuddy, Putnam high school, 37 pupils 98.51; Irene Bernier, Putnam high school, 32 pupils 98.40; Carrie B Gascoigne, Israel Putnam, 36 pupils 98.29; Sarah C. Barber, Putnam high school, 37 pupils 98.02; Lewis Battey, Israel Putnam, 46 pupils 97.60; Helen S. Dodge, Sawyer district, 32 pupils 97.59; Ruth D. Fallon, Smith street, 25 pupils 97.35; Jeane Jacques, Putnam high school, 35 pupils 97.20; Emma Dution, Israel Putnam, 45 pupils, 96 92; Lucy M. arrows, Israel Putnam, 31 pupils 96.90; Winnifred E. Duffee, Putnam Junior high, 28 pupils 95.70; Sara B. Kent, Israel Putnam, 39 pupils 95.02; Clara Gibson, Sawyer district, 22 pupils 94.82; N. M. Dion, Israel Putnam, 33 pupils, 94.37; M. Etta Whiting, Israel Putnam, 44 pupils, 94.20; Gertrude C. Warner, Israel Putnam, 36 pupils, 93.62; Beatrice C. Wilbur, Israel Putnam, 14 pupils 93.00; Ella I. Ballard, Smith street, 24 pupils 90.40.

Secretary L. Edwin Hill, of the Windham County Y. M. C. A., has completed arrangements for the boys trip to Providence Saturday noon, to attend the annual football classic between Brown university and New Hampshire state, at the Brown stadium. Mr. Hill issued the following statement this afternoon and to eliminate any last minute delays he urges the drivers of all automobiles to abide by them to the best of their ability. All cars will report at the Putnam high school ground at 11:45 a. m. Each car will be numbered and will take its place in line according to the number received. Through the courtesy of Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart of the Danielson state police barracks two state officers will be detailed to escort the gridiron pilgrimage to the Rhode Island state line, where Rhode Island state troopers will assume leadership of the posse to Providence, thus all traffic delays will be averted. The Putnam boys will have the best seats in the stadium as the county secretary announced this afternoon that they will have the reserved section at the east gate. All boys are warned to keep with their guardians, as the huge crowds may cause some youth to stray away and be detained in the city overnight.

Announcement was made today by the state fish and game commission that a fatal disease has spread among the English pheasants of Rhode Island and northern Connecticut and is wiping out the birds each day. The commission through its local authorities has urged huntsmen to cooperate with them in their analysis of the disease by sending all dead birds to the commission at Hartford where they will be examined by experts in an effort to locate the origin of the disease. Hawks have been drawn into the killing of the pheasants and one hunter has expressed himself as being of the opinion that a larger bounty on these birds of prey would eliminate much of the killing of the game birds.

A short calendar session of Windham county superior court will open at Putnam on Friday, Judge Yeomans announced today.

Chicken thieves that of late have been troubling the poultry keepers seemed to have turned their chickens to a more profitable business, that of stealing lumber from the rural districts. Wednesday evening Sergt. George Liard of the Putnam police was called on a wild chase through the countryside in an effort to locate a load of valuable lumber stolen from the Burrils district in East Putnam. A hunt was conducted for several hours through the district and surrounding places, but was fruitless.

Hyde Smith of Worcester was a Putnam visitor Thursday.

Some Time.

Some time we shall know why
Our sunniest mornings change to noons of rain;
And why our steps are shadowed so by pain;
And why we often lie
On couches sown with thorns of care and doubt;
And why our lives are thickly hedged about
With bars that put our loftiest plans to rout.

Some time we shall know why
Our dearest hopes are swept so swift away,
And why our brightest flowers first decay;
Why song is lost in sigh.
Why clasping fingers slip so soon apart—
Estrangement, space and death rend heart from heart,
Until from deepest depths the teardrops start.

Some time we shall know
Each other, aye, as we ourselves are known;
And see how out of darkness light has grown.
And He—who loves us so
Despite our wilfulness and blind complaint—
Will show us how His kind and calm restraint
Can mould a human soul into a saint.

Some time our eyes shall see
The silver lining to the darkest cloud,
While silvery echoes follow thunders loud.
Some time our hearts shall be
Content, forgetting all our restless mood,
And knowing everything has worked for good—
The how, and when, and why be understood.

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Bullet Teaches a Lesson.

By THOMAS W. BURGESS

Some lessons are by sorrow taught,
And some by pain are dearly bought.
—Old Mother Nature.

With their air rifles, two boys were having a wonderful time hunting Rusty the Fox Squirrel. To neither one of them did it occur that Rusty might not be having a wonderful time. To them it was a sort of game. But it wasn't a game to Rusty. To Rusty it was life or death. Twice he had been hit and he suffered as much from fright as he did from pain.

For a few moments Rusty had managed to remain hidden. The boys separated, looking through the treetops trying to locate him. They were some little distance apart when suddenly there was the stang of a bullet, followed by a yell of pain. It wasn't Rusty who was crying out. Twice Rusty had been hit, yet had made no sound. The one who had yelled was the boy who had first discovered him and had had such a good time shooting at him.

The other boy came hurrying up and his face was rather white. "Aw, say," he said, "it was an accident! I didn't mean to do it—honest, I didn't. The old rifle must have been pointing this way and I accidentally pressed the trigger. Does it hurt much?"

The other boy had pulled his stocking down and was looking at a black and blue spot on his leg. No real damage was done, but it had stung like the mischief at first and now it ached.

Meanwhile, Rusty had been forgotten. It was his chance and he took it. He slipped away and once he found that he wasn't being followed, how he did hurry. He didn't know what had happened. I suspect that if he had known, he wouldn't have been so very sorry. But he didn't know, so we do not know whether or not he would have been sorry. I fancy though that he would have said, "It serves him right. Now he knows what it feels like to be shot."

Presently the boy, finding he was not so badly hurt as he had thought he was, pulled up his stocking, picked up his gun and joined the other boy in hunting for Rusty. But he was only half-hearted in his hunting. Yes, sir, he was only half-hearted. Presently, he began to lag behind. He was doing a lot of thinking was that boy. "I wonder," said he to himself, "if when I hit that Squirrel it hurt him as much as that bullet hurt me. I suppose it did. Probably it hurt him more, because he is so much smaller. He was hit twice and I wonder if he is aching the way my leg aches. I'd never thought about those bullets hurting this way. I knew that Squirrel was scared, but somehow I didn't think of him being hurt. I guess hurting isn't as much fun as I thought it was. I guess I'll go home."

So this boy started for home, although he had brought his lunch with him and the two boys had planned to hunt together all day. The other boy couldn't understand it. He felt a little guilty because it had been his fault that his companion had been hit in the leg. But he didn't know the new thoughts that were going through the mind of his companion and he wouldn't have understood them if he had known them. So the boys parted, and it was a very sober-faced boy who tramped home, put his gun away and decided then and there that he could see no sport in frightening and hurting the little people in feathers and fur.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

TRUE PROSPERITY IN FOUND IN WHAT WE ARE.

(Written Especially For The Bulletin)

What a wonderful world this would be if we all of us had all the money we want!

For just about three days.

That's the least of time I assume it would take the world to discover that, since no one had to work hard to earn money, everybody would have to work hard just to keep alive.

For it's as certain as anything can be that if railroad men didn't need wages the railroads would stop running; and if merchants and clerks didn't need to earn money the stores would shut up; and if cooks and waiters didn't have to earn money the hotels and restaurants and bakeries would offer no service, and if coal miners didn't need to earn their living they'd stop digging coal for our furnaces and boilers, etc. etc.)

Even the golf courses would be deserted, for, if no caddies needed tips, who'd carry Old Pussyfoot's bag around for him?

It would take the slow-witted world just about three days, as I figure it, to discover that. If no one was compelled by his own needs to earn money for his own support, everyone would have to scratch gravel to keep soul and body together.

The farmer who now hires a man to plow and cultivate for him couldn't find anybody that needed such employment; the housewife who now thinks it easier to buy bread already baked and meat already cooked and vegetables already canned than to bake, cook and can herself, would find the bakeries and the groceries and the delicatessen places all padlocked, because there'd be nobody needing wages to work in them.

In other words, if nobody had to work for someone else for a living, everybody would have to work for himself to scramble up his own living.

As a cold matter of fact we don't any of us want everybody to be rich. What each one wants is to be rich enough, himself or herself, to be able to hire poorer and needier men to do the hard and dirty work which has got to be done.

Don't forget that truth, to wit, that much of the world's work is either painful or disagreeable, and that it has got to be done, nevertheless, either by ourselves for ourselves or by some one else for us.

And don't forget the logically following truth that, if no one else was in actual need of our wages for doing it, no one else would do it, and we should, perforce, find ourselves driven to it ourselves.

All of which means that the man who craves riches, craves them not for everybody but just for himself. He wants to be richer than those around him, so that he can hire them to do for him the things it's too much trouble to do for himself.

Right there comes in the perfectly natural result. No matter how rich he may be, no matter how much richer than anyone else he may be, there are some things he can't dodge or shunt over upon some one else's shoulders. He may be able to pay the best doctors the biggest imaginable fees, but he can't hire anybody to feel the stomachache which comes after a feast of caviare and pate de foie gras and pickled hummingbirds' tongues, nor the headache which wakes him to the cold gray dawn of the morning after the champagne supper.

It doesn't matter how rich he may be, he can never be rich enough to avoid all the miseries of life nor to have all the pleasures he wants out of it. The only really rich man is the one who is content with what he has. Or, as "Uncle Ike" used to put it: "If you can't have what you want, even it up by wanting what you have." In the old eastern tarable the happy man was not the king on his golden throne, clad in silks and velvets, but the beggar kicking up his heels in the summer sun outside the gates and without so much as a shirt to his back.

I own up to having been alternately amused and irritated by the dispute about "prosperity" waged on both sides during the recent election campaign. One side made a big hurrah about our national prosperity—and cited facts and figures to prove its reality. The other side called the alleged prosperity a myth—and cited facts and figures to show it up. Both side were right, in a measure and to a degree. Both sides were also wrong. And neither side was quite sincere nor even remotely logical.

If, as seems to be conceded, the manufacturers and merchants and traders are generally doing good business, they may reasonably be called prosperous. If, as it asserted, most of the farmers of the country are "just managing to live from hand to mouth," half smothered under mortgage blankets they can't lift, they can not reasonably be called prosperous. If the makers of automobiles are making money "hand over fist," they may be considered prosperous. If, on the other hand, the employes in New Bedford factories are compelled to accept a reduction of wages for the incontrovertible reason that the goods they make can't be sold for the wages they've previously had, then it is hard to see how they can feel prosperous.

Indeed, this whole question of prosperity is a purely relative one. It all depends; depends upon the individual's habits and wants. Give the Chinese laborer the wages which are regularly earned by the least important workman in the lowest paid industry of the United States, and the coolie would jump into the air with glee and feel as rich as a mandarin. Give some American captain of industry the wealth of a city and he'd next week want that of a state or the nation. Given that, he'd want the earth, and the moon, and, sooner or later, the whole solar system. Nor would he be happy till he got them. Probably not after he got them, either!

Years ago, when I was younger, even though no more charming, I used to make some of my friends smile by gravely stating that I wanted $475,000,000, no more and no less. They, the friends, put it down to youthful exuberance and exaggeration. It was nothing of the sort. It was a seriously reasoned out problem. I had seen several millionaires, even in those days, and I didn't find any one of them at all satisfied with his million or two. They all wanted more. So I reasoned that, if I had just a few beggarly millions, I should be like them, constantly pinched by lack of money to get all I wanted.

With $475,000,000, however, I figured that I could hire a steward to look after the fortune, and a private secretary to keep tabs on the steward, and a secret service agent to sleuth after both secretary and steward—and still have enough income to buy Rolls-Royces and ocean-going yachts and palatial private trains and mansions in the city and bungalows in the country and salmon fisheries in Alaska and elephant parks in Africa—and buy up all the old books, the rare or first editions, etc., which I hankered after.

Of course, I never got the $475,000,000—never really expected to. And, therefore, I've never been and am not now "prosperous" in the accepted meaning of that word. I'm just a poor old hayseed, marooned on a lonesome farm, back among the hills whose only luxury is a Ford sedan—and that given to him as a Christmas present years ago!

But, as my years have grown more and my teeth less, I've made some progress in mastering the art of contentment. Offer me that $475,000,000 today and I certainly should not refuse it. All the same, I just as certainly am not going to ask you for it, nor cry my eyes red because I can't get it.

It is possible to live on pork and beans as healthfully as on turkey and stuffing. If one can't afford guava jelly, applesauce can be substituted. If he can't pay for silk shirts, those of chambray will do very well. And plain "pearl" buttons (made out of celluloid) will fasten his wrist-bands quite as securely as diamond studded cuff links.

Ah, brethren and sisteren, it isn't what we actually need that makes us feel poor; it's what we think we want. There's no visible limit to what we want; there's a very narrow and nearby limit to what we really need.

Better is a dinner of herbs where contentment is, than a stalled ox and dissatisfaction therewith. So said Solomon, slightly altered to fit modern conditions. You and I will agree that a nice juicy, tender, well-broiled steak from a corn-fed steer is rather more tempting than a turnip salad. But if we can get the salad and can't get the steak, why grouch? A turnip salad is mighty filling, if you eat it slowly and enough of it. And you're never in less danger of an after dinner nap than from over-eating.

The whole point I'm trying to sharpen is that true prosperity consists not in what we have so much as in what we are. If we're wretched now, because we haven't got more, we should still be wretched even if we got that desired "more." For, no matter what it might be, it would never be quite enough.

For years, as a working farmer, I coveted a neighboring field. I didn't get it. Another fellow bought it. And now he's finding that he can't sell its products for the wages of his hired men. And he has to pay taxes on it, too. Which is better off, he or I?

We farmers have the reputation of being a badly discontended set. Well, there are lots of things to make us so. On the other hand, if we were as eager to catalogue our blessings as our ills, we'd find them making quite a merry list.

"Happy the man whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound;
Content to breathe his native air
On his own ground."

There's something in that besides rhyme and rhythm; something that might be called good sense.

THE FARMER.

Active People
want and need sugar

The "Fuel of Preference" in the body

AN EMINENT food authority recently stated that any person who has a very active body is likely to be always on the edge of the sugar reserve in his body (glycogen). "That is why," he said, "the soldier and athlete wants and needs sugar. That is why the active child wants and needs sugar." He went on to explain that sugar is the fuel of preference in the body, that sugar can be more easily and quickly converted into energy than any other food. He emphasized the fact that sugar should form a part of the regular diet of every family and that any reducing diet, as well as any other diet, should contain sugar.

The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of other foods. In that way, it serves the double purpose of furnishing energy to the body and also of adding appetizing delight to other healthful foods. Sugar added to healthful grain cereals makes them welcome and enjoyable to growing children. Think of how many health-giving fruits are objectionable to the taste without sugar. Scientists tell us that we need the daily roughage of salads as well as cooked fruits and vegetables. Any good cook knows that adding sugar makes all of these welcome and pleasant to the palate. In addition to being the best and cheapest fuel for the body, sugar is nature's perfect flavor. It makes nearly all other foods more enjoyable. For health and enjoyment, there is no substitute for sugar. The Sugar Institute.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Callers at Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Lewis and two children and his cousin and wife from New London; Joel Barber from Jewett City, Clifford Bugby from Lisbon, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Devolve and son and Mr. Pember from Plainfield, Joel Bitgood from Voluntown, Charles Stone from Hope Valley, Frank Stone from Bailey Pond, George Green and grandson from Eastern Voluntown and two gentlemen from Mystic that Mr. Bitgood knew.

James Church was in Jewett City Sunday, also he was in Voluntown recently to see his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Church.

Otis Remington of Sterling spent the week-end with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber, at Jewett City. Saturday night his cousin Joel took him to the movies at Norwich.

Miss Lizzie Maynard's and Mrs. William Bitgood's colds don't get much better. Mrs. Bitgood says she can stand the cold she has got better than being so lame. Some days she can hardly go.

John Stankovich and daughter Emily, were callers at Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's recently. Mr. Stankovich went to get lumber for his barn. He is building on his new farm in Moosup. Mrs. Bitgood was pleased to see Emily as she had not seen her in a long time. Mrs. Bitgood thinks she is a nice little girl and not only thinks so but knows so.

John Ray Barber of Escoheag Hill and his brother, Clay of Hope Valley, were to Mr. Bitgood's mill Monday with a big load of apples.

Mrs. William Bitgood had a letter from a New York party asking her what had become of Moses, her pet rooster. He is right with her and she has made a good old democrat of him. She once had a rooster that would crow for the president. When asked to crow for the president he would get up in your lap if her could, if not, get on a stone or fence, and crow. Moses is losing his feathers and doesn't look so good but he will get them back soon.

Mr. Hipeman of Beach Pond was at Mr. Bitgood's mill recently with a load of apples.

UNION

Rev. and Mrs. Henry A. Coolidge were in Greenwich, Fairfield county, last week, attending the 61st annual General Conference of Congregational Churches of Connecticut. They motored to Greenwich Wednesday, accompanied by Rev. H. C. Beebe of West Stafford and Rev. Frederick A. Balcom of Somers. They found the meeting, which they attended on Wednesday and Thursday, full of help. Rev. and Mrs. Coolidge were guests, Wednesday night in Stamford, of old friends and former parishioners whom they had known in New Hampshire.

The next meeting of Mashapaug Lake grange comes Wednesday evening, Nov. 21.

Thursday night, Nov. 8, after a day of rain, Union had its first snow storm. Some said it was deep enough snow to track a dog; others said it was deep enough to track a cat. Snow fell again Monday night, Nov. 12, not so much this time, but traces remained in shady spots till near noon the following day.

Mrs. Louisa Thayer has been ill and confined to bed, most of the time for about two weeks.

Educational week was observed here by evening sessions in Red school and Rock Meadow school Thursday, Nov. 8. Interesting exercises were held by the teachers, Miss Helen Carlson and Miss Grace Robinson, and their pupils. The evening was stormy, but a good number of parents and friends were in attendance at each school. They found their cars well blanketed with snow when they started to return to their homes.

Mrs. William Richardson and two little daughters of Brookfield, Mass., were guests of her sister, Mrs. Ralph A. Bradway, and family Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Ballou visited in Staffordville Sunday, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robertson and daughter, Miss Helen, of Monson, Mass., were guests Sunday of Mrs. Nelson Horton and family.

Mrs. Capitola Walker is having her house at Mashapaug painted.

The painting of the parsonage buildings began last week, starting with the house.

Miss Ina Hathaway of Staffordville was the week-end guest of her schoolmate, Miss Evangeline Horton.

Mrs. E. C. Barrows has been spending a few days with her daughter at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., also was a guest of relatives in New York.

Following the worst epidemic of house-breaking in recent Parisian history, there has been a vacation run on the municipal pawnshops of Paris, known as "mounts of piety." Before going on vacation, Parisians pawn their family jewels and silverware with the municipality, tuck the tickets in their pockets and leave the city without worrying about burglars. Officials estimated that 6,000 families used the pawnshops as safety deposits for family possessions this summer.

Prince, a three-year-old German police dog, has traveled about 8,000 miles in the last fourteen months—the self-appointed guardian of a paper delivery truck in Winston-Salem, N. C. No explanation can be given for the dog's traveling tactics except that he "likes to ride." One morning in June, 1927, Prince was at the truck loading platform. His owner agreed to let him accompany the driver on the regular morning delivery—a 100-mile drive to Statesville and return. Since then Prince has missed only one of the morning trips. Glenn Ray, truck driver and brother of the dog's owner, says that since Prince has been making the trips with him, he has had no trouble from people tampering with the truck or its cargo. The dog will allow no one to approach unless told to do so by Ray.

NEW SIREN WORKS WELL IN CHIMNEY ALARM THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 15—A practical demonstration of the working of the new siren of Westerly fire department was given shortly before 2 p. m., Thursday, when an alarm for Perkins avenue, Box No. 84, was turned in. The fire was in the chimney of the two-story frame house on Ella street, off Perkins avenue, near the site of the old Pond street trestle on the Norwich-Westerly electric road. The house is occupied by Mrs. Rose Gencarelli, who at the time was visiting at the home of Annunziato Kenna on Perkins avenue. Upon looking out from Perkins street, Mrs. Gencarelli saw a burst of flame from the chimney of her home, there being no one there at the time. She lost no time in turning in an alarm. Three pieces of apparatus with Chief Egger responded. Ladders were taken from the truck and a line of hose from the booster tank of the Ahrens-Fox pumper was carried up on the roof and directed into the chimney. No explanation could be given of the sudden burst of flame, but there were fires in stoves at the time on both the first and second floors. The chimney fire was put out without damage to the interior of the house.

NO SPECIAL MEETING OF FIRE DISTRICT NOV. 21

There will be no special meeting of Westerly Fire district as previously announced Wednesday evening, Nov. 21, to take action on the sale to the state of Rhode Island of a 15-foot strip of land of Westerly Fire district property, lying between the newly built station and the courthouse end of Westerly Town hall and extending from Union street to property of Christ Episcopal church. For this land, Representative Clifford W. Campbell of the Second Westerly voting district had obtained an offer of $3,000 in an act from the general assembly and was also a commissioner on its transfer without any supporting action by the Westerly Fire district. At the annual meeting of the Fire district held the last Wednesday in August a resolution to sell this strip of land to the state was voted, laid on the table and the meeting was ended abruptly by a false report of a fire in Bradford.

A meeting of the building committee on the Central Fire station headquarters was held in Westerly Town hall Tuesday evening and Chairman Campbell invited Fire District Clerk Burdick to state the requirements for a special fire district meeting. The committee was informed that a written application signed by 12 or more taxable inhabitants would have to be addressed to the clerk, who was then required under the district charter to have ten notices posted and the meeting advertised at least one week previous to the meeting. Attorney Dunn was then called on the telephone and requested to frame the application, which was delivered to Fire Chief George E. Egger, who turned the same over to Chairman Campbell. At the Tuesday meeting of the building committee, Chairman Campbell directed the clerk to proceed with the calling of the special meeting and assured him that the written application in proper form would be in his hands in the required time and the first call for the meeting was issued.

On Thursday noon the written application, without a signature attached, was remailed to Clerk Burdick, who had previously been told by Chairman Campbell that the requirements as to signatures would be fully met. The notice that no meeting would be held had already been announced by the clerk.

Contrary to published statement, "there is some question about the filing of the necessary petition, which, according to provisions of the Fire district charter, must be signed by 12 or more taxpayers of the district. It is probable that this petition will be filed later and that another date will be set for the meeting," there remained no question at all, for the written application was never filed as Mr. Campbell agreed. When the statement is added that the petition will probably be filed later, it remains almost an impossibility to get the more than a week's notice required, have the meeting held and have a deed or agreement for sale made or executed before the lapse of the appropriation on Nov. 30.

Mrs. Arthur Trotman is in Boston.

Fred I. Dana, who occupies a summer camp on Watchaug Pond, Charlestown, R. I., was in Westerly Thursday.

HAVE YOUR MONEY READY FOR RED CROSS CANVASSERS

Thursday, the second day of Westerly Red Cross roll call drive, a request was made by Chairman Karl G. Sullman that contributors have their money ready for the workers when they call at the homes. The public is being urged not only to take out memberships at the rate of $1 per year, but also to give additional sums if possible. The list of team captains in the outlying districts includes the following: Hope Valley, Mrs. Frank Fish; Carolina, Mrs. William Hinchcliffe; Shannock, Miss Harriet Clark; Alton, Isaac Wilson; Charlestown, Mrs. L. Mowry Schlesinger; North Stonington, Mrs. Harry Pendleton; Bradford, Mrs. Frank Ward.

Roll call headquarters are being maintained in Room 405 of the Washington Trust building. There Mrs. Frank Sherman, director of the women's teams, and Miss Elizabeth Haswell, treasurer of the campaign, distribute supplies and receive reports from the team captains. The office is open from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Injuries Prove Fatal

Frederick Saunders of New London, injured in an automobile accident in Lyme, Conn., Wednesday when struck by the auto driven by Frank L. Furness, proprietor of Elm Tree Inn, Pawcatuck, died Thursday morning. Furness was held after the accident by the state police on a technical charge of reckless driving to await the outcome of the injuries to Saunders. He was released at that time under $2,000 bail. Mr. Furness was on his way from Westerly to New York to attend a convention of hotel managers, when the accident occurred. He was alone at the time.

The funeral of Mrs. Filomena Rittacco, wife of Patsy Rittacco, was held Thursday morning at 8:30 from her home, 24 Tower street. At 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was sung at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., who also read the committal service at St. Sebastian cemetery, where burial took place. The bearers were Louis Truglio, Peter Rittacco, Frank Jacobson, Miphel Murano, Thomas Murano, and John Murano.

Plans were gone over Wednesday night for winter activities at a meeting of the Mens club of Pawcatuck Congregational church. It is hoped to have a speaker from out of town at the next meeting, to be held on Dec. 12. The club was entertained by songs by William Hair Smith. These numbers were followed by singing by the club, after which refreshments were served.

STRAW RIDE TO LEDYARD FOR CHICKEN PIE SUPPER

The Hill and Hill club members had a straw ride to Ledyard Wednesday, leaving their rooms on Cove avenue, in a large truck loaded with hay and with 20 aboard. They had horns and cow bells. They reached Ledyard just in time for the chicken pie supper. Table No. 2 was all ready with two large jars of flowers in the center. On came the chicken and it looked like 1-2 a ton. Soon the members made it disappear. Then that pumpkin pie from a pumpkin raised by Billie Burton who knows all about pumpkins and pumpkins came from his farm. The pumpkin pie was great, with coffee. Then over to Grange hall to see the dance.

The Zim Bang orchestra of Mystic played for 200 dancers during the evening. One Social Corner member could not see how the square sets went, she got into one and had the set all mixed up. It was like looking for your great grandmother at rush hour in the big city. During intermission when the orchestra went to have their cake and cider the Starr sisters, Beulah and Elenor put on a one act play "In a Newspaper Office on a Busy Day" The dance fans had a great laugh over the act and the sisters got called back twice and sang, as Miss Gladys Fluett played the piano. Miss Virginia Latham told about her trip to Paris and what the style is to be in 1928—short dresses, no stockings, fancy ear rings. She said that Paris was a beautiful city but good old U. S. A. for her every time! She talked for twenty minutes and was given a real ovation. The club members returned to the village as the farmers were going out with their pails to milk the cows.

Eddie Mahoney is in New York for a few days.

Found Pearl in Oyster

Mrs. C. Smith was opening oysters at her home on East Main street, getting ready for a Noank oyster stew, when she found a pearl in an oyster, as her knife hit it. Putting it on the shelf until she finished, she got a good look at the pearl. It was large as a pea and perfectly round. She doesn't know how much it is worth. She will take it to a jeweler's shop this week and see about it. Mrs. Smith said "I have opened over one thousand oysters in my days but never have found a pearl in an oyster before! I've always looked for one."

The funeral of Thomas Lawler, who died in Springfield, Mass., was held Tuesday morning. He was a summer visitor in the village for seventeen years and always liked Noank and the salt water. He was well liked by all and will be missed on Elm street by the neighbors. The bearers at his funeral were Frank Carpenter, John Donavan, Patrick Moore, Clarence Marsh, Edward Ward and John E. Daley.

Out Goes All Rheumatic Poison

Torturing Pains and Swollen Joints Quickly Vanish

If you suffer from agonizing rheumatic pains, swollen inflamed joints and suffer intensely it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that make thousands helpless and kills hundreds years before their time.

If you want quick, safe relief take one teaspoonful of Rheuma night and morning. From the first day you will realize that when Rheuma goes in rheumatic agony goes out.

Rheuma helps to force the dangerous poisons out of the system in the natural way—that's the secret of its success.

Rheuma will absolutely stop your rheumatic suffering or it will cost you nothing. Just step into Lee & Osgood & Co., and ask for a bottle of RHEUMA, for they and druggists everywhere sell it with a positive guarantee of money back if it does not rid you of all rheumatic misery.

FLORISTS PUT TABOO ON SUNDAY FUNERALS

JACKSONVILLE Fla.—(AP)—Jacksonville florists want to close up shop on Sundays and have therefore gone on record as favoring the abolishment of funerals on the Sabbath.

At a recent meeting of the Jacksonville Florist club action advocating the Sunday funeral taboo was taken, the florists claiming they have support in the movement from undertakers and the Jacksonville Ministerial Alliance.

Florists and undertakers complain they have no holidays because of the custom of holding Sunday funerals officers of the club declare.

French railroads wish to cut down the number of occasions when their trains are required to blow whistles.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A motion picture without a "heavy"! A Zane Grey special at that! Such a picture was produced by Paramount and is now showing at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow in conjunction with five selected acts of excellent vaudeville.

Jack Holt has the featured lead in this villainless picture and Nancy Carroll is his leading lady. John Boles takes the part which, in the ordinary picture, would be that of the heavy. Instead of being a villain, however, Boles portrays a clean-cut young fellow whose worst crime is to want to marry the same girl whom Holt admires. There is a very real menace in the picture, however, that of the merciless desert.

The lack of a two gun villain is not the only different thing about this Zane Grey picture. The outstanding feature, perhaps is the sequences filmed in technicolor.

The exquisite wardrobe prepared for Miss Carroll, is another feature. The heroine of "The Water Hole" does not wear the trappings of a cow girl or frontier belle. Instead she takes the part of a society girl with all of the wardrobe that an unlimited pocket book can supply.

"The Water Hole" is a sophisticated story of modern life with much of the action centering around a fashionable home in a big eastern city. The thrills of action in the far west are not lacking, however. The spirit of Zane Grey's popular story is captured with remarkable fidelity in this production.

F. Richard Jones directed the picture which includes in its cast Ann Christy, Harold Lloyd's leading lady in "Speedy," and Montague Shaw.

Burton's Agency Sells Another

James and Betsy S. Hartley of New Haven have sold their property located at 124 McKinley avenue to Warren and Ella Willey of this city who will occupy it as their home.

The house contains 8 rooms and has all modern conveniences.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

Broadway Theatre

"State Street Sadie" the Warner Bros.' crook melodrama which can be seen at the Broadway theatre, heightens its thrills with Vitaphone to the point when audiences literally grip their seats and hold on. There is not only the stirring accompaniment of symphonic music. In tense moments the characters burst into staccato speech.

The picture recounts the aftermath of the murder of a policeman by a gang of bank robbers. A weakling, becoming implicated in the murder, commits suicide. His brother, returning from South America, makes it his business to enter the underworld, to find the assassin.

In this endeavor he meets a girl known as "State Street Sadie," daughter of the slain cop. Sadie does not know what to make of the newcomer, being for a time both in love with him and mystified as to his real status. He and the other denizens of gangland are quite as much in the dark about Sadie herself. Grim and hair-raising adventures cram the story as it sweeps on to its amazing climax.

Melville Crosman did the piece and the adaptation is by E. T. Lowe, Jr. The cast includes Conrad Nagel, Myrna Loy, William Russell, Georgie Stone and Pat Hartigan. Archie Mayo directed. At the Broadway theatre, "State Street Sadie," with Vitaphone accompaniment and sequences.

St. Mary's

The cast of this play, The Yokohama Maid, includes both those who belong to St. Mary's Players and those who do not. It is a good cast and one which will please all who witness this show. Most everyone likes good music. You will find it in this play. People like good comedy; there is plenty of that too. The costumes will be worth seeing alone. All are hand made. It is safe to say that The Yokohama Maid will be one of the prettiest and liveliest plays that this city has seen. Do not fail to see it. Seats are going rapidly. Secure yours early.

Oakland Auto

An enthusiastic, nation-wide reception has been accorded the new Oakland All-American Six since its introduction a week or two ago, according to W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car company.

Although shipments and driveaways are going out of Pontiac, Mich. with the greatest possible haste to keep dealer deliveries up to schedule, the unprecedented number of purchasers won to the new line will undoubtedly keep production facilities of the company humming at peak volume well into 1929, Mr. Tracy estimated.

Mechanical refinements in the new line, the Oakland sales executive stated, are being reflected in orders to almost as great an extent as the original and unique style of the car. This, Mr. Tracy explained, denotes a further advance in the valuegiving resources of the large motor car manufacturer.

"In the formative days of the industry," said Mr. Tracy, "a common belief was that the automobile builder gave the public either style or performance. He couldn't do both. If he concentrated on one feature he had for the sake of economy to skimp on the other. "Today precision manufacturing and mass production make possible a combination of style and performance undreamed of in the old days.

"In the new Oakland we strove to create body lines and general outward appearance of distinctive beauty and smartness. But we also endeavored to endow the line with outstanding performance. The degree of success we attained is shown by admiring comments on the smartness and distinction of the cars made in dealer showrooms throughout the country and by the enthusiasm revealed by those thousands of motorists who already have taken the wheel of the latest All-American.

"Several years were required to develop some of the mechanical features incorporated in the car. The Experiment Department of our organization has been at work over a long period testing and proving every part of the chassis. Better than a million miles were run up on the General Motors proving ground by Oakland test cars to perfect the finished product.

Piano Recital at College

A piano recital offered to the public free of charge is to be given this (Friday) evening at Connecticut college by Wm. Bauer of the college department of music.

The programme:

Caprice (Gluck-Saint-Saens); Andante, (Brahms); Moment Musical, (Schubert-Godowsky); Sonata in B-flat minor, (Chopin); Two Concert Etudes, (Aurelio Giorni); Andaluza, (de Falla); Marche, (Prokofieff); Juba, (Nathaniel Dett); Waltz from Nalla, (Dohnanyi); La Companella, Liszt).

State Trade School, Putnam

The total enrollment at the state trade school in Putnam at present is 570 in all classes.

In looking over the work carried on as a part of the subject matter in the teaching of the various trades one is impressed with the variety of projects met with in the various departments. Some of these projects are as follows:

Drafting department. Drawing of house plans and alterations to warehouses and manufacturing establishments, and preliminary sketches for prospective builders, this work of course, is confined to the more advanced architectural drafting work. The major portion of drafting instruction deals with related drafting rather than drafting as a trade and covers the various phases of mechanical drawing through to machine design for the machinist, electrical design and estimating for electricians, house planning and material estimating for carpenters, and so through the list of trades.

In the electrical department boys are carrying on various projects in house wiring, a recent job completed being the wiring of Woodstock academy gymnasium. The rewinding of motors is being developed satisfactorily, this type of work requires considerable training in skill and patience. The boy who masters motor rewinding must first master himself which is perhaps quite as important as any trade performance. You may find anything in the nature of electrical work being done in this department from the repairing of a flat iron and rebuilding and recharging of batteries to elementary design for power plant installation. This practical work serves as a definite check on theory and is a type of experience tending to reinforce book learning.

The Carpentry Department presents a scene of activity with nearly 30 boys enrolled under two instructors and work being carried on in a variety of carpentry jobs from the building of radio cabinets to the designing and building of dwelling houses. Just at present the carpentry boys are completing a veranda and sunporch addition on South Main street, this city. This work is nearing completion and has been a valuable experience in planning and building.

Machine department activities cover a wide range of regular machine experiences and the course is outlined to train the boy in a thorough understanding of the work he will be called upon to do when he goes into industry. Machine graduates show a high average of success in their chosen work. One will find in this department experiences running from the filing of a rough casting to the use of sine bar for determining accurate angle measurements and use of buttons for locating of holes to accurate dimensions such as required in precision tool making. Much of this work must be performed within a degree of accuracy of one-half of one thousandth of an inch and in some cases permissible variation is even less than this amount.

Masonry classes are considerably larger this year and are kept busy with various forms of masonry projects including plastering and concrete work, the major activity, however, being brickwork. Much instruction of a practice or exercise nature must be carried on in this department as it is impossible to get outside projects which will give the necessary range of experience to the boy. However, it is possible through the cooperation of those interested in the school's program to secure considerable brick work and plastering for building projects which are proving very beneficial experience to the boys in this department.

While the day classes in textile department have been suspended, evening classes in loom fixing and cloth analysis and design are being carried on with a splendid enrollment and good attendance.

Home Economics work as related to the high school and in regular trade form is running somewhat higher than last year, there being 14 regular all day trade girls and some 35 cooperatives.

The school carries on athletics during regular athletic periods each week, and engages in baseball and basketball games with various schools in this district.

VOLUNTOWN

SCHOOLS DOING GOOD WORK— RECENT HEALTH EXAMS

In the Center school, Voluntown, there was a noteworthy list of pupils who had 100 per cent attendance in upper grade room during October. They were: Beatrice Des Champs, Paul Laine, Raymond Frink, Helen Magrey, Helvi Hohn, Arlene Downing, Joseph Sheldon, John Herbert, Margaret Brand, Catharine Brand, Lillie Ranta, Mary Rondeau, Rosella Vincent, Henry Vincent, Anna Macomber, Hazel Macomber, Joyce Dupont, Alfred Vincent, Sarah Goldberg, Marion Fletcher, William Macomber. Mrs. Floyd Ray is their teacher.

Pupils having perfect attendance in the primary room, during October, were: Evelina Boulanger, Fabiola Boulanger, Rena Gravlin, Esther Gravlin, Marjorie Leroux, Isabel Rice, Shirley Rice, Mary Ellen Vincent, Joseph Brand, Gerald Boucher, Wilfred Boulanger, Julius Goldberg, Donald Herbert, Orville Herbert, Clarence Macomber, George Murphy, John Murphy. The teacher is Mrs. Ella Tanner.

Dr. Allen Ireland, head of the physical education department of the state, has completed the health examinations of the children in Wylie and the Center schools. He was assisted by Miss D. Doolittle, R. N.

American Education week was observed at the Center school. Special programs were given Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Friday afternoon the children gave a demonstration lesson on the workings of the problem method, the modern method of teaching in the state today.

Regular monthly fire drills have been held and the school can be completely vacated in two and one-half minutes.

Miss Lucy B. Madison, 43, died at her home near this village Monday morning. She was the daughter of Henry and Ella Malbouss Madison and has lived in this section nearly all her life. She is survived by several brothers and sisters and leaves many friends.

The Voluntown band, Eino Karjalo, leader, gave a concert at Canterbury Saturday last.

In the recent election, a large vote was cast for this town. There were 248 qualified voters and 218 of them cast their ballots. All seemed to know their business, as there was not one ballot rejected by the official counters.

Armistice day was noted in town Sunday by the flying of Old Glory at many homes.

Louis N. Selway of Providence, R. I., and Peter Selway of Hartford spent the week-end visiting relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Desrosier of Pawtucket were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Desrosier.

Mrs. Elisabeth Barr spent the past week at the home of her daughter in Middletown, Conn.

MARKET OPENED STRONG, WAVERED, THEN ADVANCED IN THE AFTERNOON

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(AP)—The stock market followed an erratic course today, opening with considerable strength, wavering during the morning, then pounding forward in the afternoon. Trading slackened considerably, and there were long stretches when sales were largely in lots under 300 shares, indicating that the big operators were marking time or distributing their holdings to the public.

Apprehension of an increase in federal reserve loans of as much as $100,000,000 was a sobering influence during the morning, but it was rumored during the afternoon that the figures would be pleasantly surprising, as they were, showing a negligible increase of but $1,849,000. This small increase, despite the series of 3,000,000 share days, reflected a falling off in new financing, and indicated larger investment buying and borrowing through banks which are not members of the federal reserve.

The figures showed a sharp drop in loans by New York banks for their own account, which nearly offsets increases in loans for the account of others and for out of town banks. Call money renewed at 6 per cent but was raised to 6 1-2 after midday as banks called $200,000,000 to meet mid-month requirements. Bankers do not look for any substantial tightening of money rates until Thanksgiving, when the holiday requirements will begin to make themselves felt.

There was little in the day's news to affect the market, save possibly a further hardening in steel prices. The small increase in brokers loans, the fairly stable credit conditions, and the ability of the market to absorb the heavy selling of the past few days generally tended to inspire confidence.

Total sales were 4,749,700 shares, in contrast to 5,426,800 yesterday. The ticker closed at 3:49, the earliest this week. The Associated Press average prices of 20 industrials and 20 railroads showed fractional increases.

Nearly 30 issues again broke into new high ground, a number of extreme gains running from 4 to 10 points. Steels, motors, coppers, and merchandising shares made fair progress, and a number of specialties made wide gains. U. S. Steel fractionally increased its high mark, and carried Bethlehem up 3 points to a new peak. A. M. Byers rallied 7 points.

Montgomery Ward lost 5 points during the morning, but was later bid up 10 points for a 5-point net gain. Sears Roebuck sold down more than 5 points at one time, but regained part of its loss. Radio sold down 4 points, but rallied and closed 2 points up. Kolster went ahead on rumors of a merger with De Forest, but later reacted.

Westinghouse Electric was a strong feature, soaring more than 10 points to a new record price at 139 1-4, and General Electric made a moderate gain. A number of new favorites were pushed vigorously forward. City Stores B, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Electric Autolite and National Supply, mounted 3 to 7 points to new peaks. Tobacco shares also forged ahead. American Tobacco and Lorillard gaining 3 and 4 points.

Motors generally were stronger. Packard stepped up 4 points to a new top, while General Motors and Chrysler rallied. In the coppers, Kennecott and Andes surged up over 4 points to record prices, while Greene Cananea gained over 2 points. Oils were inclined to heaviness, Phillips and Standard of New Jersey slightly extending their gains, the nessing. Sun Oil spurted 8 points to a new peak, then lost much of its gain.

Rails and utilities were firm. Public Service of New Jersey and Northern Pacific reached new high ground.

Abraham and Straus, American International and Commercial Solvents all suffered net losses of about 2 points after touching new tops. Union Tank Car fell 3 points, while Du Pont, and International Harvester closed about 3 points lower.

The commodity markets were steady, cotton encountering trade buying on favorable news from abroad.

Foreign exchanges were steady, sterling regaining yesterday's loss.

EKONK

(Sterling Hill)

Rev. C. S. Nightingale observed Armistice day Sunday with a special sermon. He read the Peace Pact of Paris. Mrs. Harold Barber sang Kipling's recessional, "Lest We Forget." Clyde Leach sang "If I were a voice." There was two minutes silent prayer for world-wide peace. At the close of the service all over 16 signed a petition endorsing the peace pact.

At Ekonk Armistice day was observed Sunday. The Lord's supper was administered.

The newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barber attended church on Sterling Hill Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Frink entertained the Ladies' Aid society Tuesday, 12 being present. Blocks were pieced for a quilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Congdon were recent callers at Benjamin Gallup's in South Voluntown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holmes and three children and Mrs. Simmons of Willimantic were Sunday visitors at George Tanner's.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Slocum of Westerly spent Saturday and Sunday at their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Chesebro of Glasgo visited Mrs. Mary Sayles and attended church at Ekonk.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Gallup and son, Russell, attended a meeting of the Liberty club in Pachaug Monday evening.

Thomas McKenzie and son Julian of Westerly were callers at Mrs. Byron Gallup's Tuesday.

Charles Russell Tanner's three sons from Willimantic helped him celebrate his sixth birthday Sunday. He had three birthday cakes with lighted candles and many other gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Bishop tranmoted business in Norwich Tuesday.

WILLIMANTIC

Frank C. Smith of 236 Prospect street and Mrs. Mary Weina, R. 1-2 Bellevue street, were united in marriage at the latter's home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Harold H. Critchlow of the Methodist church. The attendants were Mrs. Albert Spellman and Edward L. Smith, a brother of the bridegroom. The ceremony was witnessed by some 20 guests from South Willington, North Windham and this city. The bride received many useful and beautiful gifts. After a wedding trip to Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 31 1-2 Bellevue street.

Michael Coristy, one of the survivors of the Vestris disaster, who were landed safely in New York, is a cousin of Eddie John, local merchant. Mr. Coristy was coming to this country from his native land, Syria. He has other friends in this city, some of whom went to New York to greet him.

RUFUS JAEGER
Who Died November 16, 1907

Twenty-one years ago today
Our loved one passed away.
He leaves a vacant chair and empty place
Since we last looked on his dear face.
Many a heartache and silent tears
We've shed through these long, lonely years.
May we place our faith in God on high
And pray that he'll guide us bye and bye.
HIS MOTHER AND FATHER.

MEXICO'S NEW HEAD PLEDGES AID TO ROADS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President-elect Emilio Portes Gil of Mexico plans to continue the policy inaugurated by President Calles encouraging the early completion of the Pan-American highway which would link all the countries of North and South America.

"It is my personal belief that highways are an economic necessity for every nation," the president-elect said in a message to members of the American Road Builders' association, "and I shall do all within my power towards the construction of Mexico's part of the Pan-American highway.

"The completion of such a highway, which would permit the tourist from the United States and Canada to visit comfortably our country, and our people to visit the countries to the north of us, would be of inestimable value toward cementing a stronger bond of friendship between the nations," President-Elect Gil said.

The Mexican government plans to send a large delegation to the American Road Builders' association convention at Cleveland in January to participate in a conference on the development of the Pan-American highway, and to obtain data on American road engineering.

PLANTS ON BOTH COASTS TO BE LINKED BY PLANE

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—By flying an airplane he is building, Dr. Walter M. Cross, chemist and operator of laboratories in Kansas City, New York and Los Angeles, expects to save $50,000 a year in time and expense in travel between his three plants.

The craft, a monoplane with 47 feet of wing span and two air-cooled 125-horsepower engines was designed by Walter H. Barling, builder of the Barling bomber, but it embodies Dr. Cross's own ideas, and the wing section was designed by Dr. Cross.

The Cross monoplane is attracting attention because of its rather unusual design. It is nearing completion in the factory of the American Eagle Aircraft company here. Its estimated cost is $17,500.

The pilot will sit in the extreme forward part of the fuselage and behind him, under the wing, will be a cabin seating six persons. The ship will carry a gasoline supply of six hours' flying. Weighing 1,800 pounds it will have a high speed of 125 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 110 miles.

The machine will be displayed at the international aeronautical exposition in Chicago the first week in December.

BELL WARNS VILLAGERS AS CHURCH TIME NEARS

NOANK, Conn. (AP)—A quaint old New England custom still persists here after more than 70 years.

On Sunday morning before the heyday of the automobile, the church goers notified by the tolling of the church bell at nine o'clock that they had an hour in which to drive with horse and buggy and reach church in time for services at 10 o'clock.

The Baptist church here still holds to the old custom and regularly on Sunday mornings the countryside is warned at 9 o'clock by the ringing of the bell that services will begin in an hour.

PROMOTIONS EARNED BY 85 FLYING CADETS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)—Eighty-five flying cadets who have completed their six-month junior pilot's course have entered on the four months of intensive training provided by the United States army air corps at Kelley Field for army pilots.

Thirty-nine cadets were transferred from the primary flying school at Brooks field here, while the others were graduated from the primary school at March Field, Riverside, Cal. Cadets successfully completing the advanced course at Kelley Field are commissioned as second lieutenants in the army air corps reserve, some of them filling vacancies in the regular service.

RED HEAD ESSENTIAL TO JOIN THIS FRAT

MADISON, Wis.—(AP)—Red-headed Christians of the white race with acceptable social status, and who are not on probation" are wanted on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Rho Epsilon, Delta Red—the fraternity or red heads is the latest Greek letter organization at the state school. Both men and women are eligible.

The shade of red matters not, so it just beyond the border of henna, through sorrel, wet clay, maple apple, to and including red flannel.

BACK TO NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL FOR GLEBE, HELD AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—Frank Glebe, evidently a degenerate, formerly of Norwich Town, where he was employed as a farm hand, who was presented in the Waterford town court yesterday, charged with attempting to wreck a New Haven railroad train, is now a prisoner at the county jail. He will escape a jail sentence for his act, however, for he will be committed to the Norwich state hospital, within a few days.

That Glebe has a criminal brain, there is not the slightest doubt, for his commission of acts that brought about his arrest, together with the fact that he has already spent considerable time in asylums, make it apparent that he is not a safe man to be at large.

Glebe was arrested by Special Agent F. L. Peabody, of the railroad police Tuesday night when found standing near a 300-pound draw bar, which he had placed across the west-bound tracks of the railroad. He said that he had often seen in the movies attempts made to wreck trains and desiring to see a real wreck, he placed the draw-bar on the tracks. Glebe had been complained against to Peabody, who is also a Waterford constable, by women and young girls, who declared that Glebe had exposed his person. It was while searching for Glebe on this charge that he was found on the tracks, near East Minor lane, a Waterford highway that runs from the Boston Post road to the tracks. A check up of Glebe's record reveals that he was committed to the Norwich state hospital in 1924 upon petition of Selectman William S. Murray of Norwich, after Glebe had exposed himself to females. He escaped Aug. 6, 1925. Glebe also spent two years at Titlen, a state farm for inebriates at Bridgewater, Mass.

FUNERAL

FREDERICK C. SAUNDERS DIES FROM HIS INJURIES
(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—Frederick C. Saunders, 67, of 3 Howard street, who was struck by an automobile driven by William Furnace, proprietor of the Elm Tree Inn, Westerly, in Lyme yesterday, died this morning at Lawrence-Memorial hospital of his injuries, principal of which was a fractured skull. Saunders, who was a peddler of teas, coffee and spices, was returning to his automobile from a house where he had delivered his sales. In crossing the highway the automobile driven by Furnace and traveling at a high rate of speed struck Saunders. When assistance reached Saunders he was unconscious and bleeding from the ears and nostrils. He was rushed to the hospital but never regained consciousness. The state police at Centerbrook are making an investigation.

Joseph Santamgelo, 225 Columbus avenue, Pittsfield, Mass., was arrested last night by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Dennis Murphy on a warrant issued by the Pittsfield police charging him with non-support. Today Officer John McNaughton, Pittsfield police department, came to New London and took the prisoner back to that city for trial.

Ferdinand Winzen, Main street, Old Lyme, was in the police court today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, passing a motionless trolley car, passing a traffic signal that was set at danger and driving without having a registration in his possession. The three last named charges were nolled and on the other charge, an amendment to the complaint was made, charging Winzen with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs.

Edward Hume, charged with non-support has his case continued until Dec. 15. He was arrested on a warrant last night by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith.

TWO UNDESIRABLES GIVEN CHANCE TO LEAVE TOWN
(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—Jeanette Watson and Fern McHale, who had been in New London but a few days, were arrested last night at Plant hall where a dance was in progress, charged with vagrancy. A penalty was not imposed by the court for the girls were given an opportunity to leave town or go to jail and they readily accepted the former.

Roger Galbois, Lowell, Mass., was charged with train riding and was given suspension of judgment. Galbois was detected stealing a ride on a New Haven railroad freight last night and was arrested by railroad police.

Mrs. Joseph Williams and Mrs. G. H. Williams gave a miscellaneous shower at the latter's home in Huntington street last night, for Miss Ruth Williams, who is to become the bride of John H. Shea, Jr., Saturday.

POLICE OF DARIEN FIND STOLEN CAR AND THIEVES
(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—Larsen Hildreth, 26, of West Warwick, R. I., Francis Sullivan, 20, of Holyoke, and Albert Boville, 25, of Providence were arrested early this morning by the police of Darien, charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to John S. Cafaro of 223 Poquonoc road, Groton. Detective Sergts. Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh went to Darien this morning and returned with the prisoners late this afternoon. Cafaro parked his car on Huntington street last night about 8 o'clock and after being away from it for about half an hour returned to find it missing. He reported his loss to the police. A general alarm was sent out and this morning about 2:30 o'clock the police of Darien telephoned the local department that they had the thieves and had taken possession of the car.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of drivers' licenses of Charles A. Reeves, 31 Lower boulevard; Deise Brouillard, 77 Crystal avenue; Nelson Whidbee, submarine base, and A. Dennison Smith of Waterford. A license to Max Yavener of 15 Perry street was ordered returned by Commissioner Stoeckel.

Mrs. Frank Mix entertained members of the Faire Harbour club at the club rooms yesterday afternoon. Plans for Christmas activities were discussed and at the conclusion of the business meeting refreshments were served.

When Mr. and Mrs. William R. Canty of Colver street entertained a group of friends the other night, the winners of prizes at bridge were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton F. Small, Mrs. Thomas R. Cook and Howard T. Pierce.

Miss Anna Rubin of New Haven will become the bride, Saturday morning, of Robert Rappaport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rappaport of Ocean Beach. The ceremony will be performed in New Haven.

At the weekly bridge party of the Martha Winthrop club, yesterday afternoon, three tables were in play. Members of the W. W. Perkins Woman's Relief corps were entertained yesterday afternoon by Miss Olive Turner of Waller court.

The New London Day nursery will have its annual donation day Saturday next, and members of the committee in charge will be at the rooms all day to receive donations of canned goods, groceries, preserves, etc.

An art exhibit being held by Roger Dennis, local artist, has attracted wide attention.

Cecil P. Calkins of this city has been awarded patent rights on a new type of crop cultivating machine which he has invented. It is claimed that the invention is a great improvement to land cultivation by tractor.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL STARTS WITH PROMISE OF SUCCESS
(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—New London chapter, American Red Cross, is making an active drive in the annual roll call of the organization which began this week. More than 200 women are making a canvass of the city, soliciting membership fees from individuals and organizations. Every indication so far is for the success of the drive. It is expected that more contributions will be received this year than at any time since the World war. Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, wife of Admiral Carr and a former resident of Norwich, is chairman of the drive committee.

YOUNG NEW YORK CROOKS TAKEN BACK TO GOTHAM
(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 15—John Biele, 15; Philip Cassare, 14; Jack Marziana, 15, and William Cassare, 13, all residing at the Bronx, New York, arrested here yesterday by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray, charged with the theft of an automobile, were taken back to that city this afternoon by two officers who came to New London to take charge of the prisoners. Particularly they wanted Biele, who already has a police record in New York, having been sentenced to a reformatory and had been at liberty on parole. The New York officers declare that Biele is a "student" for a gang of criminals and that he will be committed to a reformatory for a long term because of his more recent criminal activity.

The New London police yesterday afternoon received a telephone message from the patron of a lunch room at Lyme, that four youths who had patronized the place, were driving toward New London in a New York auto, a Nash sedan, and he had reason to believe that the car was stolen. He also gave the police the markers, N-68005. The traffic officers were given instructions to be on the lookout for the auto and Automobile Patrol Officer Ray went to lower Bank street to watch for incoming cars. He had waited but a short time when he observed the car he was looking for approaching. Biele was driving and was given a signal to stop. When the car came to a standstill, Biele leaped from the front seat and fled south. Ray had three of the prisoners and he decided to keep them, but he also decided to attempt the capture of Biele. The officer hastened to the seat behind the wheel and started the engine, but by the time the car started, Biele was out of sight. The auto was driven through streets in the vicinity of where Biele alighted, but the youth was not found. The officer then drove to the Boston Post road and in Waterford he observed Biele, walking along the highway. The youth was grabbed and placed in the car and the four thieves were locked up at police headquarters and held until the arrival of the New York officers today.

BEQUESTS IN BLACKSTONE WILL OF $280,000 TO NORWICH RELATIVES

(Special To The Bulletin.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 16.—Specific bequests totalling $280,000 to relatives in and around Norwich, Conn., are made in the will of Mrs. Isabella F. Blackstone, widow of Timothy B. Blackstone, pioneer Chicago business man, who also made her sister, Miss Ella M. Norton, also of the Connecticut city, the residuary legatee of the estate. It is estimated that this will amount to approximately $285,000. Mrs. Blackstone died Sept. 30 at the Drake hotel here. Her husband died in 1900.

The Norwich bequests are the following: $50,000 to William A. Norton, a cousin; $25,000 as trust fund for Harry Norton with William A. Norton, his brother as trustee; $10,000 to Arthur B. Norton, son of W. A. Norton; $50,000 to Angelina P. Norton Fuller, a cousin, widow of Edward D. Fuller; $50,000 to Calvin H. Frisbie, a cousin; $25,000 to Harriet B. Camp, widow of Frederick S. Camp; $5,000 to Elizabeth N. Chappell, daughter of the late Fredrick S. and Harriet B. Camp; $5,000 each to William B., Harriet, Robert B., and Katherine, the four children of Elizabeth Chappell; $25,000 each to Julia D. Blackstone, widow of William N. Blackstone; Phyllis B. Cisco, Justine B. Perkins, and Annie Caruthers Simner, widow of Louis Lorenzo Blackstone.

Mrs. Blackstone was 90 at the time of her death and left an estate estimated at $2,020,000. For half a century she had been prominent in social and philanthropic activities in Chicago.

Included in $1,105,000 in bequests to charitable, educational and religious institutions were the sums of $25,000 each to Norwich Free Academy, William W. Backus hospital and the United Workers of this city. The Blackstone Memorial library at Branford, this state, is remembered with a bequest of $60,000.

TWO SURPRISE SHOWERS FOR MISS AGNES MURPHY

About 50 friends surprised Miss Agnes Murphy Tuesday evening at her home on Norwich avenue, Taftville, in honor of her approaching marriage with Henry C. Gorman of Canterbury Turnpike, Norwich Town. There were games and vocal selections, after which lunch was served by Miss Georgette Gregory assisted by Mrs. Margaret Day.

A second surprise shower for Miss Murphy was given on the previous evening at the home of Miss Dorothy Lynn in Baltic with 15 of her friends attending. The decorations were in green and white. As part of the entertainment games were played and vocal selections were rendered by Miss Charlotte Johnson accompanied by Miss Frieda Phillips at the piano.

BENEFIT CARD PARTY OF CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB

Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. John R. Tarrant, 77 Church street the Catholic Women's club was entertained at a benefit card party. Eighteen tables of bridge and whist were in play. The prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. James Carey, Mrs. J. W. Brassill, Mrs. Joseph E. Burns, Mrs. James A. McNerney, Mrs. James Casey and Miss Margaret C. Counihan. At whist the winners were Mrs. Frederick LaFontaine, Mrs. J. Edward Driscoll and Mrs. Charles F. Lee. Mrs. Thomas M. McVeigh, president of the club, assisted Mrs. Tarrant in the arrangements for the very enjoyable evening. As this society works for the sick, friendless and needy of St. Patrick's parish, the members especially appreciated Mrs. Tarrant's hospitality.

PANCAKE SUPPER PROFITS NEARLY FIFTY DOLLARS

It is expected that the Armistice night pancake supper held at the parish house of Park Congregational church will net upwards of $50.

Over 250 were served a delicious meal by a committee from the Women's Federation, Mrs. James A. Bidwell chairman. In the kitchen were Mrs. Tolley R. Babcock, Mrs. Hans E. Hanson, Mrs. Charles A. Saxton, Mrs. Henry A. Tirrell and Mrs. Bidwell. The dining room was in charge of Miss Anna L. Ely, assisted by Miss Alexandrine Trumbull. Miss Annie E. Vaughn, Miss Minnie L. Palmer and Mrs. Frank W. Clapp. Girls taking orders were Misses Marion Agnew, Betty Hitchon and Dorothy Prentice. Mrs. Howard L. Stanton was cashier. Mrs. James A. Bidwell and Mrs. Charles A. Saxton had charge of the sale of tickets.

Escaping Steam Made Fire Call

At 8:12 o'clock Thursday evening the fire department responded to a telephone call for a supposed fire in a Maple street house. Squad A and the West Side company responded. A minute or two after the telephone call had been received at the central station another call was received to the effect that escaping steam from a heater was responsible for the first call. The person calling neglected to give the number of the house on Maple street. The escaping steam gave the occupants of the house the impression that the building was on fire.

DESCRIBES THEATER BEFORE CLUB'S ROUND TABLE

At the round table held by the drama group of the Woman's City club in the club room at the Wauregan hotel Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Willis P. Austin ably portrayed the theatrical stage with its settings from the earliest times to present day stage production.

In part she spoke of the different types from the early Greek on as that was the first to influence our modern theatre. To the Greeks do we owe the shape, in a modified form of our playhouses today. The early Greek theatre was originally a meeting place for worshippers of Dionysius and was semicircular in form. In the beginning the theater was used for singing and dancing only, but when speaking parts were introduced a scene was added directly back of the orchestra. In time this scene was re-inforced so that actors might climb to the top and speak as from a house top.

The Greek choruses and the actors were on the same level while the spectators ranged in gradually rising tiers around them. A second was built back of the first and as man endeavored to reach the gods in the tragedies, so was the orchestra gradually raised until we have the beginnings of an elevated stage. As the original elevated stage was symbolical of man's effort to rise to a godly level and as such was badly criticized, abandoned and forgotten until Roman influence once more resurrected and revived the elevated stage. All the early theaters of Greece were built against a hillside with the scene against the Aegean hills or the sea. At the theater at Delphi the orchestra opens to the Mountains of the Gods and it is here that occurs one of the studied arts of the Greeks.

The choruses in all the tragedies were used to portray man in his struggles against fate—"in other words it is the emotion" of a Greek tragedy. The actors impersonated the gods contending constantly with man.

When Rome became mistress of the world she changed somewhat the Greek theater to the impure Hellenistic Greek. During Nero's reign there was little change in the Greek theater. As it was largely borrowed it did not add in any vital manner, to the development of the stage. The Romans were not a drama loving people and thus the theater never entered into or reproduced the national life in Rome.

With the triumph of Christianity came the extension of the Greek theater. Up to the Middle Ages the theaters were neglected and abandoned and when the church again smiled upon dramatic ventures, the new subjects of religion and martyrdom were unfitted to pagan acts and today we have only ruins left of an art which try as we will we can never rival in perfection.

During the early Middle Ages the need of a suitable place for the presentation of religious subjects became felt and where but in churches could be found a better atmosphere? At first the religious dialogue for services at Christmas and Easter were used and all actions depicting a Biblical incident occurred before the altar. Gradually the church was found to be inadequate and the development of a Miracle theatre was begun.

The next stage of importance was that between the morality and Elizabethan stages. This new stage provided for the presentation of contemporary life of the Renaissance. It was the stage to appeal to the ordinary life and to the man of culture. The early Italian theatres travelled on wheels across Europe influencing Shakespeare, Molieri and other coming dramatists.

The next great stage in the development of a theatre came with Shakespeare. He knew thoroughly his theater. He began a call boy and progressed through all the steps to acting. In the beginning Shakespeare had his plays produced by the Guilds of England. The little wagons were trundled from town to town, the scene set and the actors in their places. A market place was the favored spot and the coming of a guild wagon was announced by a runner in costume who either beat upon a drum or blew a horn.

As Shakespeare became more popular he determined to create theaters for the sole purpose of producing plays. The theater of Shakespeare's time was not a fixed affair, it was in the process of evolution and Shakespeare adopted his plays to fit the evolving theater of his time. It is said that if he had had the modern theater with all its inventions, his plays would be unrecognizable from today and the simplicity and grandeur of his lines would be lost in the ornate scenery and setting used in present day productions.

The Elizabethan drama had no costume, no scenery, but only the lines to influence and hold the audience.

When we speak of modern theaters we speak of Max Reinhardt and in describing his theaters only the most advanced are spoken of. He is the exponent of all that is possible in mechanical devices for obtaining beauty. He believes that a theater exists purely for artistic presentation. His Deutches theater has the famous revolving stage which gives limitless possibilities.

Still another form of stage in the modern theater is that of the wagon stage, the perfection of which is largely due to the ingenuity of Max Reinhardt. These wagon stages are used in New York theaters to a large extent.

The Connecticut Yankee, Rosalie and the Three Musketeers are produced by means of this. George Arliss supplements his wagon stage by sliding panels which move either up or down, back or forth. On the wagons he is able to produce the Merchant of Venice, a play of five acts, nineteen scenes with three wagon stages, two sliding panels and one painted back-drop.

The final mark of present day theatrical development occurs in Berlin; again the suggestion of Max Reinhardt. This stage consists of a series of wooden blocks, each bigger than the other. They are very much like children's blocks and on the stage they look like a child's attempt to build a castle. On each individual block there is a complete set, chairs, tables, pictures. These blocks are arranged according to the number of acts and scenes in the play and they are arranged in a sequence of rising blocks to the climax and descending blocks to the end. A whole play can be arranged in this manner—a hall above a kitchen, the living room above the hall and so on. As each scene and act is finished the actor steps up to another level by means of little steps thus allowing the play to progress without interruption. The costumes are not changed, any additions being made by the properties on each level, such as an addition of a rose in the hair to indicate afternoon dress or a rope of pearls to indicate evening dress.

Modern theaters with their mechanical stages are in a state of fluctuation and just so long as we have drama, just so long as we portray human evolution in all manner, we will have progressive stages. It can be truly said that drama leads man and man creates the theater to harbor his leaders.

HAYSTACK PARK WILL HAVE MEMORIAL TOWER

Final details of the gift of $50,000 of Mrs. Ellen Battell Stoeckel for the building of a memorial tower and road on the Haystack state park in Norfolk were decided upon Wednesday at the meeting of the state park and forest commission in Hartford. This gift will provide a memorial tower and a scenic road to a point near the summit of Haystack mountain. The gift is to be a memorial to Robbins Battell and Carl Stoeckel, father and husband respectively of the donor.

Designs for the tower call for a structure about 50 feet high, of natural stone, surmounted by an observation platform. Terms of the gift call for the maintenance of a perpetual light.

Excellent views of the surrounding country, particularly toward the Taconic Range on the west and northward into Massachusetts will be obtained from the tower. The Haystack is 1680 feet high and was acquired as a state park in 1917.

THANKSGIVING DINNER PLEDGED FOR POOR FAMILY

When Comfort circle of The King's Daughters met with the leader, Mrs. William H. Geer, of Washington street Wednesday afternoon, there was an attendance of 15. The circle prepared for a season of social activity and made plans to secure money for carrying on its work. At a previous meeting the annual contribution of $5 each to the Salvation Army and the Margaret Bottome Home in Brooklyn, N. Y. had been voted. During Wednesday's meeting each member gave toward the sum required to provide a Thanksgiving dinner for a needy family.

Making Draft of Charter Revision

The committee in charge of the revision of the city charter met Thursday evening in the mayor's office. The draft of the new charter is rapidly nearing completion and will be published when it is completed.

SUGGESTS ANOTHER INSANE HOSPITAL IN CONNECTICUT

The building of a new hospital, preferably in the western part of the state, was one of the mesures suggested by Edward F. Hall, commissioner of control and finance, in speaking at New London Thursday night before the state convention of the League of Women Voters upon the topic, "A Proposed State Policy for the Education and Care of the Mentally Sick and the Mentally Deficient.

Commissioner Hall pointed out Fairfield county as the proper place for the erection of the suggested institution, which would be the third insane asylum in the state. He suggested further that the mental hygiene division of the state department of health add a full psychiatrist, two psychiatric social workers and a psychologist at a total salary expense of $12,000. He recommended the establishment of more clinics in the state, which would include permanent clinics in the larger cities, preferably in conjunction with the local hospital, and occasional clinics in the smaller communities. He advocated extension of the school, or children's clinics, which he called the best field of endeavor, and said the state board of education should be given additional support for the department of special classes for the mental defectives and also for the encouragement of the employment of special teachers in larger communities to supervise the problem cases.

Miss Mary Bulkley of Hartford in her annual address as president stressed the lessons learned this past year. They were four, as she outlined them: first, the lesson of practicing leadership adapted to ability, second, the lesson of sharing responsibility, third, the lesson of study leading to action and of contributing to programmes by members, and fourth, the lesson that "our own immediate concern leads us all on to see an ever extending field where all the world is our neighbor."

She spoke in part as follows: We have learned that we must not dash into an unsatisfactory situation in our town, thinking that just by the grace of enthusiasm and altruism we are prepared to set it right. It must be studied, how did it get to be that way, what is the best way, how is it done in other places, what is the opposition. There is sometimes the place where the expert may be brought in, and a speaker is in order. Only then, possibly, is the time to act. And let me say here what I know, that some leagues have found much more satisfaction in one subject, taken up, studied and acted upon, than in a programme of diversity and sometimes superficiality. However, this is not always true. We have learned that an expert comes to us for one of two purposes. 1—To show us how to set about getting the knowledge of the subject for ourselves, and to wake us up to our own need of action; or, 2—to co-ordinate for us the knowledge we have gained by our own investigations.

We have learned that a meeting must serve a purpose. It may do two things: 1—help us to realize our strength as an organization by its lively and decisive business methods (here is a lesson on the value of classes in parliamentary procedure), 2—teach us something we want to know about a vital subject. Of course, our vision must be trained to extend over an ever widening field. The response of a little new league just starting cannot be expected to be very overwhelming in Muscle Shoals or the Lame Duck bill, whereas its interest in and concern for its public schools, its community health, its method of conducting its elections, must be vital to any league-minded group.

Miss Bulkley added to these lessons certain conclusions about legislative work:

"1—There are other ways of approach to a legislator than by his reason.

"2—One interview in the home is worth two in the capitol.

"3—A mysterious wind which blows at times through the legislative halls can change more votes overnight than all the breath of all the members of the league in interviews and speeches.

"4—And yet we believe in education, and that patience, persistence and what ability we have applied to the matter in hand, will win out."

TESTIMONY MAY VINDICATE CAPT. CAREY OF THE VESTRIS

Questioning Brought From Charles Veschere, an 18 Year Old Wireless Operator, Acknowledgment That "Maybe" the Captain Had Announced by Wireless That He Was in Difficulties 18 Hours Before the Ship Sank and 14 Hours Before the Formal S O S—Reluctance of Veschere to Testify Exasperated U. S. State's Attorney Tuttle—The Chief Officer of the Vestris, Principal Witness, is Yet to Testify.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—From an 18-year-old wireless operator who twisted in the witness chair like a scolded child, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today wrung an acknowledgment that "maybe" the captain of the steamer Vestris had announced by wireless that he was in difficulties more than 18 hours before the ship sank and 14 hours before the formal S O S.

Charles Veschere, the young Scottish assistant radio man of the Vestris, was the first witness at today's session of the investigation of the disaster before United States Commissioner O'Neil. The phrases "I don't know," "I don't remember" and "I forget" ran thickly through all his testimony.

"Who told you to forget?" Tuttle shouted at him at last, and the pale youth shouted his answer back:

"No one."

At another point Veschere couldn't remember something and Tuttle, in apparent exasperation, exclaimed: "But you told me all about it down in my office. Why have you forgotten now?"

Then, turning to the commissioner the federal attorney said: "Your honor, this bears out a statement I made to you before this hearing began." And the commissioner remarked: "It does."

"Are you sure you understand the seriousness of your oath?" the commissioner asked Veschere and the youth nodded slowly.

At the very opening of the session Tuttle told the commissioner that he had reports from confidential sources which made it necessary for him to announce at that time that anyone who attempted to prevent any witnesses from telling the whole truth in the investigation would be severely dealt with.

Tuttle's efforts today were directed toward an attempt to find just what wireless announcements of distress had been sent out prior to the S O S and to whom they were directed and whether any instructions were sent to the Vestris in response which might explain why the S O S was not sent until the middle of Monday morning, four hours before the ship sank with no rescue vessels within many miles.

Veschere said that he was on duty from 8 to 12, day and night, and that from the time the ship left New York until it sank he sent only one message other than personal ones from passengers and that was a weather report to Washington.

"But there was some other sort of message?" Tuttle asked.

"I'm not sure."

"Didn't you tell me downstairs there was one reading 'we may need aid'?"

"Yes. I forgot."

"Who told you to forget?"

"No one."

"Who sent that message?"

"I don't know."

"When was it sent?"

"I don't know."

"Was it before you came on duty Sunday nights t 8 o'clock."

"Maybe."

Witness Was Evasive

The witness under further questioning said he recalled that the message was addressed to the Lamport and Holt line but no repetition or rephrasing of questions could bring any answer regarding the time the message was sent, who ordered it sent, whether there were any others of a similar nature or other details. Tuttle made especial efforts to establish the time of the message.

"Isn't it a fact," the federal attorney pounded away at the dark youth with the expressionless face "that when you went on duty at eight o'clock Sunday night you looked through the file of messages sent since you last went off duty and saw that message?"

"I don't know," Veschere replied. "I think I first heard of it Monday."

"But you said a minute ago it might have been Sunday."

Veschere made no response and Tuttle indicated his exasperation in a gesture directed at the commissioner. Concerning the time the S O S was sent Monday morning Veschere was almost equally vague.

"It was about 10," he said.

"Was there a clock in the wireless room?"

"Yes, with Greenwich Meridian time."

"And you didn't note down the time when the S O S was sent?"

"There wasn't any clock?"

"But you just said .....".

"Oh, that showed Greenwich Meridian time. I took no notice of that."

"Do you expect me to believe that?" Tuttle snapped. "What time was it?"

"I can't be definite" Veschere said firmly.

"Did you take the stand today with the intention of being definite about nothing at all?" Tuttle asked. "Was that the program?"

"No."

Veschere then told of leaving the radio cabin with the chief operator, who was drowned, and James McDonald, another assistant wireless man, sliding down the tilted deck of the ship into a lifeboat. This boat, he said, leaked, there was no drinking water, and no flares.

The only time during his long questioning that the youth smiled was when Tuttle at length said, "You may be excused now—temporarily."

Defends The Crew

While Tuttle's hearing was in progress in the Federal building, Captain Frederick Sorenson, a ship's master who was a passenger on the Vestris, was telling, at a steamship inspection service hearing in the Custom's building, a story that differed sharply from that he was reported in the newspapers as telling when he anded Wednesday.

Captain Sorenson denied today that he had said on arriving here that the lifeboats were "rotten" and improperly equipped, or that the crew had been cowardly before the vessel sank.

Captain Sorenson said at his hearing that, so far as he knew, the Vestris' lifeboats were in first class condition, and that they contained the prescribed equipment. He said he thought the Vestris crew probably launched the lifeboats as efficiently as possible in view of the time at their disposal. He said he was in a boat that sank immediately after striking the water, but the sinking, he asserted, resulted from damage done to the life boat when it struck the side of the Vestris while being lowered.

In Tuttle's investigation, James MacDonald, a radio assistant, followed Young Veschere to the stand. MacDonald said he joined the Vestris November 10 the day she left New York, after having been a radio operator since 1915. Veschere had been an operator for only three months and his experience consisted of one round trip to South America on the Vestris.

MacDonald testified he first noticed the ship listing at midnight Saturday, but said he spoke of it to nobody and that he did not hear it mentioned among the officers until the morning the ship sank.

"When was the first message sent out, except by passengers?" Mr. Tuttle asked him.

"It was a 'CQ' message, telling all ships we might need help and to listen for us, on Monday morning," MacDonald replied.

"About 9 a. m.?"

"About that time."

"When was the SOS sent?"

"Between 9 and 10—near 9, I'd say, but I couldn't swear to it."

"Wasn't any record made?"

"No. There is of ordinary messages, but when one like that comes along, the only thought is to get it out. We don't worry about time."

"Then nobody knows definitely when either the CQ or the SOS went out?"

"It isn't necessary to know."

"But nobody does?"

"No."

"Before the CQ message, was there any message to the Lamport and Holt line or its agents?"

"Not that I know of."

"Ever hear of a man named David Cook?" (Vice president of the line's agents).

"Yes."

"If advice had been wanted from shore, who would have been asked?"

"Lamport and Holt."

"But the ship went down without any such communication?"

"There were messages after the SOS."

"From Lamport and Holt?"

"Yes."

"What about?"

"Asking details."

"Did you see anybody doing anything about the list of the ship on Sunday—trying to straighten it out?"

"No."

"When did you leave the radio cabin for the last time?"

"I was working the key. O'Loughlin said, 'We've done all that can be done. Come on.' O'Laughlin went out on the high side, and I on the low side. I slid down the deck and got into a lifeboat."

Veschere was then recalled, to straighten out confusion regarding which side of the ship he left when he got away in a lifeboat. He testified he boarded a lifeboat from the starboard side of the ship, where the decks were awash.

Alfred Hanson, assistant pantryman, then took the stand. In a voice so low that his answers had to be read by the stenographer, he gave his testimony.

Hanson said the ship rolled Sunday night, that one of the ports was unfasteged, and that water went into the coal bunkers.

Hanson had a set of photographs he made of the Vestris and the launching of the lifeboats, and these were placed in evidence, numbered in the order in which he had taken them.

The final witness was Arthur S. Costigan of the Radio Marine corporation, connected with the R. C. A. He said that, at Tuttle's request, he had been searching for radio messages from and to the Vestris, and that his search was not yet completed.

The first radiogram put in evidence and read to the court was from Captain Carey to the Lamport and Holt line. The time received, stamped on it, was 11 a. m., Monday, November 12. It read as follows:

"Hove to from noon yesterday. During night developed 32 degree list. Starboard decks under water. Ship lying on beam ends. Impossible to proceed anywhere. Sea moderately rough.

"(Signed) CAREY."

Tuttle here remarked on testimony of previous witnesses that they did not know of the engines being stopped at all.

"And this shows the ship was hove to for almost 24 hours when this message was sent," he said.

After court had adjourned, Tuttle told reporters that he would subpoena the commanding officer of the Voltaire, flagship of the Lamport and Holt line, and radio operators of the American Shipper, the steamship which brought the rescued Vestris radio men to New York. He said he also would submit to the court the official report of the commander of the battleship Wyoming. The Voltaire was enroute to New York from South America Sunday and Monday, and Veschere testified that the Vestris had called her several times on Sunday, but denied that the calls had anything to do with her difficulties.

It had been hoped to have as the principal witness today Chief Officer Frank M. Johnson of the Vestris, senior surviving officer, but shortly before time for the hearing to begin Tuttle announced that Johnson had disappeared. He was located later at the Hotel Holley where he had gone with other officers of the ship Wednesday after their arrival aboard the rescue vessel.

Johnson was served with a subpoena and it is expected he will be asked by the federal attorney to answer questions regarding the charges of inefficiency on the part of the officers and the crew and explain why the SOS was not sent out early enough so that rescue ships could have been at the scene when it became necessary to abandon ship.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 16—(AP)—An expert here has calculated that if the heat of the lava in the present eruption of Mount Etna could have been conserved and harnessed it would have been sufficient to furnish power to all of Italy for four years.

LONDON, Nov. 16—(AP)—The largest merger in the iron and steel trade of Great Britain is likely to come to fruition very shortly when the Dorman Long company with a capital of $60,000,000 and the Blockow-Vaughan company with a capital of $40,000,000, effect an amalgamation.

ROME, Nov. 16—(AP)—The pope's opposition to public athletic competition by girls was reiterated in the leading editorial published in Osservatore Romano. The newspaper found occasion for reviving the subject in the fascist scheme to hold another athletic meet for girls and young women in Rome next spring.

$90,000 FOR ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Nov. 16—(AP)—Otto M. Lindenberger, east St. Louis salesman, today was awarded $90,000 damages for alienation of his wife's affections in a suit against his brother in law and former partner, Frank J. Clapp.

Klapp, denied the charges but admitted traveling with Mrs. Lindenberger in the same compartments on trains and steamers during a trip through the east last year.

Klapp and Lindenberger, who were school mates, married sisters Mrs. Klapp died in 1925 and the Lindenbergers invited Klapp to share their home.

THREE PERSONS INJURED IN CRASH OF PLANE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 16—(AP)—Three persons were injured seriously when an airplane piloted by William C. Wademan went into a tail spin and crashed into a field near the Syracuse airport late today.

Wademan, with both legs broken and one foot nearly severed, crawled 500 feet in search of help. Ernest Mills and Mrs. Rose Noble, formerly of Ithaca, were the passengers. Mills legs were fractured. Mrs. Noble had a fractured leg, broken arm and several fractured ribs.

FRANCES ALDA HAS BEEN GRANTED DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—The New York Evening Post says today that Frances Alda, Metropolitan Opera soprano, won a decree of divorce several weeks ago from Giulio Gatti-Casazzi, director of the opera company. Her suit was begun last September in Nongales, Sonora, Mexico.

The newspaper asserts that the divorce was granted on the ground of incompatability. The singer, it adds, admitted the divorce but said that she and Gatti-Casazzi would remain good friends.

WESTERN UNION MAY MERGE WITH RADIO CORP.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Newcomb Carleton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, today said that "conversation has been going on seeking a basis on which Western Union service can be improved by a connection with Radio," after he had been informed of London reports that the Western Union was to merge with the Radio Corporation of America.

HIGGINS IN COMMAND OF THE SALVATION ARMY

LONDON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The Daily Mail today says that Commissioner Edward J. Higgins, chief of staff, has assumed command of the Salvation Army pending a meeting of the high council in January. The meeting was said to have been summoned because a majority of the commissioners considered the generalship was vacant owing to the lengthy illness of General Bramwell Booth.

TO DEFEND THE GOOD NAME OF CAPT CAREY

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—British thought on the Vestris disaster, as reflected in shipping circles and newspaper comment, today was to the effect that judgment as to blame should be suspended until finings have resulted from the investigations started or projected in this country and the United States.

The temper of the friends of Captain William Carey was shown by the action of the Imperial Merchants' service guild in cabling New York attorneys to protect the good name of the commander who went down with his ship.

Lamport and Holt owners of the lost steamship, have started an investigation of their own but it is being conducted privately. The board of trade also is to conduct an independent inquiry.

The Daily Mail in common with other papers, recreated reflections on Captain Carey on the ground that, following traditions of the sea, he chose to go down with his vessel and could not now defend himself.

NAVAL RADIO STATIONS ORDERED TO REPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The navy department today ordered all naval radio stations along the Atlantic coast and naval ships in Atlantic waters to report on said messages received in connection with the Vestris disaster.

The order was issued in an effort to determine whether any distress signal was picked up Sunday night when it was reported by some survivors of the sinking that an S O S call was dispatched by Captain William Carey, of the Vestris, and later cancelled.

It was announced that so far as could be determined at the naval radio communication office here no such signal was picked up but that it might have been heard by other stations

Dem. Party Faces $1,600,000 Deficit

Report Shows Expense Recent Campaign About $5,300,000

NEW YORK, [illegible].—(AP)—The democratic party faces a deficit of approximately $1,600,000 in meeting expenses in the recent campaign totalling about $5,300,000. James W. Gerard, treasurer of the democratic national committee announced today.

Contributions to date, he said, total $3,736,000 and continue to come in. More than 37,000 contributors, he said in a statement, have been placed on the committee's books, 24,000 of them since election day.

"We have many thousands of contributions yet unrecorded," continued the statement, "and it is safe to say that before we get through we will have in the neighborhood of 225,000 to 150,000 contributions to our fund.

"The activity of the treasurer's office is far more pronounced than at any time during the campaign. Every mail brings in hundreds of contributions and I might say that a great many thousands must come in if we are to pay off the indebtedness in which the committee finds itself."

The bulk of the contributions have been in amounts from $1 to $25. Mr. Gerard considered the inflow of contributions as testimonials to the popularity of Governor Smith and Senator Robinson, the vice presidential candidate "among the masses."

RUM CRUISER TAKEN BY COAST GUARD PICKET BOAT

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—A little coast guard picket boat today towed as a prize to the barge office pier at the Battery today the 60-foot express cruiser Toxaway, loaded with 35 cases of whiskey and caught after a chase in Raritan bay in which the picket boat used its one-pound gun.

The crew of the cruiser had escaped in a motor boat.

Three holes in the Toxaway bore evidence of the chase. The picket boat was patrolling the bay when the cruiser, capable of making knots, appeared.

The coast guard boat gave chase, but its best speed is 28 knots and the Toxaway drew rapidly ahead. Two shots over the Toxaway's course resulted one in a louder humming of her motors.

Then Chief Boatswain Chelton, in command of the picket boat, fired a shot into the cruiser's forward hatch. Another shot shattered one of her cabin portholes, and a third smashed into her hull, penetrating the engine room and bringing the cruiser to a halt.

Before the picket boat could come up, a group of men on the deck of the cruiser lowered a small boat, jumped in, started the outboard motor and escaped.

MAYOR INDICTED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

EAST ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16—(AP)—Mayor Marshall McCormick of Herrin, Ill., his chief of police, John Stamm, Water Superintendent Mysker and the mayor's brother, Elmer McCormick, were indicted today by the federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act.

The four men formed a "protection ring" in Herrin, Ralph E. Lesseman, assistant United States attorney, said after the indictments were returned. He charged the quartet collected regularly from Williamson county bootleggers the sums running into thousands of dollars.

The Herrin true bills followed a batch earlier in the day which indicted Sheriff Leslie B. Roche of Alexander County, Ill., three of his deputies, two former deputies and eight other persons were included on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act.

"NOT GUILTY" VERDICT ASKED FOR R. W. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—The perjury trial of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, was adjourned today until Monday by Justice Jennings Bailey, when he will rule on a motion by defense counsel that the jury be directed to return a "not guilty" verdict.

Arguments on the motion were made in the absence of the jury, immediately after the government had rested its case.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR PROF. WILLIAM N. RICE

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 16—(AP)—Funeral services for Prof. William North Rice, of Wesleyan university, who died Tuesday in Delaware, Ohio, were held this afternoon at Memorial chapel, Wesleyan university. The scripture was read by Rev. Dr. W. C. Beach, of New Haven, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church.

President James L. McConaughy eulogized Prof. Rice for the influence he had brought to bear upon the lives of many students.

Don't be a Jay-buyer.

You know the jay-walker—in fact you've probably burned your tires at one time or another in avoiding him. He's never content to follow the regular path. He thinks he's saving time. But is he? The dodging, jumping, backing use up more time than it would have taken to follow the regular path. And he's taking a needless risk.

Mr. Jay-Walker has a brother—the jay-buyer. He always knows the way to buy things cheap. He knows of a fellow who sells this or that thing cheap—makes them himself. He's found the way to beat the price on several things. He thinks he's saving money. But is he?

Somehow or other he just can't make his income go as far as Bill, across the way. Yet Bill has the habit of reading advertisements and buying standard goods.

Don't be a jay-buyer—follow the advertisements.

Gale Sweeps South England And Wales

Channel Ports Describe the Storm as the Worst in Many Years.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A southwesterly gale of great violence whipped over south England and Wales today crippling wire communications, buffeting shipping as ventured abroad and causing widespread damage to property as well as injuries to many persons. Six deaths were reported.

Along the channel ports and the Bristol coast area, the storm was described as the worst in many years. Throughout the day the gale frequently attained a velocity of from 60 to 70 miles and it continued with dangerous force tonight.

The coasting steamer Edith crawled into Liverpool minus her funnel which was lost overboard on a voyage from Creetown, Ireland, the crew was without food for two days and was forced to crouch in the stokehold because the cabins and galleys were awash.

All cross-channel traffic was delayed and in some cases trips were cancelled. Giant waves broke over piers and promenades while at Southampton huge liners bobbed about in the heavy seas. Among others, the Cunarder Olunia postponed her departure. At the quayside four huge cranes were uprooted, one crashing through a refreshment room injuring three of twenty customers.

Two storm deaths were reported tonight at Bristol and Eoer falling trees causing fatal injuries.

HURRICANE HAS REACHED PARIS AND ITS VICINITY

PARIS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The tail end of a hurricane which has been raging over the Atlantic this past week, reached Paris and its vicinity today. Chimneys were blown down and trees uprooted in the parks causing injuries to several persons. No deaths had been reported.

Princess Marie, sister of former King Constantine of Greece was saved from serious injury by an umbrella. She was passing in the Place Vendome when a huge plate glass window was shattered by the wind. Pieces of glass fell all around her but only a few went through her umbrella and she escaped with slight cuts.

All aerial service from Le Bourget field was suspended except for one plane which left for London and was forced to alight at Deauvis. It overturned as it came to the ground and was wrecked, but the passengers escaped injury.

Reports came from Brest Lorient, St. Nazaire and Cherbourg that the harbors of those ports were filled with craft which had sought shelter from violent southwesterly gales.

ANTWERP WAS STRUCK BY A FURIOUS GALE

ANTWERP, Belgium, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A furious gale struck the city this evening, causing one death and many casualties. Here chimneys and tiles were blown down and wires and shop signs fouled while much damage was done in the neighboring countryside.

$1,000,000 STORM DAMAGE AT KINGSTON JAMAICA

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Estimates today of the damage done by the storm which swept over the island placed the loss at $1,000,000. Banana trees suffered especially but it was said that production would not be seriously affected.

EDWARD F. M'SWEENEY INJURED AT CROSSING

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Nov. 16—(AP)—Edward F. McSweeney, former commissioner of immigration at the port of New York and prominent in Massachusetts public affairs for 25 years, was seriously injured late today when the automobile which he was driving was struck by a gasoline engine of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at the Pleasant street crossing. Police believe the motor of Mr. McSweeney's machine stalled on the crossing and he was unable to leap to safety in time.

LABOR TROUBLES QUELLED BY COLOMBIAN TROOPS

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 16—(AP)—Reports of serious labor troubles at Santa Marta, Colombia, which were only quelled through intervention by Colombian troops, have been received here. United Fruit company vessels were unable to load fruit at Santa Marta because of the strike and came here to make up their cargoes.

DROUTH HAS DESTROYED MAIZE CROP IN ALBANIA

TIRANA, Albania, Nov. 16—(AP)—Drought has destroyed this year's crop of maize, which is the staff of life to Albania, and the country is threatened with famine. During the summer and autumn not a drop of rain fell on the fields and the crops were fired by a scorching sun.

STOCK MARKET WILDEST WALL ST. HAS EVER SEEN

All Trading Records Were Smashed When 6,714,000 Shares Changed Hands—75 Issues Were Carried to Record High Levels by Outburst of Bullish Enthusiasm—Trading on the Curb Market Also Established a Record High With Sales of 2,151,800 Shares—Previous High Was 1,835,000 Shares.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—All trading records on the New York stock exchange were smashed today when 6,714,400 shares changed hands in a hysterical outburst of bullish enthusiasm which carried nearly 75 issues to record high levels on gains running as high as $23 a share.

This exceeds the previous record, established only last Monday, by 1,043,800 shares. The final sale of the day was printed on the ticker at 5:03 p. m., two hours and 3 minutes after the closing gong had sounded.

Trading on the New York curb market also established a record high with a turn-over of 2,151,800 shares as against the previous high of 1,835,100 shares.

The spark which ignited this country-wide conflagration of speculation was the weekly statement of the New York federal reserve bank, published after the close of yesterday's market, which showed a gain of less than $2,000,000 in brokers' borrowings, as early estimates of $100,000,000 or more. In view of the gigantic trading and rising prices of the past week, some skeptical traders were inclined to the belief that the true loan picture was not shown by the federal reserve because large borrowing sprobably had been made through foreign and other non-member institutions. The large majority of speculators, however, accepted it as proof of their theory that a tremendous volume of stocks had been purchased outright and taken out of the market, many of them by "sold out bulls" who had tired of waiting for the major reaction in prices which has not yet materialized.

The opening of the market was the wildest that Wall street has ever seen. Specialists in the various active stocks were so deluged with orders "at the market" that they were forced to appeal to the stock exchange officials to appoint committees to set fair opening quotations. For instance, there were 30,000 shares of Packard Motors wanted at the opening and only 10,000 shares offered. The stock opened with a block of 10,000 shares at $114.87 1-2, ran up later to a new high record at $118.87 1-2 and closed at $117.75, up $3.25 net.

Postum opened with a block of 20,000 shares, Consolidated Gas with 15,500 shares, Chrysler with 13,000 shares and Anaconda Copper, Andes Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Brimco Manufacturing, Johns Manville, Kelvinator, Mexican Seaboard, Sears Roebuck and Sinclair Oil with blocks of 10,000 shares each. The initial gains ranging from 50 cents to $8.62 1-2. Montgomery-Ward opened $10.50 a share higher at $404.50 but before the day was over had set a new high record at $417, closing at $414 for a net gain of $20. Last January the stock sold as low as $117 a share.

Total sales apearing on the tape in the first 15 minutes after the market opened fell just short of 600,000 shares. Within a few minutes after the opening, word came back from the floor that the ticker was 16 minutes late. The delay was increased to an hour by mid-day and to 75 minutes at 2.45 p. m., the bunching of last minute orders accounting for the final delay of more than two hours.

Despite the tremendous strain imposed by this tremendous volume of trading on the 600 to 800 active floor brokers and the thousands of brokerage house employes, no distress signals have yet appeared to induce the exchange to declare extra holidays or shorten the hours of trading as was done after the series of 4,000,000 share markets last spring. There have been unavoidable delays in the delivery of such a huge volume of securities, and in keeping records up to date, necessitating long hours of overtime work. Several of the larger houses foreseeing big fall markets and increased their personnel during the summer, but many of them are cramped for room and have two and three clerks working in spaces formerly occuped by one.

Radio Corporation common stock was again a spectacular performer, soaring $23 a share to a new high record at $298, and closing just 50 cents below the top price. Wright Aeronautical ran up $22.75 to $312.75, but lost $2.75 of its gain. Adams Express, Brooklyn Edison, International Harvester, Midland Steel Products preferred and Western Union advanced $10 to $15 a share. Among the many issues to advance $5 a share or more were American Telephone, American Smelting, Commonwealth Power, International Combustion, Mexican Seaboard Oil, Pullman and Republic Steel.

New high records for the year were established by such widely diversified issues as Anaconda Copper, Packard Motors, U. S. Steel common, Texas Co., American Tobacco, Hershey Chocolate, General Electric, Boo'h Fisheries, Case Threshing Machine, American Can, Stewart Warner and May Department Stores.

The following table gives the sales and the Associated Press average of 20 leading industrial shares for each day this week:

| | Sales Ind. Ave. |
|---|---|
| Monday ..... | 5,670,600 shares $240.24 |
| Tuesday ..... | 5,387,400 shares 240.70 |
| Wednesday .. | 5,426,800 shares 239.67 |
| Thursday .... | 4,747,700 shares 240.34 |
| Friday ..... | 6,714,400 shares 247.75 |

LETTERS COME TO HOOVER IN A STEADY STREAM

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 16—(AP)—Herbert Hoover broke away from the task of clearing his desk for his forthcoming South American god will tour today to visit a laboratory on the Stanford university campus to view a high voltage electrical experiment.

This brief visit and a pause to renew his membership in the American Red Cross marked the only stops in the routine of the day's work of the president-elect, except the occasional pauses to receive the various persons who came to wish him a pleasant journey to Latin-America.

A steady stream of letters came to his desk from the battery of typists engaged in replying to the thousands of congratulatory telegrams and letters that streamed into his home after his election.

The work of signing these, coupled with last minute preparations for his departure Sunday for San Pedro to board the battleship Maryland for the southern voyage, kept the president-elect close to his study for most of the day. He is endeavoring to leave Palo Alto with a clear desk behind him.

LYNCHING BY MASKED MEN IN FARMINGTON, N. M.

FARMINGTON, N. M., Nov. 16—(AP)—Three masked men took the law into their own hands today and lynched Rafael Benavides, believed by police to be the Mexican who early Wednesday morning attacked Mrs. Charles Lewis, wife of a prominent sheep man of Aztec, N. M.

Benavides was taken from the Farmington hospital where he lay critically ill with a bullet wound in his abdomen, and was hanged from a tree on an abandoned ranch two miles from the hospital.

Mrs. Lewis was beaten unconscious by a Mexican who entered her home Tuesday night while her husband was away on a hunting trip.

The man carried her on a horseback into a canyon and left her there unclothed. She wandered back to the ranch house and Sheriff Biancett organized a posse to search for the abductor. Yesterday afternoon Benavides was met by a posse at the Murphy ranch near the Colorado line and he was shot when he resisted arrest. At the hospital the physicians had only slight hope for his recovery.

FOUR DEAD FROM AUTO AND TRAIN COLLISION

PULASKI, Va., Nov. 16—(AP)—Three persons were killed and one woman so badly injured that she died in a Galax hospital as a result of a collision today between a passenger and a freight train on the Norfolk & Western railway.

The wreck occurred one mile from Fries Junction as the passenger train was backing in and the freight coming out on the Fries branch.

The dead are: Lee Manuel, 38, Pulaski, brakeman on the passenger train; W. R. Dillon, 38, section man; Miss Gladys Carpenter, 16, and Mamie Carpenter, 17, who died of injuries.

TO SEARCH FOR STUDENTS IN SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 16—(AP)—Army airmen and three state agencies were enlisted today in the search for four University of California students believed lost in the snow-covered mountains of Lake county.

An army plane from San Francisco joined the hunt at the request of Governor Young, who directed the state forestry and public works departments and the fish and game commission to assist in the search.

An army plane from San Francisco joined the hunt at the request of Governor Young, who directed the state forestry and public works departments and the fish and game commission to assist in the search.

Two other army planes were expected to arrive from San Diego. Civilian airmen who have established a base north of Upper Lake, flew over the region today without sighting the students.

Those missing are Anna Ramsperger, 21, and her twin sister, Mina, of Logan, Utah, Robert H. Keeler, 21, Los Angeles and John R. Dempster of Berkeley.

They left here by automobile last Friday intending to park their machine and climb Snow mountain. The automobile was found yesterday north of Upper Lake. Provisions and sleeping bags had been taken from the car.

TWO MEN ARE CHARGED WITH DEFRAUDING HOTELS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16—(AP)—Two men docketed as Ralph Harrison, 40, of 17 Gates avenue, Monticello, N. J., and John F. Rourke, 34, of 210 Starr street, New Haven, Conn., were under arrest here today while authorities investigated charges that they had defrauded hotels in several parts of the country. Magistrate John J. Orie said that they would be turned over to postal authorities.

The men were said to have written letters to U. S. Senators David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, and Charles Dineen, of Illinois, and used copies of these letters to have checks cashed at hotels where they stopped. The letters were designed to impress hotel employes, detectives said.

ELLIOTT STILLMAN KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

SELIGMAN, Arizona, Nov. 16—(AP)—Elliott Stillman, nephew of James W. Stillman, New York capitalist, was killed and F. B. Hayne, of Nogales, was injured when Hayne's small touring car left the highway near here yesterday and overturned, pinning the pair beneath it, it was learned today.

SEVERAL CASES COMPLETED AT SHORT CALENDAR SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 16—In making an announcement that the next short calendar session of the Windham county superior court would not be held until December 7, Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Andover, presiding over a session in this city today, requested the attorneys to arrange for as many assignments as possible from the list. There were but five cases assigned; Tuesday, November 20, Jordan Hardware Company vs. Nathan Gilman; Benjamin Prague vs. Herman Prague, Max Lehrman and Sadie Rosenthil; Mark Lusoka vs. George Moylin, et al, all local cases; Wednesday, November 21, Soville and Wellington of Worcester, Mass., vs. G. J. Kirby of Mansfield, transferred from Tolland county; Thursday, November 22, Package Paper company vs. Louis P. Fancher doing business as Superior Bakery in Putnam. Cases set to follow the short calendar on Friday, December 7 were: Mildred R. Rathburn vs. William J. Rathburn; Mary A. Vertefeuille vs. Moise Vertefeuille and Daniel Meehan vs. French Tel. and Cable company, et al.

The court was informed by Attorney John H. King that Samuel J. Turcotte was prepared to go on in his case against the state board of health. The agreed date of Tuesday, December 11, may be changed at the next short calendar session.

Some of the short calendar cases were disposed of today. In the case of Eckley R. Storrs of Hartford vs. Chauncey E. Macfarlane of this city judgment was given by stipulation as agreed upon by both parties. Judgment for the plaintiff company to recover $3,012.40 was rendered in the case of the United Mortgage and Realty company of Worcester, Mass., vs. Alcide M. Page, a foreclosure proceeding. A transfer of the case of C. Chester Codding's appeal from the highway commissioner was granted by the court for hearing by State Referee Nickerson.

In the case of William Tamulewicz et al of Brockton, Mass. vs. Mary A. Allen, et al of Pomfret, a foreclosure action to recover a mortgage on an extensive farm in Pomfret on which no money had been paid since January, 1926, the court rendered judgment for Tamulewicz to recover $6,318. Court adjourned until Tuesday morning, November 20, at 10 o'clock.

Members of the Windham County Bar association held a special meeting prior to the opening of superior court here today to take action on the application of Jeremiah O. Brott of Thmpson and Arthur H. Plessis of Putnam, who have signified their intention to apply for admission to the state bar and to be examined in December. The meeting voted to approve the applications.

With the closing of the Windham high school football season here Saturday afternoon in an encounter at Recreation park with Manchester high, the student body of the school is staging a Home Field or New Field day to create a fund for the new school athletic plant at Hayden field. Students have been canvassing the city selling tickets for Saturday's game and preliminary reports indicate that they met with splendid results. While many of these public spirited citizens who purchased tickets, the proceeds of which are to be diverted to the athletic field fund, will not have the opportunity to attend the game, it is expected, however, that a record-breaking crowd will be at the park for the Windham swan song. The interest of the students in the project is indicated in a report that all but 25 of approximately 600 pupils had purchased tickets for the game up to noon today. A spirited rally was held in the auditorium after the closing of the school today with talks by Coach Thomas A. Callaghan, Captain Howard Nelson and several of the regular team players.

Over 300 covers were laid at the annual turkey dinner and sale held at the Congregational church house on Thursday evening under the auspices of the women of the church. Donation day at St. Joseph's hospital brought a most generous response of the public with contributions of several hundred articles including choice jellies, preserves, fruits, vegetables, glassware, breakfast foods, linens, soap, etc. Cash donations totaled $198.20. Many of the contributors were school children who found much happiness in depositing their little bundles with members of the hospital auxiliary and explaining that these things were for the sick people. Among the donations was a tooth brush and a harmonica.

Miss Doris Palmer, 20, of Mansfield City, died in St. Joseph's hospital this morning. She was a member of the class of 1929 at Windham High school. The deceased was born in this city, November 3, 1908, a daughter of Amos T. and Ida G. Alden Palmer. Besides her parents she leaves one brother, Kenneth A. Palmer, of Mansfield City.

Willimantic's drinking water supply continues to be in good condition according to a report from the bureau of laboratories of the state board of health for November. The examination was made of a sample of the surface water taken from a supply tap at the pumping station in Mansfield. The report states that the bacteriological examinary was satisfactory and indicated that the chlorinated treatment of the water made it safe for drinking.

Judge Frank H. Foss of the city police court nolled the case against Nathan Rubin of Hartford, charged with failure to have an operator's license and registration certificate in his possession at the time of his arrest, at the court session this morning. The case had been dragging on the court docket since the campaign against motor vehicle violations started by the state police.

William B. Imer, a resident of Canterbury for many years and for several years engaged in business in this city, died at his home in Highland Park, Manchester, Thursday after an extended illness. He was born in Canterbury, November 30, 1858 and leaves his widow, Phoebe Ransom Imer; a daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Allen of Manchester Green and a son, Charles Robert Imer.

THE LATE E. W. CORBETT MOURNED BY MANY FRIENDS

Edward W. Corbett passed away very suddenly at his home in Newent Friday, Nov. 9. Though he had been obliged to give up his position with the J. B. Martin Co. more than a year ago because of failing health he had kept about doing light work at home and was in Jewett City the day before he died. His genial, kindly nature won for him many friends who sincerely mourn his loss. He was a deacon of Newent church and a faithful attendant at all its services. He took a lively interest in social activites and especially enjoyed the company of young people. Mr. Corbett was born in Brunswick, Me., April 14, 1856, and in 1885 married Fannie Wood of Uncasville, who survives with a son, Walter C. Corbett, of New Jersey, another son, Harry died in 1915, and there are three sisters. The family came to Lisbon in 1898. The funeral services were held at Newent church, Monday at one o'clock, Rev. W. J. Reynolde officiating. The bearers were Charles P. Learned, Henry J. Kendall, Harry L. Hull and Jesse Phillips. Relatives were present from South Glastonbury, Newark, N. J., and Massachusetts. Many former residents came from other towns. The flowers were very beautiful. Burial was in the Reed-Haskell cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Corbett left for Newark, N. J., Tuesday after spending several days here.

Riley Witter of Brooklyn called on R. R. Barber one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Geer, from Massachusetts, are spending some time with Mrs E. W. Corbett.

FORMER CONG. PASTOR AND WIFE IN PORTUGAL

Letters which have been recently received from Lev. and Mrs. Duane Waln, now in Portugal studying the language before going to west Africa as missionaries, give interesting accounts of customs and conditions in that country. On their arrival in Lisbon their first impression was that it had the "narrowest, crookedest, most hilly, roughest, dirtiest streets ever seen. Dr. Markham got a taxi to take us to his home and we scarcedrew an easy breath until we were out of it. They apparently have no speed laws and the taxi simply tore up one street and down another regardless of consequences and turns. I never saw anything like it. Some of the streets are so narrow that people walking have to stand back against the wall while a car passes. Speeding in such places with a turn every little way. Twice our driver hit the curb or the side of a building in turning." They are now in Coimbra, on a hill with a beautiful view of the valley. In pleasant weather they study in one of the numerous parks that little Duane, Jr., may play in the fresh air. Mr. Waln carries the baby in a sort of knapsack on his back when they take long walks, and everyone stares as in Portugal it is the women who carry the burdens. Mrs. Waln states that the women are really beasts of burden. She saw one with an iron bed, mattress and two rocking chairs on her head, and another with a dozen chairs tied together. One of the servants in the house where they board carried a wardrobe trunk partly full on her head about a block up hill and up a flight of stairs.

The money system of Portugal is escudoes and centavos. 100 centavos to one escudo and one escudo is worth about 4 1-2 cents in our money.

Foods are quite cheap and labor receives very low wages, compared to our American ideas. Manual laborers receive about 16 escudoes a day. Servants receive about 100 escudoes a month or less. The combination chambermaid and waitress in their boarding house works from 7.30 in the morning until midnight and then sleeps on a mattress on the floor, all for the princely sum of 40 escudoes a month, about $2 in our money. When an American missionary told her of the wages and living condition of those doing the same sort of work in America, she thought it a fairy tale.

The distinction between the upper and servant classes is very sharply drawn. Mrs. Waln was told that they must never say "please" or "thank you" to a servant. She wished to make candy one day and asked the landlady for a little butter and a platter, but she was not allowed to carry them to her room; the servant followed, bearing the platter and a small piece of butter.

The food in Portugal is very good, vegetables being especially cheap and plentiful. Dinners are quite elaborate, four or five course affairs, and take about an hour and a half to consume. Mrs. Waln says the salads look perfectly delicious, but are dressed with pure olive oil, which is too much for her.

Candy and all sweets are very rare. The candy is practically all imported and very high and usually very stale.

Mr. and Mrs. Wain are well and happy in their chosen work, but both state that they are occasionally homesick for the airy Columbia parsonage and all their good friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lafleur were surprised Tuesday evening by 19 associate employes of Mr. Lafleur at the S. N. E. T. Co., Willimantic division, traffic and commercial departments. The guests brought with them materials for a lunch, also a tray of silver for Mr. and Mrs. Lafleur.

Dr. C. E. Simonds of Willimantic, assisted by Miss Margaret Danehy is making a physical examination of each Columbia school child. The work was started Tuesday morning at the Center school. This work is authorized by the town school board.

Dr. H. P. Talbot of the state department of health gave an illustrated lecture on Social Hygiene at Yeomans hall Thursday evening in cooperation with the town school committee and the department of farm and rural work of the National Council of Jewish Women.

MONTVILLE

Miss Josephine Tiskey of Pequot was pleasantly surprised by several of her friends Saturday night at her home. Games of many kinds were played, after which a delicious luncheon was served. Among those present were: Lillian Barre, Stella Micho of Willimantic, Katherine Bannister, Emma Gothier, Bertha Barre, Martha Melifsky, Pauline Stepanik, Mary Petrofski, Gene Alpwick, Stephen Petroski, Alma St. Germain, Valeria Kobelski, Mary Anke, Mary Slepnik, Marguerite Bergman, Josephine Tiskey, Steve Tiskey, Robert Bergman, Mike Stankwitz, Ruben Oakren, Frank E. In icy winter . . .

If you could hear your battery complain

—it would tell you about the drain on its power from lubricating oil that gets thick in cold weather and prevents easy starting.

But your engine would complain just as loudly if you bought one of the thin-bodied "winter oils" to overcome the battery strain. For these thin-bodied oils usually grow still thinner when the engine gets hot, and so fail to give proper lubrication.

With Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic in your crankcase you are sure to have a free-flowing oil in zero weather to protect your battery. But Mobiloil Arctic also has the rich oily character that makes it cling to the bearing surfaces and protect them against metallic contact with each other.

You can buy Mobiloil from most dealers who are not controlled by gasoline refiners. The Mobiloil sign is a mark of the independent dealer.

ONLY ONE HENHOUSE RAID THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 16—Up to this evening only one raid by thieves that are undoubtedly professionals at chicken stealing had been reported in Windham county for the current week. In the raid referred to the thieves got away with 60 chickens at Woodstock on Wednesday night or during the early hours of Thursday morning. As in other raids of the same kind within the past fortnight in Windham county towns, they got away without disturbing anyone about the premises where they operated and leaving the loss to be discovered the following morning.

It appears evident to those who have been checking up on this sort of thieving that those who are doing it are thoroughly familiar with their nefarious business. They make no disturbance in doing their work. Whether they use chloride or sulphur to deaden the senses of the chickens so they will make no disturbance when disturbed during the night has not been established. There is no doubt, however, of their coming into the territory that they have picked for a clean-up in automobiles, and that they have taken the advance precaution to learn about the property to be robbed and the location of the poultry houses.

State to Rush Highway Work.

The assurance is given that the state will do its utmost to have the state highway between Danielson and Brooklyn put in passable condition before real hard winter weather sets in. There is no chance whatever that the contract upon which Charles Haggerty, of Webster, worked since last winter will be completed this year. So much remains to be done that this is impossible. However, it does seem possible that the work can be advanced so that the very heavy traffic that passes over this trunk line can get over it during the winter months with a reasonable degree of safety. Putting in that reasonably good condition involves fixing a section on Ledge hill near where the stone crusher has been located for months and thence westward to a point opposite Church street. West of that point it is hoped to get the road open so that new parts of it off the old route may be opened to traffic. With such favorable weather as prevailed the past two weeks this can be done, but it is sensed that late November days and the month of December may be entirely different.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Maude A. Smith

This afternoon at the home of Henry E. Anderson, on Maple street, funeral services for Mrs. Maude A. Smith, who died in Cleveland this week and whose body arrived here today, were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Henry E. Anderson, Waldo Colvin, Arthur Lach, Charles Martin, Charles Lakey and Earl Whipple. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

R. C. Roll Call Closes Today

This Saturday brings the close of the annual roll call of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross. While final reports on its success will not be available until early in the coming week, it appears today that these reports will be very satisfactory. Workers who have covered all of the borough of Danielson, Elmville, East Killingly, South Killingly and Brooklyn relate that they have been cordially received wherever they have gone. The objective is to obtain 1200 members in the area of Danielson chapter. Last year 1140 were enrolled.

Opening of the new Providence highway cut-off has had the expected result of very greatly reducing traffic over the trunk line that runs through narrow Reynolds street and sending it over the new route. What this reduction is in percentage of total traffic moving east and west through Danielson may not be estimated accurately, but it is believed by observers to be from 50 to 75 per cent. Probably the greatest amount of diversion is in west-bound traffic, for coming into Danielson on the Providence route the new highway is most inviting because of its fine condition, and also because persons unfamiliar with the route are likely to regard the Reynolds street entrance on Stearns hill as taking them onto a secondary road.

It is now formally announced that Santa Claus is to spend considerable of his time in Danielson during the Christmas shopping season. He comes here at the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce. His first appearance of the season will be on Saturday, December 8. He will be back again on Saturday, December 15, will be in town the entire week of December 17-22, and has agreed to come again on Christmas eve. He will be about the streets and in the stores on each day of his visit from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 at night. Also he plans a few trips to neighboring communities. His visitations to this territory have been arranged especially in the interest of the children.

The fine new gymnasium building dedicated at Woodstock academy this week was constructed under the direction of Damase Boulais, of Danielson, at a cost of approximately $45,000. It is a memorial to Ely Ransom Hall, principal of the academy from 1888 to 1914, and one of the most beloved men who has lived in Woodstock in the past generation. The building fills a need that has long been felt at the academy. It is provided with modern gymnasium appointments and is a delight to the pupils at the school, one of the oldest established in this section of eastern Connecticut.

As an aftermath of the election, it appeared today that numbers of democrats throughout the first and second districts of Killingly are not too well pleased over the alleged boasting that is being done in the third election district of the town—East Killingly and vicinity—over the outstanding defeat given the democratic national ticket in that territory a week ago last Tuesday. It is explained that this is because the third district did much better for the democratic ticket in the town election in October, and that there is no legitimate reason why it should not have done equally well in the national election. It is a little matter, it is promised, that will be rectified when another town election comes around.

An annual pre-holiday activity for the coming week is the collection in this town of Killingly's share of offerings for Thanksgiving for the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam. For years past people of the communities of this town have given fruits, vegetables, preserves and various other things that are very acceptable at the hospital, to which many patients go from Killingly each year. The collecting of the Thanksgiving offerings is being done under the auspices of the Woman's board of the hospital.

Next Tuesday evening's cottage prayer meeting of members of the Nazarene church is to be held at the home of Bennie Reynolds on Mechanic street.

On Monday afternoon of next week, members of the Ladies' Reading circle are to meet with Mrs. Charles D. Chase, of North Main street.

Dr. Robert McLaughlin, of Worcester, is to be the speaker at the meeting of the Killingly Woman's club next Wednesday afternoon. His topic will be Education Through the People.

William A. Reddy has been promoted to a sergeantcy in the medical detachment with its headquarters at the state armory.

Dr. Hugh Campbell, of Norwich, will come here next Tuesday to conduct a health clinic at the health station in the town hall building, during the usual hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lemire and Mrs. P. Moran, of Berthierville, P. Q., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lemire, of Academy street.

William Culley, Elmville, remains among the missing. He was wanted here to answer to charges of breaking and entering churches in Danielson and Dayville. His accuser and alleged partner in the enterprise, Ralph Shippee, of Elmville, already has been given a sentence for his part in the affair.

The final game of the season for Killingly High school's football team will be played here with the Putnam High school team on November 28.

TO DO AWAY WITH TOWER IN PUTNAM RAILROAD YARDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 16—A report was confirmed today to the effect that the little deserted tower and interlocking cabin of the N. Y., N. H. & H., known as "Klondike", situated on the outskirts of the Putnam yards about 2 and a half miles from the Putnam depot is to be abolished sometime Sunday during the hours of 3 and 11 p. m.

Considerable interest was aroused late yesterday afternoon when the news came that the little tower, safeguarding southbound trains into the Putnam yards, is to be discontinued and supplanted with the old hand switch that is constantly a lurking danger to the safe movement of trains in the vicinity of the Putnam railroad yards.

Action of the railroad officials refreshes one's memory of the tragic evening of October 24, 1924 when two Putnam railroad brotlemen lost their lives as the result of a headon collision, when their train entered the local yards by means of an old hand switch then in operation, which was carelessly set open, the train being piloted by William S. Carpenter and Joseph C. Hurlman, crashed into a standing freight, resulting in both men losing their lives a few days later as the result of fatal injuries.

The railroad officials called a consultation of engineers and an investigation was conducted. Soon after it was recommended that a new station and interlocking tower be erected at the scene of this fatality. Since this action train movements have been without disaster. On Sunday morning a force of men will report to the Klondike tower, when the interlocking apparatus will be disconnected and the old hand switch will be returned to service. The closing of this tower will virtually affect three operators, who will be transferred to other duties, if their senority rights are recognized, or they will be shifted to the reserve list of railroad telegraph workers.

FIRE CHIEF HAS NO RIGHT TO PARK CAR NEAR HYDRANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 16—Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston is only an ordinary citizen of the city of Putnam, when it comes to parking his car, despite the fact that he holds a few of the important municipal positions, according to the common council.

When the question of violation of the parking ordinances was raised at the November meeting of the common council last Tuesday evening, in which the police department was severely rebuked for its negligence in enforcing the code of parking laws Chief Thurston was reprimanded by the mayor and chairman of the city ordinance committee, Robert T. Chadwick, for parking his car in front of the fire plug on Main street, which is a common occurrence in the chief's daily routine.

"How can we make the people obey, when the fire chief deliberately parks his big car in front of a fire hydrant and leaves it there for several hours at a time," said Alderman Chadwick.

It was observed today that the genial chief had become a law abiding citizen as his beautiful chariot with its insignia rested at ease in another parking space.

Good Samaritans, over fifty in number, have loaned their cars to Windham County Y. M. C. A. Secretary L. Edwin Hill, to transport the city's youth to the Brown and New Hampshire state football encounter that is scheduled to take place at the Brown stadium in Providence Saturday afternoon. As previously announced the drivers will meet and take their places in line at the Putnam high school, where boys will be assigned to them. Mr. Hill said today that he expects to depart about noon.

The return of the balmy days of spring seemed almost a reality today as the mercury stood at record points for Nov. 16. The return of the suit coats and the light summer clothing apparel was noticeable among the ladies today. Even the automobiles were affected by the sudden change in the weather as many that had donned the winter side curtains were seen this morning in the business section with the tops folded back. Perhaps the so-called Indian summer will be experienced after all.

The successful Knights of Columbus, or better known in sporting activities as the Kaceys, started the first indoor sports tournament with their defeated rival the Odd Fellows last evening and at the close of the evening the scoreboards indicated that the Kaceys had triumphed over the members of Odd Fellowship by a score of 4 to 2. The first playoff of the season was staged in the Knights of Columbus rooms on Union street and will rivert to the Odd Fellows hall next week on Wednesday evening, the new date being to insure a larger attendance. Following is the encounter, the names of the Odd Fellowe being given first: Irving and K. Andrews won from Igoe and Ferns; McIntyre and Brown lost to Rice and T. Hannifan; Chandler and K. Andrews lost to Martin and Giraca; Arnold and Adams lost to Carey and Boye; F. Strombelis and J. Strombelis won from Phaneuf and M. Hannifan; Johnson and Swanson won from Hogan and L. Giraca.

Walter N. King and Francis Metcalf were in Portland, Me., Friday attending a meeting of the New England chamber of commerce.

P. Zaltas and family are removing into the house on Fremont street recently purchased by Mr. Zaltas from Dr. E. L. Simpson who has removed to New York.

Mrs. Howard Steere is visiting relatives and friends at Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin S. Greene have taken an apartment in Deland, Fla., for the present time, they report that the climate is beneficial to Mr. Green's health.

Russell Morse of East Woodstock was recently pledged to the membership of the Sigma Phi Fraternity of the University of New Hampshire.

Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police today issued orders to his men to enforce the parking regulations in the restricted areas today. From early morning the police were busy listening to the alibis of the delinquent motorists who "did not see the signs." Tags, green of color, were seen floating on the wheels of a number of cars parked mostly in the fire lane on North Main street.

The action came as the result of the action in the common council last Tuesday evening when the police were charged with being slack in the performance of their duty. Capt. Jarvis sat today that he proposes to carry out the will of the councillors to the best of his ability.

POLISH INDEPENDENCE CELEBRATED WITH JOY

Over five hundred Polish residents and friends were present at the recent celebration of the ten years of Poland's independence. Joseph Malek was chairman. The exercises opened with singing The Star Spangled Hanner and the Polish National Air. Warden Edmond Jodoin offered a few words of congratulation on the anniveraary. Roman Zagraniczny gave a recitation entitled Veterans. A violin and piano number, Paczek Rozy, was played by Helen Glowacki and Adeline Jaskiewicz. A reading, Ten Years of Independence, by aMrtin Mislaszek, proved very pleasing. A selection was sung by Misses Arabik, Zavistowska, Pajak, Dudkowska, Politsky and Skoczlas. A piano number was played by Miss Kapczyukiewicz. MichaleDziob, of Woonsocket, delivered an address. Helen and Stella Glowacki, Stanley Malek and Tadeusz Arabik, with violins, and piano, played "Do Wuja Starca." A recitation "Sukmana" was given by Stephen Tracz. First Selectman D. F. Flinn spoke briefly to the assemblage, as did also Attorney Richard Dudkowski. Adeline Glowacki executed two very graceful Polish and Spanish dances. Miss Mislaszek played t piano solo entitled "Gdy na wybzerzach mojcj Oyczyzny" (On the shore of our Fatherland). A song "Biale roze" was sung by Misses Sobota, Jaskiewicz, Skoczylas and Mislaszek, with piano accompaniment by Stella Glowacki. The speech of the celebration was by Rev. J. J. McCabe, who spoke both in English and Polish. He gave the history of Poland and its gaining of freedom, recalling the works of noted men of Polish descent. The exercises closed with singing the Polish hymn, "Boze Cos Polshe." The committee who arranged the celebration was Joseph Malek, Joseph Glowacki, Joseph Jaskiewicz, Martin Mislaszek, Michael Solinski, Mrs. Wojdan, Mrs. Glowacki, Mrs. Burda, Mrs. Pajak, Mrs. Bernal, and Mrs. Kapinkiewicz.

SCHOOL OF MISSIONS TO BE HELD FOR SIX WEEKS

The School of Missions, to be conducted in the Baptist vestry, was not opened Wednesday on account of the non-arrival of the text books. It will open on the twenty-first at 7:30 in the evening. There will be four classes. The Men's class is in charge of Rev. E. E. Scates, the Women's class of Mrs. G. H. Prior, the Young People's class of high school age of Mrs. A. M. Brown, and the younger Children's class of Mrs. B. R. Gardner. The three older classes will use the text book the World Thrust of Northern Baptists, and the youngest class book is Alaska. The latter class will meet at 3:45 p. m. Wednesdays. The course extends over six weeks, the sessions each Wednesday.

MEMORIAL ORGAN MOTOR GIFT OF CHAS. E. PRIOR

Sunday morning at the Baptist church there is to be a service of dedication for the new electric organ motor given by Charles E. Prior, of Bridgeport, in memory of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Prior. Music composed by the late Mr. Prior will be sung and played. George H. Prior, a nephew of Mr. Prior, who had charge of the installing of the motor, will speak. The pastor's sermon theme will deal with the special features of the service.

Mrs. Amanda Langlais went to New York Friday to take a special course of instruction.

At the first in a series of whists held under the auspices of the K. of C., Miss Marie Roy stood first in the women's scores, Mrs. William Purdon second, and Miss Mary J. Ponlin third. The men's first prise went to T. E. Shea, second to Hector LeClaire and third to John O'Shea.

Roses on Anniversary.

Mrs. F. D. Ballou entertained the Ladies' society of the Congregational church at her home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Andrew McNicol presided and after the business meeting was much surprised to find that the members were aware of the fact that Thursday was her wedding anniversary. She was presented a beautiful bouquet of roses as a token of love and appreciation for her interest in the work of the society. Mrs. Ballou was assisted by Mrs. L. G. Buckingham, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, Mrs. Walter Richardson, Mrs. E. A. Faust and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox.

Has Infantile Paralysis.

Priscilla GoodenoughZ, fourteen year old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough, was taken to New Haven hospital Friday morning to be given treatment for infantile paralysis. The trip was made in Earle E. Gilbert's automobile, where she rode very comfortably on a stretcher. She was accompanied by her parents and Miss Bertha Ruszenas, R. N., who has been caring for her.

The Methodist Men's Class has been invited to take pare in a union Men's Meeting in Danielson Methodist church next Tuesday night. The members are to unite with the Danielson and Mooxup Men's Classes.

Faith Chapter, O. E. S., has received an invitation to be guests of Radiant Chapter, No. 11, O. E. S., in Willimantic, Nov. 23.

Marian McNicol, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McNicol, was operated on for appendicitis at Backus hospital Friday.

LEDYARD

A large and appreciative audience listened to an eloquent address by Nelson Schlegel in the Congregational church, Sunday morning. This was a missionary Sunday and the talk had reference to that fact. Mr. Schlegel has visited the Holy Land and described many points of interest.

Miss Lulu Selzer of Hartford has been visiting and also working at the home of her father Albert Selzer for several days.

Ledyard Grange gave its annual chicken and rabbit pie supper in the vestry of the church Wednesday. A large number of people who came from many sections were present and thoroughly enjoyed the supper which has made Ledyard famous for the food served and the service given. A gratifying sum was realized.

"What is Being Done For and Against World Peace" was the subject discussed at the C. E. meeting Sunday evening, with Harry Holdridge, leader.

Thirteen members of the local C. E. union motored to Lebanon and attended the annual meeting of the Norwich C. E. union Friday evening, Nov. 9. There were eleven posters on exhibition made by nine different societies. The Ledyard union was awarded second prize on exhibit. This poster was drawn by Ray D. Holdridge, of Ledyard.

The installation of officers of the Norwich union took place and Carl H. Holdridge, president of the local union was installed as treasurer of the Norwich union. Those going from Ledyard were Alfred Clark, Gilbert Hagen, Carl Holdridge, Mrs. Carl Holdridge, Paul Holdridge, Eddie Bennett, Harry Williams, Marion Williams, Jessie Crouch, Lavinia Crouch, Harry Holdridge, Blanche Holdridge and the pastor, Nelsen Schlegel.

Miss Lillian Main and Miss Louise Clark of Willimantic, Normal school were with their parents over Sunday.

Reynolds Hewitt of Hartford attended Sunday services at the church and was the guest of Mrs. W. I. Allyn at dinner.

Mrs. George A. Peck of Norwich Town was the guest of Mrs. Rudge Thursday.

At the teachers' institute in Poquetanuck Tuesday, Mrs. Evangeline Fuller's 7th and 8th grade pupils of this town, demonstrated a model drawing of the New England states, with their location, principal rivers, mountains and cities. The work was well received and heartily applauded by the forty teachers present.

BOZRAH

MISS ALICE BISHOP ILL AT BACKUS HOSPITAL

The many friends of Miss Alice A. Bishop are grieved to learn of her serious illness. Miss Bishop was taken to Backus Hospital Sunday morning suffering with pneumonia. She is being sorely missed in the church, of which she is the most efficient organist and a loyal worker.

The supper given by the C. E. on Wednesday was a most enjoyable affair. The food was excellent and the music, furnished by Mallet's orchestra, was much enjoyed.

The choir of Bozrah Congregational Church with the pastor, Rev. G. H. Strouse, will have charge of the service at the Sheltering Arms Sunday afternoon at 3:30.

Rev. George Henry Strouse spent last Wednesday and Thursday in Greenwich attending the sessions of the General Conference of Congregational churches.

The Bible Study class, of Bozrah Congregational Church met at the home of Mrs. Frances Herrick, Bliss Place, Thursday evening. After an hour of bible study the pastor was surprised by a most generous recognition of his birthday. A birthday cake was introduced together with a shower of post cards and a purse of gold. The pastor expressed his thanks. A delightful social hour followed.

THANKSGIVING DINNERS

As Thanksgiving approaches preparations must be made for dinners in the homes of many where for various reasons it will be impossible to provide anything in the way of extras. This work has been directed in past years by the Family Welfare department of the United Workers and as it undertakes it again this year its plea for assistance on the part of the public ought not to be overlooked.

Here is an opportunity for those who are anxious to contribute to such a worthy cause to place their funds in the hands of those who not only know where they can be used to the best advantage but which gives assurance of efficient administration.

Each year there are valuable contributions from the pupils in the various schools about town. They provide barrels of vegetables, much fruit and some canned goods but there are other things which are required for the completion of a Thanksgiving dinner and they must be obtained from the contributions of money.

The spirit of Thanksgiving should not fail to deal generously with this situation. There are many homes where sickness or other unfortunate conditions make such assistance necessary. The department believes that [illegible] for 100 homes will be required this year and in planning to meet that requirement it looks to the people of Norwich who have good cause for giving thanks to consider the merits of this particular avenue while doing so.

The school children are always much interested in making their part of the undertaking a success, but it is a matter which ought not to be left entirely to them. It cannot be if all requirements are to be met, and it would be much regretted if deserving homes failed to get Thanksgiving dinners through a lack of interest on the part of those who should be willing to provide.

This is one of the objects which Norwich has generously supported in the past and there are good reasons for believing that a reminder will be all that is necessary in meeting the problem this year.

MR. WRIGHT DECIDES

Some time ago the impression was created that the feeling which had been shown by Orville Wright against the Smithsonian institution, over the labeling of the Langley plane, had been appeased to such an extent that he would reconsider his idea of having his plane placed permanently in an English museum and would bring it back to this country.

Recent developments disclose that that was not so. Mr. Wright has now announced that he is not satisfied and his plane is to remain permanently abroad.

It is a matter for Mr. Wright to decide. The plane belongs to him and he can do as he pleases with it. It had been hoped, however, that inasmuch as it is an American plane, the first one in which flight was made, that it could be preserved in this country where it might be seen without trouble by all those interested in it. It will be open to public inspection abroad but it is quite evident that few Americans will go abroad solely to see it and those who do take the opportunity to look it over while across the Atlantic will be much smaller in number than would be the case if it were at Washington.

It is much to be regretted that he was not able to bring about a compromise of views that would have done justice to all concerned in regard to both his plane and the Langley plane. Mr. Wright is peeved because the marker on the Langley plane appears to him to give it credit which belongs to the Wright plane. The former was built first but it was not demonstrated that it could fly until after the Wright plane had gained that distinction. Naturally Mr. Wright is desirous that that honor shall not be infringed. On that point he is right in insisting that his machine should get every credit that belongs to it, but opinions differ at to whether he was justified in refusing the compromise that was advocated by a board of inquiry.

The desire on the part of the institution to have the records of the machines straightened out is such as to justify the belief that a satisfactory arrangement ought to have been made and the machine kept on this side of the water.

NICARAGUA'S CONGRESS

There has been good and sufficient reason for satisfaction over the manner in which the Nicaraguan election was conducted under the guidance of the representatives of this country. Through the supervision there was a full and free opportunity given to every voter to cast a ballot as he pleased. It brought commendations not only in this country but, best of all, in Nicaragua. It was a decided contrast to what had occurred there on previous presidential elections.

With the election over interest is bound to be maintained in the developments that follow. This is increased somewhat by the situation in the new congress there. While a liberal president was being chosen by a sufficient majority to eliminate any question as to the result the congress will be so close as to make uncertain just what course it will pursue. The senate stands tied while the chamber of deputies will be conservative by 28 to 20. Inasmuch as congress must pass upon the presidential results there can be no doubt as to the action it must take in this instance, yet with a liberal president chosen under previous conditions it would not have been difficult at all for the conservative congress to have insisted that a conservative president had been chosen.

Such a development now would completely remove the benefits of the supervision over the election furnished by this country. It would be a reversion to those conditions which it is hoped have been ended. It would completely upset the fair play which the United States has been striving for and which it has thus far accomplished. It would be the worst thing that could happen to Nicaragua.

That it might be expected to result under past methods does not necessarily mean that it is expected now. With Nicaragua pleased at the way in which the election was conducted and impressed by the thoroughness shown in the preparations, it is to be expected that its members in congress will be alive to their responsibilities and ready to show that they are desirous of maintaining a constitutional government. American influence there can be expected to operate in that direction.

THE MESSAGE TO THE SOUTH

That was a message of much significance which was sent by Mr. Hoover to Editor Edmonds of the Manufacturers Record, a publication which has long and successfully championed the causes of the south.

It was a clear statement of his views concerning possibilities in those states quite in keeping with what he had to say at the time he spoke in Tennessee and it displayed his appreciation of the support which he received in the south November 6.

When Mr. Hoover refers to the fact that he will be president of the entire country and that he will give full consideration to the interests of the south the same as to those of other sections it is the only attitude a president should take. He sees big opportunities for the south and is interested in seeing that needed developments take place. He points to such developments as meaning the enrichment of the nation "in the broad sense of the development of the spirit of Americanism, which will permeate the lives of the people of the entire country, rounding out to a greater extent than we have ever known before, a genuine Americanism, instead of a certain degree of sectionalism."

Mr. Hoover points to the political change in southern states and attributes it to a sentiment throughout the south in behalf of the things for which the republican party has stood in this campaign." There have been marked changes in recent years. It has been demonstrated that southern states have confidence in Mr. Hoover and his policies and in the breaking of the solid south there has been a step taken which has many possibilities in the future. His intention of tackling certain of its problems should do much in minimizing the sectionalism he referred to.

FILIPINO COOPERATION

With the adjournment of the Philippine legislature and a study of the things accomplished it becomes evident that Governor General Stimson is making an excellent beginning in his new office.

When he went to the islands he made it clear that it was his purpose to work for and with the Filipinos for their betterment. He impressed upon them the importance of cooperation and it would appear from the results which have thus far been obtained that he is getting it. What General Wood did in that office made possible the action of General Stimson. Conditions were wretched. They had to be improved. General Wood proceeded to do it. He was firm but what he did was for the benefit of the islands. He had instituted reforms and to a considerable degree it was possible for General Stimson to point out the advantage of the Filipinos working with him and this government rather than against them.

From the manner in which the Philippine legislature has enacted measures in keeping with his suggestions and for the elimination of difficulties which have hitherto been confronted by the governor general it is apparent that much more cooperation is to be expected than was provided in the past. Different tactics are being employed. New practices have been adopted and real constructive effort has been put forth in place of the obstruction which characterized too much of the action by the Filipino legislature in other years. It is a change that must be gratifying to Governor General Stimson but it likewise is certain to react to the advancement of the islands.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The recent presidential election, or landslide, if you please to call it, gave very gratifying results, quite apart from the partisan part of it, and that was the unprecedented number of voters who availed themselves of their constitutional privilege. In some of our great political contests the relative number who availed themselves of the franchise was lamentably small, in fact a disgrace to a people who have the reputation of being superintelligent. In some of these major contests only a little more than 52 per cent. appeared at the polls, and an examination of the personnel of the voters showed that, for the most part, the delinquents did not hail from the slums but from the boulevards. In the recent election a jump of at least 80 per cent. over the 1924 electorate is clear evidence that the women of America are waking up to their political responsibilities.

Turning the pages of a journal the other day, my eye caught the following suggestive saying: "The totality of life is the product of many little things." Is there not here a principle that underlay the gigantic struggle that took place in every city, town, village and hamlet in this great land on Nov. 6? The one little thing that crowned the day with phenomenal results was the multitude of little things which ran up into the millions which we call ballots. Hence it is reasonable to say that the life of a presidential election is the produce of many little things. There is hardly any phase of life to which this statement does not apply. For instance, of what is the totality of any day made up? Is it made up of one big outstanding thing in its separate entity or of a greater or lesser number of little things? A successful day is that in which the separate details have come together in harmony.

The most recent leaflet sent out by the Connecticut department of motor vehicles has one very suggestive paragraph on "Car Cemeteries." It is not only a very timely article but its title places before the mind a condition of things that ought not to exist. In these days attempts are being made by public officials as well as by private individuals to make our roadways not only excellent for travel but to remove everything that offends the eye. All people of sense and refinement are pained when forced to come into contact with the unsightly, especially when it is entirely unnecessary. Now and then the public highway is disgraced by a multitude of skeleton cars in every possible state of disintegration. Probably these corpses are kept for the purpose of supplying parts to bodies that are yet alive, but what remains looks too much like a recent battlefield to meet with popular favor.

In the same leaflet from the motor department we have a timely word about the disposition of automobiles that have outlived their usefulness. The reference is to those cars that are still wobbling along the highway that have long since passed the meridian of their usefulness. In days past it was not pleasant to see some antique horse just moving along the street, having been dead for quite a while without its owner finding it out. This situation was somewhat relieved by having a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the object of this society being to remind the owner of horses when they were dead. Would it not be well to form some society to protect old and diseased automobiles, and when they die, especially if it is a natural death, to see that they have a decent burial? Dead and diseased bodies are a menace, but not more so than dead and diseased cars.

The fundamental sanity of the American people is nowhere seen to better advantage than in the philosophical manner in which they take the outcome of a presidential election. In this we see a marked contrast to the way many of the Latin American states receive a presidential defeat. There was little noisy—and not any riotous—demonstration after the results of the recent election were known. If many of the states south of us had been wrought up to the same degree of tension as we were, blood would have flowed freely as soon as the results were known. Let us devoutly thank God that on our soil there is no such disgrace as that which marked the pre-election recently in Mexico. As a people we are very far from claiming superiority over our neighbors to the south. But heritage, training and climate have had a tendency to create a degree of self-control that many others do not possess to the same degree.

Nothing indicates to better advantage the extension of the Kingdom of God than the numerous societies in these days whose object is to emphasize things that ought to be known. If one keeps in touch with the announcements in the daily press of the many clubs, societies and guilds—I mean those that tend to human betterment—he must be amazed at the increase over what was in vogue no longer than fifty years ago. Probably the writer's experience does not differ much from others of the same profession. In the last two weeks he was invited to take part in six different meetings, all of which had an important bearing upon the general work of Christian education. It would seem like the silence of the death chamber to go back to "the good old times" when Sunday only was given to this character of work.

These are the days when one is attracted by the big boys on their way to school. We admire their vitality, greased heads and ruddy cheeks. Going bareheaded evidently agrees with them, but one wanders as the cold weather advances if the grease, oil, or whatever preparation is used to make their hair so slick and shiny, will not congeal and make them feel uncomfortable. But the bareheaded business is all right. Why should the top of the head need any more protection in winter than the face, especially when it is covered with hair plus grease or oil? The face becomes hardened to the weather by long exposure, so can the whole head in the same way. The only person, probably, who would call it a return to paganism is the haberdasher who has just gotten in his winter stock of hats and caps.

Speaking of school lads reminds the writer of a little incident that came to his notice only a short time ago. The little fellow was fired with patriotic zeal, which is commendable in a little lad, and everybody else, for that matter. In fact, he was so filled with the spirit of the hour that he felt the urge to give his emotions outward expression, which was his right as guaranteed by the constitution. If everybody had the spirit of this lad, we would have a safer world to live in. With a bit of chalk he began to express the emotions that surged up in his little patriotic breast. It did not militate against the sincerity of his motives if he was not very familiar with the use of capital letters. As his little heart was all right, I am sure that the good Lord overlooked his mistakes in execution. When the writer came along he was just finishing his laborious task. The following is what the sidewalk revealed: "Vote for Ale Smith."

Rome "Cleans Up"

ROME—(AP)—Under the driving broom of her new governor, Prince Boncompagni-Ludovisi, Rome is soon to be freed from a billboard and poster nuisance. Posters pasted on churches and statues aroused the governor to order their removal.

SACRIFICES MADE BY LOVE ARE NOT LOSSES BUT ENRICHMENTS.

The deep thought among all national political observers, analysts, experts, long-bow drawers and chance-shot artists, is the hazy and problematical future of our two great political parties, in view especially of the fact that one of them seems to be lying on the roadside in a bruised and broken condition, awaiting the arrival of some good Samaritan who will furnish splints and liniments and also a strong radio receiving set for catching the deathless word "Excelsior" out of the ether of 1932.

To this spacious debate, William Hard in the Washington Star ventures to try to make a little contribution, based on personally ascertained facts and proceeding only incidentally into surmises.

It is manifest that the revival of the democratic party will depend upon its constituting itself into an effective "opposition." It is manifest also, however, that you cannot erect an "opposition" except in answer and in rivalry to the policies of the party in power. The first question therefore is not "What will the democratic party do?" The first question obviously is: "What will Hoover do?"

To that question the writer devotes himself, out of many years of painful and pertinacious observation of Hoover's character and mental qualities.

The writer heard Hoover assailed lately by intimate friends of his on the subject of more federal management of water power plants. They assailed him with statistics, and they assailed him with stories of popular political demand. Hoover listened at first patiently and then with evident mounting resentment. At a pause he simply said: "I'm against it on principle and on conscience, and that's enough," and went on to something else.

That incident was the actual Hoover, so much obscured by yarns about his "efficiency" and about his skill as an "adding machine."

Hoover, in fact, leaves all the adding and all the subtracting entirely to the bookkeepers and accountants. He has an amazingly retentive memory, and he hurls statistics as weapons. He never, however, makes his fundamental decisions upon them. He makes those decisions wholly upon what some people with admiration and other people with contempt call "general principles."

He was counseled by many of his associates to compromise with the McNary-Haugen "equalization fee." He was vehemently urged to paint a definite picture of governmental agricultural price-fixing activity through the "stabilization corporations" favored by the republican party. He seemed due to lose the whole northwest unless he took this advice. It was pressed upon him by a vast multitude of republican northwestern politicians. He never for one moment even thought of accepting it. He rejected it without the slightest examination of details. He rejected it simply and utterly on the broad general principle that governmental price-fixing of commercial competitive commodities is contrary, as he believes, not only to "sound economics" but to "the American governmental system."

That second point—"the American governmental system"—is with him invariably the really decisive one. From that standpoint the writer prophesies securely that Hoover will be the most "antique" president that the United States has ever had in modern times.

Hoover believes the Declaration of Independence as fervently as Jefferson. He believes the constitution of 1787 as fervently as Madison. He thinks that those two documents constitute the eternal epitome of the political nature of man and of the science of government. He has spoken of them as having been conceived under "divine inspiration." He seems literally to mean it. All his acts as president will be—will have to be—within the limits which the Declaration and the constitution "divinely" fix.

It follows clearly that on fundamentals he will be an extremely "conservative" president. This would seem to give to the democratic party a prospective whiff of reviving smelling salts. Hoover will recoil from almost every proposed expansion of federal functions, especially if they go in the direction of increased federal control of business. The democratic party, to answer him, might assume the role of "the party of progress." It might become the American equivalent of the British labor party, which, despite its name, seeks and gets support from people of all classes who regard a "negative" government as a "surrender to the business interests."

That is the development which in some quarters is being freely predicted.

Then, however, arises Hoover's second basic quality. The first is his constitutionalism and traditionalism. The second is a corrective to the first. It is the man's appalling ingenuity in devising new creative departures absolutely within the limits of the old constitutional and traditional legal restrictions.

To illustrate: As secretary of commerce, he has frequently acted as an arbiter between contending commercial forces, not under any law, but solely through the choice of the parties concerned and through the prestige which his character gave to his office. He will retain—and will expand—that habit as president. Confronted by a great strike, for instance, in coal or in steel or on railroads, he will neither remain quiescent nor call upon congress for more legal power. He will inevitably at once bring to bear upon that strike the whole of his presidential prestige and he will struggle to settle it through negotiations in the privacy of his office in the executive wing of the white house without leaving behind a single trace of any instant need for any new legislation.

The writer has seen Hoover employ this method as secretary of commerce in his dealings with the producing and marketing public problems of a score of great industries. He has seen him thus forestall and prevent more legislation than any other man of our times. Rendering legislation unnecessary might indeed be said to be his highest aim and his supreme specialty.

The real race of the next four or eight years will, therefore, be between the reformers, on the one hand, hastening forward with bills for acts to cure evils, and Hoover, on the other hand, summoning those evils into the white house to get cured by presidential X-ray treatments before the legislative surgeons catch them.

Hoover will show this tendency in the matter of prohibition. He may possibly ask congress to give him authority to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice. That would be a change, merely, of administrative detail. He is extremely unlikely to ask congress to give him any new drastic powers in the detection or in the punishment of prohibition offenders. His policy in relation to prohibition will in all probability follow two lines, neither of which will require any expansion of bureaucracy.

The first may be to strike with concentrated force at the wayward officials, federal or state or local, whose corrupt connivance sustains the whole bootlegging industry. The second undoubtedly will be to use the presidential office as a lever and a pulpit for making compliance with the 18th amendment seem more the personal moral duty of each private citizen than it seems at present.

Hoover's influence in this respect is already gathering force. His followers on his campaigning trains found themselves increasingly getting along without flasks. Several Washington houses much given to hospitality but also much devoted to Hoover have within the last few weeks transferred themselves in personal practice from the wet to the dry column. There will be no drinks any more in those houses, even for guests from embassies or legations. The political aspirants who will find favor in Hoover's eyes will be those who are dry or who will go dry. Hoover will not issue orders, but his behavior will speak louder than words. Within two years—this writer verily believes—total abstinence is going to be actually officially fashionable in Washington.

If Hoover can solve the liquor problem with reasonable appropriations and with reasonable enforcement powers and by example and education and presidential prestige, he will solve it. If it cannot be solved except by emptying the federal treasury and by crowning every hill in the United States with a jail, he will not solve it.

Everything depends, then, in all the problems of Hoover's whole administration, upon the success or failure of his peculiar non-legislative anti-bureaucratic method of leadership, to which he has given the distinctive descriptive title "conference and cooperation."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—Some folks with violent views, one way or t'other, about prohibition enforcement might cavil at the oft repeated statement that this is a government of law, but who can challenge the assertion that it's a government of lawyers?

The Bystander has been moved to an informal occupational census of the membership of senate and house. He is ready to vote in the affirmative on the latter proposition.

Out of 96 senators, 58 claim the law as a profession or chief occupation when not engaged in politics, if ever. In the house, there are more than 250 lawyers by profession on their own biographical showing out of a total membership of 435.

Occupations in Congress

The nearest rival in the senate of the lawyer majority is the profession of publisher. Five senators give that as their main private interest or occupation. Next in number are the three bankers, while the business of farmer, educator and livestock raiser show two each. Occupations having a single representative in that august body are civil engineer, doctor, merchant, well driller, iron master, explorer, insurance man and lumberman.

The house, of course, shows a far wider variation. Next to the lawyer group comes school teachers of assorted varieties from college professor down, total around 25. There are a dozen newspaper or magazine publishers; half a dozen newspaper reporters or editors as distinct from owners and publishers; eight or ten manufacturers; seven each doctors, bankers, real estate men and farmers.

There are four merchants, a wholesaler or two, three who rate themselves as business men, five building contractors, two mining engineers, two locomotive engineers, two ordained ministers, one journeyman glassblower now head of a glass company, four insurance men, one traveling and one bond salesman, one dentist, one department store head, one owner of a chain of restaurants, one actor, one forest ranger, one power plant owner, one plumber, one butter and egg man set down as a produce merchant, one head of a tree dentistry company, one seed company president.

Many Taught School

The thing that cannot fail to impress anyone who looks even casually into these personally contributed biographical sketches is the part played in American life by the occupation of teaching school. For page after page, every personal history shows a young man setting out on his career, teaching school to earn his daily bread as he prepared for college or read law. Possibly two-thirds of all members of both senate and house have had such experience.

Another thing particularly noticeable about the biographical review of the seventieth congress is the number of men who served in the World war, some of whom also had service in the Spanish-American war. It remains for Rep. Joe Crail of Los Angeles to touch his record up with intentional humor, however, in recounting the service of himself and twin brother in the volunteers of 1898 as enlisted men. Joe became a corporal, Charles a sergeant, Joe discloses in his biography, "according to their commanding officer, in order that he could tell one from the other by their chevrons."

DANDRUFF A DANGER SIGNAL

By Oscar L. Levin, M. D., New York

Dandruff is the precursor of permanent baldness. It might even be said that nine out of ten persons who seek treatment for baldness, suffer, or at some time have suffered, from what they call dandruff. Dandruff is a danger signal that all too few of us heed. It is the by-product of an infection caused by the growth of micro-organisms or parasites. It is the most frequent accompaniment of an inflammation of the scalp known to the dermatologist as seborrheic eczema or seborrheic dermatitis. The condition leads, if neglected, to other complications, both of the scalp and the skin of the rest of the body, affecting the face, ears, armpits and front of the chest particularly.

Dandruff consists mainly of scales, bacteria and fatty secretion from the seborrheic or oil glands of the scalp. These oil glands are present practically in all parts of the body, but are more numerous on the scalp and face. As a result of infection of the scalp there is an abnormally excessive formation of the uppermost layers of the cells of the scalp and an abnormal functioning of the oil glands, resulting in either an increased or decreased secretion of the oil or sebum. The scales and oil form a trick yellowish coating on the scalp and in the hair follicles themselves. Where there is a decreased secretion of oil, the scales are dry and grayish white in color. Very often there is itching and tenderness of the scalp, and if the scales are scratched away, it is usually found that the scalp beneath looks red and inflamed. The condition may occur in patches or over the entire scalp, and as it progresses fatty degeneration takes place in the hair follicles. The hair is replaced in the follicle by fat globules and results in the destruction of the hair and production of baldness.

The main factors that predispose the scalp to infection are poor hygiene of the scalp and a poor general constitution. It has been noted that certain changes may occur internally that weaken the resistance of the scalp to infection, as for instance from grippe, nervous shocks, general fatigue, faulty diet and disturbance of the metabolic processes. However, infection may also occur in an apparently normal healthy individual.

Little Talks on Thrift

Foundation of Success Laid by Keeping Personal Budget

"Working without a plan is sailing without a compass," says the old proverb, and it can well be applied to the administration of one's personal affairs.

One of the first essentials in making plans is to keep a budget. This may seem a trivial matter yet it is the only method by which any person can plan his financial affairs scientifically or develop greater efficiency in personal economies.

A man who is often referred to as a business genius recently said: 'Early in life, when a boy, I formed the habit of jotting down every penny I spent. This taught me the value of system and frugality. I soon found myself able to save a little money. As I grew, I developed habits of general thrift from this simple beginning, and, with a small amount of capital thus available when I reached the age of maturity, I was able to take advantage of opportunities that led to subsequent success."

Many other men who have achieved great success in the business world could give similar testimony.

Every business concern keeps a strict account of every penny received and spent, and a business which transacted its affairs in any other manner would be most incapably managed.

The value of budget keeping is especially applicable to the young, for the habit thus formed early in life is quite apt to be carried along as a permanent routine.

If you are endeavoring to get ahead in the world and be prepared for the rainy days that come into all lives, adopt first the rule of keeping an accurate daily record of your expenses. You will find that by the adoption of this system your progress will be made doubly easy and you will soon be surprised at the difference these well-ordered practices make in the amount of your savings.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Sunday Morning Talk

BE THANKFUL

"Were there not ten cleansed" asked the master sorrowfully. "But where are the nine?"

Of ten men rescued by our Lord from the grasp of an incurable and loathsome malady, only one came back to thank the Lord for the great blessing received. We wonder at the ingratitude of the nine, but how few today give thanks when they are delivered from peril, healed of an illness, helped over a hard place or for the many blessings received every day. A cynic has said that "gratitude is a lively sense of favors to come," and looking about the world and surveying human nature, one finds very few persons who practice toward God or man the virtue of genuine thankfulness.

The common mercies that we all share are received by us as our right. We even grumble when the weather does not suit our convenience; when it is too cold, or too hot, too wet or too dry. But God appoints the world's weather and arranges the course of the seasons, and we could not do it as He does.

What a blessing would come to us in our heart-lives if we would learn to receive every gift, however small, with a grateful heart to our heavenly Father when the day is bright and equally grateful when the storm is raging to feel that we are in the Father's care. We might do far worse than at times to sit down and count our common mercies. The thankful spirit drives out fault-finding and distress over trivial matters. Much of our dissatisfaction is due to our lack of gratitude and dwelling in the sunlight of His love.

Now unto the King eternal
Our songs of praise we bring,
For surely the King eternal
Will know whereof we sing.
Thanks for the work that makes us
Brave and strong and true.
For the sure sense of Thy presence,
For sunshine as well as rain.

IN DAY'S NEWS

PLYMOUTH.

Plymouth, England, long one of the most important English ports, and a community of 200,000 inhabitants, has just been given the rank of "city." The designation was made officially by the king of England. The "new city" is the subject of a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Plymouth is a familiar name to most American ears," says the bulletin, "largely because of its American namesakes. There are more than a score of post offices bearing the name in the United States in addition to the two that are most famous, one the Massachusetts landing place of the Pilgrim Fathers, and the other a tiny mountain village in Vermont where a president was sworn in by lamplight in a humble farmhouse.

"But if a traveler from the United States fancies that he will be entirely on familiar ground when he visits the original Plymouth, the strange names he encounters will soon disillusion him. He may land at the Barbican, which is a famous old quay. Above him rises the Hoe—not an enshrined garden implement, but a height of land with a park on it. To his right stretches the Catwater, though he would be inclined to insist that it is merely the mouth of the River Plym. Farther to the left lies the Hamoaze, a part of the estuary of the River Tamar. And behind the city rise the Mannamead Hills.

"Plymouth lies midway along the south shore of the great peninsula of southwest England whose point is the well known Lands End. It is surrounded by ports that once flourished; but of these Plymouth has had continuing prosperity and steady growth. It owes its importance to several geographic factors. In the first place, Plymouth Sound, especially since the construction of the huge breakwater in 1841, furnishes excellent anchorage. From its numerous inlets Plymouth has been fortunate, too, in being the westernmost of the large Channel ports. Its ships bound southward and eastward could drop straight south without a detour to round Brittany, the 'spout' of the French 'tea pot.' It was equally well placed for voyages to America.

"As a result, by the end of the fourteenth century, Plymouth ranked fourth in population among English towns, being exceeded only by London, Bristol and York. And in Elizabethan times it became the foremost port of all England. The delay in raising Plymouth to the city status is emphasized by the fact that it was the first English town to receive a parliamentary charter. This was nearly 500 years ago.

"Plymouth, more than any other city, may be considered the home base of operations for the building of the British empire. In the period of colonization, and in the period in which the British navy was fighting its way to supremacy, expedition after expedition sailed from Plymouth or came triumphantly into its harbor, while the populace stood on the Hoe giving a noisy farewell or an enthusiastic welcome. Plymouth's greatest day was when news came that the Spanish Armada was in sight, and the fleet of Drake and Hawkins weighed anchors and sailed out of the sound to start the destruction that storms completed. The Armada Memorial on the Hoe commemorates this great event."

Stories That Recall Others

Meow

Little Patricia, aged four, was attending the theater for the first time with her parents. During the low, plaintive solo, played by a Hawaiian on a musical saw, the stillness was broken suddenly by a sweet little voice. "Sounds dust like a kitten, doesn't it, muvver?"

Not Asking

Ellen often visits the childless lady next door, who has a conspicuous candy jar on her buffet. The child had been permitted to call on the neighbor, with a promise that she would not ask for candy. After a time the little miss spied the tempting jar, brimming full and said "You have a pretty full jar of candy. I can't ask for any today, but I will eat all you will give me."

MOTORCYCLE FAVORED OVER BICYCLE FRENCH

PARIS—(AP)—Bicycle, for years a favorite means of locomotion with Frenchmen, have declined by half a million a year in favor of motorcycles.

Motorcycles have gained ground everywhere, even among the clergy, who are abandoning the humble pedals for the noisy motor, especially in rural parishes.

Motorcycles have not been so successful in one case, however. The Archbishop of Rouen, persuaded that "motorcycles cause many accidents," has ordered all the priests of his diocese to return to their bicycles.

Coring Huge Columns.

The successful coring, not long ago, of four large monolithic granite columns in San Francisco has been instanced as an example of the extraordinary developments along these lines. This work was accomplished in the course of the construction of one of the largest and most expensive structures in the city. The pillars were 13 feet long and 2¼ feet in diameter. After being quarried and externally polished each column weighed 16 tons. In the coring half of the weight was eliminated.

The pillars were quarried vertically, which is unusual; so that they now stand in the same position perpendicularly that they did in the granite strata. This, engineers assert, enhances the pressure-sustaining power half inch holes were made throughout as to be fitted over powerful steel of the columns. They were cored so as to be fitted over powerful steel structural I-beams. Eighteen and one-the entire length of each pillar. The drilling was done from each end of the column; the holes extended in 9 feet from each end, and met in the middle of the pillar. So accurately was this work done that each drill hole met midway as perfectly as a railway tunnel.

The burial was in Yantic cemetery and a committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Budlong. The bearers were Russell Brand, a son, and Allen Brand, Earl Clarke and Henry Clarke, nephews.

Sister M. Carola

The funeral of Sister Mary Carola (in the world, Mary Shanley) of the Sacred Heart convent, Bridgeport, was held last Thursday morning at 9:30 from the Church of the Sacred Heart in that city. Rev. James Killian celebrated the solemn requiem mass, with Rev. Francis Shugrue deacon, and Rev. J. A. Ganley, sub-deacon. Rev. John Costello of St. Peter's church was master of ceremonies.

The casket was surrounded by a guard of honor of the Boy Scouts of the parish. The bearers were six nephews of the deceased, and burial was in St. Michael's cemetery, Bridgeport, where Father Mulcahy conducted the committal services. Sister Mary Carola was born in Ireland, but came to America while a young girl and part of her early life was spent in Danbury. She entered the mother house of the Sisters of Mercy in Hartford in 1898, and had professed December 27, 1930. Her early years were spent at St. Augustine's convent, Bridgeport, later for twenty-five years as instructor in St. Patrick's parish, Norwich, later again at St. Augustine's, Bridgeport, and then as Superior of St. Mary's Home for the Aged, West Hartford, where she spent three years caring for the sick and aged. Sister Carola was again transferred to Bridgeport to the Convent of the Church of the Sacred Heart, where the pupils of the parochial school received the benefit of her many years of experience. Of Sister Mary Carola's life nearly forty-one years were devoted to the training of the Catholic youth of Connecticut. She leaves a sister, Sister Anna Maria of SS. Peter and Paul's Convent, Waterbury, and two brothers, Peter M. and Frank A. Shanley, of Danbury.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Friday morning a truck owned by the Peck-McWilliams Co., and operated by John Boyle of No. 492 West Main street, caught fire on Shetucket street. The fire department responded to a telephone call, and extinguished the blaze with five gallons of chemical and a quantity of sand. The damage was slight.

Communicable Diseases Reported

Two cases of measles in Putnam and one case of whooping cough in Montville are the only cases of communicable disease reported in eastern Connecticut this week by the state department of health.

28 INSURGENTS WERE KILLED IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The government announced tonight that 28 insurgents and one soldier had been killed in a series of skirmishes along the boundary between the states of Jalisco and Zacatecas. The report came from the chief of military operations in Zacatecas. Federal troops captured a priest and five nuns in one of the encounters.

NORWICH COMMITTEES PREPARE TO ENTERTAIN STATE S. S. CONVENTION

The general set-up of committees for the state Sunday school convention which is to be held in this city for three days next week at the invitation of the Norwich Council of Religious Education has been completed and the committees are all at work on the preliminary stages of their respective tasks. Mrs. Emery H. Davis is chairman of the committee on entertainment of the delegates and she has associated with her one from each of the cooperating churches as follows: United Congregational church, Mrs. Amos A. Browning; Central Baptist, Mrs. Shepherd B. Palmer; Park, Mrs. W. Tyler Browne; Trinity Methodist Episcopal, Mrs. Wilbur Baldwin; Norwich Town Congregational, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery; Greeneville Congregational, Miss Alice Brown; First Baptist, Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler; Third Baptist, Mrs. Elmer E. Mulkin. The delegates will be appointed to the churches according to their numerical strength. The delegates are to be entertained over night and breakfast gratuitously and will secure other meals for the day at the hotels and restaurants of the city.

Special groups will meet for specific purposes at luncheons and suppers in some of the churches according to a prearranged schedule which is as follows:

Wednesday at 12.30 o'clock members of the state executive committee will be served luncheon at the Central Baptist church. At 6 o'clock at the same place supper will be served to the members of the board of education of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, Mrs. Henrietta H. Tefft will be in charge.

Thursday at 12.30 luncheon will be served in the Community house under the direction of Mrs. F. W. Lester, chairman to the officers of the state council. At 6.30, the same evening three special groups will assemble two of them in the Methodist church rooms on Main street and the other group in the Community house dining room. The first two groups for the Methodist rooms will include pastors, superintendents, directors of religious education in the churches, for one group, and the second group will be made up of those especially interested in young people's work. There will be an after-dinner speaker for each group.

Friday at 12.30 luncheon will be served in the Community house to three separate groups as follows: Children's division superintendents, committee on young people's work, summer school alumni. At 6.15 a supper will be served in the same rooms to Sunday school workers of all grades.

Mrs. David M. Dean is chairman of the committee on luncheons and suppers and she has associated with her on her committee Mrs. H. H. Tefft, Mrs. Robert McNeely and Mrs. F. W. Lester.

It is planned to have automobiles in readiness at the close of the evening sessions of the convention to take the delegates to their places of entertainment. For this purpose a committee on transportation has been selected with William S. Murray, chairman, and associated with him are Frank D. Davis, Fred S. Armstrong, James Morton, W. S. Spencer, Jacob Lichenstein, D. W. Avery and William Lund.

Boy Scouts will be in attendance to aid in all possible ways, to act as guides and pages, etc. F. J. Bielefield, Jr., is chairman of this committee.

An exhibition of vacation Bible school work is being arranged under the direction of Mrs. Robert W. Otis and with the help of the state council office.

Some of the leading denominational houses will have a display of helpful literature in Bushnell chapel, the arrangements of which is in the care of Stanton Brown.

A board of ushers selected from the personnel of the various churches with Ernest M. Newbury, chairman, will be on hand to perform the duties belonging to that office at the sessions of the convention.

Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen is chairman of the committee on registration, and she will be assisted by members of her committee as circumstances may require.

The convention will open in the Central Baptist church on Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock with Rev. William D. Beach, D. D., of New Haven, presiding. Prof. William C. Willoughby of the Hartford Seminary will conduct at the opening of the session the first of a series of nine periods of worship. The theme for Wednesday morning is "Appreciation of God." There will be three sessions each day, morning, afternoon and evening. The convention will close at 9.15 Friday evening.

LOSES IN SUIT FOR MALICIOUS PROSECUTION

Judgment for the defendant Stephen Wisneski, of Montville to recover costs, was entered by Judge John Richards Booth in the case of Michael Levko of Montville, against Wisneski, according to a decision handed down Friday and filed with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court. Levko claimed that Wisneski maliciously charged him with having stolen a keg containing 20 gallons of cider but when presented in court on April 28, 1928 before Justice of the Peace Miller, he was acquitted.

Levko sued for $3,000 damages in the malicious prosecution suit.

In the memorandum of decision Judge Booth says:

The question on which the case turns is whether probable cause existed for the arrest of the plaintiff. It is well settled that probable cause is the knowledge of facts, actual or apparent, strong enough to justify a reasonable man in the belief that he has lawful grounds for prosecuting the defendant in the manner complained of.

The want of probable cause does not mean the want of any cause, such as would persuade a man of ordinary care and prudence to believe in the truth of the charge.

Probable cause does not necessarily depend upon the actual guilt of the person prosecuted, but may rest upon the prosecutor's belief in his guilt when based upon reasonable grounds. One may act upon what appears to be true even if it turns out to be false, provided he believes it to be true and the appearances are sufficient to justify the belief as reasonable.

The evidence of the defendant shows that in November, 1927, there was taken from his barn a keg of cider, and tracks were discovered indicating that the keg had been rolled from the barn to the roadway. From there the mark of a wheelbarrow continued on to the plaintiff's house. Not considering this sufficient of the plaintiff's guilt, the defendant took no action until the following April, when a fire having occurred at plaintiff's house, a keg was discovered, which the defendant and two of his children identified as his. Complaint was made to the state police, who interviewed the plaintiff, the claim being made then by him, that the keg was not the defendant's, but belonged to one Malinoski, who had loaned it to the plaintiff. The defendant, still insisting that it was his, made complaint to the grand juror and the plaintiff was arrested, but the justice, after hearing the evidence, determined that the keg was Malinoski's and discharged the plaintiff.

There is nothing in the evidence to lead me to disbelieve the defendant or his children as to their bona fide belief that the keg was his, or the testimony as to the marks. Under such circumstances I believe that there was probable cause for the issuance of the warrant, even though subsequent events showed that the plaintiff was not guilty.

Judgment is therefore rendered for the defendant to recover his costs.

RECTOR AT GROTON PRESENTS HIS RESIGNATION

Rev. Frederick W. Haist, rector of Seabury Memorial Episcopa; church at Groton, is to conclude his rectorate in the church on Dec. 31, when his resignation, which has been tendered to Bishop Coadjutor E. Campion Acheson of Middletown becomes effective. He will accept no other rectorate this winter, but plans to devote himself to Biblical research work—a work in which he has long been active.

When Rev. Mr. Haist leaves the Groton church he will have concluded a rectorate of more than 11 years there. He took up his incumbency in the church on Oct. 1, 1917.

He has made himself popular with many Groton citizens and has been prominent in civic affairs. He is chaplain of the Pioneer Hose Co. The rector is a deputy past grand chaplain of the Eighth district of the Masonic fraternity in this state.

SUFFERS BROKEN THIGH WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Edward Brine, 6, of No. 445 Main street, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Brine, received a fractured right thigh bone Friday afternoon, when he was knocked down near his home by a Dodge roadster owned and driven by Samuel J. Hussey of No. 20 Fowler avenue. The child was attended by Dr. John H. Callahan who had him taken to the W. W. Backus hospital.

ENTERTAINING PROGRAMME FOR CHURCH SOCIAL

A social for the church and the church school at the Central Baptist church Friday evening had an attendance of over 200 in the assembly room where the school orchestra played and an entertaining programme was given that included several readings by Mrs. Grace Manning, well rendered solos by Miss Beatrice Littlefield and a sketch entitled Taking Things Literally, which was produced by the young people under direction of Miss Signe Seaberg. There were interesting remarks by the pastor, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitcher, and by Deacon Shepard B. Palmer in reference to Sunday when a record breaking attendance for the school session is to be the goal.

In charge of the entertainment programme was Mrs. Anna Abel and light refreshments were served by the Gleaners class.

BRAVERY MEDAL TODAY TO REWARD MOOSUP MAN

For risking his life to save that of Rita, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brennan of Jewett City, William Brussiere, 63 year old Moosup man, will be presented a medal in official recognition of that brace act. The presentation will take place in the town hall at Central Village today (Saturday) at 2:30 p. m. The medal has a large solid gold center, bears the name of the owner on the back and has a blue and white enamel border. The presentation will be made by Attorney B. W. Danielson of Moosup in behalf of the Connecticut Humane society. The exercises will be brief but impressive and are open to the public.

Mr. Bussiere risked his life on a railroad trestle to save the girl from an approaching motor train. Both were thrown into the river and survived though badly bruised.

Orin H. Sanford, proprietor of a sporting goods and radio store in Mystic is given judgment for $1,000 in his $2,000 damage suit against Catherine T. Fitzgerald and George C. Beham, both of Newport, according to a decision handed down Friday by Judge John Richards Booth of the superior court.

Sanford claimed that atruck owned by Mrs. Fitzgerald and driven by Beham came down Baptist Hill and crashed into his store doing considerable damage on June 9 last.

COSTUME PARTY WITH EVENING OF BRIDGE

A costumeb ridge party was given at the home of Mrs. Charles Weeks, Yantic, on Friday evening. The costumes, all of which were beautiful, dated from the period of 1830 up to the present time. Those winning bridge prizes were Mrs. Charles Molter, Mrs. B Coyle and Mrs. Charles Weeks. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening. The party was in the nature of a surprise to Mrs. Weeks, having been arranged by Mrs. Oscar H. Main and Mrs Bernard Coyle.

TWO MACHINES CRASH ON MILITARY HIGHWAY

Machines driven by Samuel J. Sechter of No. 91 Spring street and Eugene LaCourse of No. 205 Franklin street, collided Thursday evening on the military highway, in Preston. Both machines were damaged in the crash. LaCourse, who is a taxi driver was driving a Chrysler sedan owned by Nicholas Mooney, local taxi proprietor.

JUDGMENTS FOR $7,827 ON WATERFORD PROPERTY

Foreclosure judgments for $7,827 on property in Waterford, were given by Judge John Richards Booth at the superior court short calendar session here Friday in favor of the Savings Bank of New London against Guiseppi and Ursula Tedesco both of Waterford. The property consists of two dwellings and land on the New London-Lyme turnpike. One judgment was for $4,186.88 and the other for $3,640.33. Samuel Prince was appointed a committee to sell the property Dec. 16. Charles Crociochia holds a $3,600 mortgage, Abraham Rakosky, a $1,200 mortgage and Barnet Lubow a $1,500 mortgage.

A third action to foreclose on a $450 note, which had been reduced to $225 was ordered into the court of common pleas.

Luther D. Packer receiver for the People's Store at Taftville, presented his financial report which was accepted and the receiver ordered discharged. Claims aggregating about $25,000 have been settled for about $10,000, a dividend of 47.37 per cent. having been paid to creditors.

Schewach Karevsky of Summit street, this city, employed as assistant electrical engineer by the Eastern Conn. Power Co., here was allowed to change his name to Saul Bernard Kyne. He is married and has three children. Attorney Edmund W. Perkins appeared as his counsel.

The court entered an order for Harry Fitzgerald of Middletown to pay back alimony to Helen Addis Fitzgerald of Norwich Town or go to jail. She claimed that Fitzgerald has paid her only $26 and alimony for 26 weeks at $10 per week is due her.

Permission to pay a claim of $300 to the Good Roads Machinery Co., Inc., was granted in the case of Joseph Schwartz against the P. Schwartz Co. The semi-annual statement of Receiver P. LeRoy Harwood was accepted.

Judge Booth took the papers and reserved decision in three motions in the case of The Bottinelli-Ferri Contracting and Excavating corporation. They were: Approval of stockholders' stipulation dividing assets; approval of final account of trustees; and order terminating corporat existence.

SPEAKER FROM MISSIONARY FIELDS ADDRESSED WOMEN

At the meeting of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church, which was held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Community house, the president, Mrs. F. W. Lester opened the meeting and after a short business session an inspiring address was given by Mrs. Jeanette W. Emrich who has worked and traveled extensively in misionary fields. She was introduced by Mrs. Harriet F. Mitchell.

Mrs. Emrich spoke of the need that women of the churches should do their utmost to foster a friendly spirit towards nations in which there are mission fields and she instanced the wonderful effect in this particular which had been produced in Japan by the 13,000 friendship dolls which had been sent there and a similar influence exerted in Mexico by the friendship bags which had ben sent to that country.

She appealed also for the women of the churches to acquire a greater knowledge and feel a greater concern in social questions in this country and with world relations.

Tea was served, Mrs. Harold E. Robbins having charge, Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott and Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup pouring.

Took Fox Trot Prize

First prize for the fox trot at the Italian society dance at the state armory Friday night was taken by Jack Eichelberg of 46 Smith avenue who had as his partner Miss Lulu Greenwood of Taftville. Thumm's orchestra played for the dance.

Plowman Frost

It is a well known fact that water in the act of freezing expands considerably and with a force that is irresistible. It is the freezing of water in their crevices and pores that causes the rocks to be gradually worn down and "weathered," as it is called, into soil. It is this also which is continually reducing the soil to finer fragments, breaks up hard clogs and mellows the ground.

Autumn plowing or spading assists this effect, by breaking up the compact soil into lumps, which are further broken into small particles. As water and air can act only upon the surface of these particles, it is clear that the smaller they are the more surface is exposed to the weather, and the soil is made soluble.

If a block of hard soil of 12 cubic inches is exposed to the weather, 834 square inches only are affected; if it is broken up into cubes of one inch, however, 10,368 square inches are exposed to these beneficial influences, and the amount affected increased as the soil is further brken up.

This fact shows how greatly the effect of frost benefits the soil, and, therefore, how necessary it is that the land should be fall plowed and opportunity given for this beneficial action of the weather.

"Down Brakes"

In accounts of railway collisions one frequently encounters this statement: "On seeing the danger, the engineer whistled 'down brakes' and reversed the lever."

As a matter of fact, the expression "down brakes" has been obsolete for a long time. What the engineer really does when a collision seems impending is to shut off steam, apply the airbrake and open the sand valve. All this takes about five seconds, and in that time all that human effort is able to accomplish for the train and passengers may be done. Railway engineers are instructed never to reverse the engine after the airbrake has been applied, because the reversal reduces the resisting power of the brakes.

Meerschaum

The substance commonly known as "meerschaum" is known to science as magnesite. It is composed of magnesia, silica and water and is, in plain words, silicated magnesian clay. It is extracted from deposits in Asia Minor near the little city of Kulm, and is found, though in les abundance, in other places.

When taken from the quarry magnesite is washed in constantly agitated water, in which it settles in a fine, close, grainless mass. After the first washing the deposit is dried in the air, molded into cakes and is slightly baked. Then the paste is "aromatized" and carved or molded into pipes. The aromatization consists in dipping the paste in boiling perfumed oil, which gives the product its voluptuous smoothness. The value of a meerschaum pipe depends upon the size and purity of the block from which it is made.

THREE IMPORTANT GAMES ON COLLEGE GRIDIRONS THIS AFTERNOON

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Whether the crowds are watching the Badger pouncing upon the Hawkeye, the Bulldog barking at the Tiger or the Panther stalking the Cornhusker in his native habitat, they are quite likely to see a real fight, if not several of them, when the gridiron menagerie is turned loose again tomorrow.

So far in this fast and furious college football campaign, no day has packed the possibility of any more thrills or the prospect of any closer battles than those to be waged all along the battlefronts tomorrow to the accompanying roar of a few million noncombatant vocalists.

So far as can be seen out along the far-flung horizon, it's a free-for-all, with no single tussle standing out above the rest in general interest or country-wide importance, such as the classic Army-Notre Dame affair did last Saturday.

There's the Yale-Princeton game, 55 years old and carrying a wealth of ancient color, but of infinitely less importance to the championship situation than the brawny battle between unbeaten Carnegie and Notre Dame at South Bend. There's the Wisconsin-Iowa struggle at Iowa City, involving the Big Ten title but sharing the middle western spotlight with Nebraska's defense against the powerful Panthers of Pittsburgh.

The south and southwest have their own championship affairs to focus attention, such as those involving Georgia Tech-Alabama, Vanderbilt-Tennessee and Baylor-Southern Methodist. You will find most of the Rocky Mountain fans debating the Colorado university-Colorado college rivalry while farther west the Stanford-Washington and Southern California-Washington State contests occupy the spotlight.

Like the teams themselves, only the hardiest among the critics have survived the topsy-turvy tussle with sufficient confidence to plunge right back into the business of picking winners. So far as the top-flight games this week are involved, they might as well be drawn out of a hat, for all the assurance there is of picking the probable winner, but here's about how they figure, anyway:

Princeton to beat Yale with a harder-hitting attack and more aggressive line play.

Iowa to beat Wisconsin on sheer power if the Hawkeyes stop the Badger aerial attack.

Notre Dame, with more versatile resources, to check the unbeaten rush of Carnegie but not by any substantial margin in a game that is liable to go either way.

Nebraska to turn back the Pittsburgh Panther in another nip and tuck affair.

Georgia Tech to break the Alabama tide and keep the pace-setting position in the south.

Tennessee to bow along unbeaten at the expense of Vanderbilt but not by any one-sided margin.

Georgia to stop Louisiana State.

West Virginia to keep up its winning streak at the expense of Georgetown in another close affair, where two of the nation's best kickers, Bartrug and Mooney, should have a great duel.

Army and Navy to coast along easily, at the expense of Carleton and Baltimore Loyola, in preparation for bigger games next week.

Colgate to beat Syracuse and Cornell to turn the tables on Dartmouth in two eastern classics that promise to be unusually hard-fought.

Harvard to maintain its custom of looking good on alternate weeks by beating Holy Cross.

Stanford to baffle Washington with its tricky "B" formation and Southern California to check the threat of Washington State in two Pacific coast features.

Colorado college and it's all-American fullback candidate, Earl (Dutch) Clark, to nose out Colorado university in another close rivalry.

New York university's steam-roller to flatten Missouri, but Detroit to even the score for the middle west at the expense of Fordham.

GLICK WINS BY SMALL MARGIN OVER BABY GANS

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Joe Glick of Brooklyn took a ten round decision from Baby Joe Gans of California before a $60,000 house in Madison Square Garden tonight. They both weighed 134 1-2 pounds.

Glick won by the narrowest of margins, for Gans, after losing the first four rounds, flashed a brilliant finish and staggered Glick just before the bell in the seventh.

The fight drew 18,937 fans, the largest paid attendance in the history of professional fighting in the Garden.

Glick had everything his way early in the fight, taking the first four rounds by cleaner and harder hitting and by virtually monopolizing the leading until Gans struck his stride in the sixth.

Despite the official verdict, The Associated Press score sheet gave Gans five rounds and Glick four with one, the fifth, even, in accordance with many writers at the ringside.

The verdict was greeted by mingled cheers and boos by the capacity crowd which showed very little enthusiasm during the bout.

In the semi-windup, Al Singer knocked out Lou Moscowitz in the fifth of an eight round bout. They are New York lightweights.

Gorilla Jones, Akron, Ohio won the decision over Pal Silvers of New York in an eight-round preliminary. Jones weighed 132 and Silvers 133.

Jones started strong, flooring Silvers for a seven count in the first round and held the upper hand throughout.

Ben Jeby, New York (147) stopped Joe Spatola of New York (146) in the fourth of a six round bout.

In two four rounders, Tony Caraglano, New York (127) won the decision over Nate Cohen, Paterson, N. J., (122) and Benny Martin, New York (127) took the decision from Eddie Schneider, New York (127).

PRINCETON AND YALE DIVIDE IN CROSS COUNTRY

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 16—(AP)—Princeton and Yale cross country runners broke even in two events here today. Yale captured the varsity race by a score of 21 to 34 and the Princeton freshmen reversed the decision against the Yale yearlings by a 25 to 30 count.

The Elis took the first three places in the varsity race over the six mile course to earn their winning margin. First place in the freshman event over the three mile route went to Howard Dawson of Princeton.

COAST GUARD ACADEMY ENTERS BASKETBALL FIELD

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—(AP)—A new threat in the field of intercollegiate basketball in the east will swing into action this season, with announcement that the United States Coast Guard academy here, has completed an extensive college schedule. Some of the quintets to be played are Fordham, Norwich university, Providence college, New York State college, Long Island university and Connecticut Agricultural college.

For the past few years this sister institution to West Point and Annapolis has been slowly developing its athletic resources until it is now able to place teams in all major sports on the field capable of giving keen opposition to recognized college teams. The football schedule, which closes tomorrow with Long Island university here, included several first rate college teams. So successful has the eleven been that practically all of the college teams met this season will be back on the schedule next year.

The basketball schedule for the coming season is announced by Lieut. L. H. Baker, athletic officer, as follows: December 7, Bradford Durfee at New London; 8, Arnold college at New London; 14, New York State college at Albany; 15, Union university at Albany; 21, New Bedford Textile at New London; January 5, University of Vermont at Burlington; 9, Providence college at New London; 12, Webb Institute at New London; 19, Northeastern university at Boston; 25, St. Thomas' college at Scranton.

January 26, Webb Institute at New York; February 1, Stevens institute at New London; 2, Brooklyn college at New York; 7, Rhode Island State at Kingston; 9, Fordham university at New London; 15, New Bedford Textile at New Bedford; 20, Connecticut Aggies at Storrs; 22, Ithaca Physical Education, at New London March 1, Lowell Textile at Lowell; 2, Massachusetts Normal, at Fitchburg; 8, St. Michael's college at Winooski Park, Vt.; 15, Rhode Island State at New London.

DR. WILLING ONLY ONE STROKE BEHIND ESPINOSA

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 16—(AP)—Abe Espinosa, Chicago pro, upset early expectations in the second round of the $5,000 Oregon open golf tournament here today.

After Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, appeared to hold the lead for the two-day play, Espinosa strolled in with a 75, which gave him a total of 145 for the first 36 holes, one less than Dr. Willing scored. Espinosa was low yesterday.

Mac Smith, Columbia Country club, Portland, chalked up a 74, bringing him up alongside Willing's 146 total score, and giving Portland a tie with itself for second place.

Johnny Farrell of New York, finished with 73 today. Mortie Dutra of Tacoma, and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., evened Farrell's 147 score for the two days.

Walter Hagen finished the second round with a total score of 148, which puts him within easy striking distance of the leaders.

There will be 64 in the final round, which starts at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow.

FAST SOCCER GAME AT J. B. MARTIN GROUND

clash with theiastchiny z

The elvetmen are scheduled to clash with the fast Cottrell F. C. of Westerly, Rhode Island Sunday afternoon on the home ground in a game that should bring out all the soccer fans in this vicinity. The Cottrell's are coming to Taftville with four straight wins to their credit and they are bringing their strongest lineup in an effort to continue this winning streak.

The J. B. Martin management knowing the task they are up against have added some first class players to their list and intend to put on the field the fastest team to represent the club so far this season.

Referee Day will have charge of the game and he will handle the assignment in his usual efficient manner.

The J. B.'s lineup will be chosen from amongst the following players: Greenhalgh, Headon, Troeger, Labenski, Joubert, Eccleston, Pepin, Houston, Thompson, Hargreaves, DeCeiles, Archibald, Schaeffer, Strong. The Cottrell lineup has not been received.

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 16 — The Cornell cross country team defeated Dartmouth, 19 to 36, in a dual meet over a five mile course here today. Benson and Levering of Cornell finished in a tie for first place in 26 minutes, 6 2-5 seconds. Five Cornell runners finished in the first seven places the order of the finish was Benson and Levering, Cornell, 26:06 2-5; Boamar, Cornell, 26:34; Andrews, Dartmouth, 26:41; Bertram, Dartmouth, 27:05; Madden, Cornell, 27:07; Eldridge, 27:36; McKaig, Cornell, 27:48.

Yellow Jackets Lose To Crescents.

The third polo game of the season was played Friday evening at the Olympic rink the Yellow Jackets losing to the Crescents, 1 to 0. The game was the hardest struggle yet played. Good goal tending by Joe Lee of the Yellow Jackets and Giviazdorski of the Crescents was all that kept the game to such a close score. The first period of the game was fought at a terrific pace but both sides grocery from bruising body checks and fast playing slowed down considerable in the last half. Giviazdorski of the Crescents scored the only goal of the game.

The Meteors and Yellow Jackets are the same team, the Meteors changing their name and will be know as the Yellow Jackets in the future. Another game is scheduled for Monday evening between the same two teams.

Yellow Jackets: J. McGregor Jr. Bill Pavey 2r. Harry Cooke center. Bob Huntley half back. Joe Lee goal tender.

Crescents: Charley Wilson lr. W. Aborn 2r. N. Cloutier center. James Barrett half back. W. Giviazdowski goal tender.

Mohegans Beat All Stars

The Mohegans defeated Home's All-Stars at the Chelsea parade green, Thursday afternoon by the score of 6 to 0. The Mohegans scored their lone tally on a forward from Bamber to Connor in the last quarter after passes to Hamill had advanced the ball to within scoring position. Wheldon's end runs and the few passes were the spectacular plays. The lineup for the winners: Zabrowski and Casey, ends; Connors and Baker, tackles; Richards and Keenan, guards; Geer, center; Hamill, q. b.; Mahoney and Wheldon, hb.; Bamber, fb.

A Challenge

The Greeneville Nightshirts challenge the Trojans for a game of football at Mohegan park, Sunday afternoon. If this challenge is accepted answer in the afternoon paper or call 3401 tonight.

PLAINFIELD CRUSHES TEAM FROM UP-STATE 25 TO 7

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 16.—Before a fair sized crowd of rabid spectators Plainfield high school closed their present season in a blaze of glory defeating a willing but inefficient Tourtellotte high squad at the old mill grounds in Plainfield Friday afternoon. The game was very thrilling from the fans' point of view for extremely long runs around end and through the line were made time and time again by the clever P. H. S. backs aided by a stone wall line. Plainfield received the opening kick-off and with Koss and Shippee alternating carried the ball to the up-staters 7 yard line where Captain Bakanowski received the oval and toted it through the center of the Tourtellotte's line for a first down. Burby ran around right end for the extra point. However the up-staters came right back and scored their lone marker on a series of line plunges with Canty bearing the brunt of the attack and finally scoring himself on a desperate plunge from the 1-yard line. Tourtellotte's brief attack evidently sapped the power of their team for thereafter all the ground gains and final three touchdowns were made by Plainfield.

Koss scored two touchdown on long runs around end and Burby annexed the final score with a beautiful catch of a 30-yard pass from Koss, caught on the enemy's 30 yard line and carried over by himself on the play.

Five P. H. S. seniors, Laokso, Bonnin, Shippee, Koss and Captain Bakanowski played their last scolastic football and the quintet were by far the shinning lights of the Plainfield team. Canty played the best for Tourtellotte. The lineup:

| P. H. S. | | Tourtellotte |
|---|---|---|
| Polewiesik | re | Lachapelle |

BOSTON WHIRLWINDS TO PLAY PLAINFIELD WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 16—(AP)—The Boston Whirlwinds will furnish the opposition for the Plainfield Pros next Wednesday night here at the Community house. The Hub City aggregation comes with its strong cast that has given Plainfield such stiff battles in recent years. This will be the first meeting of these teams this year. Plainfield only opening its season last week in nosing out Jimmy Beckman's Detroit five.

The Whirlwinds will use Martin at center, Riordan and Crotty afterwards with Morley and Kiley at guards. The Plainfield lineup is expected to be the same as performed last Wednesday.

In the preliminary the Buddies will meet the Danielson C. L. A. A. quintet.

Accept Challenge.

The Laurel Hill Bulldog Juniors accept the challenge of the Lions, but refuse to play on Sunday.

ACADEMY TACKLES STONINGTON THIS AFTERNOON AT CAMPUS

The Academy faces Stonington high this afternoon at the campus in what shapes up as one of its feature games of the year. This is the second to the last game for the Wildcats, who next Saturday at the campus close the season with Bulkeley in the traditional clash. The game starts at 2:15.

Stonington today comes with an unbeaten record, sharing with Putnam this distinction in eastern Connecticut. Bill O'Brien's boys, who last year copped the league title are again in a position toward taking that honor and although today's game is no official league clash, yet Stonington by winning can clearly demonstrate her superiority in the conference.

Stonington Undefeated

Stonington has won four games and tied two while the Academy has won 4 games and lost three. Two of the Academy defeats were by one point, 7 to 6 in both cases to Harding and Windham and the other was 13 to 0 to the powerful Hartford high eleven last Saturday. Now, Stonington has not played a team as strong as either Harding or Hartford this year and that, Academy followers state, is why she remains undefeated. Stonington has been held to a tie by Chapman Tech and Westerly, 6-6 and 0-0, respectively, while the Academy has beaten both of these teams. The only edge on comparative scores that Stonington holds is with Windham. The Academy lost 7 to 6 and Stonington won, 6 to 0, on a fumble in the latter part of the game. Comparative scores, of course, mean nothing and it remains for the whistle this afternoon to start the struggle for superiority.

Both Teams in Shape

Both teams are expected at full strength. Stonington came out of its hard game with Westerly Monday in good shape and Coach O'Brien will be able to start all of his regulars. Goyette, flashy halfback, will draw much attention from the Academy today as he has been going good for the downstaters. Coach Whitney of the Red and White has worked his men hard all week in preparation for this game. Remembering the setback last year at Stonington, the first in many seasons, the Wildcats will be out determined to avenge this defeat today. The loss in baseball last spring, also may epter in the avenging on the part of the locals today.

Jack Marks, the Academy's star backfield performer, is in first-class shape for the fray. Jack has been playing a brilliant game all year and today, with Capt. Buck LaCroix should give the down-staters plenty to think about.

A large crowd is expected today with plenty of enthusiasm from the cheering sections.

WESTERLY HIGH LOSES CHANCE FOR STATE TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 16—Westerly High was given a severe setback in its chase for the Rhode Island scholastic grid title today, losing to Warwick High, 12 to 0 at Westerly Athletic field. It was a hard-fought game throughout with Warwick slightly outplaying the locals. This was Westerly's first defeat by a Rhode Island team.

CHAPMAN TECH LOSES TO MIDDLETOWN TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 16—Chapman Tech of New London lost to the Middletown high grid team here today 19 to 0. The visitors were outplayed for the greater part of the way.

KID TEAM CLINGS TO LAP LEAD IN BIKE RACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—(AP)—Franz Duelberg and Jimmy Walthour, the German-American "Kid" team, still clung to their one lap lead as the international six-day bike race neared conclusion tonight.

Mohawk's Jrs. Win

Mohawks Jr., defeated Blackhawks Jr. 6-0 at Lucas lot. Sadinsky recovered a fumble and ran 60 yards for a touchdown in forty-five seconds for the game. J. Atkin, L. Kirstein, Pete and Becker starred for the winners.

A Challenge

Nurses of Butterflies

Ants and butterflies are not ordinarily on friendly terms, as ants have a ruthless custom of seizing and devouring their winged acquaintances. There is, however, one species of butterfly, the larvae of which are protected by the large black ants found in Indian gardens.

The secret of this care lies in the fact that the larvae exude a sweet liquid of which the ants are very fond and which they obtain by gently stroking the little creatures with their antennae. At the foot of a bush on which larvae feed the ants construct a temporary nest and are then ready to act as attentive nurses.

About the middle of June the ants are busy running about on this bush in search of the larvae and driving them downward toward their own nest. When the prisoners reach their places they at once fall into a doze and undergo transformation into pupae. During this period, if the loose earth at the foot of the bush be scraped, hundreds of larvae and pupae may be seen, arranged in a broad and even band about its trunk.

In about a week the butterfly is ready to come forth and is tenderly assisted to leave its shell. If it is strong and healthy it is allowed to spread its wings and fly away, but should it prove delicate the ants exercise the utmost care in assisting it to the tree and holding it there in safety. It is a curious sight to watch these fragile creatures going about in a perfect confidence among the strong, fierce ants, which have, however, by no means, adopted the profession of nursing for the love of it, for when the larvae of another species are thrown among them they immediately set upon them and tear them to pieces.

Yosemite's Sideshow

During the last winter Yosemite valley, in the national park of that name, had an exclusive little sideshow in addition to the usual wild animal circus. The main exhibit of the sideshow was a "rhino deer," a deer that by some curious, freakish prank of nature, had a horn similar to that of a rhinoceros projecting through the roof of its upper jaw, halfway between his nose and eyes. Otherwise he was like any other deer, and as tame as the tamest. Daily he made his rounds from house to house, seeking dainty tidbits to give variety to his diet. Like a pet dog, he enjoyed having his neck stroked, until an attempt was made to touch the curious horn growth. Even the best of his friends were not permitted to do this. Then the park deer began shedding their antlers, and speculation was rife in the valley as to whether the malformation on the upper jaw of Old Horny would disappear when he shed his horns. Soon he disappeared into the forests, to return without antlers and without rhino spike. Now his antlers are starting to grow again, and there seems to be evidence that the spike is coming back.

Cultivation of Cloves

Cloves are cultivated to a vast extent in many of the tropical regions of the earth. A clove tree begins to bear at the age of 10 years and continues until it reaches the age of 75 years. There are two crops a year, one in June and another in December.

The tree is an evergreen and grows from 40 to 50 feet high, with large oblong leaves and crimson flowers at the end of small branches in clusters of from 10 to 20. The tree belongs to the same botanical order as the guava. The cloves, which are the undeveloped buds, are at first white, then light green, and at the time of gathering, bright red.

Pieces of white cloth are spread under the trees at harvesting time and the branches are beaten gently with bamboo sticks until the cloves drop. They are dried in the sun, being tossed about daily until they attain the rich dark color that proclaims them ready for shipment.

In this country and England cloves are used almost wholly as a condiment, but in France they are employed in the manufacture of certain liquors, and to some extent they are used in medicine on account of their tonic properties.

Rope-Making Plant

Much of the peninsula of Yucatan is very stony, and as there are practically no rivers, the planters depend on rain to irrigate their fields. Sisal hemp, or henequin, is the chief article of growth and export throughout the peninsula.

The sisal itself is an evergreen plant closely related to the century plant or American aloe. The fiber is extracted from the curving, swordlike leaves, which are cut at the end of the third or fourth year of growth. The leaves are macerated, or made into pulp, and the fibers torn apart by machine. The pulp is then washed away and the fibers dried and bleached by the sun, and when the process is completed this yellowish-white fiber ranks next to Manila hemp in making rope.

Why Trees Are Tagged

If the observant traveler abroad observes an expert setting out trees in a public square, he will discover that attached to a leaf on one side of each tree there will be a bit of white tape. It is at once apparent that the marking is in no sense distinguishing. But as the gardener goes about setting the trees in the holes prepared for them, the traveler will observe that each tag of white is brought around to face the east. Upon inquiry, one will be told that unless the tree, say a palmetto, up-rooted from the nursery, had the same eastern exposure of the same part in transplanting it would fail to take root and flourish.

The Wolf Spider

The female of the curiously named wolf spider lays her eggs and immediately covers them with a soft silken covering. No matter where she goes she will carry these covered eggs with her, and she will, if necessary, sacrifice her life to protect the eggs or the young, which, soon after they are hatched, she carries on her back while she gathers food for herself and the little ones. They remain holding up to their mother's back until they are almost as large as their parent, when they seem suddenly to discover their strength and, unnatural as it would seem, they set upon their mother and in a very short time kill and devour her.

AGGIES MEET TRADITIONAL RIVALS IN RHODE ISLAND AT STORRS TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 16—With the annual Connecticut Aggie and Rhode Island football contest at Storrs tomorrow only a few hours away, Head Coach Sumner A. Dole concluded the practice sessions of preparation this afternoon with a long hike for the members of the Nutmeg squad. This form of routine was in harmony with the type of drilling held all week which were of the light kind and was substituted today for the usual Friday kicking, punting and signal practice.

The case of Leo Fisher of Bridgeport, sophomore backfield flash and high scorer, was very doubtful up until this afternoon and it is very probable that his services will not be had for the Rhode Island contest. His leg bruise that at one time looked much like a serious "charley horse," has bettered itself a great deal. Whether or not the Nutmeg mentor will take the chance of using him in the game, is a rather dubious question as he may plan on saving him for the final game of the season next Saturday at Boston against Boston College.

If Fisher does not don his togs for tomorrow's fray, a large shift will be made in the starting backfield. Due to the injury to William McCombe of Hartford, Sterling Harger will take one halfback and Arthur Haversat the other in place of Fisher. The latter is a very fast ball carrier but lacks the ability of a shifty back. Brad Flydal will continue at the fullback post with Ray Ryan calling signals.

The Nutmeggers are facing the most objective game of the season with Rhode Island since a win over the traditional rivals indicates a good year. Both colleges are the principals in one of the oldest New England football rivalries that dates back to 1897. The Nutmeggers have much to lose in the event of dropping the game since they have not been defeated all year and also unscored upon. Up until the time of Fisher's injury, the state college has been holding the edge but now the dopesters are figuring on a more even basis.

The largest turnout for an athletic contest at Storrs is expected Saturday since the game will also be the feature event on the annual "home coming day" program for alumni that will attend from both colleges. Tickets are all on reservation and according to the athletic officials at Storrs, most of them are already sold out. The recent addition of new bleachers raises the capacity of the stands to a little over three thousand.

The probable starting lineups are as follows:

| Connecticut | | Rhode Island |
|---|---|---|
| Tombari, re | | re, Galvin |
| Sayers, rt | | rt, McCue |
| Gilman, rg | | rg, Sherman |

Field judge, A. W. Keane, Hartford Courant.

Cross Country Run

Between the halves of the game a cross country run between the Aggies and a team representing the Duwell A. A. of Norwich will be run off.

The Duwell team, composed of William Kerr, Joseph Enos, John and Austin Keeley, John Boldrighine, Harry Rolland and Nipper Elnavage have been working out steadily for the past few weeks and are conceded a good chance of beating the college squad, which incidentally holds a victory over the Hope A. C.

The Aggies will be represented by Charles Dittrich of Waterbury, James Bottomley of Milford, James Ewen of Tryon, Pa., I. C. Barnes of Wethersfield, Charles White of New Haven, Edwin Monstream of Hartford, William Kirkpatrick of Storrs, Sherman Frost of New Haven, George Jackson of Storrs, George Pinkney of New Haven and James Elliot of Pomfret.

The run will be over a four-mile course.

FALSE FIRE ALARM TRIAL RESULTS IN CONVICTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 16—In the third district court, Friday, before Judge Oliver H. Williams, George Larkin, of Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, was arraigned on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charged with turning in a false alarm of fire from Box No. 21 in the early hours of the morning following election day. Hubert Tregaskis, sometimes known by the name of Rhodes, of 8 Union street, testified that in company with Larkin he had gone up High street, down Narragansett avenue and through Newton avenue and both had previously agreed to turn in the fire alarm. Clarence Stenhouse and Robert Wilcox, both in a Ford, gave evidence that they had seen two young men together on Newton avenue. Tregaskis admitted that he had himself turned in the alarm. Others to testify were Larkin's mother, Mrs Julia A. Larkin and for the state, Chief of Police Brown, and Police Officer Leroy H. Norman, who had questioned Larkin as to whom he was accompanied by and had received evasive answers. Judge Williams declared the state had proved its case and fined Larkin $10 and costs. Clarence E. Roche, his attorney, gave notice of appeal, and became surety in the sum of $100.

Hubert Tregaskis, 18, was found guilty but sentence was suspended when he agreed to report to Judge Williams every week for a period of two months.

In the civil case, Sarah Dickie vs. John Howard, action brought to recover money loaned, judgment was given the plaintiff for $145.

Other court business was disposed of as follows: New writ entered before the calling of the docket—Chester Sherman vs. Tracy Kenyon. Action in book account, if unanswered continued one week.

Criminal docket—State, Charles P. Higgins, deputy Rhode Island bird commissioner of East Providence, vs. Toivo Unkuri, 21, Findlander, residing in Bradford, charged with hunting muskrats without first procuring a license and on land not leased nor owned by him. He was released in his own recognizance, to appear in court for trial on next Friday.

Civil docket—C. H. Carney vs. Thomas A. Buell. Continued one week. Clifton D. Hall vs. Angelo Pucci. Continued one week for trial. Charles H. Gavitt vs. Joseph A. Guarino. Continued two weeks. Rockwell and Company, Inc., vs. Rose Joyce Weiss. With submission of proof of claim, decision given plaintiff for $33.92 with interest and costs. Burr-Mitchell Co. vs. James Gencarelle. Marked settled without costs. Ruby M. Mercier vs. Alvin R. Ziegler, Co. Continued by agreement for two weeks. James W. Burke vs. Thurman F. Eldredge. Continued two weeks. Louis Gentile et ux vs. George Bogue. Continued one week. Joseph T. Grilli vs. R. I. Garage company. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim. Westerly Industrial and Improvement company vs. Adelbert Trippe. Continued one week. Fulton Factory company vs. P. H. Opie company. Continued one week for trial.

The United theatre was well filled Thursday at the first big amateur production of the current season, when St. Michael's council, K. of C., presented "South Sea Smiles," a musical comedy. The comedy was written by George P. Chapman of Westerly and staged by Myles Brennan. Its comedy lines, unique situations and catchy music scored heavily with the audience. In the cast were Misses Helen Magnus, Catherine McCormick, Mary Spellman, Mary Hadlock, Peggy Labonte, Gertrude Mayhew, Rose Picard, Rosalie Blanchard, Evelyn Ferraro, Ella Reynolds and Nellie Mazzone and Joseph Ballata, Tutti Sanquedolce, Melvin Hall, George Howard, John Sarassin, James Ledwidge, Herbert Smith and Henry Leclair.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk: Nov. 15. Westerly Industrial and Improvement company to Louis Giorni et ux, land at the southeasterly corner of Narragansett and Highland avenues.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George Davison

Mrs. Sarah Ann Whitehead, 66, wife of George Davison, died Friday morning at the Westerly hospital. She was a native of England, but came to this country as a small girl. Besides her husband, proprietor of Westerly Felt company, Inc., she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert P. Mitchell and three grandchildren, Jessie Porteous, Clifford Winfield and Robert Davison Mitchell, all of Westerly. She also leaves several brothers and sister in England and three sisters residing in the United States, Mrs. Thomas Davison of Westerly, Mrs. Rufus Mallalieu, New London and Mrs. Asa Hudson, Philadelphia. During the influenza epidemic ten years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Davison lost two sons, Harry Winfield Davison, in October, 1918, and Clifford Davison, in January, 1919.

RED CROSS CHAPTER NEEDS TOTAL OF $4,000

Friday, the third day of Westerly Red Cross roll call, Chairman Karl G. Stillman issued an appeal for the public not only to purchase $1 memberships in the Westerly chapter, but also to make cash subscriptions. The sum of $4,000 is needed to meet necessary expenses of the local chapter for the coming year, said Mr. Stillman. The chapter's quota of members for the present campaign is 2500. Last year the chapter obtained 2358 members who paid $2758. Additional donations of $1102.45 brought the receipts to $3861.45. The women's teams working under Mrs. Frank Sherman's direction obtained 113 members and $406.50 in cash Thursday. The totals, as reported for the first two days of the roll call, are 753 members and $611.

The Westerly chapter has procured a motion picture film of the West Indian hurricane disaster, which will be shown at local theatres to acquaint the public with the relief work done by the Red Cross.

Mrs. Bertha Van Buskirk, of Providence, was a Westerly business caller Friday.

Judge William A. Wilcox has returned from a business trip to New York.

Miss Eleanor C. Moore left Westerly, Friday, for a vacation trip to Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Calvert B. Cottrell and daughter, Barbara, spent Thursday in Boston.

George E. Leonard is having two weeks' vacation from his duties in the drafting room of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons works.

Mrs. Margaret McGeough, injured when struck by an automobile on West Broad street, Armistice day, is improving at her home in Pawcatuck.

Miss Agnes Brown has returned to her home in Oneco, after being the guest of Westerly friends.

DANCE HALL ELEVEN DEFEATS NEW HAMPSHIRE

The Dance Hall football team with a squad of 25 men and a coach went by train to New Hampshire for a three days' trip, to play the fast going Leather Pushers team in Manchester. Thursday afternoon at Jack field 4,000 fans turned out to see the jazz hoppers in action. The field was covered in a light snow and mud in places. At 3 o'clock when the town clock struck Referee Ned Langson instructed the teams how the game was to be played. New Hampshire kicked off to the Black Bottom dancers, Cannon Ball W. Buddington caught the ball near the 25-yard line, pushing his way through the team for a pretty run of 79 yards for a touch down.

From the kick-off the extra point was made and the score read 7 to 0 in favor of Noank. With the battle only a few minutes going, Coach Hurry-Up Bentley put in a fresh chew of Beach Nut tobacco for that score! The fans were taken by surprise by the run. Coach Harry Suitland was not saying a word for the Lumbermen's line was holding hard. The four horsemen in the backfield for the dancers found that the line was too rough and hard to hit. Up and down the field the ball went; neither side was near the scoring zone. The first half was soon over with the score, Noank Dancers 7, New Hampshire 0. Coach Suitland told his players to snap out of it and play football, "not let those village dance players beat us." The third quarter gong rang for more thrills. Noank had the ball and saw it was no use to buck the cement line. Light Horse Elliott Bennett made a 40-yard throw to Indian P. Sullivan, but Giant Peter Barry picked the ball out of the air before Sullivan could get it in his hand and raced 62 yards for a touchdown, so scored 6 points, for the extra point was blocked, making the score 7 to 6 in favor of the Dance Hall team. The final quarter came and both teams were giving the fans plenty of excitement and clean football. When the dishes were ready on the tables in Manchester homes the game was over, for the Noank Dancers won by a single point. Dance Hall team 7, Leather Pushers 6. The game will go down on New Hampshire's log as the best in 25 years. The players from the village did an Indian snake dance around the field and tore up the goal posts, so happy were they over the victory, so far away from home.

Chapman Checker Champ

O. Foote, who knows the checker game and has not learned it from a book, but from an old sea captain, Huck Taylor, knows how to trick a player on many a move. A match took place between Sure Foote and Happy S. Chapman for the championship of Midway. It took place at the Aunt Sarah Peabody club rooms, on Cedar street Thursday, when a crowd of 75 sharps met. Referee Listen-In-L. Sullivan gave the players the word "go!" and no talking across the board. Sure Foote had first move and he went to a corner, a trick of Capt. Taylor, to bait his rival. But Happy Chapman had found a checker book and knew enough not to follow too close. Soon he gave the fans a laugh when he made a four-men move off Sure Foote and followed it up when his turn came with a three-men move. So he won the first match with ease. Only two men went in the king row. The fans were saying "What is the matter, Foote, an off night?" The second match was soon on, again with Happy Chapman's move. He tried a Jewett City stunt that Duke Hiscox, Jr., taught him. It worked all right and this proved a close battle, but Sure Foote won the match by only 2 moves. So it was a tie and both players shook hands for the final match. The fans made so much noise in cheering that many thought that election was on again. Happy Chapman was too much for his rival Sure Foote for Sea Captain Taylor's pupil did not even enter the king row. Happy Chapman is the new checker champion of Midway, winning 2 out of 3 matches over his rival Sure Foote. Cider and pumpkin pie refreshed the crowd after the contest.

HIGH ST. IMPROVEMENTS PLEASING TO MOTORISTS

The upper end of High street has been in need of repairs and widening for a long time. The board of selectmen have purchased land along the road, belonging to Alden Fish. The wall will be moved back and the street widened and put in excellent condition and will be a great benefit to motorists as in the past the street was so narrow in some places, it was impossible for two cars to pass each other.

Mystic grange met Thursday evening in Grange hall, with Worthy Master Leeds Main in the chair. J. F. Meyers, treasurer of the fair recently held, reported $107.25 made from the chicken pie supper and $137.75 from the play and articles sold making $245. George Brooks gave $5 making the total $250 cleared on the night's fair. It was voted to continue sending the Grange Monthly to every family in the grange. Notice was given that the corporation meeting of the grange will be held preceding the next meeting in December. An invitation was accepted from Ashaway grange for the ladies' degree team to confer the third and fourth degrees Monday evening, Nov. 26. The degree team is to go to Bozrah to confer the degrees, Wednesday evening, November 21. Mrs. Lucy Burdick, lecturer announced the following program: piano duet, Misses Winifred and Doris Wheeler. Dr. James H. Weeks of Stonington, interesting talk on whaling days, showing some of the exhibits of his collection of whaling relics; vocal solo, Mrs. Marian Gremley. ### MRS. W. M. BUCKINGHAM PLANS RED CROSS CANVASS

Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, local chairman for the Red Cross drive, is arranging for the annual roll call in this vicinity. Her committees in the several districts will soon be at work.

Local residents, waiting at the Gales Ferry four corners Monday afternoon to take the bus for New London to witness the Armistice day parade, were shocked by the accident that came near costing the life of Audrey Percival, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Percival, of the drawbridge district, Ledyard. The child, who attends the first grades school at the village, was on her way home when she saw the bus approaching and started to run across the highway. A car, driven by Thomas Sweeney of Uncasville, was coming from Norwich and hit the child, who was rendered unconscious. Mr. Sweeney rushed with the little girl to Backus hospital, Norwich, where it was found that a leg had been fractured and her head and body were badly bruised. Her condition is reported as favorable for recovery provided she did not sustain internal injuries.

Mrs. Charles A. L. Morgan and daughter, Florence Jeanette, of Middletown, and Mrs. Morgan's brother, Bradford A. Latham, of Guilford, former residents of the village, motored here Sunday afternoon for a call on friends.

Mrs. William H. Brooks and Miss Carolyn Braun of Hartford, were recent guests of Mrs. Brooks' mother, Mrs. Delphine Fish.

Rufus Comanter Monday to join his wife and sons, Clifford and Merlin, at the home of Mrs. Coman's sister, Mrs. Emil Fournier, in Sherbrook Province of Quebec. Mr. Coman and family are to return the last or part of the week.

Stoddard, were in attendence at a teachers' institute held at Pawcatuck Tuesday under the direction of School Supervisor James F. Connolly of Norwich for the schools under his supervision in the towns of Preston, Ledyard and North Stonington. Talks on nature study and primary reading were a part of the program. Mrs. Stoddard, teacher in the Stoddard district, spoke on history.

Walter M. Buckingham, who has been taking a vacation, has resumed his duties as an assistant cashier at the Thames National bank, Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham were visitors in New York over the week-end.

Mrs. John M. Gray of New London was a recent caller at the home of Miss Emma E. Davis.

Rev. Horace B. Sloat of Hartford was a caller the first of the week at his summer cottage on the Bluff.

Miss Emma Beth Bennett was a guest of Miss Elizabeth Smith in Norwich over Monday night.

Mrs. Horace H. Sears and son, Alfred Dana Sears, of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, motored here for an over night visit to Mrs. Sears' sister, Mrs. Delphine Fish. They were accompanied home Sunday by Mrs. Fish, who is to make them a visit during the winter months.

Mrs. J. A. Stoddard and her father, Oliver Williams, of Long Cove, were guests over the week end of Mrs. Stoddard's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Williams, at the family homestead in Sharon. They were guests for the trip of Mr. and Mrs. William Williams of Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gunuskey of Long Cove entertained their relative, Wilbur Hedden, and Theodore La Mountaugue from Springfield, Mass., Sunday.

Mrs. Josephine Birch was a recent visitor at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. William F. Blair, in Norwich.

"I remember her when she was beautiful"

"IT WASN'T so long ago either. Her complexion was the envy of every girl and woman. Her radiant manner was felt the instant she entered the room. . . . But now you'd hardly know she was the same person. Her animation is gone—her clear skin is sallow. She's always tired—often irritable. . . ."

Here's what has been said about countless women all over the country. Yet, all this could have been prevented. The cause, often constipation, is so easily removed by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Happily, thousands of women have made this discovery. By regular eating of ALL-BRAN they have regained all that they lost in beauty and health.

But you need ALL-BRAN—not "part-bran"

It is the "bulk" in bran that relieves constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has a large amount of bulk. This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. In a part-bran product there is seldom enough bulk to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran—and brings 100% results.

How different from dangerous pills

How much better than habit-forming drugs and laxatives! Which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased—and sometimes injure the system. How much pleasanter than sickening medicines! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious cereal. Serve it with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey if desired. Use it in cooking too. Mix it with other cereals—for health! Just eat two tablespoonfuls in some form daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Keep ALL-BRAN always on hand—a package of health. But be sure it is genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at all hotels and restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

That is the underlying theme of Mother Knows Best, Fox Films picturization of Edna Ferber's sensational-selling novel, which comes to the Broadway theatre for a four days' engagement starting tomorrow. Featured in the picture are Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton.

From the day that the Ferber story swept the country and aroused all sorts of conjecture as to just which mother and daughter were meant by the authoress, film fans have awaited the screen version and their waiting will be well worth the effort when they see the picture.

Directed by John Blystone, who specializes in poignant drama, it carves a new niche in the cinema hall of fame for both Madge Bellamy, who is seen as the daughter, and Louise Dresser, reaching the peak of character portrayal as the mother.

The rise to theatrical success of the daughter guided by the mother, who fights with her and for her always, brings its day of reckoning when the daughter has her first and only romance with a young vaudeville actor. She declares that she is entitled to what every woman is entitled—love—and accuses the mother of stifling that love.

Mother Knows Best is said to be one of the most human documents that ever has been brought to the screen. The supporting company includes Albert Gran, Joy Auburn, Stuart Erwin and Lucien Littlefield.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Rusty Finds a Comfortable Bed

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Keep at it and you'll surely find
The thing on which you've set your mind.
—Rusty the Fox Squirrel.

Still Rusty the Fox Squirrel journeyed on. He had many adventures, but the life of any of the little folks of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest is very largely made up of adventures. They have them every day. So at last Rusty came to a country where the nut crop had not failed. It was many, many miles from Farmer Brown's and Rusty had been very many days making the journey. But as he feasted on hickory nuts, beechnuts and acorns he decided that the journey had been worth while.

"Now," said he, talking to himself, for he had no one else to talk to, "I must find a place to live. At least, I must find a comfortable bed. I think I shall stay here. This looks to me like a very good land. I imagine there are some very nice people living hereabouts. I hope I shall find as nice neighbors as I left back in the Green Forest by Farmer Brown's."

Having eaten all the nuts he could hold, Rusty set about exploring in quest of a home. After a long search he found a tree that was hollow and had a nice entrance fairly high from the ground. He first made quite certain that there was no one in that hollow tree. Then he ventured in. There was a bed of dry leaves. It wasn't much of a bed, but it was a bed. Rusty curled up on it. He didn't intend to remain long, because he first wanted to make sure that that didn't belong to anybody else. But his stomach was full and a full stomach makes one sleepy. Hardly had Rusty curled up when his eyes closed and he was asleep.

It was a very comfortable bed in spite of the fact that it was not very elaborate. Rusty began to dream and his dreams were very pleasant dreams. He dreamed that he found a woodland, every tree of which was a nut tree. Every tree was loaded with nuts. There were all kinds of nuts. It seemed as if all the squirrels in the world were there. But there was no quarreling, for there were nuts enough for all.

Now, that is the nicest kind of a dream that a squirrel can have and Rusty was right in the midst of it, having the most wonderful time, when suddenly his eyes flew wide open and he was wide awake. There were no nuts to eat and no squirrels. Instead he was in a strange place. For a moment he couldn't remember where he was.

Then it all came back to him suddenly. He knew something must have wakened him. His heart began to beat a little faster. He pricked up his ears and listened. There was the sound of claws on the outside of that tree. Could it be that it was the owner of this bed? Was it another squirrel? Was it just some chance visitor? All these thoughts went through Rusty's head as he lay there listening.

What to do! Should he remain hidden there, or should he rush out now? This house seemed like a deserted house. Certainly, there was no fresh odor to show that any one had been there recently.

He first made quite certain that there was no one in that hollow tree

"Probably it is just some one who has happened to climb this tree," thought Rusty. "If it is any one who doesn't own this nest, I've got just as much right to it as he has. I think I'll keep quiet. Perhaps I won't be discovered at all."

So Rusty remained perfectly still. But you may be sure that his ears were pricked up all the time. And you may be sure that he kept his eyes fast on the little round opening by which he had entered. So he lay there for some time and nothing happened, excepting that now and again he heard the sound of claws on the outside of the tree.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

At 3.30 on the coming Sunday afternoon at the large gymnasium of the Norwich Y M. C. A. the unusual and impressive feature moving picture Sorrell and Son, will be shown.

On account of the largeness of the feature it will be shown in two parts; the first part on Nov. 19th and the second part on Nov. 25th.

The story is based on Warwick Deeping's book of the same name, and is at once gripping and distinctly uplifting, and has been seen by millions of people. It is the story of Captain Stephen Sorrell, deserted by his wife, and left with a small son to rear. He is without money and his few friends, but his heart love for his son is to say the least unusual, and for the sake of the boy he suffers and toils and sacrifices almost beyond the limit of endurance. This picture is easily ranked as one of the five best pictures produced in recent years. In many ways it is the most absorbing achievement in cinema realism ever made.

A free will offering will be taken and the public fourteen and over is invited. Small children will not be admitted.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Lon Chaney's roles are often lessons in slang, for he always studies the "lingo" of any character he is to play, and uses it in speaking his lines, to get the feeling of the role. A while back he used gangster slang, and he has used circus slang, too, and his latest exploit was in learning the slang of the police in his role as the detective in While the City Sleeps, which comes tomorrow, Sunday, to the Palace theatre, he spoke all his lines in the vernacular of the "coppers."

In Chaney's new picture he plays a New York detective in a desperate battle with a band of gangsters, and a love affair is injected with himself, Anita Page and Carroll Nye as a triangle. Vivid machine gun battles and other thrills marks the swift action of the play, which Jack Conway directed. Mae Busch, who played with Chaney in The Unholy Three, Wheeler Oakman, Polly Moran, Richard Carle, William Orlamond, Clinton Lyle, Lydia Titus and others of note appear.

Motion picture fans who like romance, action and well drawn characterisations will enjoy Esther Ralston in Sawdust Paradise, which opens tomorrow at the Palace theatre. It is different from anything filmed, both in setting and treatment.

Miss Ralston is cast as a ballyhoo girl for a street carnival and Reed Howes is seen as a carnival "grifter." Hobart Bosworth is cast as an evangelist.

The carnival's offering of games are all crooked and when it plays a small town where a revival meeting is being held across the street as "opposition" one of the greatest dramatic incidents of any film produced results.

By virtue of a visiting citizen, the carnival comes under the scrutiny of the district attorney. Miss Ralston is arrested, but is paroled to Bosworth who, despite her calling, has taken an interest in the girl. The revival is not drawing patronage so the ballyhoo girl insists some carnival tactics to draw the crowd. By inducing the evangelist to adopt these unusual methods, she becomes interested in the work, and when the time comes for her leave, she finds that she no longer cares to follow the carnival life, but instead is converted to the "sawdust trail."

Howes meanwhile has acquired a carnival of his own, after having left because of a brush with the carnival owner who desires the ballyhoo girl. When the two carnivals and the revival meeting opens in the same town, a thrilling climax is instituted, which goes to make up one of the best pictures Paramount has built around Miss Ralston.

Luther Reed directed the production, and the story is an original screen vehicle from the pen of George Manker Watters. In chief support to Miss Ralston is Bosworth, Howes, Mary Alden and Alan Roscoe.

Active People want and need sugar

The "Fuel of Preference" in the body

An eminent food authority recently stated that any person who has a very active body is always on the edge of the sugar reserve in his body (glycogen). "That is why," he said, "the soldier and athlete wants and needs sugar. That is why the active child wants and needs sugar." He went on to explain that sugar is the fuel of preference in the body, that sugar can be more easily and quickly converted into energy than any other food. He emphasized the fact that sugar should form a part of the regular diet of every family and that any reducing diet, as well as any other diet, should contain sugar.

The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of other foods. In that way, it serves the double purpose of furnishing energy to the body and also of adding appetizing delight to other healthful foods. Sugar added to healthful grain cereals makes them welcome and enjoyable to growing children. Think of how many health-giving fruits are objectionable to the taste without sugar. Scientists tell us that we need the daily roughage of salads as well as cooked fruits and vegetables. Any good cook knows that adding sugar makes all of these welcome and pleasant to the palate. In addition to being the best and cheapest fuel for the body, sugar is nature's perfect flavor. It makes nearly all other foods more enjoyable. For health and enjoyment, there is no substitute for sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Stone Walls

Persisting, painful toil was ever theirs.
With calloused hands, stiff-muscled, aching arms,
As restless cock first trumpeted alarm,
They left the homespun bed to greet the dawn
The grinding work that primed throughout the day.
Yet murmured ere they shored, "Let us pray."

The stalwart heart all thought of rest forbids.
They view the future, stretching to the grave,
Takes arduous more than those of cringing slave,
Panting, lash-driven, up the pyramids.
The scourge they knew not. By no power o'erawed,
Wisdom's beginning only, fear of God.

Then, they rest. The dock and mullen creep
Into their graves. The stones have fallen long.
The fields they cleared with birch and alder throng.
The walls they built neath ivy buried deep.
No crumbling walls, their monument shall be
A nation, blindly toiling on yet free.

—D. H. M., in Providence Bulletin.

Loveliness Perennial

When beauty like a flower fades,
And Time's relentless hand, grown bold,
Clutches a woman by the throat,
Filching those charms more prized than gold,
Can there be aught to compensate
The loss in "growing old"?

The withering rose's failing leaves
Oftimes a subtler fragrance shed;
Might not the soul's best beauty glow
When dims the eye and bows the head.—
And when youth's fleeting charms grow less,
Come finer charms instead?

O loveliness perennial
When spiritual grace we find,
That can transform the plainest face—
The beauty of a well-stored mind;
A heart by love and suffering grown
More understanding, kind.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Preacher's Delight

It was midnight on the ocean,
Not a street car was in sight;
The sun was shining brightly,
And it rained all day that night.

It was a winter day in summer,
The sky was raining glass,
And a barefoot boy with shoes on
Stood sitting in the grass.

It was evening, and the rising sun
Was setting in the west;
The little fishes in the trees
Were huddled in their nest.

The rain was pouring down in drops,
The moon was shining bright,
And everything you could see
Was hidden out of sight.

While the organ peeled potatoes,
Lard was rendered by the choir,
While the sexton rang the dishrag,
Someone set the church on fire.

"Holy smoke!" the preacher shouted.
In the rush he lost his hair.
Now his head resembles heaven,
For there is no parting there!

Treasures

I was wishing that I had the riches to buy
All my dreams as I sat by the fire—
What more could I have, what could I live, what could riches not give,
What more could a heart desire?
When my fond little mother drew close to my side:
"There are some things, my child, you can't buy," she replied.

Mother's eyes beam on me, in their depths I can see
Light of love for more precious than gold.
Silver threads in her hair, and her brow lined with care,
Tell me she is growing old.
Then I see that the teardrops are dimming her eyes.

as she smiles through her tears I can't help realize
You can't buy sunshine at twilight,
You can't buy the moonlight at dawn,
You can't buy your youth when you're growing old,
Nor your life when the heartbeat is gone.

You can't buy your way into heaven.
Though wealth may hold power untold,
And when you lose your mother you can't buy another,
If you had all the world and its gold.

Blessings

I thank God for the winter
And for the winds that blow,
That keep the withered grasses
With blankettings of snow;
That strip the trembling branches,
Then give the leaves a fling,
For if there were no winter
Lo, there could be no spring.

I thank God for the twilight
That veils the face of day,
That steals the sun away
Until the dews are trembling
In ways the light has gone,
For if there were no dusktime,
Lo, there could be no dawn.

I thank God for the crosses
That we are made to bear,
The rough roads we must travel,
The thorns that we must wear;
The vinegar and lances
That cruel men employ,
For if there were no sorrow
Lo, there could be no joy.

TAKES STORM KING HIGHWAY TRIP.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Cornerites: I want to tell you about our trip. My husband, son, sister and myself started Saturday noon, the tenth of November, and went up through Colchester, Marlboro, Middletown, Meriden, Waterbury and stopped in Danbury over night.

Sunday morning we started at 9 o'clock and went through Peekskill to West Point. There we attended service at the cadet chapel. It was perfectly wonderful over the Bear Mountain bridge to West Point. At the service we heard the Marseillaise sung by a wonderful soprano with the choir joining in the chorus. I never heard it sung more beautifully in my life, and then to see the four companies of cadets come out and each company form in line and march back to their barracks.

Then we went on over the Storm King highway and never as long as I live will I forget the majesty and grandeur of those mountains with the Hudson river thousands of feet below. Winding around, you go right around the foot of the Storm King mountain which is wonderful. When you think of the engineering of that wonderful road you can hardly imagine that it is man made. From West Point we went to Newburgh and from there to Kingston to stay all night. We crossed the river at Kingston to Rhinebeck through Red Hook, Hillerton, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, Canaan, Norfolk, Winsted, Salisbury, Avon, Hartford and back home.

I never took such a wonderful trip and not one bit of trouble on any of the trip. Was glad to get home Monday night after being gone two days and a half. Hoping you will enjoy my trip on paper. CALAMITY JANE.

CLUB NO 8 MEETS NOV. 20.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Today is so cool it makes us think of what is before us, but I like cold weather.

Shoot Again: I enjoyed your letter in Saturday's paper very much.

Prairie Chicken: Congratulations. Glad you won a prize.

F. F. M.: How did you like "The Singing Fool?" We though it very good, but rather sad. Sorry, I did not have more time to visit.

Kitty Lou: By all means keep your letters coming. They are fine.

Beth C.: Suppose you are having a good time in the old home town. I had a day off recently, so headed the "bus" out and from New London, went on the Hartford road as far as the Salem Four Corners, turned there and went through Haddam, East Haddam, Chester, Deep River, Centerbrook over the bridge at Saybrook, through Lyme, over the new road past Golden Spur into New London. It must be a lovely ride in the summertime. From New London I went nearly to the Norwich State hospital over the new road through Poquetanneck and Hallville to the Norwich and Westerly road, then home.

Cosmos: When we went through Salem, thought of where you might have been.

Club 8 is looking for a crowd at their meeting Tuesday, the 20th, at the grange hall at North Stonington. Laurel is in charge. E. L. M.

AN OLD FASHIONED HUSKING BEE

Dear Editor and Friends: We are having some nice weather. May it continue.

Well, as I promised to write of an old fashioned husking bee I will do so as briefly as possible. It was long ago, I was only a young girl. We young folks decided to go to Uncle Bob and have a husking bee. So the day was set. The young men went in the morning and made huge piles of corn. About one o'clock we gathered and began husking. I do think Uncle Bob put in a red ear for every other one. I never saw so many as there were that day. Of course, Puss Nosh had to get the first red ear. Then there was a hustle and a lot of fun. Old Uncle Jerry got the next one. You would have thought he was only 17, instead of 78. My, how he did make his feet fly around after us girls. Don't think there were no smutty ears. My goodness, I never saw so many. If our faces had been painted and powdered like the girls of today what a mixture there would have been.

Well, we got the three big piles done just as Aunt Betty blew the horn for us to come to supper. You would have thought we were a lot of darkies just from the old cotton fields. Were we black? Not at all, worse than stove blacking. Aunt Nancy said, "Do take these rags and wipe off the crust," but we could not get half of it off. How we did work and scrub. At last we went into the old long dining room with its two long cross-legged tables just groaning with good things—chicken pie, boiled dinner, baked beans, pies, cakes, cookies, doughnuts, cheese. All home cooked. There were some fine cookies in those days.

Well, we did not forget the apple seeds. We had been saving them up for days. So Anna said, "Puss you soap the first one." So I started. I meant it for a young man, but it missed him and took Uncle Jerry plumb in the eye. Well, how his feet did fly around the table. I tried to dodge him, but I guess not. Two of the girls caught and held me. He gave me a sounding smack that made the old rafters ring. Now Puss see where your seed goes next time.

Well, it went on at both tables, until we heard the tum of Cal's fiddle. Then the boys went to the barn. When we got there it was swept clean. The old buggy was at the farther end with Cal on the seat. "Come on gals, she's all tuned up," and such a time we had. We got Aunt Betty out there and a young man asked her to dance. "I ain't danced a set in 40 years." "Well come on Aunty." Well, she did and she was the prettiest dancer there. She could waltz in spite of her 67 years.

At midnight Cal said, "I be goldurn if my elbo ain't tired. I am sleepy and I am going home." So they then began to hitch up the horses and starts for home. There were shouts of laughter, bits of old songs and such a merry jolly crowd such as you don't see today. The young folks of today don't know what a fine jolly time is.

Kentucky Wonder: Thanks for the pretty birthday card.

Aries: Many thanks for your cards. They are awfully nice.

Keziah Doolittle: Glad to see you better. Hope you are fine. I am not very good. My eyes are bothering me again.

L. T. H. and Skipper: Will answer your letters soon. I was glad to see so many old writers in last week's paper.

Betty Jane said in a letter we are to have Peggy Alder back with us again. Won't that be nice?

I thank all who sent me cards. Hope the sick ones are better. May God be with them and bless them is my best wishes.

NONESOPRETTY (Club No. 4).

LIKES FALL THE BEST.

Dear Social Corner Friends: This morning was very beautiful, but it is clouding up now. Have had a wonderful fall so far. I like the fall the best of any time in the year, although it seems sad as everything has to die. We have never taken any of our trips in the fall. Imagine it would be very pretty. The scenery is grand in the summer but in the fall it must be gorgeous.

E. L. M.: We picnicked just after we left Moosup. Had a lovely drive through all the mill villages. After we left Danielson took the road to Providence and went as far as the little four corner store. There we turned to the right and came over Chop Mist hill down past the rotary and home. The victory highway is a lovely road.

Melissa: Hope to see you at our next meeting. The next meeting of Club No. 6 will be in Grange hall at North Stonington. Please bring dishes and something good to eat.

Ravena: Have not heard from you in a long time. Several have asked me why you have not written as they looked forward to your letters.

American Girl: Hope you have a lovely trip. You did just right in calling me by my first name. I suppose Dorothy Bradford and Beers are having a wonderful time as they are on a trip to the National grange, which is being held in Washington, D. C. We planned to go, but could not make it. Hope to see Rebecca and Lucille Drew at our next meeting. LAURET.

CHANGES PICTURES AROUND

Dear Social Corner Folks: Thank goodness! Votins is over. We can now give our attention to pumpkin pies and other good things to be served November 29th.

I was so glad to learn of Mawb's luncheon set done with colored wax crayons and out line running stitch. I like all of the letters in the Social Corner page and hope all the members will write letters to keep the page full.

Sometimes we get tired looking at the same framed pictures that hang on the walls of our home. I'll tell you how I changed a couple of mine so they seem more restful. The picture of an Indian chief was not handsome to say the least, so I loosened the bristol-board at the back and slipped in a few dried pressed grasses and small ferns in one corner, also a twig of red oak leaves. The other picture frame I similarly loosened the picture and inserted different subjects next to the glass, relacked the back and hung it.

It is said that the seeker after truth has a life job; he who laughs last usually laughs alone; vanity is the greatest handicap to progress; raven is a gun that kicks harder than it shoots; jealousy is the greatest vice of the smallest minds; he who is engaged in business is a fortune hunter; he who marries well, marries neither his inferior nor his superior; don't expect your opinions to fit if you obtain them ready made; even the optimist forgets to smile when the tax collector corners around; swift feet get a man out of lots of scrans that his tongue got his into; if a man finds a dollar he invariably spends it in celebrating the discovery; minding one's own business is a good method of welcoming the brain; recent are eaten with pain most with care and pain were cried. MISS TOP.

HAD FINE TIME AT CHAPEL.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers: Just a few hurried lines this beautiful afternoon.

Such a nice surprise as I had one day this past week. Of course you all can guess as you read about it in the paper.

Mr. Editor: Please accept my thanks for remembering me again. A few times I have rushed before going to what use we put our prize money. Already I have subscribed for a farm paper with mine.

Did any of the Cornerites know the answer to my riddle? It was a "whale" of a riddle, wasn't it? Well, whale is the answer.

Stranger in the City and I, with our guests from Newark, had a very good time at the chapel. The talk regarding the chapel was very interesting and the guessing game amusing, while the straw vote was exciting.

But the dinner! Oh! but wasn't there a lot of good things to eat and sure enough sister and I, if nothing prevents, will be with you at the Grange hall the 20th.

I tried the baked cabbage and we all agreed it was very good.

I read this little verse the other day in a magazine and I thought it would sound pretty good for our paper:

Your paper means so much to us,
I'm sure that you can guess
How deeply and sincerely
We wish you much success.

I believe the most of us are pleased to hear that Hoover went over the top.

I'll end this letter by sending this little verse:

We're very keen our neighbor's hump to see,
We're blind to that upon our back alone,
Even though the bump far greater be,
It still remains to us unknown.

PRARIE CHICKEN

LIMERICKS AND EPITAPHS.

Dear sisters of the Corner: What a nice full page of letters we had in last week's paper. I think we all like to see a full page. I know I do.

Mrs. J.: Your letter received and will say yes that is gratitude. The world is full of just such as that, but I never was so surprised as to hear what the little bird told me.

E. L. M.: I am back to normal once more after stepping on the gas for the past four weeks. If you had called here you might have thought I was running a boarding house from the appearance of things.

I wish to thank all those who assisted us while we were in trouble, also thank those who sent cards and letters; and especially do I thank my little "Irish Rose" for the kindness she showed and for her kind act. Mr. Myers please accept our sincere thanks for use of your machine the day we needed it so badly. Your kindness we never will forget.

Some of the sisters have been sending in limericks. Here are a couple may be the sister who is making a collection may like:

Ashes to ashes;
Dust to dust;
Show me a woman
That a soldier can trust.

There was a piper had a goat.
But had no grass to give her.
So on his pipe he played a note.
"Consider goat, consider."

There's fish in the ocean;
There's fish in the sea:
And a red-headed woman
Made a fish out of me.

Here are a few epitaphs:

Here lies the body of Gilmore Rice.
Who shot his craps with loaded dice.

Here lies the body of Jonathan Gra.
Who lit the match on a load oh hay.

"Return to school I must enjoy."
Said little Bennie Blat.
The Teacher smiled and said, "Dear Boy,
You'll make a diplomat."

He tried to cross the railroad track
Before the rusning train;
They put the pieces in a sack.
But never found his brain.

School Again: I think I recognize you by your pen name. If so welcome to the corner. CRIMSON RAMBLER.

MORE LIMERICKS.

Dear Editor: Here are a few verses and limericks for your members to laugh off:

Yankee Doodle went to vote
With Annie Rooney's mother,
And Annie Rooney just escaped
Being "Hail Columbia's" brother.

Joan of Arc dreamed a glorious dream
Of saving France, 'tis said
But her hopes for good
Were not understood
Though her pyre inspired an empire instead.

A maiden, with vision ecstatic,
Sang in accents both sweet and emphatic,
"The roses of June
Will be with us soon,"
But a husband? that's more problematic!

O! O! O How shocking!
"I eat my peas with honey,
I've done it all my life;
It makes the peas taste funny
Bit it keeps them on my knife."

"In heaven no matches there are
And an angel who'd light a cigar
Must wait until night
When the skies are alight,
And kindle his 'rope' on a star."

An epitaph:
"He never raised no garden,
He never had no orchard;
He died before his time,
By whacking store bills tortured."

RECIPE FOR HOME-MADE BREAD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to write a few lines again this week. First, I want to thank the editor for the yellow slip, which came as a surprise to me.

Well, I saw the Corner wasn't very full last week. Hope to see more letters this week. Very sorry for Mr. of Greene Gables in the loss of their barn. So glad they could save their house. Fires are a very destructive thing which we have to contend with.

Good for you, Twice Twenty. Let us shout loud for the Social Corner and wake up the sleeping ones, so they will write, if only a short letter.

Happy Go Lucky: Do write a line and tell us about those Johnnycakes.

Will send a recipe for the way I make Home-Made Bread: Dissolve one yeast cake in a half cup of warm water; melt two large tablespoons of lard and add dark sugar, two tablespoons salt, four cups of milk and 1-2 cup more when it is just lukewarm. Turn in the yeast cake dissolved in water and flour enough to make a stiff batter, about as thick as you can stir. Set this to rise over night; in the morning make into loaves, which makes three big loaves or three small ones and a pan of biscuit. Try this and you will have some good tasting bread, much better than you could buy, and much healthier to eat.

Three cheers for the Corner!

TWO WEEKS IN "THE LAND OF THE SKY."

Editor and Social Corner Readers: As the conversation of the evening began to lag, Mr. Tilden was reminded of his promise to tell us of his experiences during the early part of the rebellion.

Wot boys! I had forgot tew tell you wot air a fact. Yous no that air part owns government, such as it wor, granted all uv us mounting fokes tew blow his army, for better or wotte, an if we didn't, we wor by force made tew, an if we tried wor fell over inter Kentucky an flew the flag uv blue, we wor stamped and hanged for bridge burners, or join the Lincolnites, whedher you wor or not."

"This wor afore General Burnside came here tew lik Jim Longstreet. I wor then 19 years old an fearless as the bleatin in the mountings. We tired down in Estenua Cove, an dad an my bruv four uv us, done a big biznes; and tew still, an turned about as good sperits on anybody as tote uv hit far we owned. The sojers would want hit whedher or no, as most uv em wor powerful. Dad raised lots uv corn an sich fur the still, an a passel whiskey same as I dew now. Hit would dun yer eyes good tew seen the big smoke house filled with hams an bakin, an sich bakin yeou never seed.

"Wel as I wor sayin, the sojers six saw em, cum arter us boys, an four uv Jim Logan's boys tew jine the Rebel army. We sell no, far we had tew much biznes tew tend tew, tew fit fur anybody.

Then that pack uv Rebels sed yeou hev burnt tew bridges that we node uv, an fur that yeou'll hang along with three other Lincolnites. So they tuck us an tied us hand an fut, then they brugg sout a rope tew hang us with. This wor at our house, but paw an maw had left long afore tew go tew Uncle Jim Tilden's over in Kentuckey. Wel young Harmon wor the fust tew swing. While his pore ole father stood an looked on, as he wor the next tew hang. While the hangin wor going on, sum uv the Rebel sojers got hold uv a jug uv liker in paw's suller an passed hit round. Hit wor new an as hot as a fire bean, as hit wor. Wel they drunk an drunk till dark cum on, an al got tew sleep, an left but one tew gard weuns. I managed tew git my hands ontied, an tuck one of the sojers guns an nocked him stiff, then weuns all got luse. The other sojers wor ded drunk an didn't know what wor goin on, an afore they knowed hit, we had em all in the ole stun smoke house, arter stuffin rags in ther mouth an tiein em hand an fut.

With that air ole slab dore fastened ole Nick wouldn't git out. I reken thar bones all thar neow an el be thar til Gabriel tutes his hon. Wel we node they'd send more sojers arter us se weuns tuck ther guns an bullets, an stripped em of about all they had on, an sech, an started tew jine some others that wor not ready tew have thar necks stretched. We wor tew meet a lot uv boys from Knoxville at Bullrun Creek and afore we cume tew Clinch river thar wor 175 uv us on ther way tew Kentucky over the Cumberlands tew jine the Lincoln army. We wor six nites on ther way threw rain an snow in the mountings, an swimmin' rivers. That wor better than danglin at ther end uv a hemp rope. At last we landed in Boston, Ky., whar we all dinted, an joned the 6th Tennessee tigiment an holped taw lick Jim Longstreet at Fort Sanders."

There was much more of the hardship that the union people suffered; told us, but space will not allow.

Looking at the old tall clock that stood in the corner, Mr. Tilden says, "Would yer believe hit wor leven er clock, but hit air, an time tew go tew bed."

"Maw, hev the children got in yit frum the gatherin'?" "Yes an abed long ergo!" "Wol I reken yew tew" (pointing to Colt and Blakeslee) will find rest in this here room "pointing toward an open door, and at the same time handing them a tallow and bayberry candle, mounted in a very old brass candle stick. To me he says, "we air a leetle short sr room, so ef ye have no objections ye can sleep with the children." I thank you Mr. Tilden, but I am not used to sleeping with children, and as the night is warm, and we have pleanty of blankets, I prefer to sleep in the barn with the folde, Mr. Trew.

With the barking of the dogs and the squealing of the pigs, which the dogs were helping to yard, we were awake early and were soon out looking over the surroundings and the wonderful distant mountain view to the east. A call to breakfast was announced by Mrs. Tilden blowing a large conch shell

Our breakfast consisted of fricasseed chicken, hot corn meal muffins, doughnuts and coffee. A nice appearing girl of some sixteen summers, assisted her mother in serving us at the table. While eating we heard the clatter of a loom in an outbuilding near the cabin.

Breakfast finished we took a look into the weave room, and there we saw two nice rosy cheeked girls; one operating the loom and the other spinning woolen yarn. The girls were 20 years old, we were told by the mother and were twins.

We asked Mrs. Tilden where the children were; as we heard them speak of the children attending a party. "Those air them children, twins, Phyllas an Philura, an tother air Ruby as holped me at the breakfast table." And I step in the barn with the guide and horses!

"The Gander Pull."

Here is what we witnessed, a sport never before heard of, by us.

As an old woman came out of a cabin, there was a sudden shouting. In her hand was a big white gander flapping his wings and hissing. She handed it to Jim Cate, the blacksmith, who seemed to be master of ceremonies.

The fowl's head and neck was given a thorough greasing; after which he was suspended by his feet, head downward, from a branch of a tree overhanging the road. Ten young men who were to contend for the prize were to pay 25 cents each to enter the contest to pay for the gander. Laughingly they mounted their horses, each one was to take six turns at the pulling of the gander's neck.

The blacksmith armed with a whip with many throngs, took his stand beneath the tree where hung the gander flapping his wings drearily; his long greased neck protruded with its peculiar motion unaware of the clutch it invited.

The word was given to go; the riders filed first slowly around the prescribed space, once, twice, then each making the circuit alone at break-neck speed. When he passed beneath the limb where hung the gander, the blacksmith with his whip, laid it upon the flank of each of the contestant's horses. As the horse made a sudden plunge the rider rose in his stirrups and clutched the greased neck of the swaying gander; tough old fowl; the strong ligaments of the neck resisted an effort of those who took part in the pulling , some of them completely missing to grasp the neck of the swaying gander. After each of the contestants took his sixth pull at the gander, the bird still maintained his head and was able to hiss and flap his wings.

Had one been successful in severing the gander's neck from his body, he would have the prize. In case he didn't lose h's head he was returned to the owner with the $2.35. As the fortunate fo was unscathed, he was taken down.

Now we see a little girl standing frantically clutching at the skirt of the old woman, who held the gander, claim it as hers. "Hit air my gander, maw gin the ma sig when the gray goose laid her ladder coast an hit wor set under the ole Shanghaier hen, an she kem offin her nest, hit, nor nut nur aie togenot, an one hatched hit sout, so hit air my gander." It was so decided; the bird was handed to the little girl, who clutched it in great haste; wrapped her apron about it and carried it, baby like, to her nearby cabin.

This ended the most unique sport I ever witnessed; more so than the sports that were carried on years ago at Beach Pond, where the farmers went for ride sand, usually the last Saturday in June, before commencing haying.

The next article will find us being entertained by (from his tell) the oldest person living. QUID NUNC.

MOTHERS' TEACHINGS TO CHILDREN.

Dear Social Corner Members: No one receives something for nothing. If we let the servant bear the dear burden for caring for our child she will also in return receive the dear reward of his love.

Motherhood in itself is not holy, but me can make it so.

One thing is more necessary even than to teach our children how to write and read: it is to teach them the gladness of life, the joy of battle, the triumph of supreme effort, even though if it leads to what the world terms failure.

Good health is the beginning of every virtue and grace.

True education is always mutual, and if there is any good in man or woman the child will bring it out.

If you keep your child in first class condition, his head up, his eyes bright, his cheeks red, he will be able to grapple with any bacilli that may chance his way. And if you bring him up in truth, and pride, and sane sound sense, he will be able to grapple with any temptation.

The best and choicest of our wisdom is the clearest, most precious form. This is what we should our children.

If the foundation is "out of plumb" the edifice cannot be faultless. And if the child starts in life with his views and interests wrongly focused, he never can develop to the fullest of his possibilities.

KITTY LOU.

DELICIOUS DESSERTS.

Dear Editor and Members: Desserts that are delicious and good.

It is not necessary to feel that desserts are a luxury and that they satisfy only the palate. There are easily made desserts which contain some of the most necessary foods for healthy living. Important among such desserts are those made of molasses. Not only does this delightful sweet impart a distinctive and delicious flavor, but it contains a rich supply of lime and iron, two food essentials we always need. This recipe makes a gingerbread that is unusually light and fluffy. You can bake it the same time you are preparing the rest of your meal for it tastes particularly good when it is served warm.

Southern Spicy Gingerbread: Two eggs, 3-4 cup brown sugar, 3-4 cup of molasses, 3-4 cup of shortening, 1 cup boiling water, 3 1-2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons each of soda and ginger, 1 1-8 teaspoon of cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon of baking powder. Add beaten eggs to the sugar, molasses and shortening, then add the dry ingredients, which have been mixed and sifted together, lastly the hot water. Bake in small individual pans or in a shallow pan. This is delicious with whipped cream.

Chocolate Marshmallow Roll: One square bitter chocolate, 4 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 3-4 cups our, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon each of cream tartar and soda. Melt chocolate over hot water, add eggs and sugar, heat over hot water until lukewarm and should be light and foamy. Remove from the fire and beat until cold, add flour sifted with salt, cream of tartar and soda. Fold over and over and turn in a very shallow pan lined with greased paper. Bake ten minutes in moderate oven. Turn out on paper. Sprinkle with powdered sugar, spread with marshmallow filling and roll. Roll paper around cake and cool.

rMINCE MEAT THAT IS DIFFERENT

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: I hope that the season of Thanksgiving will mean far more to all of us than just a big dinner, for surely most of us have a great deal to be thankful for, and even those who are going through the deep sorrows of a personal sorrow can find something to be grateful for.

However we have to take a little thought of how and what we are to feed our guests, and just so as not to have too much to do at once, and also because it is better to stand and "ripen" for a short time. I am making mince-meat, and will pass on my recipe, which I think is original with me.

We think it very good and it seems to be more healthful than some other kinds.

Mince-Meat: 4 lbs. apples, scrubbed and chopped fine, with skins on. One half of a small can of corned-beef. One tumbler of grape jelly. Sweeten and season to taste, and cook very slowly for one hour. Seal in hot jars and keep one or two weeks before using.

I also want to suggest to the sisters who piece bed quilts (I hope someone besides me does that old-fashioned stunt) that the best thing I've yet discovered for a pattern is blotting paper. It sort of clings to the cloth, and makes easy and more accurate cutting. I am making sofa pillow covers for Christmas presents. Black sateen, with baskets of flowers and other designs cut out of bright bits from the piece bag, alligned on the black make quite handsome gifts. Best of all good wishes to all the sisters.

TRIP TO GREEN AND WHITE MOUNTAINS

Dear Corner Sisters. This is a very belated letter of thanks to all those who helped at Club No. 6's last meeting.

I went away on a trip just after and when I returned was so tired I just neglected to write. We had a fine time. The only trouble was we had to be home in a few days, so could not visit as many places as we would have liked. We went from here to New Haven and then up through western Connecticut and Massachusetts. Stopped over night just above Pittsfield and the next day went on up through the Green mountains to Burlington, then over to Montpelier. We had so many detours we had to put for the night before we reached Montpelier. We saw great barns that were picked up by the flood and carried some distance and set down again. On Mad river where we spent the night they were working on new bridges at every place where we crossed the river. After leaving the flood region we headed for the White mountains, going to Littleton, and from there to Twin mountain, then over to Franconia Notch to see the Old Man and up the flume. I was so tired and out of health I was glad to get home in the end. If I had not been so tired I would have gone to see the peak, too. We stopped to see Indian Head, too. The day we were there someone was married up on that mountain but didn't know it until afterwards.

Sunday we went to the Devil's Hopyard. It is a lovely drive and I think it deserves a better name. Does any one know how it got such a name?

A "SIMPLE THANKSGIVING DINNER

Dear Corner Members: Here is a simple Thanksgiving dinner:

Fruit Cups
Roast Fowl Chestnut Stuffing
Brown Gravy Squash
Potato Spanish Pulled Bread
Strawberry Jel Celery Salad
Cocoanut Pie
Dried Fruit Cookies
Nuts Coffee

Fruit Cups: Cut grapefruit into halves, remove pulp carefully, leaving skin clean (to use later as cups); mix pulp with grapes (Malaga) and apple; let flavors blend together at least one hour. Then chill and serve in the fruit shell.

Chestnut Stuffing: Season bread with sage, salt, pepper and one small onion; one cup of chestnuts boiled to every three cups of stuffing.

Potato Spanish: Boil potatoes until tender, then remove add 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepeper, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder, one tablespoon of butter and cream; mash, beat up, serve hot.

Pulled Bread: Fry bread in small pieces, having raised twice in the raw state; then roll in sugar.

Celery Salad: Two cups of chopped cabbage and grated pineapple; season with celery seed and French dressing. Place a tablespoon of raw carrot on each serving. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Cheese is much heartier than meat. Where cheese is 1-3 water, meat is 2-3. This explains why some find it difficult of digestion; it is too concentrated and is more easily taken care of when grated, melted or diluted with other materials.

Where cheese is added to maccaroni, potatoes or rice for a dinner dish, a smaller amount is feasible.

Crackers warmed with cheese grated on them to serve with soup or salad, also have a definite value. The groove in the celery stalk may be filled with cheese.

Cheese with soup, on or in it, is not in appropriate. Try a little grated cheese in the cream of cabbage or corn soup or even make a soup of corn meal or hominy and flavor it with cheese.

Following is a recipe for Cheese Sauce: Make the usual white sauce by melting one ounce of butter and cook it in two tablespoons of flour until the whole bubbles but not brown. Then add gradually one cup milk, hot or cold, and cook until thickened, stirring constantly to keep it smooth. Set this over hot water and add grated cheese in any desired proportion and season further with salt, paprika and mustard. Stir often until the cheese melts and is blended with the sauce. A bit of soda in the sauce sometimes aids in softening the cheese and according to some authorities makes it more digestible.

One ounce of cheese when chopped or grated will measure about 1-4 of a cup. This gives a pleasant flavor, but for greater food value the amount of cheese may be increased until 1-4 lb. or more is used.

Such a sauce serves many purposes. It may be poured over toast like Welsh rarebit without further additions, or it may be served as plain sauce for vegetables. Or the croquettes of rice or macaroni may be made without cheese and the cheese sauce served with them. Any cereal left from breakfast may have the cheese warmed in them.

GUESS WHO?

SEASON'S GREETINGS FROM CALLA LILY

Dear Corner Friends: It was with regret I failed to send in a line on the Nov. 13 meeting, as I see we had no notice of any kind in, but, no doubt, whether a notice or no, we do meet or not, we all know that Club No. 2 meets every month except July and August, on the second Tuesday, so Corner writers please remember it in the future.

MawB.: My mother said the same thing; also she said a person when talking to himself was talking to a sensible person. No doubt he felt the same way. Well, he finished out the job, anyway.

Kitty Lou: I have an Old Home week postcard sent me years ago from Rhode Island. A picture of a house on it, and it says: "Home—a place where you are treated the best and you grumble the most." I think there is more to that than just sentiment. Don't you?

I want to thank Chelsea, Aries and Whirlwind for answering to my request. It is surely true if you want something some Corner sister has it and sends it in. Thank you, each one.

Ma of Greene Gables and Bug: Why not try and come to Club No. 2 again? We would all be glad to see you.

Maine Lover: I think of you often. We met when clubs first started. Hope you are improving.

White Dawn: How are you? Hope you are gaining in strength.

Thangsgiving greetings to all.

CALLA LILY.

PLEASED WITH REMEMBRANCES

Dear Social Corner Friends: How nice it is to have friends as we passed another milestone on Nov. 8. We received many birthday cards from friends and Social Corner members, and we wish to thank one and all for their kind remembrance. The birthday card from Sister Potlatch, Seattle, Washington, came by air mail.

With kind regards to the Corner family, I remain very truly yours,

31 AMERICAN CARS SHOWN AT PARIS MOTOR SALON

PARIS—(AP)—The United States was the only country in the world which offered competition to France in the number of cars exhibited during the 22nd Salon of the Automobile here recently.

French manufacturers displayed 71 makes of cars, ranging from the $20,000 Hispano-Suiza to the $380 Citroen. America was represented by 31 different cars. The other countries were far behind.

Italy presented five cars; Germany and Great Britain three each; Belgium, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia, one each.

Post-war Germany is not neglecting its automobile industry and its exhibit was on a par with that of England.

Exports figured that 99 per cent of the world's cars were manufactured by the eight nations represented at this salon.

Sport Note From Paris

PARIS,—(AP)—Turtle-racing is the newest field sport of Montparnasse foreign students and art quarter habitues of the Left Bank. Theraces usually start at one cafe and finish at another.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Just a half century ago diphtheria caused three deaths in one Norwich family. The disease was rampant that week in the Falls section of the city. The secretary of the state board of health visited Norwich to investigate sanitary conditions here and found that the conditions in the Falls section warranted the state board in taking the matter in hand.

Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of November, 1878, are as follows:

Monday, Nov. 11, 1878—The ravages of the diphtheria at the Falls have brought sorrow and mourning into many households. The saddest and most distressing case is that of Mr. Frank McKeag, overseer of the weaving room in the Falls mill. Within the last three weeks he has buried two children and yesterday a third child lay dead in his home. In many of the city churches yesterday prayers were offered for the bereaved family.

The religious interest at the Greeneville Methodist church is increasing. At a recent meeting 20 prayers were offered and 40 testimonials were given. The gathering last evening was the largest they have had yet.

The Sunday school connected with the West Side Baptist church gave an oyster and meat supper in the vestry of the church for the benefit of the school library.

Ice formed on the ponds around the city Saturday night nearly a half inch in thickness.

Tuesday, Nov. 12, 1878—At a meeting of the directors of the Norwich Printing Co., on Saturday, it was voted to discontinue the further publication of the Aurora. Though often differing from the numerers of that publication in our views and the exposition of the political and other questions vitally concerning the best interests of the commonwealth, it nevertheless affords us great pleasure to say that the Aurora has always been a moral, instructive, high toned and valuable family newspaper.

McDonald and Clark of this city put up a patent heating apparatus with four radiators inside of three days and had steam up within three minutes from the time of starting the fire. They only ask that someone knock this chip off their shoulder.

A competitive examination of females desiring positions as teachers in the West Chelsea school district will take place next Saturday.

A Norwich girl is said to have eloped with a member of Buffalo Bill combination troupe. "Lo, the poor Indian."

Wednesday, Nov. 13, 1878—Mr. Alfred Wheeler Avery, the genial and silver tongued promotor of ye winter night social was married last evening to Miss Mary G. Tucker of Lebanon, at the residence of Mr Denison Avery of Windham. The ceremony was performed by the Rev Mr. Thompson. Mr. Avery's many friends will "call off" a cheery "All hands around" "Balance your partner." "Salute."

Ulsters are made long enough this season to fold under the boots. It requires the combined efforts of two men and a boy to manoeuvre one in a storm sale.

Thursday, Nov. 14, 1878—The secretary of the state board of health visited this city, yesterday, to inquire into its sanitary conditions and receive relations as concerning the prevalence and virulence of diphtheria. In company with a leading physician he visited the Falls district and the result of his investigation showed that its sanitary condition is outrageously filthy. The secretary remarked that if the local board of health do not take prompt and efficient means to remedy the situation the state board will take the matter in charge.

The first lecture of the Otis library series was delivered to a highly appreciative audience last evening, by the Rev. William S. Palmer, who spoke for over an hour on the subject, "Hints On What We Read." The lecture throughout was in an entertaining and instructive vein and was listened to with closest attention.

Tom Thumb and company will exhibit at Breed hall on Saturday evening. Uncle Tom's Cabin at Breed hall, Monday evening. 'Tis old yet always new.

Friday, Nov. 15, 1878—Monroe Nichols of this city, son of the late Col. Monroe Nichols is about to enter the law office of H. J. Horn. Esq., of St. Paul, Minn.

The Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon of New Haven and his son, the Rev. Edward W. Bacon of New London, were in town last evening.

Dr. Mary E. Walker of Washington

Dr. Mary E. Walker of Washington is to lecture on "Pure Love and Sacred Marriage" at Breed hall this evening. In Massachusetts, where she has been lecturing recently, she was warmly received. Fill up the hall, tonight.

The Methodist church in Bean Hill is enjoying an earnest and interesting revival. Over 40 persons rose for prayers last Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Burns of Boston conducted the meetings.

Yesterday passed without a dog fight or a runaway.

Five shares of the Norwich & Worcester railroad stock were sold at the Boston stock sale, on Wednesday, at 116.

Saturday, Nov. 16, 1878—Mr. W. R. Burnham will repeat in the Broadway church, tomorrow evening, the address delivered in New Britain on Thursday before the state conference. It is spoken of as a very admirable paper and received the hearty approval of the conference. His subject is the "Sunday School." All are invited.

Dr. Mary E. Walker discussed "Pure Love and Sacred Marriage" to a fair audience in Breed hall last evening. She appeared to be thoroughly at home in a gentleman's full dress suit light kid boots, a piccadilly collar and dead white shirt front. Her tongue ran on with an easy, limpid, feminine fluency, as she explained her subject, and she waved her lily white hand in graceful gesticulation. Altogether she was quite gentlemanly.

A Norwich gentleman who is traveling in Canada, writing under date of November 13th, reports fine sleighing in Toronto. The snow lies six inches deep on the level.

EAGLEVILLE

A minstrel show was staged by Earl W. Green post, American Legionof Coventry and Mansfield, at Champlin's hall Monday night. There was a large attendance, many coming from surrounding towns. All had a very entertaining and mirth-provoking evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. David Mitchell, in Southbridge, Mass.

Howard Reynolds of the Bryant-Stratton Business college, Providence, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Reynolds.

Sergeant Riley of Fort Hamilton, N. Y., was a week-end and holiday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Landen. Monday they were in Manchester to witness the Armistice day parade.

Mrs. Sarah Marsh is spending a few days with Mrs. C. E. Easterbrooks, in Willimantic.

Mr. Judd and Mr. Green of New Haven were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Landen.

Mrs. George Adams and Mrs. Richard Hamer accompanied by Mrs. Emil Landen and Mrs. Edward Landen attended the Social Corner meeting in Willimantic Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Greene of Portland, Me., and Mr. and Mrs. William Clark of Hope Valley, R. I., were

PLUNGE OF BUYING IN STOCK MARKET SENT SALES UP TO 6,714,000 SHARES

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—The stock market, a market of superlatives all this week, completely surpassed itself today in the most amazing orgy of speculation the world has ever known, rolling up total sales of 6,714,400 shares, an increase of more than a million shares over the record of 5,679,600 made only Monday. Little fellows and big fellows seemed to fall over each other to plunge into the surging market.

More than two dozen issues from all sections of the list were widely bid up from 5 to 23 points, and about 70 stocks chalked up record prices for the year, many for all time. The Associated Press average price of 20 industrials jumped 7.37 points to 247.75, another new record, and the average of 20 rails was carried up 1.35 points to 133.33. The pitifully inadequate ticker worked 2 hours and 3 minutes after the closing gong, and if today's market is any indication of what may be expected in the future, the plans for a 7,000,000-share-day ticker have been conservative.

The public appetite for stocks was whetted ravenously by the negligible increase in Federal Reserve brokers loans announced yesterday on top of the greatest four days of trading ever experienced. A gain of more than $100,000,000 had been anticipated, and a number of traders had been nervously lightening their commitments. Speculative joy was boundless when this increase turned out to be less than $2,000,000. The accumulation of overnight buying orders threw the exchange into a frenzy at the opening gong, and some 600,000 shares changed hands in the first 15 minutes.

The failure of the brokers' loan compilation last night to reflect the orgy of buying earlier in the week was favorably interpreted as indicating that the enormous buying has been investment buying, that stocks have been passing from weak to strong hands. In less optimistic quarters, however, it was pointed out that there may have been enormous borrowings from non-federal reserve sources. Whether this was true will not be known until the stock exchange totals are announced early next month.

With the generally rising market of the past few days, a large short interest has developed in expectation of a technical reaction. Probably never have bears taken such a merciless lacing as today, as frantic short covering was a factor in the mighty total of sales. There were heavy cross-currents of selling in the day's activity by traders who feel that the market is running away with itself and took the frenzied demand for stocks as an opportunity to get rid of their holdings at handsome profits.

Call money renewed at 6 1-2 per cent, and was held at that figure by the calling of $15,000,000 by banks to adjust their position with the federal reserve. A drop of about $100,000,000 in the indebtedness of New York banks at the reserve institution was an encouraging development in the credit situation Of course, the frantic market paid no attention to the day's news, although the weekly trade reviews were highly favorable, indicating less than the seasonal lag in major industries and a general picking up in the back sliders.

It was a market not only for the volatile issues and the new favorites put forward in recent sessions, but for most of the seasoned old dividend payers which joined the upswing. American Telephone shot up nearly 8 points and U. S. Steel more than 3 to a new record price, 172 1-2. General Motors alone made a rather disappointing showing, sagging fractionally after allowing for the $3.75 dividend which came off today.

Radio and Montgomery Ward again led the advance, both making extreme gains of 23 points. Montgomery Ward touched a new peak at 417 and closed at 414. Radio reached a new top at 298 and closed a half point lower. Wright Aero soared 18 points to 210.

Coppers were most conspicuous in group strength, Greene Cananea spurted 10 points to a new top at 167 1-2, while Cerro De Pasco and Anaconda climbed about 5 and 7 points, also to new peaks. The response of the oils was limited, although Mexican Seaboard climbed 8 1-2 points to a new top at 70. Gulf and Standard of California also broke into new high territory.

In the utilities, Brooklyn Edison advanced nearly 15 points into a small turnover, while Consolidated Gas, Commonwealth Power, Public Service of New Jersey, and North American rose 3 to 5 points to new peaks. In the rail group Atchison mounted 5 points to a record price at 204, and Northern Pacific more than 4 to a new top at 119 3-4. Pullman gained nearly 8 points.

Motors generally came forward with Packard advancing nearly 9 points to a new high price at 118 7-8 and Chrysler rallying about 5. The heaviness of General Motors was in the face of many bullish but unconfirmable rumors, one that it had purchased the largest motor company in Germany, another that it had done the same in Italy.

Western Union, American Radiator, Case Threshing, Mathieson Alkali, Kolster Radio, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Johns-Manville, General Electric, Republic Iron and Steel, and Midland Steel Products preferred made extreme gains of 6 to 11 points.

The market was almost all on the upside with declines negligible. British Empire Steel 1st preferred and U. S. Tobacco dropped 9 to 7 points, but on small turnovers.

The commodity markets were quiet, wheat rose moderately on higher Liverpool cables, and cotton responded to better trade advices.

Foreign exchanges were firmer, sterling rallying on slight demand, but threatening to go back where further gold imports would be unprofitable. Other European currencies gained in sympathy.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

CONN. COUNCIL CATH. WOMEN.

For the past few years the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, with the cooperation of its various local units, has helped to provide Christmas cheer for the girls in the House of the Good Shepherd, Hartford. The plan adopted was that each local council should donate one dollar for each girl in the institution from that particular district. There are about 250 girls in the institution, and by thus sharing the cost the tax upon each local council would be small. Some of the councils have, in addition, sent little individual gifts for the girls, work baskets, toilet articles, etc. The generosity of the councils has been appreciated, not only by the girls, but by the Sisters of the Good Shepherd. The council hopes to be able to continue its special interest in this particular institution by a more generous contribution this year, in order that the institution may purchase some new equipment for its clinic—a stove, a typewriter, etc. Contributions are to be sent in care of Mrs. George B. Newton, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, 244 Main street Hartford.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

Court City of Norwich held a well attended meeting Tuesday night. Four candidates were initiated by the degree team in a very creditable manner. Six applications were received and the outlook for a large increase in membership the coming winter is very promising. The auditors' reports were read which showed the Court in a good financial condition.

An interesting talk on the good of the order by a past grand chief ranger of the state was followed by an entertainment and a radio concert.

Refreshments were served by the committee and they promised to give a better time next meeting. All members are welcome.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich Grange No. 172, held its regular meeting in Steiner's hall Wednesday evening. Worthy Master Albert W. Lillibridge presided with all officers present and an attendance of 106 patrons. It was voted to give $5 to the Salvation Army. Miss Alice Bishop, secretary of Pomona, was reported ill at Backus hospital. A report from Division C, refreshment committee was read and a balance of $10 turned into the building fund; also the report of the masquerade social and dance held Halloween night, showed a goodly sum was realized and $51.85 turned into the building fund. Election of officers for 1929 was held, after which refreshments were served by Div. D., Mrs. Eva Higgins, chairman. The next meeting will be held Nov. 28 and the officers hope to have a good attendance as the literary program is in charge of Mrs. Helena Church and will be of a musical character.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

American Legion auxiliary, No. 4, of Robert O. Fletcher post, participated in good numbers in the Armistice day parade in New London last Monday, appearing in beautiful new uniforms, ments as well as the very good for which they received many compliments who were in line under the leadership of Mrs. William R. Denison, president.

The officers of the auxiliary are expressing great gratitude to the Norwich men who furnished automobile transportation for the auxiliary, these being Leslie Manchester, Charles F. Whitney, Henry F. Powers, John Bennett, Mr. Farnam and Mr. Anderson.

The large wreath for Armistice day was placed at the tablet at Chelsea parade by Hawkins as usual.

The auxiliary is to hold its regular meeting Monday night at the Thayer building and will have two candidates for initiation at this meeting, as well as having the officers installed by Mrs. Herbert Willey.

The auxiliary is to be represented at the Uncas-Merchants National bank next week during the Red Cross roll-call campaign.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The regular business meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 12, was Tuesday evening in the assembly rooms. Plans were started for a bridge, whist and pinochle which will be held sometime this month and to which the public will be invited.

The "wandering minstrels" which have been reorganized and equipped with a new repertoire of songs will be presented in South Manchester Wednesday evening for the benefit of Saint James' church. The drill team will meet for rehearsal at 7:15 Tuesday evening instead of 7:30 the usual hour. The regular social meeting will be held Tuesday and a program has been arranged by the committee in charge. The social meetings this year have been very successful as the members in charge have shown great enthusiasm and no effort has been spared to make this one equally as interesting.

WOMEN'S BENEFIT ASSOCIATION

Last week members of the Women's Benefit association gave one of their members, Mrs. Irene Lapre a house warming party at her new home at Mohegan. Mrs. Lapre served a fine supper to the members assisted by Mrs. Fitzpatty and Mrs. Eckstein. Each guest brought Mrs. Lapre a pretty and useful gift for her new home. The members of the W. B. A. will go to South Manchester next Tuesday night to attend a grand rally of the South Manchester review. A turkey supper will be served at the Sheridan hotel after which the meeting will take place. After the meeting a fine entertainment is planned by Manchester Review.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

The regular meeting of the Sebequanash council, No. 11, was held in the Buckingham Memorial Wednesday evening with Minnie Noyes (Wenonah) in the chair, as the Pocahontas, Sister Quinn, was unable to attend on account of sickness in her family. A large number of members were present, also members of Hiawatha council of New London. Deputy Prevost gave a short talk for the good of the order. The members trailed to New London and took part in the Armistice day parade in regular Indian costume. They were visited by the Minnehaha of New London. The meeting closed in usual manner with the salute to the flag.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Wauregan lodge, No. 6, had a record breaking attendance at its last convention in the Buckingham Memorial, every available seat in the hall being occupied and many standing. The degree of knight, was put on by Trumbull lodge of New London, and conferred on four squires. Those brothers who were not present at this convention certainly missed a good time.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a New York's frolic, and to report at the next convention. Several applications for membership were read and referred to the investigating committee. After the routine of business and the conferring of the degree, a buffet luncheon was served.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."

Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Take a teaspoonful of Tanlac after meals and before going to bed and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

EXTINCTION THREATENS HORNED TOAD OF DESERT

PHOENIX, Ariz., (AP)—The growing industry of collecting horned toads and selling them to tourists is beginning to threaten extinction of the species on the Arizona desert, declare officers of the biological survey here.

There is a demand for legal protection of the little animal whose friends say it is an ally of man in his warfare on insects. The toad devours grasshoppers, caterpillars, wireworms, blister needles, chinch bugs and ants, particularly the last named. One ttad has been known to destroy a whole colony of the destructive harvester ants.

The fate of the toad when taken from its native habitat is to be kept in captivity a long time and eventually to be starved to death, say the survey officials who urge its protection.

Rubber Vine

The Madagascar rubber vine, with which Edison is experimenting as a possible source of tires, is a relative of the commonmilk weeds, according to Dr. O. F. Cook, senior botanist of the United States department of agriculture. About 4 per cent of the total weight of the plant is rubber, and the product as exported from Madagascar has been regarded as of good quality, though not equal to the rubber of the Brazilian hevea tree. The lower quality, however, may possibly be due to the primitive methods now used in obtaining the Madagascar rubber, and more scientific chemical treatment may serve to remedy this. Though no serious efforts have hitherto been made to exploit the vine commercially, it is known that it will grow freely in southern Florida, and efforts to extend its range northward in the regions of occasional frosts will be followed with interest. The vine belongs to the genius known to botanists as cryptostegia.

Too Young to Quit.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP)—Capt. J. Fred Myers, 70, employee of a railroad here, refused to retire from active service, explaining that he is "too young to quit work." He has been given a position as colonization agent for a subsidiary of his company.

LISBON PERSONAL TAX NOTICE

All persons residing in the Town of Lisbon, Oct. 1, 1928, who are between 21 and 60 years of age, are hereby notified and warned that I have a warrant to collect a personal tax of two (2) dollars, said tax being due Nov. 15, 1928. According to Chapter 205, Public Acts of 1927, if tax is not paid within 60 days, one (1) dollar will be added thereon. Taxes will be collected at my home. If sent by mail, enclose postage if you wish a receipt.

Dated at Lisbon, Oct. 25, 1928.
ALWIN KAEMPFFE,
3t nov2-10-17 Collector.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Montville, within and for the District of Montville, on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1928.

Present—DAN D. HOME, Judge.

Estate of Edward Mahoney, late of Montville, in said District, deceased.

Maria Mahoney of Montville, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to be intestate.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Montville, in said District, on the 22nd day of November, A. D. 1928, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

DAN D. HOME, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest: CARRIE W. CRAIG, nov17d Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Killingly, within and for the District of Killingly, on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1928.

Present, OSCAR F. ATWOOD, Acting Judge.

Estate of Susie E. Williams, late of Killingly, in said district, deceased. Upon the application of Sabin S. Russell, praying that an instrument, purporting to be the last will and testament of the said deceased, be admitted to probate, as appears by said application on file.

Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Office in Killingly, in said District, on the 26th day of November A. D. 1928, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and that said Sabin S. Russell, give notice thereof to all persons known to be interested in said estate to appear, if they see cause, at said time and place, and be heard thereon, by publication twice in some newspaper, once a week for two successive weeks, having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy thereof on the public sign-post nearest where the deceased last dwelt, in the town of Killingly and return make of his doings to this court.

Attest, OSCAR F. ATWOOD, Judge.
Certified from record.
OSCAR F. ATWOOD, Judge

DISTRICT OF CANTERBURY, ss., Probate Court, Nov. 14th, A. D., 1928.

Estate of Walter E. Davis, late of Canterbury, in said District, deceased.

Upon the application of Lucy E. Davis, praying that letters of administration may be granted on said estate, represented Intestate, as per application on file more fully appears, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Office in Canterbury, in said District, on the 22nd day of November, A. D. 1928, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that public notice be given of the pendency of said application, and time and place of hearing thereon, by publishing a copy of this order once in a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy thereof on the public sign-post in the Town of Canterbury, in said District, at least five days before said day of hearing, and return make to the Court.

BALL CLUB USES PLANE TO SEEK NEW MATERIAL

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Ivory hunters have called upon the airplane to aid in snatching unpolished baseball talent from the bushes.

James A. Perry owner of the Indianapolis American association champions, and his brother, Norman, have bought a cabin plane which is to be used by James' scouts. The machine is to be ready all the time. When a report that "Mudville" has a super-star reaches Indianapolis, off goes the plane and an "ivory hunter," in a few hours the scout will know if the star is a comet or a dud. cvde -OL'

NOT BACK TALK BUT BACK TAXES SLOGAN OF ALEXANDER, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—A New London man was jailed for a short time today because he owed the city back taxes. He was Charles Soltz, proprietor of a small meat market on John street. Soltz owed the city his personal tax for several years and when repeated efforts to collect it failed, Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander issued a warrant committing Soltz to jail unless the tax was paid. City Sheriff Lawrence Fardy was given the warrant to serve and when the officer visited the market payment was not made. Soltz was then taken to the county jail and made a prisoner. About two hours later a relative of Soltz went to the jail and paid Jailer Winder E. Reed $20.80, which amount represented the back tax, together with interest and officer's fee.

Acting Sergeant Wm. Graham, who has been confined to his home on Williams street, several weeks with a form of stomach trouble, returned to duty today.

NATHAN A. BINGHAM, NORWICH, MAY HAVE FRACTURED RIBS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—Nathan A. Bingham, about 58, of 24 Oneco avenue, Norwich, is a patient at Home Memorial hospital. The exact extent of Mr. Bingham's injuries, received in an automobile accident late Thursday, are yet to be determined. He is suffering from shock and probable fractured ribs on the right side. At the hospital this afternoon it was stated that Mr. Bingham was resting comfortably but that it would not be known for two or three days whether or not the ribs are fractured. Mr. Bingham was driving his car southerly on Bank street and intended to drive into Lee avenue. When the latter highway was reached and as a machine driven by Fred Slate, 20 Truman street headed in the opposite direction approached, Mr. Bingham guided his car toward Lee avenue and in front of Slate's auto. Before Slate could bring his car to a stop it crashed against the front end of the Bingham machine. Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh realizing that Mr. Bingham was injured had him taken to the hospital. His automobile has been placed in storage.

RHODE ISLAND AUTO THIEVES HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—Larsen Hildreth of West Warwick, R. I.; Albert Bellville, Coventry, R. I., and Francis Sullivan, Holyoke, Mass., who were arrested in Darien early Thursday morning when found in possession of a Nash sedan owned by John S. Cafaro, 223 Poquonoc road, Groton, stolen in this city Wednesday night, were in the police court this morning. Probable cause was found in the cases of Hildreth and Bellville and they were held for trial at the next term of the criminal superior court. A nolle was entered in the case of Sullivan, for he did not participate in the theft. He was walking along the highway west of New Haven and got a ride from Hildreth and Bellville. The arrest of the three men resulted when the method of driving the automobile attracted the attention of a Darien police officer. He held up the car and as Bellville was driving he asked that the latter's license and registration be displayed. Bellville had Cafaro's license and registration in his pocket as both had been found in the car. As the description on the license in no way corresponded with Bellville's appearance, the men were further interrogated and as a result the three were arrested. The New London police were communicated with and it was then revealed that the auto in Darien was Cafaro's machine.

Elmer Allen, of Shaw street, a mason, was arrested Thursday upon complaint of his wife, Rose, because, it was claimed, Allen spent his money for liquor and did not support his wife and children. Upon Allen's promise to contribute properly for the support of his family, a continuance was ordered for a month for the purpose of determining how sincere Allen is in his promise to the court.

Another victim of drink was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was arrested on Main street yesterday.

Edward McLaughlin was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication and was sentenced to 10 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended. McLaughlin, who has been arrested several times within a few months on the same charges, was arrested last night by Patrolman Lawrence Pardy and Louis Tooker.

Dorothy Henkle, 922 Ocean avenue, was charged with violation of the city's laws in parking overtime on Meridian street, she having been arrested yesterday. Today she failed to appear in court and her bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Miss Henkle has been arrested three times for violation of the automobile law.

Delia Murray, of Worcester, Mass., has sold a building lot on Blydenburg avenue to William C. Smith.

The estate of William J. Crocker and Mary A. Crocker has sold a cottage, with contents, including household effects and furnishings, and a small parcel of land, corner of Peninsula and Alewife avenues, Ocean Beach, to Jeremiah Twomey.

Mrs. C. H. Ramsdell, Rogers farm, on the New London-Norwich highway, reported to the New London police this morning that ten days ago she lost an automobile robe while driving along that highway. She also reported that a man driving a Pontiac roadster was observed to pick up the robe, but he has not returned it to the owner.

OBITUARY

Miss Fannie C. Potter

Mrs. Fannie C. Potter, about 83, daughter of the late Franklin and Samantha White Potter, died yesterday at her residence at the Crocker House, after a lingering illness. She is survived by a nephew, Franklin P. Stevens, of Kansas City, Kan., and a niece, Mrs. David Faust, of New Haven. Miss Potter resided for many years on Main street, corner of Federal street. She was a member of St. James Episcopal church.

The funeral of Eric, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Anders Anderson, of Poquonoc, was held in Hartford this afternoon. The child was drowned while at play on a private pier, at Baker's cove, Poquonoc, Wednesday.

An automobile driven by T. B. Parrish, of Highland apartment, Granite street, struck James Magee, of New York, employed as pilot of the New England Steamship company's freighter Mohegan, running between this port and New York. Magee is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from possible brain injury. Magee was walking on Truman street, corner of Bank street, about 9:30 o'clock and attempted to cross the highways. He did not notice the approach of Parrish's automobile and the driver did not have opportunity to bring the auto to a stop before hitting the mariner. Magee was forcibly hurled to the macadam surface. Parrish assisted Magee into the automobile and took him to the hospital.

GARDNER LAKE FARM HAND HELD FOR THEFT OF $70

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—Fred Stamm, farmworker, arrested in Glastonbury by state police from Hartford barracks yesterday charged with theft and who was returned to New London later in the day, being held a prisoner at police headquarters was given a hearing in a justice court at Montville this morning. Probable cause was found and Stamm was held for trial at the next term of the criminal superior court. In default of bail of $1,000 Stamm was committed to the county jail. Stamm was arrested following complaint being made to the state police of Groton barracks by Ernest Lathrop, proprietor of a farm at Gardner lake that Lathrop had been robbed of $70 and that the theft was discovered a short time after Stamm had given up his employment. The money was taken from the pocket of Lathrop's coat that was suspended from a hangar in a barn. It was learned that Stamm had boarded a bus for Hartford and a description of the fellow was telephoned to the Hartford state police. Two officers went to Glastonbury and when the bus arrived there they boarded it and finding Stamm, he was taken from the bus. When searched, $69 was found in his clothing.

CANDIDATES PRUDENT IN CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—The filing of expenses of different candidates who ran for office in the recent campaign discloses the fact that very little money was spent. George W. Sisson of Groton, candidate for the state senate reports expenses of $214 while his opponent William C. Fox of this city filed an expense account that only totaled $65.

The continued cases of Fred Lavey, New York, a signal operator, charged with breach of the peace, was again continued, in the police court today the latest continuance being to Dec. 16. Lavey was arrested Oct. 14 by Special Agent Harold Swanson, New Haven railroad, when Lavey created a disturbance at the union station.

Miss Helene Crawford, 62 Broad street, Norwich, escaped prosecution in the police court today through the leniency of the authorities. The young woman parked her automobile in violation of the city ordinance yesterday, overtime on Meridian street. The car was tagged by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, but when Miss Crawford appeared at police headquarters she was released, with a warning to adhere to the traffic regulations in the future.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Rabbi Will Speak Here

Dr. Nachman Heller of Brooklyn, N. Y., a rabbi widely known in Zionistic work, is to deliver a series of addresses here Saturday and Sunday, morning and evening, at the Brothers of Joseph synagogue on West Main street. His general topic will be Jacob and Esau, because the birth of these worthies is recorded in the book of Genesis, the portion of which is assigned for the day's synagogal chanting and public recitation.

DR. NACHMAN HELLER

Dr. Heller has been a speaker in Norwich before, and comes highly recommended with letters from former president, W. H. Taft, Justice Louis E. Brandeis ,Nathan Straus, Louis Marshall, Dr. Stephen S. Wise and others.

Next Week at United Church

The regular meeting of The Brotherhood will be held at the Community house at 6.30 a. m. Monday, November 19th. The guest and speaker of the evening will be Dr. Lawrence Erb, of Connecticut college; his point of departure will be "What the Average Man Should Know About Music". Mr. Abbott will be cross-examined by the question box, so have your questions ready. Supper at 6.30. Friends are cordially invited.

A special meeting of the Sodalitas will be held in the junior department rooms of the church school at 7.30 on Monday evening, to meet the need for working on the Christmas Box for Ellis Island. All members are urged to attend, and to come provided with scissors and thimble.

The state Sunday school convention is to be held in the Central Baptist church house on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week with sessions at 9.30 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7.30 p. m. All members of the parish are invited, and church school workers especially urged to attend.

St. Mary's

After several weeks of rehearsing the Yokohama Maid is ready to be shown to the public. The cast has been well trained, and the various roles will be handled in a way that will surely bring forth the plaudits and commendations of the audience. The public already knows that there are no half way measures taken in anything which St Mary's attempts. This play will be one of the best that this city has seen. If you like good music, good singing and good comedy, come and see The Yokohama Maid.

Strand Theatre

The announcement that the popular Strand theatre is to open Sunday, November 18, has been met with much enthusiasm with local theatergoers. The new management has selected a program of high grade photoplay features for the opening tomorrow night.

In "On to Reno," which will be the main attraction, Marie Prevost, the star, is the wife of a struggling chap who finds it difficult to meet expenses. She accepts an offer to go to Reno to establish a residence for another woman who is seeking a divorce. This brings about complications of the most amusing description all of which have been excellently handled by James Cruze, the director.

Cullen Landis plays opposite the star and others in the cast include Ethel Wales, Ned Sparks and Jane Keckley. The comedy is said to be a fit antidote to the blues.

The second feature is "The Cowboy Cavalier," featuring the popular Buddy Roosevelt. There will also be shown a News Reel and a Mack Sennett comedy.

Breed Theatre

Do you ever wonder what is going on in the wings and backstage when you attend a legitimate theatre?

You'll find out at least to a certain extent, in "Lady Be Good," First National's farce comedy featuring Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall which opens its local engagement tomorrow night at the Breed theatre.

"Lady Be Good" is a story of vaudeville performers, with most of it occurring in the dressing rooms and backstage. Arguments, quarrels, disagreements, all sorts of things, may be happening just a few feet from the stage. But when the entrance call comes, sentences are halted verbiess, arguments are temporarily abandoned, fixed smiles appear like magic, and the battlers go capering out to do their turn.

"Lady Be Good," as a musical comedy, had a long run in virtually every large city in America, and its success promises to be duplicated on the screen.

"Lady Be Good," was directed by Richard Wallace.

The supporting cast includes John Miljan, Dot Farley, Nita Martan, Yola d'Avril, Eddie Clayton, Jay Eaton and others.

CLEARS IVORYTON MAN OF CRIMINAL BLAME IN GOLDEN SPUR FATALITY

Coroner Edward G. McKay finds no element of criminal negligence against John J. Coates of Ivoryton who was driving an automobile that struck Charles Stebbins, 58, of Waterford, on Oct. 21, 1928, inflicting injuries from which Stebbins died two days later. Coroner McKay issued his finding on Friday.

Stebbins was walking on the Boston Post road at about 7:30 p. m. about a half mile east of Golden Spur at the time the automobile hit him. He sustained a compound fracture of the right tibia and fibula, with which there was septicemia and chronic myocarditis, according to the coroner's finding, which is in substance as follows:

At the time mentioned, Charles Stebbins had gone to a store at Golden Spur to purchase a loaf of bread. While he was in the store his condition was noted and he appeared then to be under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He left the store and started along the highway toward his home which is east of Golden Spur. At about the same time a passing motorist noticed a man on the highway near the scene of the accident standing in the middle of the northerly half portion of the highway and this man appeared to be intoxicated. In all probability this latter man was the deceased. The testimony taken at the inquest established the fact that the deceased was under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident.

On the date mentioned, John J. Coates had been in New London and started back to his home in Ivoryton at about 7 p. m. He was alone, driving his Jewett roadster. His automobile was in good mechanical condition and his brakes were good.

Coates drove his automobile westerly on the Boston Post road and come to a point on the road about a half mile east of Golden Spur. The highway curves slightly to the left, or south, at that point. When Coates came to this curve, he was traveling between 30 and 25 miles per hour. The traffic at this time was light and the highway ran through an uncongested area. The surface of the road was dry and travel at that rate was not especially hazardous.

As Coates came to the curve, he saw a man walking toward him on the concrete. He learned later that it was Stebbins. Coates blew his horn and applied his brakes and steered his automobile to the south, or to his left, to avoid Stebbins. After the car had changed its course, Stebbins also turned to the south and walked into the path of the automobile. The result was that the automobile hit Stebbins and threw him onto the highway causing the injuries. Coates stopped his car and went back to give aid. Stebbins was taken to the Lawence and Memorial hispital in New London, where he died two days later from his injuries and condition. The accident was reported to the state police who made a thorough investigation.

This case has no element of criminal negligence. Coates was not operating his car at a reckless speed and did his best to avoid hitting the deceased. Marks that were left on the road by the wheels of the car show that the brakes were applied and an effort made to steer away from the dangerous position of Stebbins. The propensity of most intoxicated persons to be uncertain in walking would account for the fact that Stebbins, while he was in the highway, undoubtedly swerved over into the path of the automobile.

I am satisfied and find that the death of Charles Stebbins was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of any other person or persons.

URGES CHRIST-LIKE ATTITUDE TOWARDS OTHER NATIONS

Mrs. Jeanette W. Emrich of New York spoke upon the topic, A Girl's World, in an interesting vein Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Community house under the auspices of the junior girls of the United Congregational church. The meeting, which was presided over by Miss Isabel Barritt, was opened with a devotional service led by Miss Dorothea Simpson. The girls choir rendered a number of hymns and was accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Abbott at the piano. The speaker was introduced by Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen.

In this generation you are going to be called upon to go out and live Jesus Christ, said Mrs. Emrich. So no one will mistake the fact that you are a follower of Jesus Christ and your attitude toward other races will be like Jesus Christ's—kindly and helpful.

You hear it that the mothers are overconcerned with the young people of today. I wonder if we are? There is a reason why we are so deeply concerned with you. You can't say we are dictating to you or commanding you. We have traveled a certain road and we have worked. There are things you must carry along. We don't want you to miss the right road in carrying out the things we have started. What are you going to do with the prohibition question, the race religion, the world peace?

In speaking of the world peace question Mrs. Emrich said, you have had a splendid share in this friendship project. What was the great thing that went to Mexico? It was not the friendship bag. It was the letter that accompanied it. Those friendship school bags in Mexico are not distributed to all the pupils. The honor pupil receives the bag and one article in it, the second honor pupil an article and so on until the number of articles in the bag are passed out.

One little girl in a Mexican school explained to the teacher, said the speaker, that everybody should have a piece of the friendship bag. This was done by cutting up the string and wrapping paper and distributing them, so that every pupil could carry a piece of the friendship bag. The interesting thing is that you pass on a friendly thought. They pick it up then and put it on a bigger plane than we do.

The teacher in a school there was telling the pupils of the friendly countries and asked them to mention a number. The United States was chosen as one. Six months ago it would not have been mentioned. They didn't consider us a friendly country then.

The more you know about these things and understand them, said the speaker in conclusion, you will have a warmer feeling towards others. You of the new generation are going to be called upon to carry out these things and live Jesus Christ.

WE MODERNS CONTINUE THEIR PINOCHLE PLAY

Scores for the series are Mrs. Hastedt 16030, Mrs. Hallisey 14520, Mrs. Busch 14160, Mrs. Jensen 12900, Mrs. Prodell 12810, Mrs. Moran 12340, Mrs. Mullins 12330, Mrs. Manchester 10820. After the afternoon game refreshments of baked beans, chicken salad, pickles, rolls, apple pie and cheese and tea and coffee were served by the hostess. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Prodell of Fourth street.

CHILDREN'S WEEK BOOKS FEATURED AT OTIS LIBRARY

As this is national children's book week, the Otis library has been showing some very beautiful and interesting books. On a special display case 120 or more new books for juvenile readers have been featured—new editions, new stories, or old favorites in new dress. It has been encouraging to the librarian, Mrs. Irving L. Hamilton and her staff to mark the interest which many parents, as well as the children, have shown in these particular volumes.

Next week, all these books on display will be ready to be taken out by young readers for home use.

JURY CASES ASSIGNED FOR SUPERIOR COURT

OFFICERS ELECTED BY WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE

Miss Mary Bulkley, of Hartford, was re-elected president of the Connecticut League of Women Voters, which held its final sessions of a three-day convention at New London riday. The other officers elected were as follows:

Vice Presidents—Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, of Farmington; Mrs. Annie G. Porritt, of West Hartford; Mrs. Emerson R. Powell, of Greenwich; Miss Elizabeth Farnam, of New Haven.

Secretary—Mrs. Edward R. Lorenzo, of West Hartford.

Treasurer—Mrs. William Valentine, of Pomfret.

Directors at large—Mrs. S. McLean Buckingham, Watertown; Mrs. O. E. Clark, New London; Mrs. Francis B Converse, Westport; Mrs. Ruth McIntyre, Hartford; Mrs. Leroy Howland, Middletown; Mrs. L. P. Rebner, West Hartford; Mrs. Henry H. Townshend, New Haven; Mrs. William F. Worrell, Meriden.

Because New London and Fairfield counties were tied in points for the determination of the winner of the county cup, it was decided to let each county have the trophy for half the year. New London county, through its chairman, Miss Edna L. Tyler, graciously offered Fairfield county the privilege of possession for the first six months.

CAUGHT DRIVING WITHOUT LIGHTS OR LICENSE

In the city court Friday morning Evelyn Mendez, 28, colored, of New London, was fined on two motor law violation counts. She was fined $25 and costs for driving without an operator's license and $5 for driving without lights. The woman was arrested about 3:15 o'clock Friday morning at Thames square by Officer Peter Vuono. As the machine had no lights burning he stopped it and discovered that the woman had no driver's license. She paid the court $41.50.

SPEEDING TAXI DRIVER PAYS FINE IN COURT

Richard Rankin, 18, of 58 Palmer avenue, local taxi-driver, was fined $25 and costs in the city court Friday morning on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested Thursday night by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh after he had driven his taxi on Main street at a speed, it is said, of 45 miles an hour. Rankin claimed he was not driving at over 25 miles an hour. However, he entered a plea of guilty to the charge, and paid the court $35.46.

THAMES HIGHWAY BRIDGE IMPRESSES GERMAN ENGINEER

American engineering ingenuity embodied in the construction of several of Connecticut's highway bridges over the main rivers that flow through the state is lauded by High Commissioner Weidmann of the German Federated Railroad in an article in the September 26 number of Die Reichsbahn, an engineering magazine published in Berlin. Of a great number of American bridges which the commissioner inspected in this country, he picks out three Connecticut structures for special description, because of the original and skillful manner in which engineering principles were utilized in their construction.

The German engineer described two Connecticut drawbridges; that crossing the Thames river between Groton and New London, and the Middletown bridge over the Connecticut river. In addition, the reinforced concrete liftbridge which spans the Housatonic between the towns of Devon and Stratford was pointed out as making a remarkable impression upon the viewer.

Concerning the special features involved in the construction of the highway bridge over the Thames river at New London, the article goes into considerable detail. The coordinated action of this drawbridge with a railroad liftbridge which runs parallel with and close to it, and the device of a counter weight which rolls out upon the shortened arm on the side of the railroad bridge in order to balance the entire structure, are pointed out as unique and valuable features. The new railroad bridge which, due to local conditions, was placed alongside the highway bridge, is operated by a liftspan, the article explains, and the operation of the two bridges is interdependent.

PARISH HOUSE SOCIAL FOR PARK CHURCH CONGREGATION

A delightful social evening to which all the members of the church and congregation of Park Congregational church were invited on Friday evening was arranged by the parish house department, Mrs. Frederic W. Cary, chairman.

In the parlors of the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial, the stage setting showed the interior of a florist shop, decorated with ivy and early spring flowers, intermingled with vases of roses, carnations and choice corsage bouquets usually displayed in city shops.

The principal entertainment of the evening was a one act play from the 47 Work Shop, "The Florist Shop," by Winifred Hawkridge, which had been selected and coached by Miss Hannah Crowell, president of the Women's Federation.

The characters were: Maud—florist's helper, Mrs. Aurin E. Payson; Slovsky—the proprietor, Weston C. Fuller; Henry—errand boy, Sherrod Ingalls; customers—Miss Wells, Miss Constance Clapp; Mr. Jackson, H. Clinton Atterbury.

The play has been characterized as "a moving, but humorous, story of a florist's helper with a romantic heart." That Maud felt a personal interest in the joys and sorrows of Slovsky's customers was shown in her sympathetic choice of flowers when indefinite orders were left for her selection. There was evidence of her intuitive insight into human nature, and her good heart, when she designed her flowers to awaken the tender memories of estranged couples or sent an expensive corsage to a fiancee of many years, thereby arousing the jealousy of the penurious and negligent lover, and hastening the wedding. A humorous situation developed, for the generosity of his assistant could not be appreciated by Slovsky, who cared only for profits, and to whom romance made no appeal.

The characters were well taken, and great credit is due to Miss Crowell, who has keen appreciation for dramatic art, and marked ability in coaching. The attractive stage setting was arranged by Mrs. A. H. N. Vaughn, chairman, Mrs. Leonard Church, Mrs. Frank Hempstead and Mrs. W. Tyler Browne.

Folowing the entertainment, refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank W. Clapp, chairman; Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley, Mrs. Joseph T. Hynd, Mrs. H. L. Hanson, Mrs. O. C. Wolfe and Miss Alexandrine Trumbull, assisted by the Misses Helen Risley, Janet Blackstone and Helen Clapp.

INCREASE THIS YEAR IN THANKSGIVING BASKET LIST

The family welfare department of the United Workers, in making its annual appeal for funds with which to buy tea, coffee, sugar and meat for the Thanksgiving dinners, would like to call attention to the fact that this year there are many families added to the list who have always before been able to provide their own dinner. There are over a hundred baskets to be filled.

The school children have always very adequately supplied the fruit and vegetables, nuts, canned goods, jams and jellies, but the other items must be directly purchased, and it has not been the practice to use the regular funds of the United Workers for this purpose.

It is an inspiring thing to see the quantities of food which come in from the schools and to realize that almost every child in Norwich is sharing in bringing Thanksgiving to the less fortunate children. The United Workers ask that the older people send in their donation to the family welfare department at No. 9 Washington street, so that the baskets may be sent out filled with all that goes to make a real Thanksgiving dinner, which is the outward and visible sign of the inner and spiritual gratitude, which every heart feels at harvest time.

COMPLETING ROAD WORK IN THIS PART OF STATE

Road construction work in this part of the state is approaching the completion stage on practically all contracts. The following are the only places of work in this part of the state reported this week by the State Highway department:

Route No. 6—Brooklyn-Danielson road in the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn are under construction.

Danielsor-South Killingly road is under construction. Open to traffic.

Route No. 10—Haddam Road is under construction from Higganum to East Haddam bridge. One-half mile detour at Higganum, short one-way traffic at Higganum and at bridge Arnolds Station.

Route No. 109—Mansfield-Phoenixville road is under construction. This road is impassable to traffic.

Coventry-Mansfield Depot road is closed. Traffic may go over good road through South Coventry.

Route No. 150—Lyme and East Haddam, Hamburg- North Plains road is under construction. No delay to traffic.

Attempted Theft of Gasoline

The state highway department's gasoline station at Taft's station was broken into Thursday night and an attempt was made to steal a quantity of gasoline. Seventy-five gallons of gasoline were drawn from the tank into barrels but the thieves were evidently frightened away before they could carry off the barrels.

One barrel, containing 50 gallons was found directly in front of the tank and the other, containing 25 gallons, was found hidden in nearby bushes.

Two More Old Fire Companies

The Windsor Fire company, claiming organization in 1830, and the Williamsville Fire Enugine company of Goodyear, claiming a charter in 1833, are two new contenders for the honor of being the oldest existing fire companies in the state.

Assigned To Stamford Parish.

In clerical appointment by Bishop Nilan which were announced Friday, Rev. Charles H. Corcoran, of this city, is transferred from St. Joseph's church, Chester, to St. John's church, Stamford, as assistant.

Rev. Father Corcoran is the son of Mrs. Charles W. Corcoran, of Otis street, this city.

FOUND TREADWAY INNS ASSET TO COMMUNITIES

What does it profit a town to have a Treadway inn? asked an official of the Norwich Inn Builders organization Friday afternoon. This question is being asked by interested people in Norwich, he said, who are following the progress of the Norwich Inn movement that is expected to bring a new enterprise to the city and which is regarded by many, as a distinct wakening of civic interest. Some records of achievement of towns that possess Treadway Inns are presented by the Consolidated Hotel Service, under whose guidance they are conducted, as a strong argument for the establishment of a similar enterprise for this city.

General Chairman William C. Park and his committee have made some investigations through disinterested parties and others to determine for themselves the status of the enterprise in other New England towns.

Replies to these inquiries have brought forth some unusual and encouraging statements, which certainly hold interest for the people of Norwich. From H B. Barden, a pulp wood and real estate operator in Wallingford, Conn., comes the following: —"I can truly say that the inn (The True Temper) has been a wonderful assest to our community in many ways. The town has acquired a civic consciousness that it has never before enjoyed. The following are some of the propositions that have developed since the True Temper Inn started business two years ago. Several cottages, costing from four to fourteen thousand dollars. Old Shop Tea room, Rotary club, Old Brick School house, 1818, sold as a testimonial to Paul Harris, founder of Rotary. Wallingford was the boyhood home of Paul Harris. There is now under construction a boys camp at the south end of Elfin lake that when completed will accomodate 300 boys. I am confident that the near future will see a boy's school started that will accomodate several hundred boys. I do not hesitate to say that property has gone up from 30 to 50 per cent in the last two years. Thousands of tourists have found a haven of rest in the inn this season. The people of Wallingford have found the inn a wonderful place to hold their functions other than their own homes. The larger functions came from the surrounding towns."

Eleanor C. Ross, dean of Women at Middlebury college, commends the inn there in no unmistakable terms. In a letter to General Chairman Park she says:—"Mr. John C. Priston, resident manager of the Middlebury Inn has asked me to write to you relative to the effect of the Middlebury inn on the social life of the college. I can write very enthusiastically on this matter, since the advantages of the inn have been many. Middlebury is a somewhat conservative college but the environment and management of the inn are of such a character that the students of the Women's college are allowed to go there whenever they like without chaperonage. Nearly all our formal dances are held there under the chaperonage of members of the faculty. Middlebury inn is a very potent factor in maintaining the social standards of Middlebury college."

Burt A. Hazletine, dean of the men's college at Middlebury also emphasizes the social value of the Middlebury inn. His letter tells of all the college formal dances being held there. Also the fraternity banquets. He adds, "It has made a place for the parents and friends of the students when they come to town. The management has been extremely thoughtful of our college problems and because of its efficient supervision we have felt perfectly free to permit our students to go there at any time. Inasmuch as Middlebury college is coeducational it must be quite evident that this is placing a great deal of confidence in the management. The social life of the faculty has been assisted by the inn to the extent that we have had dinners, dinner dances and parties of various kinds there. I dislike very much to think back over the years previous to May, 1927, as prior to that time our hotel accommodations were most inadequate and unattractive. Under proper management an inn of this kind can be made one of the greatest assets to a small community and we congratulate ourselves on having the Treadway Co. and Mr. Wriston in control of our local hostelry."

TAFTVILLE

Donald Allen was elected president of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church choir organization at re recent meeting at the home of Miss Alma Boutilier of Occum Heights. Other officers elected were vice president, Miss Annie Zepf; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Louis Erlbeck. After the business meeting supper of boiled ham, mashed potatoes, peas, rolls, pickles, cake, peaches and cream and coffee, was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison of Astoria, Long Island, who were recently married have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Simineau of Merchants avenue.

While Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks of Pawcatuck, R. I., have been in town, they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wohlleben and family of Norwich avenue.

In honor of her coming marriage to William Leo Bagley of Blackstone, Mass., Miss Annaise Marie Marsan was surprised at her home on Hunters avenue by a number of her friends who tendered her a miscellaneous shower. The bride-elect received many beautiful and useful articles, and her friends offered their best wishes for happiness and prosperity in her new life. The evening was spent with music and in a social way, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph C. Marsan. The guests included Miss Louise Sigrist, Miss Couranna Paradis, Mrs. Delvica Benoit, Miss Lauretta Paquette, Mrs. Amede Plon, Miss Pauline Hasler, the Misses Olive, Lea, Loretta, Isabelle and Grace Plon, Miss Grace Phalen, the Misses Dora and Leona Belanger, Miss Anna Simino, Miss Agnes Gaffney, Mrs. Antoine Paquette, Mrs. Louis Paquette, Miss Agnes M. ### BOY'S NOSE BROKEN; STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

William Taride, a boy living at 617 Main street suffered a broken nose Friday afternoon when he was struck on Fox hill, Main street, by an automobile driven by William Neiman of 310 Main street.

Mr. Neiman picked the boy up and hurried him to the hospital in his automobile, as well as reporting the accident at police headquarters.

NORWICH TOWN

MISS DOROTHEA E. BUCKLEY IS GIVEN A SHOWER

In compliment to Miss Dorothea E. Buckley, of Norwich Town, whose marriage with Herbert I. Sanderson, of Willimantic, is to take place at an early date, a large company of friends and neighbors was invited to the home of Mrs. David M. Dean Thursday evening, when a miscellaneous shower was given the bride-elect. The beautiful gifts comprised buffet sets and several other pieces of linen, silver, china, glass, pictures, aprons, etc. When Miss Buckley arrived, she was greeted by a song of welcome by the young women present, who included mostly members of the Congregational Young People's C. E. society: Misses Ida Beebe, Grace Wheeler, Dorothy Waterman, Esther Durr, Ruth Sterry, Rose Durr, Louise Sterry, Helen Schwenk, Marion Buckley, Ruth Hyde, Eleanor Moore, Lucile Browning and Inez Edminston. There also were ten or more neighborhood friends assembled, including the mother of the guest of honor.

Mrs. Dean was assisted in the attractive decorations by Mrs. John Olsen. On the dining room table was a large basket containing the gifts and decorated with pink and white crepe paper. From the center of the ceiling attached to the light fixtures streamers of the pink and white paper were festooned. The rooms were lighted by candles until all had assembled. After Miss Buckley greeted each one present, she was set to work opening the packages, which filled the basket. A kitchen orchestra was improvised for the participants in the wedding march, which formed the opening of the evening's amusements. Many games were played during the part of the program.

Mrs. Dean was assisted by Mrs Allen Kinney and Miss Etta Walker in serving sandwiches, cake and coffee. A feature was a mystery cake, the favors which it contained including a ring, which went to Miss Edminston, and a coin to Mrs. Olsen. Miss Buckley is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and last year attended Willimantic Normal school.

Much interest is being manifested in a pancake supper planned at the First Congregational chapel. Mrs. John L. Browning is chairman of the supper committee of the League of Service. A meeting was held recently at Mrs. Browning's home to complete arrangements for the affair.

REV. E. P. PHREANER'S DEATH CAUSES SORROW TO FRIENDS

Norwich Town friends have learned with sorrow of the death November 7th, in Manchester, Conn., of a former beloved pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Edward P. Phreaner. He was a well known preacher at Willimantic Camp ground and at other public gatherings of the denomination. It was during his Norwich Town pastorate 1915-1916, that the church was fitted with new pews, the vestry was redecorated and the exterior of the church painted. The members of this parish appreciate deeply his faithful efforts while at the head of this church. He was much loved by his people, especially among the younger members and the children. He was a man of great dignity, as befitting his calling, and one who impressed people of all denominations by his good judgment and good taste. Another esteemed pastor of this church, Rev. Jerome Greer, officiated at Mr. Phreaner's funeral.

Rev. Mr. Phreaper began his pastorate in the Methodist ministry in 1886, having been retired since 1922, due to his feeble condition for a number of years. Besides his wife, he leaves a son in Providence, a daughter in Hartford and another daughter in East Glastonbury.

BETTER BUSINESS TREND INDICATED IN STATE

Connecticut business during October this year showed a general improvement over October of last year in many lines, according to a survey of business conditions conducted jointly by the local chambers and the Connecticut chamber of commerce.

Postal receipts, amount of gas consumed, electric light consumption, number of building permits issued, and number of telephones installed showed increases in a majority of the communities reporting on these items.

On the other hand, real estate conditions seemed to have shown a decline last month from the corresponding period of 1927. In spite of this condition, however, there is an optimistic outlook, along this line. In a number of cases, bank clearings also showed a downward trend, as did bank debits.

Retail conditions continued about the same in most of the communities reporting, with early Christmas shopping being reported by a number.

Industrial conditions showed a marked improvement in most sections, while in other parts of the state it remained at about the same level as in September of this year.

INDUSTRIAL LINES SHOW GAIN IN NEW LONDON

Secretary George Garietpy of the New London chamber of commerce makes the following report to the state chamber of commerce in a survey of business conditions for October:

The industrial business in New London showed a marked increase over September, two concerns reported as working on a 24-hour basis. Retail business during October showed a decrease over October of last year. The building inspector reported 41 permits amounting to $80,490. Nine families were provided for, a decrease over October 1927, showing 65 permits amounting to $143 375 Post office receipts for October, 1927, amounted to $15,634 and for October, 1928, to $15,819 showing an increase of $1 185 The number of real estate sales remained about the same as October of last year with prices about the same. For October, 1928, 1,611, 986 kilowatt hours and 24,439,200 cu. ft. of gas were reported an increase over October, 1927, of 139,591 kilowatt hours and 103,400 cu. ft of gas. Electric meters totaled 10,320 and gas meters totaled 7,304 for October, 1928, showing an increase of 441 electric meters and 229 gas meters over October, 1927.

BUILDING PERMIT GAIN IN OCTOBER IN NORWICH

In the statement made for October to the state chamber of commerce for a survey of business conditions, Secretary Walter H. Pilcher reports as follows:

Building permits for October of this year totaled $126,396, in value, a gain of 42.4 per cent. over October a year ago, when the total was $88,742. Bank debits showed an increase of 1.6 per cent. over last year, the totals being for last month $8,951,875 and for October, 1927, $8 805,838. The amount of gas consumed in October 1928, was 14,442 M., while in October of last year it was 14.165, showing a gain of 1.9 per cent. Electric consumption totaled 1,032,900 k. w. h. last month, a gain of 9.9 per cent. over October of last year, when the total was 939,100 k. w. h. Savings bank deposits showed an increase of 6. 7per cent. for October over the corresponding month of last year, the respective totals being 44,226,727 and 41,464,575. During October 1927 there was a loss of eleven telephones, while in October of this year there was an increase of 36.

On World Educational Cruise.

By a brief telegram, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wilkinson, of Platt avenue, have heard from their daughter Florence L. Wilkinson Clark and her husband S. Clark who are students for the college year on the S. S. Floating University and who expect to return to New York about the middle of June, 1929, at the end of their college year of eight months.

The telegram reads: More than two hundred and fifty students and twenty professors from U. S. universities arrived at Havana aboard the S. S. Floating University on a trip around the world educational cruise.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

TEN LIVES LOST IN FLOODS IN KANSAS AND MISSOURI

Property Damage Was Heavy—Farmers Suffered Heaviest in the Loss of Livestock and Crops and Damage to Farm Buildings and Equipment—Many Persons Fled From Their Homes—Water, Light, Power and Communication Facilities Were Put Out of Commission Generally.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 18—(AP)—After a fearful night of anxious vigilance over encroaching flood waters along the river basins of eastern Kansas and western Missouri, residents of the lowlands in the inundated areas began today to count the toll, which has claimed around ten lives and caused a colossal property damage.

Farmers suffered heaviest in the loss of livestock and crops and damage to farm buildings and equipment. Damage to city municipal plants and flood prevention construction work was also heavy.

Rainfall had ceased yesterday, and today flood crests were rushing from the uplands, while receding waters revealed the extent of damage to farms and municipalities in their wake.

Refugees were being cared for today by the hundreds at various points where the inundation caused evacuation of homes. Many localities were obliged to send out calls for shipment of drinking water, as water, light, power and communication facilities were put out of commission generally.

Due to extensive damage to railroad trackage and highways, communication with outside points was difficult today, but repairs were already under way. It was expected that before many days all phases of relief in the stricken area would be complete.

Although the crest of flood waters at Arkansas City, Kas., had not passed, the stream was rising only an inch an hour this afternoon, more than 100 homes there had been inundated. Since the Arkansas river, which usually causes heavy flood damage at Arkansas City had begun to recede ,the flood in the Walnut river at that point was expected to get away more rapidly. Hundreds of volunteer workers toiled all night rescuing marooned families there.

At St. Joseph, Mo., heavy and continuous rainfall Friday and Saturday flooded lowlands, swelled rivers and creeks, and inundated highways. Trains were running off schedule throughout northwestern Missouri. Heavy snowfall was recorded at St. Joseph Saturday and Grand river continued to rise today.

Lowlands around Pattonsburg, Mo., were flooded and Big Creek had climbed to a point near the top of its bank today. All streams near Carrolton, Mo., have left their banks and trains and busses were unable to enter the town.

Many families throughout northwestern Missouri have been driven from their homes by the floods.

As rain ceased to fall in the two states, the temperature began to drop steadily, adding to the discomfort of the refugees and relief workers. Snow was reported at several points in both states.

Winfield, Kas., today was in the grip of the worst flood in the city's history, with part of the city under water. Although rumors of several deaths in that vicinity came today it was impossible to corroborate any of the reports. A Missouri Pacific railroad foreman was reported to have been swept to his death and a woman was said to have perished when water invaded her home. Communication between various parts of the city even was not possible. Property loss there was large.

The Verdigris river at Neodesha, Kas., at mid-afternoon had equalled its record of 28 feet and was still rising. Railroad tracks for miles east of the city were submerged and partly washed out.

Property damage at Augusta, Kas., was estimated at $500,000 as the Walnut and White Water rivers began to recede there today. Charles Waterman, who plunged into the water when fire drove him from the Santa Fe pump house Saturday, was still missing today.

The White Eagle Refinery was partly submerged and two 55,000 barrel tanks of oil were afloat. The plant's laboratory was destroyed by fire of unknown origin Friday night. About 150 Augusta residents, mostly Mexicans, were homeless. The Santa Fe railroad had the largest property damage in this locality.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN TRAIN DERAILMENT

BECKET, Mass., Nov. 18—(AP)—Four persons were slightly injured when eight cars of the Wolverine express, eastbound from Chicago and carrying 137 passengers, were derailed near here today. The derailment occurred when the express sideswiped one car of a freight train which had become derailed just as the express was passing.

The injured were Harry Bailey of Pittsfield, engineer of the express; L. J. Scott of Boston, a dining car waiter; Hector Simard of Nashua, N. H., a passenger, and Jacob Hagar, conductor of the freight train. All received minor bruises and after first aid treatment received at the Becket station were able to proceed to Boston with the express, when it was restored to the rails a few hours later.

The express was proceeding toward Boston over the Boston & Albany tracks at a speed of about 55 miles an hour. About one-third of a mile east of the Becket station a freight train was proceeding on parallel rails. One of the freight cars became derailed just as the express was about to pass. The locomotive of the express sideswiped it, left the rails and pulled the first eight cars of the 12-car train after it. The cars careened on their sides against a high embankment. Only 50 yards beyond lay a 50-foot slope down which the cars might have plunged into the Becket river. The rail bed was torn up for a distance of 150 yards.

Approximately five hours were required to restore the cars to the rails and resume the trip to Boston. Meanwhile traffic was re-routed over the Boston & Maine tracks by the way of North Adams.

STUDENTS RETURN FROM SNOW-CLAD MOUNTAINS

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 18—(AP)—Little the worse for six days of hunger and exposure while lost in snow-clad mountains north of Lakeport four University of California students, two of them co-eds, arrived here early today at the homes they left Nov. 9 on a hiking trip.

John Dempster, 25, of Berkeley, was confined to his bed with a cold, and Minna Ramsperger, 21, formerly of Logan, Utah, limped from a severe cut on her knee suffered during the hike. The others in the party were Anna Ramsperger, Minna's twin sister, and Robert H. Keeler, 21, of Los Angeles.

Dempster, leader of the party, felt the strain deeply.

"I wouldn't consider another hiking expedition into the snow country—not even if it was an offer from Commander Byrd," he said.

Keeler said he would like to return to the Lake county mountains for a hike—but in the summer. Anna Ramsperger vowed she would be willing to start out on another trip tomorrow.

The students lost their way while fighting a blizzard on Nov. 11. Their compass got out of order, and they were forced to throw away their packs. They wandered 40 miles, practically without food, for four days before they found a forest ranger's telephone, which they repaired in order to telephone for help.

Their message was received by a forest ranger's wife. A ranger party hiked ten miles over a snow blocked trail to carry them food and blankets.

GEN. BRAMWELL BOOTH PASSED A BAD NIGHT

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP)—"General Booth passed a bad night," was the bare statement issued at Salvation Army headquarters today on the condition of the aged commander-in-chief who is seriously ill of nervous prostration."

This afternoon's bulletin said there had been no change in the general's condition.

OFFICERS THOUGHT THEY COULD SAVE THE VESTRIS

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The curtain of mystery concerning what had happened to the liner Vestris causing her to sink off the Virginia capes a week ago tomorrow with a loss of 110 lives had been drawn aside today to reveal a picture of a crew fighting a losing battle to save a ship into which water poured through half a dozen holes.

The story of the battle to keep the sinking ship afloat until help could arrive has been mainly told at the hearing being conducted by United States Attorney Tuttle at which two of the ship's officers testified yesterday and which Mr. Tuttle plans to resume tomorrow.

When the investigation started Friday to fix responsibility for the disaster was recessed over the week end yesterday Chief Officer Frank Johnson, senior surviving officer of the ship, and James Adams, chief engineer, had testified that water poured into the vessel through leaking coal ports which could not be reached because of fuel in the bunkers and through a leak in a "half door" in the side of the ship which could not be properly closed.

Despite the rate at which water poured into their vessel and their inability to stop the leaks, both officers said they did not despair of saving their ship until almost the moment she turned completely on her side and sank.

OTTINGER FINALLY CONCEDES HIS DEFEAT

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Albert Ottinger, the republican candidate for governor today conceeded his defeat and sent a telegram to Franklin D. Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., his successful opponent, congratulating him on his victory in the election.

At the same time Mr. Ottinger issued a statement which said in part:

"With the official canvass of votes nearly completed it is apparent now that the final result will vary but slightly from that indicated by the police returns a few days following the election.

"With the winning candidate practically maintaining through the official canvass his margin of less then one-half of one per cent. of the total votes of over 4,000,000 I take this opportunity of congratulating Mr. Roosevelt wishing him a successful administration in the interests of all the people of the state of New York.

"I am glad to note that he has already adopted two of the suggestions contained in my message of acceptance, namely, the calling into consultation of a group of tax experts to readjust the tax burden to meet the farmers' needs, and the development of Saratoga Springs as the greatest cure place in the world."

52 YOUTHS ARE TO VIEW ROME FROM AIRPLANE

ROME, Nov. 18—(AP)—Sweet revenge on the fate Messrs Julius Caesar and Marcus Cicero will be had tomorrow morning by 52 lusty American college and preparatory school youths when, by special courtesy of Prince Boncompagn Ludovisi, governor of Rome, they will be taken up in airplanes to view the Eternal City from above.

The boys, who hail from states all over the Union, are keen for the show. "Caesar had to walk back from hither Gaul and Cicero's flights were merely oratorical" is the way one of them expressed it. "Now" he added, "we get even for the years of grubbing through their stuff."

The party is of that of "the World College Tours." Special municipal receptions already have been accorded them at Venice and Florence. Prince Boncompagni will receive them on Tuesday with special ceremonies at which it is hoped Premier Mussolini will be present.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

HAVRE, France, Nov. 18—(AP)—Francis Sherry, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., local manager of the Bedford Petroleum company, died at a local hospital from two self-inflicted bullet wounds in his breast.

OXFORD, England, Nov. 18—(AP)—George Stuart Gordon, Merton professor of English literature at the University of Oxford since 1922, has been elected president of Magdalen college, Oxford. He is 47 years of age.

BERLIN, Nov. 18—(AP)—Relief funds not exceeding 20,000,000 marks (approximately $5,000,000), were made available in the reichstag for suffering from the industrial conflict which has been waging in Westphalia since Nov. 1.

BERLIN, Nov. 18—(AP)—Siegfried Herg, alias "Jolly," Germany's uncrowned champion faster who set up an alleged world record of 44 foodless days in the spring of 1926, was found guilty of fraud and fined 1,000 marks (about $240).

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Sunday Chronicle quotes Miss Radclyffe Hall as saying that a representative is now en route to the United States to arrange for publication of her book, "The Well of Loneliness." The book, last week, was declared obscene by an English judge, who ordered seized copies destroyed.

NEW YORK TO HAVE A REAL ESTATE BOARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A new exchange handling only carefully investigated real estate securities, is to be established in New York soon, the Real Estate Board of New York, Inc., announced today.

The 250 initial members of the real estate board of the New York exchange who will pay $1,000 each for their seats, will perform the same functions toward real estate finance as now are performed by the stock and curb exchanges in financing industrial, commercial, transportation and public utility enterprises.

Peter Grimm, president of the real estate board, called attention to the protection offered investors through careful investigation of all securities before listing, as the most significant feature of the new board from the public's standpoint.

Real estate securities of all types issued in any part of the country, may be offered for listing. Daily quotations will establish current market prices of sound securities with backing securities.

The exchange is described as the first of its kind ever established.

NEW SEMI-AUTOMATIC RIFLE BEING TESTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—A new semi-automatic rifle that will increase fire power and insure more protection than the present service rifle is being tested, Major General Robert H. Allen, chief of infantry, advised Secretary of War Davis in his annual report made public today.

"These tests indicate clearly the practicability of an eventual replacement of the present magazine rifle with a semi-automatic rifle," General Allen said. "Conditions affected by weight of weapon and by weight of ammunition carried by the rifleman point strongly to a reduction of caliber."

Experiments with motor vehicles for cross country transportation of infantry units under field service conditions were carried on during the year with a degree of success. Large units are to be equipped with cross country motors cars and trucks for further tests.

General Allen recommended the issuance of more and better uniforms to infantrymen in order to keep high the spirit.

BODY OF WOMAN WAS FOUND IN CORNFIELD

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 18—(AP)—The body of an unidentified young woman, with a bullet wound in the head, was found in a corn field today by two farm workers.

Police said there were indications that the body had been dragged into the field from a roadway 200 yards distance and cast face downward near a shock of fodder.

In the intervening distance there were indications that an automobile had stopped.

Near the body were a woman's pocketbook, containing a handkerchief, gloves, a vanity case and other trinkets, but all without marks to indicate ownership. Bits of photographs, torn into shreds, also were found near the body. Investigators said they believed these could be pieced together sufficiently to identify the likenesses.

The body was still warm when found. The slaying is believed to have occurred about 6 o'clock this morning, years old and 5 feet 4 inches in height.

The victim was apparently about 22

$250,000 FIRE DAMAGE AT MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed the engineering building and one hangar at this army aviation field, causing losses estimated at $250,000.

Enlisted men, rooted from their quarters at 3:30 a. m., risked their lives to trundle four $50,000 planes and 15 motor trucks out of the buildings. None of the planes or trucks was lost. Volunteer firemen reinforced the entire post personnel in fighting the blaze.

Records of the 61st engineering squadron, compiled over a period of years, were lost, and officers said the research work of the past few years will have to be repeated. One new Curtiss motor and several other motors, all valued at $100,000, were lost when the engineering building was destroyed.

Lieut. Col. H. C. Pratt, commandant of the post, today appointed a board of inquiry, to try to determine the cause of the fire.

WALL STREET CLERKS WORKED ALL DAY SUNDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The canyons of the financial district, normally deserted on a Sunday, echoed today to the tramp of a small army of clerks who worked all day in brokerage offices to bring their books up to date after last week's tremendous trading.

In the week ended Saturday, Wall street handled the transfer of more than 31,000,000 shares of stock. It was an unprecedented total but many commission houses completed their immediate bookkeeping on Saturday night. Today's workers were cleaning up tasks usually left for Monday morning. They were getting the work out of the way in anticipation of a new rush of business tomorrow.

Hoover Starts First Stage Of Journey

Left Palo Alto 7.30 P. M.—Will Board Battleship Maryland at San Pedro.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 18—(AP)—Bearing the parting prayer of the chaplain of his alma mater for a blessing upon his pilgrimage of peace and good-will, Herbert Hoover tonight freed the bottom of the world to mingle in friendly fashion with the peoples of Latin-America.

Leaving Palo Alto at 7:30 o'clock tonight, the first stage of the journey of the president-elect was to carry him to San Pedro where he will go aboard the battleship Maryland for the voyage to Corinto, the first stop on his tentative itinerary.

Today Mr. Hoover worshipped in his customary quiet fashion, sitting in the memorial chapel at Stanford university while the chaplain, Dr. D. Charles Gardner, conducted a typically college service. In it there was little to give notice that the next chief executive of the nation was sitting but a few pews removed from the pastor. Only twice was there any reference to Mr. Hoover.

More than 200 callers streamed into the Hoover home during the afternoon, friends and neighbors of the president-elect who had come to bid him goodbye and bon voyage. Among them came his brother, Theodore Hoover, the dean at Stanford university, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Leavitt of Los Angeles. In the meantime below stairs, there was a hubbub of preparations for the final departure of his party.

Along with various other San Franciscans and Californians who had come to say goodbye to Mr. Hoover came Mayor James Rolph of San Francisco, who planned to board the train and accompany the party as far as San Jose. Moving down the Californian mainland tonight, the president-elect will make but one stop before reaching San Pedro. At Wilmington, Calif., in the vicinity of the port of Los Angeles, his train will stop in order that the school children of that place may get a glimpse of their next president.

Then the train will move to San Pedro, where he will be met at the dock by Admiral Pratt of the Pacific fleet and escorted aboard the battleship. The train is scheduled to arrive at 9:45 o'clock Monday morning and the ship will hoist anchor as soon as possible thereafter.

COURT RULING IN THE STEWART CASE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—With a ruling pending on a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty, the trial of Robert W. Stewart on charges of perjury arising from testimony given before the senate Teapot Dome committee tomorrow will enter its second week.

The motion was entered Friday by Frank J. Hogan, chief of council for Stewart, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana. Hogan argued that the senate committee was not a "competent tribunal;" that no evidence to support allegations of perjury had been brought out by the government and that Stewart could not be held legally liable for perjury since he corrected in April erroneous statements made in February at what was in effect a continuation of the same hearing.

ATTORNEY SHOT BY SANITARIUM MANAGER

MONROE, La., Nov. 18—(AP)—Dr. C. H. Mosley, president and general manager of the Riverside sanitarium here, shot and seriously wounded John E. Johnson, an attorney, at the institution today and then telephoned the sheriff's office and voluntarily surrendered. He is being held, pending investigation of the affair and outcome of Johnson's wounds.

The attorney was shot twice, one bullet entering the side and the other penetrating the spinal column and causing paralysis from the waist down. The physician was said to have objected to attentions paid one of the nurses at the sanitarium by the attorney, who is not married.

THERMOMETER REGISTERED 71 DEGREES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—When the thermometer at the weather bureau offices registered 71 degrees at 4 p. m. today, a record which had stood for 52 years was broken. The highest previous temperature for Nov. 18 was 70.7 degrees, recorded in 1921.

Since 1878, when the local weather bureau began compiling hourly temperatures, the average temperature for the day has been 43 degrees. Today's average was 64 degrees.

MAN WAS SHOT AT PARTY IN NEW BRITAIN

NEW BRITAIN, Nov. 18— (AP) — James Lewis, of Berlin, was shot in the right shoulder at an early morning party in the home of Mrs. Matty Smith here today. # Testing Siren For Airplane In Flight

It is Expected That the Device Will Prove a Great Aid to Night Flying.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18—(AP)—Demonstration of a siren, sounded on an airplane in flight, turning on flood lights at an airport was made at Bettis field here today by engineers of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, who said the device undoubtedly would prove a great aid to night flying.

Sound waves from the siren, which is operated by a wind motor and turned on or off at the will of the aviator, are picked up on the ground by an electrical "ear" and transmitted to an apparatus that turns on the flood lights, the engineers explained.

Experiments with the device were started more than a year ago. At first, sound waves from the motor were depended upon to operate the sound apparatus. This was found unsatisfactory, however, and the siren was substituted.

HOW GOVERNOR SMITH IS SPENDING HIS VACATION

EDGEWATER GULF HOTEL, Miss., Nov. 18—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith settled down today to the life of a winter vacationist determined to rebuild his campaign worn body.

Residents along the gulf have taken him at his word that he wished to be let alone. They are leaving him in peace. Even the hotel guests, after the first flush of his arrival, have treated him as an ordinary guest.

There is no longer a craning of necks when he appears in the dining room or lobby and he goes and comes without molestation.

He adhered to his steadfast custom of attending Sunday church services by motoring five miles to the old town of Biloxi for the 11 o'clock service at the Church of the Nativity.

There he was met at the curb by the Rev. Father Peter Keenan, who escorted him through the small crowd gathered in front of the church to a front pew.

After the service the minister addressed the congregation, saying he wished to say a word of welcome to the "big and good hearted man who is with us today."

"This is a man," he added, as he smiled on the governor, "who in defeat has been victorious. Alfred E Smith has done more for Americanism and Catholicism than any other man in American history. He has broken down prejudice and intolerance."

Coming down the aisle, Governor Smith turned from side to side shaking hands with men, women and children. He drove back to the Edgewater Gulf hotel where he remained over for the remainder of the day with the exception of a short round of golf.

The church party included John J. Raskob, John L. Gilchrist, Michael Meehan and James Riordan, New York friends of the governor.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, host to the party, remained at the hotel while Mayor Kennedy of Biloxi, escorted them to church.

During his stay Governor Smith hopes to play golf each day but does not plan any fishing trips or any other outdoor recreation. Near the end of his visit he expects to hold a reception for those wishing to meet him.

SCHOOL TEACHERS WERE VICTIMIZED BY "BROKERS"

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—(AP)—Edward J. Wentzel, head of a brokerage firm, and an employe, C. C. Ritchey, have been held in bonds totaling $17,000 on four charges of conspiracy and operating a confidence game, preferred by a group of school teachers. A large loop bank was declared by the complainants' attorneys to be involved in the alleged swindles.

The attorneys told Municapl Judge Frank Padden their clients lost approximately $175,000 through Wentzel's and Ritchey's activities.

The brokers canvassed school buildings, soliciting teachers between classes to buy bonds, attorneys said. Later, witnesses testified, the brokers told teachers their bonds had been recalled and gave them paper in exchange. The paper was said to be practically worthless.

RABBIT HUNTERS FOUND BODY OF SLAIN GIRL

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Nov. 18—(AP)—The quest for the slayer of Emma Alley, 16 year old school girl, found dead by rabbit hunters along a small stream near here Saturday, had failed to bring results tonight, according to investigating officers. A number of suspects had been questioned.

The young woman disappeared Friday night, leaving her home about 10 o'clock in an automobile whose driver had summoned her by sounding his horn in front of the house. Several youths, said to have been friends of the girl, were taken to police headquarters and asked what they knew about the case but later were given their freedom.

GRAVE DANGER THREATENS SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

WASHINGTON Nov. 18.—(AP)—Formal organization of the save-our-schools committee whose purpose is "to help awaken the nation to the grave danger that threatens our schools and colleges by reason of the attempt now being made to use them for propaganda" was announced here today.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, of New York city, is national chairman of the organization and John Dewey, professor at Columbia university vice-chairman.

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Miss Lucille Field, 24, Syracuse, was instantly killed today when her automobile failed to make a sharp right curve and plunged over an embankment. John R. Fontana, a traveling salesman, who was driving the car, suffered a concussion of the brain.

WOMAN WANDERED AWAY AND DIED OF EXPOSURE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Three hunters in a swamp near Jordan today found the body of Mrs. Bertha O'Neil, 42, who wandered away from a farm in the town of Elbridge, Sept. 23. She died of exposure and starvation.

DEVASTATION IN GERMANY CAUSED BY A HURRICANE

In the Coastal Districts Many Cattle Were Drowned, Houses Damaged, Trees Uprooted and Electric Wires Blown Down—A Number of Vessels Were Sunk, Including a Mortor Ship From an Unknown Port—Fate of the Crew Is Unknown.

HAMBURG, Germany, Nov. 18—(AP)—Delayed reports which reached Hamburg today over crippled communication lines indicated that the casualties and havoc wrought by yesterday's devastating hurricane which swept over northwestern Germany would be much greater than at first believed. Before blowing itself out, the wind attained a velocity of 78 miles an hour, causing a three-foot rise in the tide along the North sea coast.

A number of vessels were sunk, including a motor ship from an unknown port. The fate of the crew has not yet been determined. The lightship "Weser" was torn from its moorings and stranded on the island of Wangeroong and a number of fish cutters were carried hundreds of meters inland.

At Husum the sea wall was nearly topped by the dashing waves but it was apparently standing up under their onslaught. In the wake of the storm were great stretches of flooded coastal districts with many cattle drowned, houses damaged, trees uprooted, and electric light wires down.

Muenster reported that Westphalia also had suffered from the storm and that the wind force was sufficient to demolish stone walls. Roofs were carried away and electric service interrupted. The Saar district suffered similarly, with roads strewn with uprooted trees, houses roofless and telephone service badly crippled.

Although the Hamburg meteorological station reported the storm abating tonight it forecast the approach of another storm center.

FINE WEATHER FOLLOWED THE GALE IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP)—England today saw no sign of a recurrence of the recent terrific storms which had been forecast but learned of five additional deaths, bringing the total to 41. Five members of the crew of the small Liverpool schooner Mary Ann drowned when the gale drove the vessel on the Dulas Rocks.

John Woodier, 17, was the only member of the crew who succeeded in clambering up on the few square yards of rock which stood above the raging seas. The dog that the schooner carried also made its way to safety and was Woodier's sole companion for 56 hours while they remained foodless on the desolate rock.

At last a Liverpool pilot boat sighted the shirt which Woodier was waving frantically to attract their attention. They rescued the boy, although heavy seas were running.

The gale, which blew itself out over England Saturday morning, has shown no sign of reappearing. Both yesterday and today were beautiful, sunny days, permitting persons to remove the havoc of the storm and to restore communications.

Seventeen deaths off the English coast had previously been reported from the storm. They were men who put out in a lifeboat from Rye in an attempt to aid a distressed vessel. The toll was almost as great on land as at sea, with 19 persons killed either by falling chimneys and trees or in traffic accidents traced directly to the storm.

Even railway passengers were endangered by the trees which were blown across the tracks and which interrupted service on several lines. Roadways were similarly blocked and communications generally interrupted in all directions.

FORD HAS OBTAINED SOME ANTIQUE VEHICLES

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Henry Ford, antique collector extraordinary, today was the owner of an unusual collection of vehicles, part of the estate of the late Miss Anna Corning.

They included a Russian sleigh, more than 100 years old, a coach, cab, brougham, and other smart equipages, as fashionable in the halcyon days of the pioneer aristocracy as the smartest limousine today. The largest vehicle of the collection, the Corning family coach, designed for six passengers, is elaborately finished inside and out. The collection was considered by experts as one of the best in the country. According to Mr. Ford's representative, who consummated the sale, it will be placed with other antiquated vehicles in the Dearborn museum.

TRUMBULL TO ATTEND THE CONFERENCE OF GOVERNORS

BOSTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—Three New England governors and one governor-elect left this city today to attend the annual conference of governors at New Orleans opening on Tuesday. They were Govs. Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine; Huntely N. Spaulding, of New Hampshire and Norman S. Case, of Rhode Island and Gov.-elect William T. Gardiner, of Maine. Their wives accompanied them.

Gov. John H Trumbull, of Connecticut, with Mrs. Trumbull and their daughter, Florence, will board the party's special train at Cincinnati John C. Hull, speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives, accompanied the governors as the representative of Gov Alvan T. Fuller.

The train was routed by way of Troy, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Nashville.

EXCITEMENT ON "L" TRAIN CAUSED BY EXPLOSIONS

NEW YORK, Nov 18—(AP)—Passengers in a Ninth avenue "L" train were thrown into excitement today when a short circuit caused two slight explosions and set fire to the floor of the first car in a four-car train.

Those in the first car fled to the second when blue flames shot from the floor and sides of the car. The motormen sped the train into the Houston street station and telephoned the company to shut off the power.

Firemen raised ladders from the street and the blaze was quickly extinguished. Traffic on the line was tied up for 20 minutes. No one was injured.

DR. GEORGE HARDING STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

SANTA ANA, Cal., Nov. 18—(AP)—Dr. George Harding, father of the late President Warren G. Harding, was near death tonight at the home of his sister here, victim of a stroke of paralysis which he suffered Friday. He is 85 years old.

Physicians held little hope for his recovery and relatives were gathered at the bedside. Dr. Harding has been unconscious since the attack. He was taken to the home here of his sister, Mrs. E. E. Remsberg, on Friday after he was stricken.

At the bedside were his wife and sister and a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Votaw, of Washington, D. C. A brother at Columbus, O., was in telegraphic communication with the home.

PARACHUTE SAVED LIFE OF AN AIR MAIL PILOT

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Nov. 18—(AP)—Paul Collins, air mail pilot for the National Air Transport, Inc., on the Cleveland-New York route, made a successful parachute landing near here today when one wing of his biplane collapsed and the ship fell to the ground. Collins, who escaped injury of any sort, was flying from Cleveland to New York at the time.

The plane was a total wreck, according to Collins, who brought his cargo of mail to Brookville.

RESULT OF THE GENERAL ELECTION IN AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 18—(AP)—The nationalist-country party coalition government was returned to office in yesterday's general election but with considerably reduced parliamentry majority. Heavy labor victories in New South Wales made it appear certain that the opposition party would win seven seats with the likelihood that the government majority would be reduced from 29 to 15 before the final votes had been counted.

Premier Stanley Bruce head of the nationalist party and Federal Treasurer Earle C. Page, leader of the country party which has been allied with the nationalists since 1923, were returned to office. Ministers Paterson, Gibson, and Hill likewise were returned, whereas the labor victories in New South Wales caused the defeat of several prominent nationalists including Sir Elliot Johnson, former speaker of the house.

Viewing the government's return with a good working majority, Premier Bruce declared he was "extremely satisfied." James H. Scullin, newly appointed leader of the labor party said:

"There was a decided swing toward labor and our party is unlikely to lose a single seat. We are hopeful of abustantial gains when the counting has ceased."

Sixty-three seats in the house of representatives and 12 of the 36 senate seats were before the lectorate. Early today the aggregate vote for all the states showed for the house:

Nationalists 645,000, independent nationalists 35,000, labor 781,000, independent labor 5,000 country party 88,000, independent country party 4,000, country progressive party 13,000.

PRISONERS FAILED IN EFFORT TO ESCAPE

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Two Sing Sing prisoners serving life terms and a third serving 30 years for burglary were thwarted in an effort to escape when a guard saw one of them prying apart the bars of a window in a cell-block wall with a steel jack.

August Hendrickson, 21, and Matthew Boyd, 23, both serving life terms, and John Santorello, in whose possession prison officials said they found a knife, were captured and locked up for transfer to the penitentiary at Dannemora.

Warden Lawes, in revealing the attempted break today, said the three had sneaked away from a formation returning to cells after a motion picture show in the prison last night and had secreted themselves in a cell block along the east wing, where windows only ten feet from the ground look upon the tracks of the New York Central railroad.

A guard patrolling this gallery said he heard or saw nothing of the attempt to escape. He was directed to submit to a physical examination and turned in his resignation. Warden Lawes praised Keeper Paul Wilson, who spotted Hendrickson wrenching apart the bars, then saw the two others and captured all three.

NON-SUPPORT CHARGES AGAINST R. P. WHITE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18— (AP) — Charges of non-support were on file here today against Rover P. White, former consular agent and brother of Jack White, moving picture producer, in a divorce suit brought by his wife, Helen G. White, actress, who is a sister of Estelle Taylor, film actress.

The romance which led to their marriage in September, 1927, began several years ago when Mrs. White, then working on a picture at Santa Catalina Island, was forced with other players to take refuge in White's island home during a storm.

A YEAR OF PROGRESS

IT HAS been just a year since the new Ford was introduced. At this first anniversary, it is interesting to review the record of the months just passed and see what has been accomplished.

Since December 2, 1927, nearly 750,000 new Ford cars have been built. Production has been gradually increased from a few hundred a day to 6000 a day. We expect to make 2,000,000 automobiles in 1929.

These are impressive figures. But they are only that. Figures of themselves are unimportant.

The big thing is that the new Ford has delivered a service beyond all expectations. The promise of a year ago is now an accomplished fact.

New Ford is the expression of an ideal

Our policy has always been to regard ourselves as charged with making the best automobile it is possible to make at a low price. That is our mission. We have done it for more than twenty years. The public expects us to keep on doing it.

That obligation includes good design as well as good materials. We hold it our duty to permit nothing to stand in the way of progress, yet we do not make changes simply for the sake of making them. First, it must be demonstrated that what seems like an improvement in theory is an improvement in practice.

THE new Ford has made a high place for itself because it is built on sound principles. There is nothing of an experiment about it.

The whole effort has been toward simplicity—to give you outstanding service with as little machinery as possible. That is where experience counts. Built into the new Ford is everything we have learned in the making of fifteen million automobiles.

The motor has made a remarkable record

Take the motor. It has made a remarkable record because it combines every essential feature of good performance—power, acceleration, smoothness, speed, reliability, economy and long life.

Not just acceleration. Not just smoothness. Not just speed. But the most of all of these features that can be built into a low-priced car without cutting corners or sacrificing quality anywhere along the line.

We were building more than a motor when we did this. We were fulfilling the public's trust in us to make the best selection for their use. Had any other type been better, we would have chosen that.

Value of simplicity shown in performance

Daily, in the performance of the new Ford, you can see the value of its sound simplicity of design, its balance, the care with which it is made, and the quality that has been put into it.

It will do 55 to 65 miles an hour, which is fast enough for anyone. You know how quickly it accelerates. You have seen how it climbs the hills on high. If you drive a new Ford you know its economy of operation and low cost of up-keep.

From every part of the world come reports of its reliability and endurance. Many of the new Fords have been driven 50,000 miles in the past year. Some more than 100,000 miles. There is no telling how far they will go. The average life of the Model T was seven years. We believe this new car will do even better.

THE engine is the heart of the motor car, of course. Yet there are other features almost as important. We refer particularly to the safety of the fully enclosed six-brake system of the new Ford. To its really remarkable smoothness and stability at all speeds and its easy-riding comfort. To the beauty of its lines and colors. To the ease of control. To the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. To the electric welding that makes it such a strong and sturdy car.

"The new Ford car embodies the best results of our experience in making 15,000,000 automobiles. We consider it our most important contribution to the progress and prosperity of the country, and to the daily welfare of millions of people."

Henry Ford

In a word, the quality of the new Ford goes clear through. Nothing has been done for show. No one part has been given undue prominence at the expense of another.

Constantly making a better automobile

The new Ford was a good car when it was first introduced. We made sure of that before we asked you to buy it. It is a better car today.

Constantly we are finding new and better ways of doing things. As soon as we are sure of them we put them into the car. There is no such thing as a yearly model. Why should there be? As we make improvements, they are so planned that owners of previously built cars may take immediate advantage of them.

EVERYTHING that has been done has been done with one purpose—to bring the benefits of modern, economical transportation to all the people.

Our mission is to make the best automobile that can be made to sell at a low price. In ever-increasing measure, the new Ford is the expression of that ideal.

VICTIMS OF HAZING PARTY LAND IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 18—Six weary and disconsolate youths, having little knowledge of just where they were, made their appearance in the business section of Danielson about 4 o'clock Saturday morning and let it be known that they had been victims of a hazing by upper classmen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston, where they claimed to be enrolled.

They made known that their principal ambition was to get back to Boston as soon as that might be possible, and were eager in their inquiries as to train connections available at the earliest possible moment.

They told those who gathered about to hear their story that they had been "taken for a ride" by fellow students and eventually unceremoniously dumped from the cars in which the party traveled somewhere within seven or eight miles of Danielson. Before being abandoned to their own resources their tormentors relieved them of their cash, watches and other valuables that might be pawned temporarily for the necessary funds to buy transportation back to Boston.

The youths said that when the cars drove off they found themselves in inky blackness in heavily wooded and sparsely settled country, and that they knew not which way to turn to get to some town where they might arrange about getting home. It has since developed that they were let out in the vicinity of the Wolf Den in the town of Pomfret, and by following such dirt roads as they came upon eventually saw the lights of Danielson and headed for them.

The hazers did not do quite so thorough a job of "frisking" their victims as they may have thought they did. It appears that the youths who arrived here had some inkling of what might be in store for them, so before starting out had hidden some of their money. On arrival here they began producing hidden bills from their shoes and inside of their shirts, and one young man had a large bill pinned inside the folds of his necktie.

Being convinced that the fastest way for them to get back to Boston was to employ a public service car, they completed arrangements with Alphonse Quintal of the Lewis service and were home again about breakfast time. Though pretty well done in by their night of hard hiking and other unusual experiences, they were good natured about the affair, and were maturing plans of their own to even up the score.

OBITUARY

Paul A. Reeves

Paul Alexander Reeves, 77, one of Danielson's very well known residents, died Saturday afternoon at his home on the West Side. He had been in failing health for a number of years and seriously ill the greater part of the time for the past three years.

Mr. Reeves was a native of Sutton Junction, P. Q., a son of Pierre and Hortense Ambertin Leeves. Mr. Reeves had lived practically all of his life in this country, and for well over half a century was a resident of eastern Connecticut. He lived here with his parents as a boy. Later he was a resident of Baltic, then for a while in Manville, R. I., and still later at Taftville and Jewett City, returning here upwards of 30 years ago.

For 27 years he was an agent in this territory for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, retiring from active work eight years ago. Mr. Reeves was one of the oldest members, in point of years, in the order as well as in age, of the Knights of Columbus in eastern Connecticut, having joined the order as a charter member 38 years ago. He was an especially capable, keen-minded man up to the time his health began to fail and more than ordinarily interesting in discussion of whatever topic happened to interest him.

Mr. Reeves leaves his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Gareau, of Potter street; a brother, Stephen Reeves, of Norwich, and a sister, Mrs. Frederick Roy, of Taftville. Abel L. Reeves of Danielson is a nephew.

FUNERAL

Fred W. Burnett

From the home in Dayville Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral of Fred W. Burnett was held, with services at the Congregational church in that place at 2 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. William Swainson, conducted the service. The congregation included delegations from Moriah lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., Danielson chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Quinebaug lodge, I. O. O. F., and Dorcas Rebekah lodge, all of Danielson. Burial was in the High street cemetery at Dayville, where the Masonic burial service was conducted by Walter Anderson, senior warden of Moriah lodge. The bearers were John Ashworth, Winthrop E. Short, Charles Carver, Fred Janes, Arnold Battey and Harry Whidden. Honorary bearers, deacons of the Congregational church, were N. Lorne Greig, Harold Fields, Samuel Gillette and Clifford Janes. There were a great many beautiful floral pieces. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Homes all along the route from the junction of Stearns and Reynolds street will have electric service available within the next few weeks, and the fact is regarded as a boon by many of the property owners. During the present week, the Eastern Connecticut Power company will be setting poles and making ready to string the wires that will carry the electric energy to South Killingly by Christmas. Meanwhile, owners of homes are arranging to have their homes wired for lights. The line will be extended eastward only as far as the Grange hall building at South Killingly.

Scores of families are giving thanks for two things especially this fall. One is that the mild weather is allowing them to save on fuel costs and another is that one item of food is particularly cheap—potatoes. Excellent potatoes are being offered in this territory at $1.00 per bushel, the lowest price for quality potatoes in years. Crops hereabouts are said to have been good this year, and the crop in the country as a whole tremendous. However, farmers who grew quantities of potatoes this year say they will make no money on the crop because of the low prices now prevailing.

Danielson continues to get its ice from central Massachusetts, as has been the rule for weeks. The short supply harvested here last winter has long since been exhausted. It is said by men who have kept a check on such things for years that it is rare for this territory not to produce sufficient cold weather to allow of harvesting an ample crop of ice for a year's needs, so on this basis there is hope that plenty of it will be obtained for the coming winter.

The attention of Danielson people was called today to the fact that Rev. Charles W. Miller, a missionary from Pasumalai, South India, is to speak at the Second Congregational church in Putnam next Thursday evening, and that attendance has been invited from this community.

The dog show Saturday afternoon and evening in the town hall under the auspices of the Windham County Kennel club drew good attendance, dog lovers coming from many miles about, and showing keen interest in the entries and things pertaining to dogs generally.

W. H. G. Herklots was host to a group of local boys Saturday, conveying them in his car to witness the Brown-New Hampshire game in Providence.

Flowers in the Westfield Congregational church today were in memory of Deacon and Mrs. Simeon Danielson.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Webster was a visitor today with relatives in Danielson.

This is the final week of the 1928 season for hunting game birds protected through the greater part of the year.

At the westerly end of the flats on the Brooklyn road a new section has been opened to travel, doing away with one place that has been bad to travel over for many weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. Harding W. Gaylord, Misses Louise Danielson and Frances Danielson and J. Wayne Haskell will be in Norwich this week, representing the Westfield Congregational church at the state Sunday school convention to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Lewis' 15 Cent Taxi service stand now at Danielson Trust Co. building. Call 130.—adv.

Temperatures as high as 71 degrees were reported in Danielson Saturday afternoon, one of the warmest late November days in a generation.

Considerable progress is being made with the early work being done in Canterbury to construct a state-aid highway southward toward Lisbon. The work will continue as long as weather conditions permit.

Dr. Warren A. Tanner, a patient at the Day-Kimball hospital for the past month, continues to progress toward recovery. It is expected he will be able to return to his home here later in the month.

A meeting in the interest of temperance drew many of the French-speaking men of St. James' parish to a meeting in the hall of the Union St. John Baptist this afternoon. The meeting was addressed by a Dominican priest from Fall River.

Miss Carrie L. Fellows has been appointed church librarian at the Westfield Congregational church and will have charge of the books in the Jacobs library. She is to be in the library on Sundays just after the morning service and after the Sunday school hour. The plan became effective today.

A type of state highway fence new to this section is being constructed along the new cut-off from Main street eastward. Instead of the stringers running along posts, as is the usual arrangement, heavy wire cables are used. This arrangement is regarded as likely to reduce injuries to persons in cars striking such fences, as there will be no stringers to fly and pierce cars or passengers.

Manager P. J. Sheridan has closed the dance pavilion at Wildwood park until next spring, following a successful season.

Mrs. Arthur C. Boiselle of Central Falls was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

WOODSTOCK VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Statel entertained guests from Boston and Miss Marion Statel of Worcester, over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cordery and Mr and Mrs. Kristpaum and daughter Ruth were at Allen eKnyon's Sunday. Guests over the week end included Mrs. Anna Douglass of Worcester, Miss Elizabeth McNamara, Hartford and Albert Hallworth of Providence.

William J. Park and Mrs. Park spent Sunday at Parke Crest Farm, their recently purchased summer home.

Mrs. Harriet Leonard and Miss Maude Leonard, have returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., for the winter.

CHESTNUT HILL

Miss Mary Chappell of Montville is at her home here for a few days this week.

Monday morning was very frosty. The mercury stood at 16 degrees above zero.

Earth as Thermometer

The general rate of increase in the temperature of the earth's crust is about 1 degree Fahrenheit for every 55 feet of descent. If this rate were invariable a scale might be marked on the wall of a mine shaft which would indicate the temperature. In fact, however, the rate varies in different regions, and it has been suggested by certain authorities that these variations may be of advantage in prognosticating the existence of deep deposits of coal and oil, and probably of other valuable minerals. The presence of such deposits causes an abnormal rise of temperature above them, but no deductions concerning their presence can be drawn from bore holes less than 600 feet in depth.

Child Drowned in Cove

Eric Anderson, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrus Anderson of Bakers cove, Groton, drowned Wednesday afternoon in the waters of the cove. His body was recovered by Ray H. Packer.

That the child had fallen into the water was believed by the police after it had been learned that he had been playing on a wharf at the W. A. Sanborn estate, and a small pail with which he had been playing was found on the wharf.

Increase Your Weight 5 Pounds in 30 Days

Make Yourself Strong, Healthy and Vigorous at the Same Time

STUDENT OFFICERS TO DIRECT TRAFFIC IN FRONT OF SCHOOLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 18—Captain of Police William J. Jarvis is now drawing up a system whereby he intends to eliminate all street crossing dangers at the closing hours of schools in the city. Capt. Jarvis said today that he will submit his plan to the Putnam town school committee to act upon, when completed.

The two major problems in regard to the safety of school children in passing from the school grounds to the sidewalks exist at Marshall street in front of St. Mary's parochial school and at the intersection of Front and School streets in front of the Israel Putnam school. At both educational institutions noonday auto traffic is heavy. On several occasions children have narrowly escaped being run down in the bustle of traffic while in their dash for the sidewalk.

The subject has been discussed several times at meetings of the town school committee and efforts to seek a solution of the problem is now being made. Captain Jarvis' plan will call for the deputizing of a number of boys in the upper grades as police officers. They will be dismissed from school several minutes before the close of classes and will take up their positions at the crossings. Automobile drivers will be forced to comply with their directions in the interests of child safety, else they be reported to the police. When the children are all escorted safely the boy traffic officers will be relieved of their posts until the reopening of school in the afternoon and will again go through the same routine in the late afternoon. In recognition of the boys efforts, Captain Jarvis feels that they should be given merits, upon a report of their service from the principal of the school.

This plan is not complete yet. It is being efficiently used in other cities by the police departments, who are cooperating with the school committees and is proving highly successful. When all the necessary data concerning the organization of a boys' police traffic force is secured Putnam's police captain will submit the scheme to the town school committee for their action.

The members of the Putnam fire department were twice called during the week end hours to extinguish blazes of minor nature. On Saturday afternoon, a general alarm was struck from box 15 at the corner of South Main and Grove streets. The firemen were directed to Bellevue street where a grass and brush fire threatened the property in that vicinity. A stream of water from the booster tank on the No. 1 hose company soon quenched the flames. At 11.30 a. m. Sunday morning the entire department was again called to the same box for a blaze in a chimney in a small dwelling in the rear of the city hotel. Again the booster tank proved its worth to the city and soon extinguished the fire. No property damage occurred at either fire.

An augmented force of section hands and signal maintainers were at work today in dismantling the interlocking signal equipment of the small Klondike tower located at the northern end of the Putnam yards about 2 miles from Putnam depot, on the New Haven railroad.

There will be a meeting of the Child study group of the Putnam Parent-Teachers association in the kindergarten room of the Israel Putnam school on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 21, at 3 o'clock following the close of school. The topic for discussion this week will be "Parent-Child Relationship". This meeting is open to all and is held in the interests of the parents. The committee has urged all mothers to be present to take part in the discussions.

Much interest is being focused upon affairs of the American Legion by the members of the Anselm Mayotte post, No. 13, of this city since the organization of a woman's auxiliary of the society. The local post is to gather at Arnold's Sea grill on Tuesday evening for a joint meeting of the post and the auxiliary. The major part of the programme will be the report of the delegates to the national convention held in San Antonio, Texas, during the past summer. Mrs. J. Dyer Potter, commander of the auxiliary and Harry Jackson former state commander of the American Legion will deliver interesting sketches of their visit to the convention held in the south. There will also be motion pictures of the activities of the legion posts while in convention in Texas. Members of the nearby posts who wish to attend this meeting should notify G. Stanley Shaw of this city, as only a limited number may attend.

Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Perry, and Mrs. E. C. Morse were at Amherst, Mass., Saturday afternoon, where they attended the Amherst Williams football game. Following the game Dr. Perry and Mrs. Morse attended an initiation of the Delta-Upsilon fraternity of which both are members, as are their sons Franklin Perry, a senior at Amherst and Chandler Morse, a graduate of the college.

Until late this afternoon the Day Kimball hospital was free of any week end automobile victims and the blotters at the Putnam police station contained no reports of any accidents.

Members of the Putnam police force, acting under orders from Mayor Charles A. Richard, to enforce the traffic parking ordinances of the city, continued their two day fray with motorists in the business section Saturday evening and Sunday, by issuing the well known green tags. The battle of the police vs. automobile drivers was most thick on Thursday evening when the number of cars tagged topped the 100 mark. Each driver was bound to report at the Putnam police station where he was given a "father to son" talk by the officer in charge, and asked to be more observant of the parking regulations in the future. Saturday evening found an unusual change in the parking condition in the business section, as the fire lane on Main street was free from parked vehicles as was Union and Livery streets.

The Brown University Athletic council was host to 359 Putnam boys, at the New Hampshire-Brown football game, played in the Brown stadium in Providence Saturday afternoon. The Putnam band, departed shortly after noon, in cars belonging to the members of the Putnam Rotary club and made the trip in short time, under an escort of state police from Danielson barracks to the Rhode Island line and were then taken in charge by officers of Rhode Island state police at Chepatchet and were taken through the traffic lanes to the Brown stadium. Over 50 cars were in line. The Putnam youngsters thrilled at the site of a real college game and were filled with glee when the Brown Bruins had trampled over their traditional New Hampshire rivals. The trip was made possible through the efforts of County Secretary L. Edwin Hill of the Windham county Y. M. C. A., who made the arrangements with the drivers to furnish cars to transport the boys to Providence.

Operator William E. Murray of the Klondike tower is in possession of a homing pigeon found helpless in the interlocking of the switches near the station. Mr. Murray rescued the pigeon and upon examining it discovered a band on its leg marked A2Uc. The bird was probably struck by an engine, as one of its wings was broken when found. The tower operators have taken the pigeon in and are nursing it back to health. Those who have examined it have been unable to decipher the message attached to its body.

Edward Shetoivez, of Putnam is being detained at the Putnam police station on a charge of theft of lumber from the Burril district in East Putnam last Wednesday evening. Shetoivez was arrested Saturday by State Troopers Scranton and Nolan of the Danielson barracks, after a search of three days had been conducted by the state and local police. The story related by the prisoner involves several men of the town of Killingly, one of whom is now being held by the police in Danielson for appearance in court Monday morning. Shetoivez will be arraigned Monday morning in police court on a charge of theft.

NEW WEBSTER HOSPITAL WAS DEDICATED SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 18—Physicians and citizens of the town of Webster formally dedicated their first medical institution today, the newly established Webster General hospital. The institution is situated on the Thompson road a few miles from Putnam, and is located on the Bates estate on the Connecticut shore of Webster lake. It is a 25 room, modernly constructed house and is owned by Mrs. Alice G. Halpen, superintendent of the hospital and chief stockholder. The institute commenced its work for the interests of humanity today with eleven beds, expecting to inaugurate a thirty two bed ward by the middle of this week.

It contains an operating room equipped with the most modern scientific operating apparatus, which received the praise of the doctors of Worcester county this afternoon, upon their inspection of the building. Within a few weeks X-ray apparatus is to be installed. Superintendent Halpen said this afternoon that her newly established hospital is ready to meet any emergencies and soon will be equipped to perform the most difficult and serious operations. A maternity ward will soon be added.

This is the first institution of its kind erected in the vicinity for the relief of suffering humanity and much credit is due Mrs. Halpen for her efforts. Mrs. Halpen is one of Webster's most proficient nurses and is well qualified for the position as head of the hospital. She was formerly head of two of Philadelphia's leading hospitals and for the past two years has been an instructor in a Boston school of nursing. She stated this morning that she will soon appoint a surgeon who will be in complete charge of the Webster hospital. Monday morning will find a complete staff of day nurses taking up the first duties and a night staff will report for the evening work.

The estate of the late E. M. Harris and the Buck associates, located in the hill district on Wilkinson street in Putnam passed into the hands of the new owners by a public auction ordered by superior court, Friday afternoon. The large tracts of lands passed into the hands of Adelard Dumas, John S. Dingwall and Howard Bradford, all of Putnam. The auction was conducted by Deputy Sheriff Charles D. Ayers and brought considerable sums. Much history is placed behind the Buck and Harris lands in the hill section, as they came down through a long line of settlers and later owners.

William Hughes of Bloomfield, Conn., former Putnam resident was a visitor in this city last week.

Mrs. J. P. Prescott of Webster was the guest of Putnam friends Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Sherman Putnam of Westboro, Mass., have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams of South Main street.

Mrs. Wallace Jones of School street, died at a Norwich hospital Friday evening after a long period of illness. Mrs. Jones was born in Putnam and has resided here the greater part of her life. She was 37 years of age and is survived by her husband Wallace J. Jones of School street. She is also survived by thirteen children, all of whom reside in Putnam.

PLAINFIELD

MANUAL TRAINING PLANS FOR PUPILS OF THE TOWN

Pupils of the schools in the town of Plainfield will have the chance one hour a week to learn hand work of various kinds, according to a plan being put into effect. Such work includes picture mounting, some toy making, puzzle making, simple wood and leather work, sewing, metal work and related work which requires little time or simple materials. The materials and tools are paid for by the pupils themselves. The necessary tools must be provided in special ways since the school committee has not made appropriation for this purpose. The teachers have undertaken to raise the needed funds. In Moosup the school is giving a whist and bridge party, the proceeds of which will go toward this work. The Plainfield Parent-Teacher association has pledged $100, Moosup schools $50 and Central Village and Wauregan $25 each. The teachers have had special instruction by teachers sent by the Junior Achievement corporation to Plainfield community house. Teachers and pupils alike have been anxious to take up this work and are showing great interest therein. Four lessons of about four hours each will be given the teachers, and one has already been given. The others will follow at intervals. The $200 pledged will go to pay the instructors. This is not sponsored by the state but by the corporation, which is organized with headquarters at Middletown, just for this purpose, not as a money making scheme but to meet expenses and continue the work. The course is in substance a sort of manual training proposition simplified for the small school.

The estate of the late E. M. Harris and the Buck associates, located in the hill district on Wilkinson street in Putnam passed into the hands of the new owners by a public auction ordered by superior court, Friday afternoon. The large tracts of lands passed into the hands of Adelard Dumas, John S. Dingwall and Howard Bradford, all of Putnam. The auction was conducted by Deputy Sheriff Charles D. Ayers and brought considerable sums. Much history is placed behind the Buck and Harris lands in the hill section, as they came down through a long line of settlers and later owners.

William Hughes of Bloomfield, Conn., former Putnam resident was a visitor in this city last week.

Mrs. J. P. Prescott of Webster was the guest of Putnam friends Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Sherman Putnam of Westboro, Mass., have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams of South Main street.

Mrs. Wallace Jones of School street, died at a Norwich hospital Friday evening after a long period of illness. Mrs. Jones was born in Putnam and has resided here the greater part of her life. She was 37 years of age and is survived by her husband Wallace J. Jones of School street. She is also survived by thirteen children, all of whom reside in Putnam.

MANUAL TRAINING PLANS FOR PUPILS OF THE TOWN

Pupils of the schools in the town of Plainfield will have the chance one hour a week to learn hand work of various kinds, according to a plan being put into effect. Such work includes picture mounting, some toy making, puzzle making, simple wood and leather work, sewing, metal work and related work which requires little time or simple materials. The materials and tools are paid for by the pupils themselves. The necessary tools must be provided in special ways since the school committee has not made appropriation for this purpose. The teachers have undertaken to raise the needed funds. In Moosup the school is giving a whist and bridge party, the proceeds of which will go toward this work. The Plainfield Parent-Teacher association has pledged $100, Moosup schools $50 and Central Village and Wauregan $25 each. The teachers have had special instruction by teachers sent by the Junior Achievement corporation to Plainfield community house. Teachers and pupils alike have been anxious to take up this work and are showing great interest therein. Four lessons of about four hours each will be given the teachers, and one has already been given. The others will follow at intervals. The $200 pledged will go to pay the instructors. This is not sponsored by the state but by the corporation, which is organized with headquarters at Middletown, just for this purpose, not as a money making scheme but to meet expenses and continue the work. The course is in substance a sort of manual training proposition simplified for the small school.

Klondike Tower Is Abandoned

Klondike tower is in possession of a homing pigeon found helpless in the interlocking of the switches near the station. Mr. Murray rescued the pigeon and upon examining it discovered a band on its leg marked A2Uc. The bird was probably struck by an engine, as one of its wings was broken when found. The tower operators have taken the pigeon in and are nursing it back to health. Those who have examined it have been unable to decipher the message attached to its body.

Edward Shetoivez, of Putnam is being detained at the Putnam police station on a charge of theft of lumber from the Burril district in East Putnam last Wednesday evening. Shetoivez was arrested Saturday by State Troopers Scranton and Nolan of the Danielson barracks, after a search of three days had been conducted by the state and local police. The story related by the prisoner involves several men of the town of Killingly, one of whom is now being held by the police in Danielson for appearance in court Monday morning. Shetoivez will be arraigned Monday morning in police court on a charge of theft.

NEW WEBSTER HOSPITAL WAS DEDICATED SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 18—Physicians and citizens of the town of Webster formally dedicated their first medical institution today, the newly established Webster General hospital. The institution is situated on the Thompson road a few miles from Putnam, and is located on the Bates estate on the Connecticut shore of Webster lake. It is a 25 room, modernly constructed house and is owned by Mrs. Alice G. Halpen, superintendent of the hospital and chief stockholder. The institute commenced its work for the interests of humanity today with eleven beds, expecting to inaugurate a thirty two bed ward by the middle of this week.

It contains an operating room equipped with the most modern scientific operating apparatus, which received the praise of the doctors of Worcester county this afternoon, upon their inspection of the building. Within a few weeks X-ray apparatus is to be installed. Superintendent Halpen said this afternoon that her newly established hospital is ready to meet any emergencies and soon will be equipped to perform the most difficult and serious operations. A maternity ward will soon be added.

This is the first institution of its kind erected in the vicinity for the relief of suffering humanity and much credit is due Mrs. Halpen for her efforts. Mrs. Halpen is one of Webster's most proficient nurses and is well qualified for the position as head of the hospital. She was formerly head of two of Philadelphia's leading hospitals and for the past two years has been an instructor in a Boston school of nursing. She stated this morning that she will soon appoint a surgeon who will be in complete charge of the Webster hospital. Monday morning will find a complete staff of day nurses taking up the first duties and a night staff will report for the evening work.

The Art and Travel club was entertained Tuesday at the homee of Mrs. Hattie Berber in Central Village. In place of the regular reading, Henry Woodbridge addressed the club. Mr. Woodbridge has just returned from a three months' African cruise. His trip included Madeira, Canary Islands, St. Helena, Italy and Egypt.

Sunday morning at the First Congregational church the sermon subject was The Extra Mile. There was special music by the choir, Mrs. Henry Leader, organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cooper of Yorktown, N. Y., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Kenney of Canterbury.

Samuel Lee of Fort Adams, Newport, R. I., spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, early in the week.

The last meeting of the cabinet was held Wednesday evening at the Congregational parsonage. Final plans were made for the bazaar. Friday evening the booth building committee met in the vestry, in charge of Ernest Plassman, to construct the booths. The Boy Scouts met Thursday evening and will have charge of the checking booth. The Camp Fire Girls will be in charge of the hot dogs booth.

Plainfield basketball team opened the season last week with a 41 to 23 victory over Johnny Beckman's team which has so far played thirteen games this season with only two defeats.

ADVERTISING CONNECTICUT

Some time ago the idea was advanced that advertising would be a good thing for the New England states both as a group and singly. It was recognized as a good thing and it has been employed with good results. New England has been advertising itself in various ways. States have been doing likewise. The benefit will be reaped over a long period.

When Governor Trumbull broadcasted from Chicago Saturday night it was in furtherance of such an idea. What he had to say about Connecticut was excellent information which this state is glad to have go out and what many may have been pleased to receive. What the size of the audience to which he talked was will never be known but those who listened heard an interesting statement concerning its history, its people, its opportunities, its advantages, its variety of interests. Being undertaken in connection with the Chicago News there was a special rotogravure section of that paper devoted to Connecticut which will be an added factor in spreading over a wide territory this valuable publicity. Cooperating also was the Connecticut chamber of commerce in this project.

It will be noted with satisfaction that Connecticut is taking its proper place with the other states in setting forth its advantages, its products and its attractions. As a manufacturing state we have much to sell. But we also have reason to be proud of many other things such as our recreational attractions which can properly be kept before the touring public. By creating thought and talk about the Nutmeg state we are stimulating interest that will react to our advantage in many and unexpected ways.

Governor Trumbull was an excellent exponent of Connecticut's attractions. He is at the head of a state government which has received no small amount of attention for its accomplishments, and because of them by the verdict of the people is to continue for another two years. He knows whereof he speaks and his worthwhile half hour story cannot fail to have made an excellent impression upon his audience. Good advertising for Connecticut is a good policy.

MR. HOOVER'S TRIP

President-elect Hoover starts today on a tour of the Latin-American countries which not only represents something new on the part of one who is about to take hold of the reins of government but which gives promise of excellent results in many ways for the country.

It will serve both as a vacation and a means of getting in contact with the various republics to the south. The manner in which the South American countries, as well as those in Central America and the island republics, have received the news is particularly pleasing. Not only are they appreciative of the opportunity to entertain the next president of the United States but they are asking for an extension of the time he can spend among them and an increase in the number of stops. They are anxious to see and be seen. They appreciate the opportunity for bettering relations, for getting a better understanding of the man and the policies which are favored by him and his country and at the same time of setting forth their own positions.

Mr. Hoover goes on an unusual trip. He goes to countries which should have the closest diplomatic and trade relations with this country, and between which there should be the most thorough understanding. This has not always been so. Misunderstandings have prevailed too frequently and too persistently. There have been times when it has appeared there has been a too great reluctance to abandon them, a stubborn unwillingness to abandon fancy for facts.

It isn't expected that Mr. Hoover is going to wave a magic wand and have everything perfect in the future. Nevertheless the chance to do much has been recognized and is to be improved. It is to be sincerely hoped that it will be in every way as successful as anticipated. It is a capital idea and deserving of rich results.

NEEDED FARM RELIEF

It was inevitable that President Coolidge would dwell upon the question of farm relief as he spoke to the National grange in session at Washington. He had the opportunity to rehearse what has been done in the way of providing for this relief and it is no secret that much in addition might have been obtained and been in effect months ago if congress had been disposed to adopt suggestions and pleas for action.

Naturally the grange is and has been the backer of the unconstitutional and the unwise. It has stood for sane and effective legislation and it was possible for the president to review much that the government has done toward such a goal. This list of accomplishments was impressive and yet it wasn't maintained that there was nothing more that could or should be done.

At the present time the president believes that there is need for extensive development in cooperative marketing. The idea is not new. It has been started but it needs more attention. In urging this President Coolidge is presenting no different view than in the past and displays no change in his attitude from the time when he vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill. In fact he points to cooperative marketing as eliminating "any attempt at price fixing or putting the government into business, both of which would be fatal to the independence of the farmer. It likewise avoids the hazardous proposal of a subsidy, which the American people would never be willing to pay for any length of time."

It couldn't be expected that the president would make his appearance before the grange the occasion for setting forth the recommendations he has in mind for congress at the coming session. That will be reserved for that body but in a general way he indicated what he believes should be done and he discloses what would be certain to get his approval. It is in keeping with the Hoover recommendations also.

Farm relief can be expected to occupy a leading place in the list of important matters before congress next month. It should be possible to take action that will make it unnecessary to call a special session after March fourth.

GET THE REAL STORY

From such information as has been obtained it becomes evident that there is need for the various investigations which have been set afoot in connection with the sinking of the Vestris. It was a British vessel but sailing from an American port it involves American citizens and was subject to certain regulations, although not as many as would be the case if it had been an American vessel.

Captain Carey's explanation of the trouble and his action will never be known from his lips. Already it is indicated by such inquiry as has been made that there were causes for anxiety many hours before the S. O. S. call was sent out. Other officers advance their views as what occurred to endanger the vessel and it is testified that information was sent to the owners that help was needed the day before the vessel sank. Still the delay in broadcasting the call for assistance has been attributed to the belief of the officers that the situation could be met, the inflow of water checked and the vessel gotten to port.

That such a view was not justified is revealed by the developments. Just why there was such a delay in calling for help in view of what was happening needs a thorough explanation. How it can be justified is difficult to understand in view of what has happened and certain stories which have been told.

Judgment in regard to the case must be based upon the facts. It is not always possible to place full reliance upon stories. Some that have been attributed to persons aboard the ship have already been repudiated. Nevertheless the inquiries should be able to get the facts and the fiction separated, to determine whether the ship had been properly inspected before it left New York, whether there was an efficient handling of the situation and whether there was justification for the delay in seeking help. For the benefit of those who go down to the sea in ships the full history of the fatal voyage needs to be learned.

FIGHTING CONGESTION

In the city of Detroit considerable trouble has been experienced on certain thoroughfares because of congested traffic. Detroit has a problem common to many cities. It has established automatic control by means of lights but without obtaining the relief desired. The result is that the city council has suggested to the police department in charge of traffic regulations that the automatic light system be so changed that there will be manual control.

The demand for this change is based upon the belief that with an officer directing traffic by means of lights there will be greater efficiency. Instead of holding up the long line of cars by a red signal when there are no cars in the cross traffic or holding it up for the whole period when there are but one or two cars, the officer can keep traffic moving much better and relieve congestion by regulating the movement in accordance with the demands.

This judgment will correspond with that which has been reached in many other cities. Some not as large as Detroit, have tried it with pleasing results. It doesn't require a very long study of such situations to come to the same conclusion as the Detroit city council. Maintaining men at every signal to operate them means much expense which it was intended the signals would overcome, but under such circumstances it is a question of congestion or expense. Street traffic has grown to be a problem which cannot be ignored.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Remember the American Red Cross and give it your support.

The man on the corner says: The chief trouble with Indian summer is that it doesn't last long enough.

Those who like to hunt for radio stations are getting their fill under the new arrangement of wave lengths.

Now that the Mt. Etna eruption is decreasing perhaps Mussolini will tell how he managed to put the brakes on the volcano.

No movement is known to be underway to discipline Senators Blaine and Norris for supporting Smith, but in view of the result how ridiculous their course must seem to them.

Those who wondered what the newspapers would find to fill their columns after election are finding out each day and displaying considerable interest therein as usual.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cottage pudding with a strawberry sauce is particularly good for dessert.

If taken immediately a fruit stain may be removed by pouring boiling salt water over it.

No matter how clean they look all fruit and vegetables to be eaten raw should be washed.

If the end of a can of vegetables or fruit bulges it is evidence that the contents are unfit to eat.

Although skimmed milk lacks fat, it retains practically all of the other elements of whole milk.

Jewelry may be thoroughly cleaned with a solution of half ammonia and half water.

Fruit in a loaf cake will go to the bottom if baked in a slow oven.

If you want icing to remain soft use part honey, instead of all sugar.

Tough meat may be made tender and still retain its juices by pounding flour into it.

Jellies may be cut more easily with a pair of scissors dipped in hot water, than with a knife.

New cretonne cushion sets will rejuvenate the willow furniture.

The skin of a boiled egg applied to a boil will draw off the pus and in most cases will remove the soreness in a few hours.

Clean the kitchen this month and hang utensils in daily use near the range or sink, to save time and steps.

A leaky cork for a bottle may be made watertight by soaking a few minutes in salad oil.

Crooked brooms may be straightened by soaking them in hot water and drying them in the sun.

For a good mint sauce substitute, dissolve a dozen after-dinner mints in half a glass of water.

Place jars on a wet cloth when filling with jelly and they will not break.

WARMED-OVER BISCUITS

The best way to warm over biscuits and have them just as good as when fresh is to put them in a pan and set the pan in another pan containing water. Heat for a few minutes in a hot oven.

CUSTARD PIE

A cup of finely ground nuts sprinkled over the top of the custard pie makes a deliciously puzzling brown crust when baked.

VANILLA ICE CREAM

Vanilla ice cream topped with a caramel sauce and sprinkled with chopped English walnuts is always welcomed with pleasure for dessert.

PRETTY DESSERT

Candy pears, using a few old-fashioned cinnamon drops to color them, and serve either with mousse or with soft custard and whipped cream.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Walking a mile in the open air each day will add years to your life.

Blisters will not form if a few drops of camphor are added to the iodine before applying it to bruises.

Iodine can be removed from the skin by washing with alcohol.

Stains on the fingers caused by preparing vegtables can be removed by holding the hands in very strong tea for a few minutes. Then wash with soap and clear water. The stains will have disappeared.

In these days of water waves, marcels and "selling" of permanents it is less expensive if one's hair does not have to be washed each week. If you will wash your comb and brush more frequently you will find their cleanliness will carry away much of the dust and soil from your hair and cause it to be shampooed less frequently.

THE CARE OF SILVER.

The daily care of silver is much more important than the thorough cleaning which it receives at stated intervals. Table silver should be washed as soon as possible after it has been used.

Use hot water with a few drops of ammonia and melted soap to make a nice lather. Rub it with a piece of flannel, rinse in clear hot water and dry with a soft towel while the silver is still warm. This is an important point if good results are wanted, for if allowed to be wet it is difficult to remove the water marks. When dry give each article a good rub-up with a chamois leather and then put away neatly in a silver basket, drawer, etc.

TREAT CLOTHES OFTEN.

Clothes or household articles susceptible to moth infestation should be properly treated at least twice a year. The moth worm may live in the wool most of the year without being noticed and become active in its work of destruction even though shut up in a tight cedar chest or after superficial moth deterrents have failed to exert any influence. Modern housewives have learned that their wools are only safe when they have been sprayed with a material which makes wool unfit for the appetite of the moth worm.

PIE DOUGH.

Leftover pie dough may be wrapped in waxed paper and stored in the ice box for a week. It may then be rolled out and the flavor and texture will be as good when baked as if the dough had just been made.

VEGETABLES

To preserve the nutritive value in the modern kitchen and may be jotted down as a suggestion for a gift to the bride who seems to have received just about everything you wanted to give her.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Yokes are noted on both new coats and frocks.

Printed velvets are the newest thing in fabric for dress occasions.

New lightweight woolens are used for the street frock for wear without a coat on cool days.

For dressy coats smooth-faced woolens broadcloths, zibelines and broadtail cloth are smart.

Combinations of satin and velvet and plain and printed velvet are featured in new fall frocks.

New fall hats have broad brims at the side and hardly any in the back.

For daytime wear the coat with long revers and scarf collar continues to lead.

The raised waist line is apparent in almost all of the new models for fall.

Tiers which flare at the sides of the skirt conform to the new feminine silhouette.

Street shades are used for many new evening frocks, giving a wide variety of colors.

Drapery, linked with scarfs and bows, is an important feature of the new fall mode.

A charming medium-sized hat has a crown of black felt and three shades of pink in the brim.

Slenderizing modes for the matron show circular skirts, lengthwise panels, long set-in vests and surplice closings.

Scorning fur trim, a smart gray tweed long coat and circular skirt with self-finish, are topped by a smartly cut matching tweed hat.

A brand new vision of the cocktail coat, now so popular, comes in lame. It will be welcomed by women who desire a little warmth across their arms and shoulders.

A new combination of evening colors uses jade and jonquil, especially in soft velvets. A dinner gown of jonquil has jade touches and awrap of jade lined with jonquil.

THAT VELVET GOWN.

No wardrobe is complete this season without at least one velvet frock, and if there are several, so much the better. A very useful and attractive model for day-time wear is of navy blue velvet with small white polka-dots over the surface. The frock is simply made, with a small bow of the material at the neck and small silver buckle at the belt.

THE FROCK OF SEPIA.

Of course the velvet gown is about the most popular mode for afternoon wear, and when the dress is brown and trimmed about the neck with a bit of string colored lace, the effect is truly delightful.

AUTUMN FOOTWEAR.

In keeping with the pronounced vogue for brown, new shoes feature this color in all its different gradations of tone. Among the smartest shoes are models entirely of brown lizard or of lizard used in combination with other brown leathers.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

Use soapy water when making starch, it prevents the iron from sticking and gives the linens a fine gloss.

The French know how to launder washable gloves perfectly. Their secret lies in the fact that they use tepid soap suds for washing, tepid soap suds for rinsing and for the last tepid suds they rinse in, they add a tablespoon of glycerine.

Pongee silk looks beter if ironed without sprinkling.

Colored clothes should first be rinsed in warm water, then in cold.

Clothes wringer rolls will last much longer if loosened each time after using.

HOW TO REMOVE STAINS.

Milk stains contain protein and fat and should first be sponged or rinsed in cold or lukewarm water, then washed with hot water and soap. For the grease use gasoline or carbon tetrachloride. For unwashable fabrics sponge with great solvent and allow the stain to dry, then sponge carefully with water.

Stubborn milk stains will yield to a mixture of one part turpentine with two parts essence of lemon—rub gently with a soft cloth until stain disappears.

Watermelon and peach stains may be removed from table linen by applying pure glycerine and leaving this on for half an hour, then washing in clear water.

When you carry food to club and church affairs or anywhere, write your name on a piece of adhesive plaster and stick it on the bottom of the receptacle to obviate its loss, for the name will not wash off readily.

THE SOILED PANAMA

If the Panama hat is very soiled, after its summer wearing, it would be wise to clean it before putting it away. Use an ordinary spot remover to clean the hat. Then cover with Fuller's earth, wrap it in a towel and pack away. Next season you have only to brush off the powder and your hat will look like new.

WHITE SCUM ON BRICK WALL

The bureau of standards says that the efflorescence or white-looking scum on brickwork is probably composed of calcium sulphate, together with some calcium carbonate. The best known method of removing this scum is to wash it with a 10 per cent. (by volume) solution of muriatic acid, followed with a washing in warm water to remove the acid solution. This should be done on a warm, dry day, when the acid solution and wash water will evaporate rather than penetrate into the structure, and it will probably be necessary to repeat this procedure several times.—Washington Star.

SALT

Salt placed in cold water lowers the temperature, but salt added to hot water speeds up the boiling. The flavor of burnt milk may be improved by the addition of a pinch of salt.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Foreign women are smoking more and eating less candy, according to statistics compiled by confectionery trade journals.

Two women are to assist in revising police regulations, including even those under which the Scotland yard operates in London.

The butter and cheese eaten by King George and Queen Mary and their guests at Windsor, Eng., are made by two buxom dairy maids.

In China the social station and wealth of a woman may be discerned by the type of headdress she wears.

Mrs. Annie Clubb, near London, Eng., has been working as a blacksmith for the past 25 years.

FRESH FLOWERS

Roses, chysanthemums or practically any flowers can be kept fresh much longer if you clip off the ends of their stems under water. A couple of aspirin tablets added to the water preserves their freshness also.

RECIPES

Meat Patties: Free the remains of any cold meat from skin and gristle, mince it finely, moisten with a little white sauce, and season with salt, nutmeg and pepper. Mix mashed potatoes with yolk of egg and a little flour to form a stiff paste. Roll this out to a quarter of an inch thick, and cut pieces about four by two inches.

Put a spoon of meat upon each piece, sprinkle with minced parsley, fold over the piece till the edges overlap, press the ends firmly, brush over the tops of the rolls with beaten yolk of egg and crumbs, and bake in hot oven to a light brown. Arrange neatly on a platter, garnish with parsley or cress and serve.

Stuffed Potatoes-Pineapple: Scald one cup of milk in the top of a double boiler, with half a stalk of celery and a small slice of onion. Cool for 15 minutes, remove the celery and onion and add one tablespoon and a half each of butter and flour creamed together. Stir until the mixture thickens, cover and let cook for 10 minutes, stir in one cupful of finely diced boiled ham and let stand to become very hot. Hollow out some baked potatoes with fork, leaving a small quantity of potato in each shell. Break up the potato pulp left in the shell with a fork, add a small piece of butter and fill the cases with the creamed ham. Garnish with short strips of ham. Serve with dried pineapple. Dip the slices of pineapple in flour and fry to a golden brown in butter.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—As the democrats sit upon the ground and tell sad stories of the disaster of 1928 these post-election days, it seems logical to believe that the hand of political destiny is already pointing for them to their next national leader.

The showing of Franklin Roosevelt in what he described as his "elegant hoss-race" with Ottinger for the New York gubernatorial shoes to be vacated by Al Smith is a significant matter. It seemed almost the only positive comfort the embattled and embaffled democracy could find amid the ruins that marked for the party the wake of the Hoover cyclone. So far as the Bystander knows, every political commentator takes that view of the situation and has already picked Roosevelt, health permitting, as the next democratic presidential candidate.

Roosevelt Headed Upward

It was pointed out in this column at the time Roosevelt was drafted, apparently by personal action of Smith himself, for the New York governorship fight that events seemed shaping to push this democratic member of the Roosevelt clan to the front politically. With Smith proclaiming himself out of politics for keeps under his crushing defeat, and with Roosevelt victorious in a state which at the same time decisively denied its five times governor support for his presidential aspirations, the handwriting on the democratic wall is plain to see.

The Bystander recalls that Roosevelt told him at Houston, just after the Smith-Robinson ticket had been written under Roosevelt's guidance, that in his judgment the woman vote had the answer to the election outcome. It was clear that Roosevelt was none too confident then as to what that outcome would be.

In a number of years of rather close knowledge of his political activities and thought, the Bystander has never known him to be over-confident. He plays the game of politics for the sake of the game itself. His is the kind of enthusiasm for political battle that remains undimmed even in defeat. And that characteristic may be an important element of the political future.

Democracy's Prospects

A mere glance at the 1928 results, weighed down with Hoover majorities unprecedented in size, shows that business of running for president in 1932 against Hoover presumably unanimously acclaimed by his party for a second term will require political courage of a high order. No man who fights with victory as his sole objective could be blamed for refusing to take a chance. Unless the Bystander is utterly mistaken in his man, however, Frank Roosevelt would give little consideration to that in deciding his own course.

It also is to be recalled that the political pendulum has a way of swinging back in "off" years from the ponderous strokes of presidential elections. The bye elections of 1930 will afford a better chance to measure democratic possibilities for 1932 than the disastrous results of 1928. At that, there is some meagre comfort for the democrats in the fact that their senate and house casualties this time by no means meagre up to the proportions of their presidential defeat.

YOUR HEALTH

THE "MINOR" AILMENT AS A PRECURSOR OF SERIOUS DISEASE

By Mark L. Emerson, M. D. Oakland, California

Pernicious anaemia or any other kind of chronic anaemia seldom happens suddenly. It is generally secondary to some other trouble in the body.

Recovery from what was recently considered a fatal disease upon application of the recent interesting discovery that pernicious anaemia would respond promptly to the feeding of adequate quarters of raw and cooked liver was demonstrated in a patient who was an invalid for a number of years, and finally became so weak and anaemic that he was bedridden. Physical and X-ray examination demonstrated two important findings: One, an old healed ulcer of the intestines, which was probably the first cause; second, the presence of pernicious anaemia, a disease that until recently was considered fatal.

When the patient came into the hospital, the color of his blood registered 24, when he left one month later it was 62. He gained 25 pounds in the course of a few months. He is now up and working daily in his garden.

The lesson to be learned in this case was the long period of neglect of the first disease that the patient had, the intestinal ulcer. No X-ray had even been taken and for years the patient had never consulted a competent physician.

Whenever the vitality is lowered by one disease or ailment, it makes it so much easier for some other trouble to follow, and it may be safe in this case to state that if the patient had not had the first disease, he would not have had the second so serious and heretofore fatal disease.

Nature tries to get rid of all diseases in the human body, many of which, however, are still incurable and some of which take a long time to cure. From some diseases we recover once, but not always the second time; it remains more or less of a fight all the way through life. There are several hundred different kinds of ailments a person can have, any one of which may lead to one of the so-called serious of fatal diseases. Keep clear of major troubles by watching the minor ailments and do it now.

Chronic changes are the most difficult to relieve. It is very seldom that the result is as spectacular as we sometimes obtain in pernicious anaemia.

When in doubt consult your family doctor, don't wait until your case is so bad that everybody knows you are sick.

CHILD TRAINING

ONE MOTHER'S PLAN

Helen Gregg Green

"Good afternoon, Jimmy. How are you?" said Mrs. Deselm smiling at my neighbor's small son as he hurried into the room, just home from school.

Jimmy stood silent, fidgeting.

"Jim," the mother coaxed, "speak to Mrs. Deselm. And take off your hat!"

The child grabbed for his hat and gulped "Hello!"

The mother gave an embarrassed little giggle, while Jimmy hurried from the room, his face scarlet.

"Oh, dear," the mother sighed impatiently, "his manners are atrocious. I don't know what to do with him!"

As Mrs. Deselm and I walked toward home, she said: "Harking back to Jimmy's manners, it isn't his fault that he is self-conscious and at a loss what to do and say. I know the type of mother Bettina is. She waits until the guests arrive and then whispers, 'Remember, Jimmy, your best manners tonight!' Well, of course, there is nothing to remember, for she probably doesn't mention manners any other time. Besides, there shouldn't be any best manners for special times. There should always be good manners for all times."

"My dear, you have four such charming, always-at-ease children!" I exclaimed. "Their manners are delightful."

"Well, you see, Daddy and I seldom mention manners. We try our best to be courteous and polite at all times, believing children learn more from example than by so much 'telling.' Our boys and girls know we expect considerate and courteous treatment from them toward us, our friends, and well—just everybody," Mrs. Deselm answered quietly.

"Yes, but they have so much poise in a crowd, among strangers," I added.

"Yes, they do," the mother agreed. "I've made it a point to have them come into the room, for a few minutes, and speak to my guests, every time I entertain. And when they make mistakes, as poor Jimmy did today, I never laugh at them. That would make them self-conscious and unwilling to 'try again.'

"My third son has had more difficulty than the other children, because he is naturally diffident and rather awkward. I remarked to the others quite casually one day that he needed encouragement, and from that time on, as I have taught them to be tactful, sometimes one and sometimes another has given him a word of praise on the quiet, with regard to the performance of some courtesy which was known to be hard for him. I think it is always done with sincerity. He never seems to feel it to be patronage, and so it really helps him."

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

THANKSGIVING FESTIVALS IN POLAND

WARSAW, (AP)—Poland has its own form of Thanksgiving ceremony. It is celebrated after the gathering of the harvest, when farm laborers come to the houses of the landowners to rejoice together over the gifts of the soil.

This ceremony dates from the pagan days when families gathered in forests after the harvest to express gratitude to gods. With the introduction of Christianity, the celebration was changed into a holiday on the farm.

Although war and rapid modernization of farm life have banished a number of old-fashioned customs and traditions, the dozynki, or thanksgiving ceremony, has survived and still is observed throughout the country.

The dozynki is supposed to be a surprise for the landowners. The peasants, however, very diplomatically inquire of the servants whether the masters will be at home the first Saturday afternoon after the harvest—that being the customary day for the festival. The servants repeat to the masters what they have heard, with the result that a big meal is prepared for the prospective guests.

In the meantime peasant girls make a huge wreath from all kinds of crops, decorated with flowers and fruit, sometimes surmounted by a honey cake, to symbolize the bounty of the fields, gardens, orchards and bees. A procession of peasants forms and, led by a girl carrying the wreath crown-like over her head, approaches a landowner's house, singing along the way. In most districts the song begins, "We bring the crops into the house." In some districts water is poured over the girl with the wreath, a custom dating from the time when the 'god of rain" was worshipped.

When the landowners, their families and guests—there are always guests on Polish estates during the summer—hear the traditional dozynki song they gather on the porch or terrace to meet the procession.

The wreath is delivered to the landowner and singing continues. Songs prepared for the occasion contain special couplets for every member of the household and sometimes are witty verses about the neighbors or politics.

After the singing the landowners invite everybody to a table in the garden, where cold meats, cakes, fruit and vodka are served. Then the orchestra which accompanied the singers plays and dancing of the polkas, valses, mazourkas and obereks begins, to continue until the next morning.

Stories That Recall Others

Reason Enough

The primary grade was having a lesson about regularity in eating. An eager lad took the floor and said:

"Children must not eat between meals because their eyes are bigger than their stomachs."

At Sunday School

The five-year-old son had just returned from the ever eventful first Sunday school class and was being questioned as to what he had learned during the course of the session.

His mother asked: "What did the teacher say to you this morning, Charles?"

The youngster pondered a moment before answering. Then he looked up finally and said: "The teacher said to keep still."

Conn. Mother is Proud, Now

Don't allow your child to remain weakened or run-down for any length of time. In that condition, children are so easily attacked by the millions of tiny germs that are seething and swarming around us. And it's so easy to get the bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, cross, fretful, puny, underweight ones back into condition, with a hearty appetite, rosy cheeks and abundant energy by using a purely vegetable product which physicians have endorsed for over 50 years.

Children love the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup and it acts almost like magic to regulate their little bowels and stomachs. It gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do and you don't have to keep dosing your child. Four million bottles used a year and the enthusiastic words of mothers everywhere prove it gives satisfaction.

Another Connecticut mother, Mrs Wm. H. Sneyd, 61 Buckingham St., Hartford, says: "My little daughter, Marjorie, suffered from constipation until she got very weak, run-down and underweight. I gave her California Fig Syrup and in just a little while she was eating heartily and gaining weight. Soon she was her bright, normal self again."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name to avoid substitutes.

FINE FOR DISPENSER OF GASOLINE AND LIQUOR

James Jones, custodian of a gasoline station on North Main street, was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail for 10 days on a charge of violating the liquor law, when his case came up in the city court Saturday morning. He was one of nearly a dozen arrested about a week ago on liquor charges. City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy asked for the maximum penalty, $200 and costs and 30 days in jail, stating that the accused was distributing a bad combination, gasoline and liquor, at his gasoline station. However Jones' previous good record saved him from a 30-day sentence, the court making the jail sentence 10 days.

Arthur Disco, a taxi driver, was discharged. He was presented on a charge of violation of the liquor law, in making a sale. It was brought out in court that Disco merely drove a passenger, who happened to be a state police officer, to a place where liquor was being sold, as the passenger asked him to get him some liquor. The state police officer gave Disco money to buy the liquor. He bought the liquor and turned it over to the state police officer, realizing no profit for himself in the transaction. He was found not guilty of the charge against him.

FIVE RAIDS YIELD BOOZE— $2,000 WORTH IN ONE PLACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—The police conducted another series of liquor raids Saturday afternoon when five arrests were made. At each home or place of business visited liquor was found. At one place, the residence of Nostralia (Shorty) Facchini, 87 Willetts avenue, liquor and alcohol of the estimated value of $2,000 was seized. All of the arrested booze sellers were held in bail of $1,000 for presentation in the police court Monday. Those arrested were Sava Skreigan, proprietor of a restaurant, 138 North Bank street; Mrs. Olga Boski, corner of North Bank and John streets; Josephine Collino Battalia, 14 Shaw street; Nicholas Palladino, 12 Home street and Facchini. At the latter's home the following liquors were found: 41 gallons of alcohol; five cases of Golden Wedding whiskey, 24 pints each case; seven packages of Barcadi rum, six quarts to a case; 16 pints of William Penn Rye whiskey; 37 quarts of King George whiskey, this being in a sack that had never been opened; four pints of Old Smuggler; one pint Black Rod Scotch and one-half gallon jug of wine that tested 10 per cent. Facchine has served two terms in jail, being the first and only violator of the liquor law to receive a sentence of a year. He was sentenced in the superior court on a charge of transportation, when he was arrested while driving a truck of liquor on Bank street extension.

AUTO DRIVER ESCAPES AFTER CRASHING TWO OTHER MACHINES

After colliding with a machine on Franklin square, an automobile registration number N-3943, sideswiped and upset another machine on Washington street near the city line late Sunday night. The offending machine is registered in the name of Dewey H Woodworth of No. 1 Vergason avenue, and the state and local police are looking for him on two charges, reckless driving and evading responsibility.

The machine registered in Woodworth's name, according to the registration number secured by the police, ran into a machine on Franklin square driven by Elias Rutchik of No. 57 Mechanic street. Both machines were locked together and had to be pulled apart. It is understood that Mr. Rutchik told the driver of the other machine to pull into the curb so that they could reach an agreement. When he looked for the other driver, he had driven away.

Shortly afterwards Joseph T. Beausoliel of this city notified the police that his machine had been sideswiped and upset near the city line on Washington street. He gave the same registration number N-3943. The driver of the machine disappeared without stopping. A warrant for the arrest of Woodworth was drawn by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy shortly after the second crash and at a late hour Sunday night the state and local police were on the wtch for Woodworth. Mr. Beausoliel's machine was damaged to the extent of about $250. Mr. Beausoliel said he was driving toward the city and that the other driver was headed towards Norwich Town and that he was driving well to the left hand side of the road.

GAVE STEREOPTICON VIEWS SHOWING BAPTIST WORK

Stereopticon views illustrating the gospel at work throughout America were shown at the evening worship Sunday at 7.30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church. The scenes depicted the work being done by the Baptist church among the Negroes, Indians and foreigners in this country and as they were thrown upon the screen were explained by the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt. The views included pictures of outstanding persons in the Baptist world such as Lloyd George of Great Britain, Roger Williams, founder of Providence and father of the Baptist church of America, Charles E. Hughes, a prominent Baptist layman, and well known Baptist Negroes. There were views of the oldest Baptist church in America, the Baptist church in Mexico City, the Chinese and Japanese Baptist churches in Seattle, Wash., and of a Mexican school. Group pictures of Italians, Russians and Slovaks of Baptist faith were also shown, as well as a number of seminaries and a map showing the territory covered by the Northern and Southern conventions. A final picture was of the members of the Men's class in front of the Central Baptist church The machine was operated by Carl W. Brown.

OBITUARY

Benjamin P. Dolbeare

Word was received here Sunday of the death, on Saturday, of Benjamin P. Dolbeare at Denver, Colorado, where he had lived for a number of years. He was a former resident of this city and is survived by his sister, Miss Mary A. Dolbeare.

Joseph M. Johnson

Joseph M. Johnson, 73, who spent his early life in Norwich died in Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1st. The burial was in Aurora, Ill., Oct. 4th. He was formerly connected with the Wade Leitz Grameter stores in that city. At the time of his death he was a member of Aurora chapter, No. 22, Knights Templar.

Funeral services were held in Healy chapel, with Rev. E. T. Smith officiating and in charge of the Masonic order. Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife, formerly Hilda Lundgren and one sister, Mrs. Agnes Blackburn of Norwich.

August C. Nadolny

Following a long period of ill health, August C. Nadolny, long a resident of this city, died Saturday evening at his home, No. 111 North street. Mr. Nadolny had been ailing for about three years. He was born in Germany, March 29, 1860, the son of the late Godfrey and Henrietta Schroeder Nadolny. He came to this country in 1880 and in this city was married. Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Nadolny had made their home in Norwich. Mr. Nadolny for years was employed at the plant of the United States Finishing company.

Surviving are his wife, one son, Arthur Nadolny, and a daughter, Mrs. Harry Fogg of Norwich. There are also other relatives.

John Gregson

Following a lingering illness, the useful life of John Gregson came to a peaceful end Sunday evening at the home of his son, Richard P. Gregson, 130 Washington street.

Born in Cranston, R. I., Nov. 7, 1864, the son of Richard Gregson and Mary Davenport, Mr. Gregson came to Norwich in 1879 with his brother Squire Gregson, both entering into the laundry business as partners under the firm name of the Norwich Steam Laundry. This partnership continued until 1920, when, with his two sons, Richard P. and J. Raymond Gregson, he entered into the present business of dyeing and cleaning. In April of this year, owing to declining health, Mr. Gregson retired from active business life, and his youngest son, Donald, then became the third member of the firm.

Mr. Gregson attended the Episcopal church, was a man of sterling qualities, and lived for those who came near and dear to him. Surviving, besides his wife, are one daughter, Mrs. Lucy Gregson Kendrick of Milton, Mass.; three sons, Richard P. of Norwich, J. Raymond of Montville, Donald F. of Norwich; one grandson, Donald F. Gregson, Jr., and one brother, Squire Gregson of Norwich.

Mrs. Michael McDermott

The life of Bridget McNerney, wife of the late Michael McDermott, came to a peaceful close Saturday afternoon at 3:40 o'clock at her home, No. 244 Summit street. She was born in County Longford, Ireland, a daughter of Hugh and Bridget Conlon McNerney, and came to this country about 60 years ago. Practically all of her life was spent in Jewett City. The McNedneys were one of the early Irish families to settle in that place. In 1893 she was married to Michael McDermott in Jewett City by Rev. Fr. Mullen. Her husband died six months ago. Mrs. McDermott is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry Montie, Jr., of Norwich, a sister, Mrs. Margaret Wakefield of Jewett City, and three nephews, Francis Riordan of Providence, Lee Doten of Westfield, Mass., and Earl Doten of Portland, Me.

Theft From Automobile

Lawrence Casavant of No. 23 Hill street, Jewett City, reported to the police Sunday night, that a blanket and eight new wrenches were stolen from his machine while it was parked on Cliff street, in front of the Salvation Army building. An arrest is expected shortly as the police are working on clues.

Entertained for Plymouth Guest

Mrs. James C. Stanley entertained at bridge Saturday evening at her home on Broad street, the prize award going to Miss Hedwidge Sampson of Plymouth, who was her week end guest. A handkerchief shower for Miss Ann Marsan of Taftville, who is to be married today (Monday), was a feature of the evening. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

MEDAL FOR HEROISM TO COAST GUARD MEMBER

As a reward for his heroic action in saving the life of five-year-old John Crosthwaite of South Ferry, R. I., on June 1, last, Motor Machinist's Mate Thomas J. Wenis of the coast guard patrol boat CG-288, operating from the state pier, New London, has been presented with a silver life saving medal of honor by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman.

Accompanying the medal was a letter of commendation in which Mr Lowman said in part:

"It affords the department great pleasure to have this opportunity of commending the service rendered by you on the occasion mentioned."

The rescue was effected about 6.30 o'clock in the evening. The patrol boat was tied up at a wharf at South Ferry when the boy in playing around the wharf fell through a large hole. Several civilians stood by without offering to go to the aid of the youngster but Wenis, although 40 feet away, did not hesitate a minute and dove into the water fully clothed.

Making his way around the piles of the wharf he reached the lad just as he was going under for the second time. Gripping him firmly so as to keep his head out of the water he swam to the outside edge of the wharf where shipmates assisted him in getting the boy up on the wharf. First aid was rendered and the boy was taken to his home. The boy suffered no ill effects from his immersion.

MADE FAST TOLL LINE CONNECTION TO CALIFORNIA

Seven minutes from Norwich to Los Angeles! At 9.40 o'clock Saturday night a Norwich man put in a telephone call to the California city from his home. Exactly seven minutes later he was connected with his party in Los Angeles, over an extremely clear line. Considering the fact that the call had to be routed from the local office, to New York city, then to Chicago, from there to Denver, to San Francisco and from that exchange to the Los Angeles exchange this is regarded as a remarkable demonstration of the speed with which the call was handled. The local man took occasion to compliment the American T. & T. Co., and the local operator on the splendid service given him in putting through the coast to coast call.

WEDDINGS

Cremin-Cooley

Miss Caroline E. Cooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooley, 529 E. 150th street, New York city, was married there last week to Daniel A. Cremin, of New York. The wedding was held at the North New York Congregational church, 143d street and Willis avenue. Rev. William H. Kephardt, pastor, officiated.

The bride was attended by Mrs. John J. Compton, matron of honor. John J. Compton was the best man.

The bride was a former resident of Canterbury and Plainfield, this state, attending the school at Canterbury Green until she was about 16, and was a member of the Congregational church in Plainfield.

Monroe-Barstow

At Sterling, Nov. 9, Miss Rose Ione Barstow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barstow of Plainfield, became the bride of Fred B. Monroe, son of Mrs. Sarah and the late William Monroe of Oneco. Rev. Ernest C. Drake, pastor of the United Protestant church officiated. Miss Doris Generous of Plainfield was bridesmaid and the best man was Richard Sherman of Oneco. The bride wore a brown chiffon dress with hat of velvet to match and carried an arm bouquet of rosebuds. The bridesmaid was dressed in cream chiffon and carried chrysanthemums. After a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe will live in Oneco at the home of the groom's mother.

Miss Barstow was a graduate of Plainfield High school, class of 1926. Later she was a student nurse at the state hospital for a year, but was obliged to resign on account of poor health. Mr. Monroe was a student at the state trade school and is now in the employ of R. B. Marriot at his quarry in Oneco.

Allen-Matthews

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, in his study at the Central Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., united in marriage Raymond Fraser Allen of Ledyard and Miss Gertrude May Matthews, of Trading Cove, Montville. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Zuccardy of Hamilton avenue. The bride wore a dress of green cloth and a tan coat and hat.

Mr. Allen is the son of Mrs. Mary Fraser and the late Warren L. Allen. His bride has made her home for several years with Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan, below Trading Cove. She was a member of the class of 1927 at Norwich Free Academy. Following a short trip they will reside on the Allen farm in Ledyard.

PAYS FINE ON CHARGE OF EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

At the Saturday morning session of the police court, Earl Vera, 24, of Bridgeport entered a plea of guilty to a charge of evading responsibility. He was fined $50 and costs and $25 of the fine was remitted.

He was summoned to appear in court by the state police as it was learned that he was the driver of a machine which ran onto the lawn at the premises of Matthew M Brown of No. 33 Sunnyside avenue August 25th, cutting up the lawn and damaging a flight of stairs. Vera came here that day to act as best man at a wedding. He claimed that he did not realize his machine had caused the damage.

Girls' Workers Council

As the churches of Norwich are giving their time to the three-day entertainment of the state Sunday school convention, the Norwich Council of Girls' Workers will omit their regular meeting this (Monday evening

CHARGED WITH DRIVING WHILE UNDER INFLUENCE

About 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Alexander Douglas, 44, of New London, was arrested at Franklin square by Officer John Donovan, on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. It is said that the machine being driven by Douglas barely missed striking a group of people before it crashed into the automobile of George Gianacopoulos, parked by the curb in Rose place.

Don't Be Fooled! Constipation Is Hard to Detect

Regular Elimination Alone Is Not Enough

Forty or more different ailments, many dangerous and some serious enough to cause permanent ill health, may be brought on by chronic constipation.

You may suffer from constipation for years and not find it out until serious trouble has developed. Even if your bowel actions are regular, they may be entirely insufficient.

If your eyes have a yellow tinge, or your tongue is coated, if you have a nasty taste in your mouth, or if you suffer from liver trouble, biliousness, indigestion or sick-headache you'd better do something about it.

Start right in with Beecham's laxative Pills. Entirely vegetable, harmless, not habit-forming, pleasant to take. They correct these conditions, simply, effectively, and with no unpleasant after-effects. Be on the safe side and ask for Beecham's laxative Pills. 60c at all druggists. Trial size 25c.

Pimples

Pimples vanish like magic with the new remedy called Kitagran—a pleasant, harmless tablet easy to take. It clears up the impurities in the blood so quickly that pimples often disappear within 24 hours. Kitagran can be obtained at Lee & Osgood Co., who will return purchase price if you are not thoroughly satisfied

RELIEF CORPS SUPPER AND SALE SUCCESSFUL

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No 16, conducted one of its most successful sales and suppers Saturday afternoon and evening at the Buckingham Memorial, having a generous patronage which will result in satisfactory financial returns.

At the sale the candy table was in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Murray and Mrs. Abbie Olson, the food table in charge of Mrs. Gertrude Tootill, flowers and fancy work in charge of Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, mystery table in charge of Miss Lola Belle Roath, and apron table in charge of Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury and Mrs. Annie Turner.

The supper was served under the direction of Mrs. M. Florence Dean, chairman, with Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom cashier and the following assisting: Mrs. Clara Burke, Mrs Althea Brown, Mrs. Inez Hill, Mrs. Harry Prentice, Mrs. Elizabeth Mackey, Mrs. Louis Nelson, Mrs. Vinnie Wilson, Mrs. Mary Austin, Mrs. Alida Boyens, Mrs. Lena Christman, Mrs. Hattie Woodmansee, and Mrs Grace Manning. A baked bean and salad supper was served in the excellent form characteristic of Sedgwick corps.

The Soldier's Uniform

The writers of American school histories have frequently taken occasion to remark scornfully upon the scarlet uniform worn by the British regulars in the campaigns against the Indians during colonial days, but, as a matter of fact, the scarlet coat of the Briton was a less conspicuous uniform than the blue subsequently adopted for the Army of the United States.

Careful experiments have brought out the fact that light gray, such as that worn by the West Point cadets, is the color first lost to sight in the field. Scarlet comes next, with dark gray, blue and green in the order named. In target practice it has been found that of all colors scarlet is most difficult to hit. Light green is almost invisible under the violet tinge of electric lights, and would, therefore, be an excelelnt color for the uniforms of naval scouts, who would be exposed to the rays of an enemy's searchlights.

ACADEMY PILES UP BIG SCORE AGAINST WEAK STONINGTON TEAM

A smashing attack that bent the Stonington line badly with every surge and bits of fine aerial play gave the Academy a decisive victory over Stonington Saturday afternoon at the campus in the annual game. The score was 24 to 0. Led by the capable Jack Marks, fullback, the Wildcats sallied into the visitors right from the opening gong and thereafter kept them moving backwards for most of the distance. This was Stonington's first defeat and was quite a surprise.

The Academy's four touchdowns were all the result of long marches down the field. With Marks tearing the Stonington line to shreds and Capt. LaCroix tossing short but effective passes over the line, the Red and White bore on to its most decisive victory over Stonington in many years. Coming as it did after disastrous defeats in football, basketball and baseball of the last campaigns by Stonington this victory was doubly welcome.

Academy in Fine Fettle

The Academy easily played its best football of the year Saturday. It was a determined bunch that flew at the unbeaten visitors at the opening whistle and that had a touchdown before the game was five minutes old, then added another late in the second quarter after losing one just prior to this by a 15-yard penalty after Marks had gone over the line. Continuing in the third quarter, the Academy received the kickoff and in about two minutes had it over the line again, finally concluding about mid-way in the final period.

All of the scores were made by Marks and there were few who would doubt that he deserved the honor for the local lad was by far the outstanding performer on the field. Marks was good for at least five yards on every try and on the five times he crossed the line he did it almost standing up. Capt. Buck LaCroix, at halfback, was another who played great football for the Wildcats, smearing play right and left before urging his team on to greater efforts whenever any slight let-down was noted. Archie Brock ran the team in faultless style besides handling punts in fine fashion. On the line Hertz was the outstanding performer although Chet Berghinzo again put up a great game. Chet is getting to be real steady on passes now and it may be that next Saturday Bulkeley will find him a hard man to cover.

For Stonington Stefanski at end, and Bryer at center were the only bright lights in an otherwise dismal afternoon.

Wildcats Score Early

The Academy kicked off to open the game and Stonington, after two unsuccessful tries at the line kick. The Academy kicked on fourth down and Stonington then proceeded to make way for their own undoing by fumbling and then right after letting Berghinzo get away with a 20 yard pass On both of these plays there was Stonington offside and, hearing the lineman's horn, Stonington proceeded to forget the game, thinking the ball dead. Whether they did not know this phase of the game or whatever was the trouble, they were put into a hole.

The Academy, however, lost the ball on downs on Stonington's 19 yard line Stonington kicked out to Brock at the 34 yard line. LaCroix made 13 to the 25-yard stripe and on three plays Marks had it on the 12 yard mark LaCroix went around end for seven and Marks the remaining distance for the score. For the extra point, LaCroix first tried to pass and then attempted to run but was smeared.

Another Touchdown

The second quarter brought score No. 2. Stonington received the kickoff at the Academy 28 yard line. The Wildcats started a long march that finally got the ball over the goal. Marks going over from three yards out but the ball was brought back and a 15 yard penalty meted out to the Academy The locals then lost the ball on downs, two passes grounding. However, Stonington could do nothing and kicked to the Academy at the 40 yard line, from whence the Red and White started another spree, again featured by Marks that meant the score. Again the try was unsuccessful, this time by passing.

Marks made a pretty 30 yard runback of the kickoff to open the third quarter and Buck LaCroix followed immediately with a 15 yard scamper First downs came easy then and again Marks, this time by a 12 yard dash around left end, scored. Again no extra-point was scored.

The last touchdown was a repetition of the line-smashing proclivities of the Academy and Marks went over from one yard. Once more the point was not made. Summary:

Touchdowns, Marks, 4. Referee, Nixon; umpire, Keefe, linesman, Mahoney. Time, 12-minute quarters.

Substitutions: N. F. A.—Brewer for Brock, Mullen for Berghinzo, Hayden for Kahn, Abugle for Cruickshank, Fagan for Sherry, Jennes for Hertz, Wojtasiak for Mish, Armstrong for Fox, Taylor for Tombari, Tembari for Taylor, Brock for Brewer, Taylor for Tombari. Stonington — Gavett for Goyette, Gumes for Stefanski, Bolgal for Chevalier, Hanley for Parker, Gordon for Dimmock.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

When Brewer took Brock's place late in the second quarter, it was the first substitution the Academy had made in three games. Incidentality, Brock was rendered hors de combat for a session by a hard tackle at this juncture.

Although the day was warm, it did not appear to hamper the teams as much as would be thought.

That the Academy should beat Bulkeley is the general opinion but we'll have to wait and see about that.

Meanwhile, it must be understood that a team with a player like Jack Marks will be hard to stop next Saturday. Marks is a great player.

CARNEGIE AND BOSTON COLLEGE LEAD EASTERN COLLEGES

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—Carnegie Tech and Boston college, alone of the more than 100 eastern college football elevens, still can boast of perfect records. Each has won seven games in as many starts, Carnegie's seventh victim was none other than Notre Dame while Boston college bowled over Canisius, previously unbeaten. Lowell Textile, Villanova, Princeton and the Connecticut Aggies also have yet to be defeated but all have been tied at least once.

Georgetown's easy victory over Missouri enabled the Violet to maintain its lead in team scoring with 276 points. Georgetown scored two touchdowns against West Virginia to bring its total to 259 for second place. Pennsylvania is third with 222; Carnegie fourth with 207, Schuylkill fifth with 205 and Army sixth with 202. The Connecticut Aggies are the only warriors with an uncrossed goal line.

O'Kelly to Box Gagnon

BOSTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, who made his debut in this country two weeks ago, will meet Jack Gagnon of New Bedford, in a ten round boxing match here next Friday, the Sharkey A. A. announced today. Laddie Lee, Worcester middleweight, will meet Johnny Curcio, of Providence in another ten rounder.

Battery E Wins

In the first basketball game of the season in the state armory on Dixon street, Westerly, on Saturday night, Battery E of Westerly defeated Battery A of Fall River, Mass., by the score of 40 to 25.

MOORE WINS NATIONAL CROSS-COUNTRY RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—Gue Moore, youthful Negro star running under the colors of the Brooklyn Harriers, today captured the national senior A. A. U. cross-country championship race at Van Cortlandt park from a field composed chiefly of metropolitan runners. Moore succeeded as titleholder the veteran Willie Ritola who did not defend the championship. Ished 200 yards ahead of his nearest Moore led most of the way and finrival, Verne Booth of the Millrose, A. A., former Johns Hopkins and intercollegiate champion.

The winner's time of 31 minutes, 20 1-5 seconds was well behind the record for the approximate six-mile course, set at 29:27 in 1925 by Ritola, who had won the race in five of the past six years.

Booth's time was 31 minutes, 51 1-5 seconds. Following in order were Franklin T. Osgood, New York A. C., Russell Payne of the Millrose A. A., James Zinck of the Dorchester (Mass.) club and Jimmy Henigan, also of the Dorchester club.

AGGIE HARRIERS WIN EASILY OVER DUWELL A. A.

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 18—In a field of 17 entries, the Connecticut Aggie cross-country harriers easily defeated the Duwell A. A. of Norwich over the four-mile course here yesterday. The Nutmeggers had very little opposition and consequently took all first five places. James Bottomley finished first and was closely followed by Charles Dittrich, who has been the mainstay on the Nutmeg squad in all their races this year. James Gwin, Charles White and Herbert Barnes, all of Connecticut, finished in the next three places respectively.

Kerr of Norwich was the first man to place for the visitors but he was pressed closely by Edwin Monstream of Connecticut and Henry Kirkpatrick, also of Storrs, who took the next two places.

The final score of the meet was 22-37 and the course was covered in the good time of 22:37.

COMPSTON SAYS PROHIBITION IS HELP TO U. S. GOLFERS

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP)—Arnnie Compston, British golfer, in an article in the Sunday Chronicle, expressed the belief that prohibition and their natural zest have helped make Americans leaders in sports and that it will take Britons years of hard work and self-denial to get even with them.

In the article Compston declared prohibition had helped Americans enormously in their efforts for physical fitness. Compston though amazing the number of non-drinkers and non-smokers he found among golfers in the United States.

"A British professional doesn't smoke or drink to excess," said the British golf star, "but you have to remember that Americans won our championship by only one stroke for several years—apart from Bobby Jones at St. Andrews—and perhaps that's just the difference.

"American youth seems more thorough, keener, than ours. If our young fellows hope to beat Americans they will have to show a little more thrust and enterprise."

STERNAMAN'S RUNS GIVE BEARS WIN OVER MINERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 18— (AP) —Long dashes by Joe Sternaman and a brilliant passing attack give the Chicago Bears a 19 to 6 triumph over the Pottsville Miners in a National professional football game at Wrigley field today.

The first Bear score came in the second period when Sternaman carried the ball over on two successive dashes around right end from Pottsville's 24-yard line. The Miners came back to tie the score in the same period when Blood smashed off tackle for 15 yards.

In the third period the Bears opened up with an irresistible passing attack, which culminated when Addy Driscoll heaved one 15 yards to Senn, who carried the oval over. Driscoll dropkicked for the extra point.

STRONG INCREASES HIS HIGH POINT SCORING

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—It was a busy week end for eastern college football point makers. The boys who have been doing most of the scoring all year were at it again Saturday but none quite so vehemently as Ken Strong, of New York university. Strong scored 21 points against Missouri and ran his total for the season to 139.

Gulick, of Hobart, tallied 14 points to hold second place with 92. Langmaid of Williams, accounted for 16 of his team's points against Amherst and now has 86 for third place. Al Masters, back in form again after being handicapped by injuries for weeks, scored three touchdowns for Dartmouth against Cornell and jumped from eighth place in the list to fourth.

TROUT TO MANAGE NEW ALLENTOWN TEAM

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 18—(AP)—Irvin Trout, catcher last season for the Binghamton club of the New York-Pennsylvania league and formerly with the Toronto team of the International league as well as the St. Louis Cardinals, tonight signed a contract to be player-manager of the Allentown team in the Eastern league for the 1929 season.

Ernest C. Landgraf of this city recently took over the Waterbury, Conn., franchise in the Eastern league for next season and Trout was the first man signed by him.

PACKERS NOSE OUT GIANTS IN STUBBORN GAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers beat the New York Giants in a close, hard-fought National Professional Football league game today, 7 to 0.

Duwells and Internationals Tie

The Greeneville Tigers, Laurel Hill Bulldogs, East Great Plains Trojans and the Duwells, under the latter's name, were held to a scoreless tie Sunday, by the Internationals. By virtue of this tie, the Internationals claim the city championship, having beaten the latter three teams.

While there was no individual star of the game, Frank Barber of the Internationals helped his team by his brilliant tackles and end runs. Playing against a line that outweighed them by 30 pounds to a man, the Internationals' line deserves a lot of credit, while the backfield proved a strong secondary defense. The Duwells, with a heavier team, but with no teamwork, were unable to make any headway.

Lake St. Tigers Defeat Lions

The Lake Street Tigers defeated the Lions by the score of 36 to 6. The Tigers with their all-star backfield, ran right through the Lions. Mazzerelli starred for the Tigers by brilliant end runs, making three touchdowns. They challenge any team for a game.

Denver After Big Meet

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic union tonight recommended that the 1929 national senior and junior outdoor championships be held at Denver. This meet is held annually on or around July 4.

AGGIES KEEP GOAL LINE CLEAN BY SMOTHERING RHODE ISLAND 24 TO 0

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 18—After struggling through the first half without a score the Connecticut Aggies opened up an aerial and running attack that netted four touchdowns against Rhode Island State here Saturday afternoon in the second frame and kept their slate clean by a final score of 24-0. The Nutmeggers lacked the necessary punch to score in the first two quarters although they had the ball for the most of the time in Rhode Island territory.

Coach Dole's undefeated and unscored upon warriors made eight first downs in the first half, to two by Rhode Island, and at one time had the ball on the visitors' three-yard line, only to drop it after trying a pass that was incomplete over the end zone. On the next play, Rhody had the pigskin on the 20-yard line only to lose it on a fumble. The Nutmeggers tried once more to push the ball across but with the ball on the Engineer ten-yard line, they lost it on downs.

Immediately following the kick-off in the second half, Leo Fisher, sophomore backfield flash, raced 40 yards for the first score of the game after breaking away from the Rhode Island defensive. He eluded several would-be tacklers as he pivoted and shifted his field for the distance. Flydal missed the extra point try. The Nutmeggers threatened again and later in the period with the ball on Rhody's 16-yard stripe, Ryan tossed a perfectly timed pass to Tombari, who caught it on the three-yard line and, after eluding Trumbull, fell across the goal line for the second score. Tombari juggled the ball in his hands before he made the score secure. The try was missed again and the score stood 12-0 as the third quarter ended. The opening of the last frame found the Blue and White on Rhode Island's one-yard line, only to give the ball to the visitors on downs. Rhode Island kicked out of danger but Ryan took the ball in midfield and raced ten yards before he was tackled. A short flat pass, Ryan to Lamoureux, netted more yardage and placed the ball on the six-yard line. An end run by Fisher was thrown for a loss but on the next play, Ryan hurled a pass to Lamoureux over the end line. The ball bounded out of his hands as he was surrounded by Rhode Island men but was caught by Hawkins. The referee ruled the pass complete because of interference and the score now stood 18-0. Very shortly afterwards, Harger, who was subbing for Flydal, plunged over the line for the fourth and last score after the Nutmeggers had completed a steady march down the field on end running by Ryan. Again the try was missed.

Head Coach Dole dotted the field with substitutes as he sent in a completely new team. With but a few minutes left to play, the reserves carried on in as spectacular a fashion as the varsity. Haversat, sent in for Fisher, intercepted a Rhody pass on his 15-yard line and raced to the four-yard marker before he was brought to earth. He was tackled several times but failed to stay down, each time rising and continuing the long run. The long run by Haversat brought the annual traditional conflict to an auspicious finish.

RAY BEATS EL OUAFI IN 16-MILE MARATHON

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—(AP)—Joie Ray, American marathon champion, defeated El Ouafi of Miskra, Algeria, Olympic games marathon champion, in a 16-mile indoor marathon race here tonight. Ray's time was one hour, 21 minutes and 50 seconds. He finished about one-third mile ahead of El Ouafi.

RUMOR THAT M'KECHNIE WILL BE DROPPED BY CARDS

PITTSBURGH Nov. 18.—(AP)—Reports here that Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Nationals had notified Bill McKechnie that a new pilot would lead the Cardinals next season today failed to bring comment from McKechnie other than a statement by Mrs. McKechnie in the absence of her husband, that he had nothing to give out. McKechnie returned from a hunting trip today but was away from his residence and could not be reached.

PUBLIC OFFERINGS TO BE MADE THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov 18.—(AP)—Indications pointit to an enormous increase in the total of public offerings to be made during the coming week. Sixty municipalities, among them New York, Detroit, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Antonio and others plan to float offerings totalling more than $110,000,000, of which about half will be for the city of New York. An offering of Kingdom of Bulgaria 7½ per cent. stabilization loan bonds, should appreciably augment the total.

Among offerings tomorrow are $15,500,000 Pacific Western Oil company 15-year 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold debentures with stock purchase warrants entitling holders to purchase capital stock at around $33 per share in the radio of 15 shares for each $1,000 debenture.

MEMBERSHIP OF THE A. F. OF L. NOW TOTALS 2,893,913

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18—"Double trade union membership in 1928," is the slogan and the job the executive council of the American Federation of Labor will lay before the 48th annual convention of the federation, which meets here tomorrow.

The council's annual report is a survey of the year's activity in organized labor. It stated that the paid-up membership for the year ending August, 1928, was 2,893,913, an increase of 81,287 over the previous year. Five hundred thousand members who were on strike or unemployed and for whom no tax was paid to the federation, are not included in the memoership figures.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

When scores of theatre patrons, hurrying to get to their homes with the program completed, voluntarily pause on their way out to compliment the manager of a theatre on the excellence of a feature picture, then one must conclude that the picture in question is exceptional in entertainment value.

"Mother Knows Best," Fox film featuring Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton came to the Broadway theatre yesterday and Manager Levinson was the recipient of the commendations. The writer adds the printed word of commendation here for "Mother Knows Best" is superb screen entertainment.

The evolution of Edna Fersers' story on the screen shows the process of the development of a child prodigy appearing and failing on amateur night, through the baptism of fire until she reaches Broadway, the goal of all the splans, wealth, fame and affluence, with her mother the guiding spirit of the march to fame.

When one sees what the years have built up, over a path of suffering and sacrifice, go tumbling into the discard when the first romance the girl has ever known comes into her life and the love that she feels every woman is entitled to is stifled by the mother.

Madge Bellamy, hitherto identified in Fox Films with ingenue and flapper roles, verging from light comedy to farce and interspersed with flaming youth, is a revelation, so far as displaying rare emotional ability is concerned. Miss Bellamy also registers versatility in her imitations of Sir Harry Lauder, Al Jolson and Anna Held, a component part of the story.

Louise Dresser, for many years unapproached as a character actress, gives the most inspired portrayal of her career as "Ma Quail", while commendable performances are given by the entire company, including Barry Norton, of "What Price Glory" fame, Albert Gran, Joy Auburn and Stuart Erwin.

Putnam Trade School

Students graduating in all the trades are finding opportunity locally and in various parts of the state.

The following list of students shows those graduating from the various courses for the year ending June 30, 1928:

Normand Tetreault, Putnam, machinist; Olney L. Dodge, Plainfield, carpentry; Walter Davis, Pomfret, electrical; Chester R. Starr, Lebanon, drafting; Edwin Kreciglowa, Norwich, machinist; Camille Vandale, Putnam, carpentry Harold Borski, Putnam, electrical; Linwood Hopkins, Danielson, carpentry; Albert Deschamps, Plainfield, electrical Ronald Montigny, Thompson, machinist; Fred A. Spegrli, Fitchville, electrical; John E. Bussett, Danielson, machinist; Harold E. Griggs, Abington, carpentry; William Meehan, Pomfret, electrical; Wilfred Dugas, Taftville, electrical; Edmond Morancy, Danielson, machinist; Leslie Harris, Norwich, machinist; Alden Jarl, Thompson, machinist; Howard Robinson, Putnam, electrical; Francis Basto, Woodstock, carpentry; Rachel Hurlbut, Putnam, home economics; David Johnson, Woodstock, carpentry.

Of this list of 22, 18 are definitely employed in their trades, two are employed intermittently, and two have not worked at their trade since graduating.

From this it will be seen that over 90 per cent. of this year's graduates are carrying on in the work for which the courses are intended to give preparation and it is quite possible that eventually all members of this group will be definitely employed in their chosen work as it usually takes a little time for employment adjustment. A high percentage of the regularly enrolled students graduate. The school endeavors to keep in touch with graduates through periodical questionnaires showing where and at what kind of work they are employed. The school also endeavors to place its graduates through keeping in touch with manufacturers, contractors and other employers of labor throughout the state.

Evening school classes provide opportunity for those already employed to get further training in their chosen work. The building trades are popular at this time and many also come from the surrounding agricultural districts to learn something in regard to carpentry and masonry work for their own use on the farm.

For those associated with the trade and vocational education program an interesting aspect is the ever increasing range of trade activity and the necessity for keeping abreast of the times in new processes and methods and of building these processes and methods into the instruction material in use at the school. As a matter of effective policy the nearer the training program approaches the reality of industry and business need the more effectively will it prepare the student to meet the requiremepts in his chosen calling.

The Putnam State Trade school is one of the Connecticut system of trade schools under the direction of the state board of education.

POETRY

Humanity

"Above all Nations is Humanity."
Elihu Burrett.

All peoples one and free—
Humanity, of thee,
Of thee I sing.
An age when wars shall cease,
World-parliament of peace,
Thy reign shall still increase,
One world we sing.

Ours is no tribal God,
All spring from common sod,
Our God is one.
No more shall nations hate,
Love shall at length create
A sane and holy state;
Since God is one.

Blest brotherhood of man,
Supplant all class and clan—
Democracy.
Resound the Pilgrim's call;
Defy the tyrant's thrall,
Till earth is safe for all;
Democracy.

One flag at every mast—
Our swords we sheathe at last,
Since God is one.
One law, one love, one quest—
A higher, holier seat,
Each by each other blest—
Since God is one.

—By the Late Rev. Frederick T. Rouse

A Tuft of Violets

A tuft of mountain violets
Today I sing,
A little tuft of violets
Beside a mountain spring;
Because they are so blue and fair,
And cannot tarry long,
Yet always seem to waft me there,
I lift to them a song.

A tuft of mountain violets
That will have fled,
The lissome tuft of violets,
Before the rose is red:—
Now is it not a sad thing
Such blossoms never meet,
The violets beside the spring,
The wild rose nigh, and sweet

A tuft of mountain violets—
How like a pall
Upon those withered violets
The petals pink will fall;
And fitting 'tis, I think, the twain,
That meet not as they blow,
Should lie, at last, with Autumn's wane,
Together 'neath the snow.

—Samuel Minturn Peck, in Boston Transcript.

SATURDAY'S GAMES LEAVE LITTLE DOUBT AS TO THE STRONGEST TEAMS

By F. G VOSBURG.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Some of the most one-sided walopings ever dealt out in years of traditional rivalries between college football teams have left little doubt as to which are the strong combinations along the eastern front.

Big scores piled up by superior teams in games which had been figured to be close made Saturday a Roman holiday and rathed the college towns of the eastern sector in sharply contrasting shades of joy and gloom.

Cornell's 28 to 0 beating at the hands of Dartmouth at Ithaca was not so one-sided as the 53-7 reverse of a year ago. However except that they were able to score a touchdown apiece, Syracuse and Columbia fared about as badly in their defeats by Colgate and Penn respectively by the heart-breaking scores of 30 to 6 and 34 to 7.

The main all-eastern battle of the day in which Princeton evened matters with Yale for last season's trimming with a 12 to 2 defeat was closer but the margin of superiority was clear-cut. It left the Tigers of Princeton with one of the few urbeaten records in the east. Upon it the only blotches are ties by Virginia and Ohio State received before the Tigers reached their peak. Bill Roper always figures to ride the crest on the day of the game with Yale Princeton will be favored to preserve its record in its closing game at Philadelphia Saturday against a revivified navy team which had a 57 to 0 rump against Loyola of Baltimore. But there is material for an upset here.

Carnegie Tech finally came into its own, gaining national recognition by smothering Notre Dame conqueror of the Army, under a 27 to 7 score on the Hoosier's own home field Carnegie and Boston College, which easily turned back Canisius by 24 to 0, are the only undefeated and untied eastern teams, having proved again their right to occupy this select class by themselves.

Carnegie now has downed W. and J., Pitt., Georgetown and Notre Dame, in successive games, if it can stop New York University's strong array Saturday, its claim to eastern and even national laurels will be among the best. The N. Y. U. stalwarts, deprived a spotless record by one bad day against Georgetown outplayed Missouri by 27 to 6 in one of several intersectional games in which the east more than held its own.

Besides the victories of Carnegie and N. Y. U. Pittsburgh unheld the eastern banner well by blotting the escutcheon of Nebraska with a scoreless tie at Lincoln and coming closer to victory than the home team did. The Army which meets Nebraska Saturday at West Point had an easy time winning from Carleton small mid-western college, 22 to 7.

It remained for the middle west to hit back with a decisive 18 to0 victory over Fordham by a great Detroit eleven with a winning streak extending into last season and with a good claim to national laurels at this stage. Gus Dorais, old Notre Dame teammate of Knute Rockne, is its coach.

An exception to the rule of big scores was the Harvard-Holy Cross tussle in which the teams battled four periods without any score whatever. The rule was working overtime though, when Williams crushed Amherst by 40 to 15 thereby leaving claim to the championship of New England's "little three." Wesleyan, previously beaten by Williams, nosed out Bowdoin, 12 to 7.

W. & J. and Bucknell like Harvard and Holy Cross, played a scoreless tie. Scores were closer than in most of the day's games when Rutgers downed Lehigh, 7 to 3 and Lafayette beat Penn State, 7 to 6. Brown outclassed New Hampshire 20 to 0.

Upsets were not abundant but among them must be listed the first beating of the season for City College of New York administered by its fellow metropolitanites from Manhattan college 14 to 10. The element of surprise also was present in the decisive 12 to 0 shutout of West Virginia by Georgetown which thus ended a seven-game winning streak. Other results of some interest were:

Villanova 14, Grove City 13; Hamilton 8, Union 6; Temple 6 Geneva 0; Davis and Elkins 7, West Virginia Wesleyan 7; in a game involving a keen state rivalery.

PUTNAM SWAMPS NORTHBRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 18—For the ninth game of the season the undefeated Putnam High school eleven came to the fore at Northbridge in their second seasonal tussle with the fast Northbridge high school team and by a series of alternating off tackle plays, sweeping end runs, perfectly executed criss-cross bucks, and long forward passes again wiped the Northbridge rivals off the gridiron map by a 32-0 win, scoring the winning touchdowns in the last two quarters.

Coach Lauriston F. Noyes' backfield quartet, consisting of Bill Shann, Walt Cody, Charley Bove and D. Reynolds, added another jewel to their already sparkling crown, by staging field workout that is unrivaled by any other high school eleven in eastern Connecticut. Bove and Cody were the backfield scorers Saturday, Bove accounting for two, the first in the third and the second in the fourth quarter, while Cody, the remarkable broken field runner, chalked up six points in the last three minutes of the game by reason of an intercepted pass, running twenty-five yards through the Northbridge interference before he crossed the line. Shann, captain of the dashing Putnam high warriors was unable to demonstrate his scoring ability Saturday, although he is to be credited with many of the long plunges through tackle and is responsible for the success of the backfield ground gaining machine.

Putnam's line, was invincible and only once did the Northbridge gladiators break through and threaten to score on the unblemished Putnam group, when Cutler completed a short pass to Gagnedian, who was downed before he moved from his tracks. King, a second stringer, who will own a berth in the 1929 team, proved his worth to Coach Noyes when he scooped a Northbridge fumble and with the aid of Putnam interference coaxed the Northerners to chase him 70 yards across the goal line for Putnam's first touchdown. Tubby Sherman, substituting for Reynolds received a pass from Cody and traversed the field for 20 yards, scoring the second touchdown of the game. His educated toe also accounted for two goal kicks.

The first half of the game looked dark for the Putnam boys, who seemed to have lost their fighting spirit because of the long ride to Northbridge. The horsemen failed to display their fast work of other games, and the frontier weakened several times, allowing the Northerners to push them back with each play. Shann, on an off tackle play broke loose in the first quarter and carried the ball to the two-yard line, but his teammates failed him and the opponents gained the ball and carried back to the center of the field before the Putnamites stopped them. The second quarter was devoted to a punting duel, as neither team bettered the other. As the half whistle sounded Bove was loose on a skirt about left end, reaching the nine yard stripe.

The brief period of rest gave renewed vigor to the Putnam boys, when their heavy charges proved fatal to their rivals in the last half when the high score was rolled up. A second serious attempt to score was made by the Northerners in the fourth quarter of the game when Cutler and McCabe made a desperate effort to secure a touchdown by a long pass. Cutler heaved the ball on the 20-yard line, it being received by McCabe on the the exterior portions of Putnam's of 50-yard line. McCabe broke through fensive and reached the 90-yard stripe before he was brought to a halt by the plucky Tubby Sherman. Coach Noyes dispatched both Cody and Shann to their berths, relieving two second stringers and the timely work of the two horsemen stopped the triumph plunge of the spirited eleven. The final whistle came with Cody on his way around right end for what appeared to be a long field run for a seventh touchdown.

Putnam most undoubtedly will be eastern Connecticut's gridiron champions of 1928, as only one game remains on the schedule, the Killingly game, to be played off on Thanksgiving morning. The traditional Killingly rivals have had a bad season so far this year and Coach Noyes is not intending to even have them score on his undefeated group of grids

FIRST SHIPMENT OF GOODS FROM NEW INDUSTRY READY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 18—The first yardage of broad silk manufactured by the Willimantic Silk, Inc., was taken from the looms this week end and prepared for shipment upon the conclusion of the first week of actual production on what machinery time has allowed to be installed in the new plant on Bridge street. Several looms, winders and a warper were in operation during the week. Additional shipments of machinery continue to arrive almost daily and several prospective employes who are on the waiting list are expected to be called in within the next ten days. All of the machines are being operated by individual motor drive. Day and night shifts will be necessary as soon as the plant is equipped with sufficient machines for full production.

While equipment is being moved into this plant other sections of the old Quidnick-Windham mills are being made ready for prospective tenants. The third and fourth floors of No. 1 mill have been entirely renovated and nearly all of the old cotton machines in No. 3 mill have been scrapped to allow the repainting of this building.

President Frank P. Fenton of the chamber of commerce will this week appoint a city planning committee which will coordinate reports of at least a dozen committees on detail studies of the specific phases of community problems and activities assigned to them. Among reports that are expected to be made the early part of 1929 will be those on Sanitation and Health, Recreational Facilities, Housing Conditions, Parks and Playgrounds, Industrial Facilities, Public Health Organizations, Our Educational System, Library Facilities, Water Supply, Living Conditions and Cost of Living, Traffic Question and Conditions and other affiliated subjects.

Announcement was made Saturday by Nathan Spector, M. D., physician and surgeon of Boston, Mass., that he had taken rental of a suite of offices in the Clark block on Church street for the establishment of a practice in this city. Dr. Spector plans to move his family here as soon as he can secure a suitable residence. He is a graduate of Tufts college of Liberal Arts and Tufts Medical school, class of 1924. He has served one year as interne in each of the following hospitals: Macom hospital, Macon, Ga., King's Park hospital, King's Park, N. Y., Grosvenor hospital, New York city, and Uniontown hospital, Uniontown, Pa.

The certificate of incorporation of the new metal screen company has been returned by the secretary of state and filed at the office of the town clerk and the meeting for organization will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms. At least two of the directors will be local men, representing local stockholders in the enterprise. The company will be located in the former S. C. S. Box company mill on Moulton court. Keith Trombley, son of the inventor of the new metal window screen that will be the product of the company will move to this city in about two weeks with his family. He is to assume charge of the office detail and supervise the sales force. He has had seven years' experience in the production of metal screens, having been associated with his father, J. T. Trombley. The inventor will not move here until later this year as he will continue with the present manufacturing business he is now engaged in until the new plant is adaptable to a merger with the old business.

With only nine deaths recorded in the vital statistics for the month of October at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, the report is listed as one of the lowest in some time. Marriages maintained an average, there being 11 while births were on the average of nearly one per day. The 30 births recorded include twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Gude. There are 17 male children and 13 female.

The spreading of the news that Burbee's garage and the DeCielo refreshment stand had been burglarized caused considerable excitement in the village of West Willington Friday. During the day State Policeman Daley of the Stafford Springs barracks took into custody Joseph Johnson, 14, of 736 High street, Holyoke, Mass., and the youth confessed to the break into the garage but denied any knowledge of the burglary at the refreshment stand. The boy said that he had gone on a wandering trip and lost his way. He had no money and decided on stealing some from the garage. In gaining entrance to the place he awakened a boy, William Bowler, 14, who sleeps in the establishment and made a hasty exit. There were 50 cents in the cash register but this was not taken. About six dollars was claimed to have been taken from DeCielo's store. The state police turned the boy over to his parents.

DRIVERS LAW-ABIDING INSPECTION SHOWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 18—A third check-up of automobiles was conducted in Westerly beginning at 12 o'clock, midnight Saturday and continuing to Sunday at 4 a. m. The state police and Westerly police department cooperated in this as in former check-ups. From the Hope Valley barracks came Sergeant O'Brien and at the Pawcatuck river bridge east-bound autos crossing the Connecticut-Rhode Island state line into Westerly were stopped by him and Officer Leroy H. Norman of the Westerly police force. The operators' licenses and automobile registration papers were carefully examined before the cars were permitted to proceed. In Dixon square Lieutenant of Police George H. Champlin of Westerly and Trooper E. Ralph Bonat of the Hope Valley barracks stopped autos approaching the river bridge down High and Broad streets. The mild weather caused a number of pedestrians to stop on the sidewalk to observe the checkup and at times there were forty or fifty on-lookers. Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of Westerly reported that the police examination had shown everyone to be law-abiding.

The S. D. B. society of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church met Sunday evening at the home of Miss Ruth V. Davis, on Granite street. Mrs. Helen Greene, society president, presided. The annual thank offering was taken to be sent Dr. Rosa Palmborg, connected with the Seventh-day Baptist Foreign Mission located in China.

Westerly police and Rhode Island state police were on the lookout early Saturday morning for three girls reported as having escaped from Oaklawn School for Girls near Providence. One of those reported missing was Dorothy Allen, a former resident of Westerly. The missing girls were last seen near East Greenwich.

AN OIL BURNER DAMAGE RESULTS IN 56 CASES AT LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 18—The November term of the superior court for Washington county will come in this (Monday) morning at West Kingston, with Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner of Providence on the bench. The court convenes at 10:45 a. m. when the grand jurors are under summons to report. In the calendar to be called there appear two criminal complaints and 78 actions at law. Among the latter are 56 cases brought by Lewis Solomon of Westerly, proprietor of a department store on Broad street.

December 17, 1927, at 7:10 a. m., an alarm of fire was sounded from Box 56, Dixon square, when smoke from an oil burner having filled the store poured in clouds from all over the three-floor brick business block. The cases brought by Soloman are the result of refusal of the insurance companies to pay for damage to stock caused when the oil burner in Mr. Soloman's store back-fired. A large quantity of dress goods and other material was practically destroyed by soot and smoke which filtered through the store during the night.

Included in the bills and petitions in equity is a hearing on the bill brought by Mrs. Ferda Zorn Moren against Miss Gibson and Miss Stone, who, Mrs. Moren charges, trespassed along her property on Ocean road, Narragansett, last summer. At the preliminary hearing on the injunction restraining Miss Gibson and Miss Stone from passing through the property, heard in Providence, the young women, who are teachers at Syracuse university, claimed that the particular pass along which they walked was part of the so-called Cliff walk.

The docket follows: Complaints whose assignment day is Nov. 19:

State, Rose Clatti, vs. John Clatti, alias, charge of assault. State, Fred W. Bull, deputy sheriff, vs. John Clatti, alias, assault.

Actions at law; excepting the Soloman petitions:

William H. Lee vs. N. Jerome Smith; Harry Gelb vs. William H. Clapham; Arthur E. Lavigne vs. Charles W. Benson et al.; Arthur Choquette vs. Charles W. Benson et al.; Phillipe St. Pierre vs. Charles W. Benson et al.; Hector Goodreau vs. Charles W. Benson; Ernest St. Pierre vs. Charles W. Benson, Sr., alias, and Charles W. Benson, Jr., alias; Herbert S. McKay vs. Bradford Campbell; Walter D. Barber vs. Thomas H. Barber.

Hilda T. Johnson vs. August Larson; Bord Johnson vs. August Larson; Robert Whitelaw vs. Walter Albert, alias; John H. Simpson vs. Chester L. Eddy; Wood-Hoskins-Young Co. vs. Edward J. Fenlon, Jr.; Thomas Saddow, P. A., vs. Alexander A. Koswick; Emma B. Phillips vs. Thomas H. Blatchford; Maxine Salvas vs. H. Brothman and Joseph Feinman.

Bills and petitions in equity:

Ferda Zorn Moren vs. Miss Gibson, alias Jane Dow, and Miss Stone, alias Mary Roe; Ettie Etelman vs. Stephen Boris; William Call Bapties vs. Eva S. Gates, et al.; Edwin J. Tetlow, one of the trustees under the will of Anna M. Jones, vs. Grace E. Johnson, individually, and as trustee under the will of Anna M. Jones, et al.

Miscellaneous petitions and proceedings: Orrin P. Kenyon et al., for appointment of receiver of Nathan G. Kenyon land; Giuseppe Bevacqua vs. Luigi J. Sarro.

DRESS REHEARSAL OF ST. MICHAEL'S OPERETTA

A preliminary performance of "Swords and Scissors," operetta by St. Michael's Players was presented Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and as has been the custom in past years, was exclusively for the children. The regular performances will take place later, in the basement assembly hall of St. Michael's church.

With a cast of more than 40, special costumes and scenery, the production is the most pretentious given thus far by the players. There are 19 speaking parts and three choruses.

Miss Jessie Hughes is in charge of the production.

"Swords and Scissors" marks the opening of the 1928-29 season of St. Michael's Players. Last year they gave a minstrel show and two plays, scoring decided success with each.

Westerly Hospital Aid association, Mrs. Elisha C. Burdick, president, has organized for the coming year with the following committees and chairmen: Finance, Miss Katherine Foster; flowers, Mrs. Rogers E. Trainer; auditing, Miss Eleanor Moore; membership, Mrs. Arthur Trotman; furnishings, Mrs. Emma Critcherson; library, Miss Ruth Scanlon; entertainment, Mrs. William C. Clarke; surgical dressings, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell; donations, Mrs. Daniel Larkin; social service, Miss Lucy Crowley.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Henry F. Kinne

The funeral of Mrs. S. Alice Kinne, widow of Henry F. Kinne, was held Saturday forenoon at 11:30 at 571 Broad street, Providence. Rev. J. Francis Russell, pastor of Lakewood Baptist church of which she was a member, was the officiating clergyman. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in the Spring Brook cemetery, Mansfield, Mass., where the committal service was conducted by Mr. Russell. The bearers were Herber Barber, Joseph C. Abram, Fred W. Kinne and Albert S. Kinne.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY DISPLAYED MARKED IMPROVEMENT LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Business and industry went forward at a brisk pace last week, with the seasonal decline in the steel and automotive industries surprisingly moderate, and the textile industry displaying marked improvement. Although the margin of profit in several lines, particularly textiles, is narrow, bankers were inclined to estimate the aggregate of 1928 industrial profits higher than for many previous years.

The steel industry has fallen to about 85 per cent. of capacity, from the recent peak of 90 per cent., but is operating at near a record pace for this time of year, with good prospects of another upturn after January 1.

Cotton consumption rose sharply last month, setting a new high record for October, the census bureau reported and reaching the largest volume since last November.

Rayon and radio manufacturing progressed at record paces, while furniture manufacturing, which has been lagging, encountered better buying. The shoe industry reported a rather general slackening, although future prospects improved with a firmer tone in hides, which is expected to steady the leather market.

The slackening of output in the motor industry is pending the introduction of new lines and preparations are under way for an output next year far surpassing the record this year promises to set. Competition will be keen, as is evidenced by General Motors switching its low priced four to a six. There are indications that American Motor interests are seeking a stronger position than ever abroad with Ford reported to be forming a new company in England, and General Motors understood to be negotiating for the Opel works in Germany and the Fiat company in Italy. The airplane industry promises to play an important part next year with several motor companies planning to enter the field and wide mergers of plane manufacturers under way.

The recovery of the copper and oil industries becomes more brilliant from week to week. Further advices in copper prices are under consideration, with both domestic and foreign demand heavy and mighty electrical projects being formed. A number of oil companies declared extra dividends and estimated sharp advances in fourth quarter earnings.

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

1—Write plainly on one side of the paper.

2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Woodland Magic

Oh, put your magic slippers on, and don your magic cloak,
And come along with me to call upon the woodland folk;
We'll visit with the hummingbird and peed into its nest,
And view its tiny eggs, like pearls within a treasure chest.

For us the woodland people on the Pipes of Pan will play;
The golden-throated oriole will sing a roundelay
To mingle with the murmur of the zephyr as it weaves
The ripple of the river with the laughter of the leaves.

We'll see the truant sunbeams from a leaf-enshrouded sky
Flash into a living silver where the trout are leaping high,
Or make a jeweled rainbow in the water's pearly spray;
We'll peep into the caverns where the shadows are at play.

We'll hear the plash of beaver in the cypress-lined lagoon,
The tinkle of the waterfall, the laughter of the loon:
We'll see the festive blue jays with their irridescent sheen
At play amidst the flower-bejeweled tapestries of green.

The mockingbird is calling as it swings upon the oak,
So put your magic slippers on, and don your magic cloak,
And come with me and wander through the woodland's leafy dells,
Where woodland folks are calling, and the woodland magic dwells.

—Alfred I. Tooke in Boyland

House Cat

Curl your slow grace by the fire
Blinking dull eyes at desire;
Hide the needling, half-moon claws
In the velvet of your paws;
Twitch your whiskers, smooth your fur,
Make no sound above a purr.
We have tamed you to our world,
ow show your lip upcurled.

Daylight leaves you coddled, sated,
Thoroughly domesticated.
But the dark will strike your blood
Like a hammer. Fire and food
Be forgotten. Amber eyes.
Lashing tail and tightened thighs.
You will stalk the shadows prowling—
Raise your voice to eerie howling—
Wail the jungle's bad delight
Trought the loniness of night.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The bank swallow is found of company. He does not like to be alone. These birds congregate in large flocks and often they nest in large colonies, many of them gathering in the same locality to build their nests and raise their families. These swallows are excavators, as they dig holes or tunnels in sand banks. It is often noticed that a sand bank is completely riddled with holes, large numbers of bank swallows nesting in the holes. The holes range from two to four feet in depth or length and run horizontally into the bank. Rounded chambers are made at the ends of the tunnels in which the nests are built. The nests are made of grass, a little straw perhaps and feathers. The eggs are pure-white in color, each nest holding from five to seven of them.

The bank swallow is the smallest of our swallows, being but little over five inches in length. They have long wings for their size, consequently look larger than they really are. They are brownish gray in color above with pure-white throats and wide brownish-gray bands across their breasts. Their white throats and the bands across their breasts make excellent field marks for identifying them.

Swallows spend a great deal of their time flying about in search of food. Bank swallows fly easily and gracefully about over ponds, streams, marshes fields, meadows and pastures especially if these are near the banks in which they nest. They secure practically all their food when flying, catching winged nests of many kinds in mid-air or picking them from the tops of tall weeds, grass and bushes as they fly over them.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

The Young Carpenter

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I ever wrote to you and I hope that you will be pleased with my letter. Once, while I was out in the yard playing, my mother called me into the house and told me to go to my room.

When I entered the room I was filled with joy, for on the table lay a tool chest. It was filled with all kinds of tools such as: a shiny hammer and a saw which was like dad's; there was a plane, level, screw-driver, etc.

I ran downstairs and thanked my mother for the surprise. Next I went to the shed and after picking out a few boards, I set to work, making a dog kennel for my dog, Sport. I finished it just as soon as my father came home from work.

After supper, my father and I started to paint it. We painted it red. My mother and father were pleased with it.

Then suddenly my dog came running into the yard. He gave a bark for joy. He also, was pleased with it.

Fishing

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide Awakes. I think you will like and enjoy my story about fishing.

Friday morning at half past eight my father and I went fishing. When we got up there my father fixed the lines up. I put my line in the water when all of a sudden I saw a train coming so I ran to my father and told him that a train is coming so he told me to sit near him. When the train passed by we were fishing. When we came home my mother was glad to see us.

Picking Blueberries.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake Circle about going for blueberries.

One day in summer I went to pick blueberries with my dog Prince. While I was picking I saw a snake lying near my feet. I was very afraid. I called Prince. The dog jumped on it, but it was too late. The snake bit him in his neck. After two days Prince died, but saved me.

Story of A Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I will tell you an imaginary story of a dog.

I am one of the St. Bernard dogs. I have a very rich master, who is very kind to me. He gives me very good meals. I have a very beautiful kennel which he built especially for me. On very cold days he calls me to his home. I am often petted by him, and do not hear rough words from him. He does not beat or tease me. He always takes me out riding with him and wherever he goes.

I always try my best to be faithful to him. I wish I would live long, enjoying a happy life with my kind-hearted master.

Our Walk In The Woods.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. Now I am going to tell you about our walk in the woods. One day my sisters and I thought that we would go and look for evergreen and red berries around the lots. After we were away from the house two dogs came near us. My sisters were afraid and ran under the fence and tore their dreses on the barbed wire fence. Then the dogs lost one another. After they went we came home without any evergreen or berries. We then went up the road and got some red berries and some green ferns and then came home.

ELSIE W. SORRELL. Age 13.
North Wesichester.

My Pet.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my pet squirrel. His name is Jim. I will tell you about some tricks Jim likes to do. First I will tell you how he climbs rope. If you build a high fence of rope around him he will climb from one rope to another till he gets to the top. Then he would jump and run to the house. This is another trick Jim likes to do. When he wants something to eat he climbs up into someone's lap and starts to chatter. At night when it is time for him to go to bed he climbs up into someone's coat pocket and sleeps all night. One day he went into the woods and never came back again.

ALBERT BARTIZEK. Age 10.

A Kind Deed.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to the Wide Awake Circle. One day in spring while my sister and I were playing we saw a bird lying on the ground while his mother flew around watching if she would have some help. I came near, picked it up, and climbed the tree and I put it in the nest. The baby bird was very glad to be back with her mother again. The mother bird was glad to have her baby bird. When my sister and I reached home we told mother what we saw and what we were doing with the baby bird. Mother felt very glad and happy.

HELEN CIESLUK. Age 12.

From A Rag To A Book.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you the story of a book. I was an old piece of cloth from a flour bag lying in the cellar. Once a little boy picked me up and put me into a bag with some other rags. He brought us out from the dark cellar and sold us to a rag man. The man took us to a cleaning house where the great change in my life was made. Here I was put through different machines. Finally I found myself becoming soft and turning to a fine paste. Then I was passed through rollers where I became white and dry paper.

I was packed into a box with many friends and enjoyed a long journey. Presently the box was opened and we were taken out. We were all cut into oblong pieces. I thought that would be the end of me, but I still kept up courage.

Quite amazed, I found myself being put into a machine where I was printed, cut, and pasted into a book. Again we were packed on a truck to a book store. Here I was unpacked and taken out of the box and placed in a case. A happy boy came running in. He handed the man seventy-five cents and took me for his own.

He read me carefully, placing me later in his library. And I enjoy my life happily.

HENRY PANKIEWICZ. Age 12.

Our Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now going to tell you about our Hallowe'en party. Our Sunday school teacher asked us to come up to her house on Hallowe'en night.
